PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 19.—Suit has been entered in the United States circuit court against the South Fork Fishing club by Mrs. James Jenkins, of Youngstown, O., for $25,000 damages for injuries received in the Johnstown flood. Glass Facotries Prosperous.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 19.—The glass factories in the Pittsburgh district are enjoying an unprecedented season of prosperity. This is usually the dull season in the glass trade, but in many respects this year is an exception. All the glass houses are running full, and in some branches of the trade the houses are crowded with orders.

Director Evans Sentenced.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—Nelson F. Evans, who was convicted of misapplying the funds of the Spring Garden national bank, of which he was a director, has been sentenced by Judge Butler to pay a fine of $300 and serve five years in the eastern penitentiary.

Property Worth $500,000 Burned.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—A block of warehouses in Bootle, near Liverpool, was burned Sunday. More than 5,000 bales of cotton and 15,000 sacks of flour were destroyed. Five firemen were injured. Loss, $500,000.

BLAINE'S SERIOUS ILLNESS.

His Condition Such That It Cannot Be Concealed from the Public.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Mr. Blaine's condition has reached a point where his relatives and physicians cannot keep it from the public much longer. It may not be true that Mr. Blaine is at the point of death. Indeed, his physician, Dr. Johnson, said Thursday night that he was not a dying man. He said that the reports that Mr. Blaine was at the point of death were overdrawn and had little substantial foundation. Dr. Johnson added significantly that he did not wish to be understood as saying that the reports had no foundation. The doctor refuses to discuss the character of his patient's malady, as he says that he and his associate, Dr. Hyatt, have been enjoined by Mrs. Blaine from saying anything about the disease, and that professional courtesy also forbids entering into the details.

Mr. Blaine's spells of illness have been so frequent that his family have naturally been averse to giving publicity to them. The widespread interest in the foremost private citizen of the republic justifies the statements which are made regarding his condition now. He has practically been an invalid for three years past, and whether chronic disease has been making ravages on his system or whether a succession of attacks of mild illness has weakened him there is no longer any question that his vitality is impaired so that his recovery is despaired of by those who know the facts. The sympathetic interest is as widespread as it is deep. From every corner of the land and from almost every part of Europe inquiries come daily to know how Mr. Blaine is. The answer cannot longer be made cheering.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Mr. Blaine's tenure of life is slender. An alarming sinking spell Sunday forenoon reduced his vitality to a low ebb. Powerful heart stimulants revived him enough so that it could be said at midnight that death was not close at hand, and that Mr. Blaine was comfortable and conscious of his surroundings. But the beginning of the end has come with the appearance of the dreaded sinking spells. The physicians give his family absolutely no hope. How long he may linger none can tell.

KILLED FOUR WOMEN.

Richard Edwards, a Texas Fiend, Under Arrest in Wisconsin.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Dec. 17.—Behind the bars of Douglas county jail in this city is a man charged with the most cold-blooded series of crimes ever committed in Texas. His name is Richard Edwards, alias "Texas Jack." He is charged with the murder of four women at Denison on the night of May 17 last. One after another the women were stealthily approached and shot, without provocation. Rewards aggegating $5,000 were offered for the arrest of the assassin, and for seven months the authorities of Denison and half the cities in the southwest have searched for the criminal.

He Beats All Records.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—J. S. Piza, of Piza & Nephews, New York, has beaten time and the White Star liner Teutonic in a remarkable race. Missing the Dublin mail train for Queenstown, he hired a special and traveled the 180 miles in 200 minutes, thus eclipsing the fastest long distance time in England. The Teutonic was starting when he reached Queenstown. He chased it in a special steamer, telegraphed far ahead, caught the liner and got aboard with bag and baggage while all the passengers cheered.

Postoffice Robbers Plead Guilty.

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 16.—Coleman and Ryan, the Chicago safe blowers, who robbed the Dickeyville, Wis.; Lancaster, Wis.; New Albion, Ia.; Warren, Ill., and other postoffices last summer, pleaded guilty to the Dickeyville robbery. Coleman was the chief actor of the East St. Louis sub-treasury job some years ago, and was suspected of the mail wagon robbery in Chicago last winter.

Hanged by a Mob.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Dec. 19.—While Irvin Roberts, the alleged murderer of Landon Crosswhite, was being conducted by officers through Shady valley en route to the Johnson county jail his captors were overpowered by a mob and the prisoner hanged to a limb of a tree. Roberts begged piteously for his life and declared he was innocent of the crime, but the mob would not listen to him.

He had them three or four times a month, and as high as 19 in three days. I had him treated at the hospital and by different doctors but it did him no good. Sixteen months ago he commenced to take Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer and had only one fit since. I think him entirely cured. Will gladly answer any questions about your great medicine." LABOR FEDERATION.

Annual Meeting of the American Society in Philadelphia.

Resolutions on a Variety of Subjects Introduced and Discussed.—A Recommendation for Opening the World's Fair on Sunday Indorsed.

TOILERS IN SESSION.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—At the fourth day's session of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday it was voted to assist several needy unions. Resolutions were adopted for "the abolition of Sunday slavery for barbers," and to "secure legislation prohibiting judges from directing juries to bring in verdicts."

The report of the committee to whom President Gompers' address had been referred was then taken up and his recommendation favoring Sunday opening of the world's fair was indorsed by a vote of 50 to 19.

Miss Mary Kenny, the only female delegate in the federation, introduced resolutions favoring woman's franchise and "protection against accident from machinery on which women are employed."

The question of a labor congress at the world's fair was brought up and to test the sense of the federation a motion was offered that the organization participate in an international labor congress in 1893. At the hour of adjournment the discussion was still in progress.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—At the morning session of the American Federation of Labor Friday discussion of the proposition to hold a labor congress during the world's fair was resumed. A vote was taken, and the convention decided by an overwhelming majority against taking any action toward assisting in the project.

Recommendations in the president's report were approved, including the clauses relating to the woman organizers, whose work was complimented, and to Labor day. The committee recommended an appeal for the establishment of a national Labor day in the districts and territories. It was voted to notify the president of the United States of the action condemning the employment of Chinese sailors by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

Here a resolution was recommended that stirred up a lively debate. It related to the action of the president and executive council requesting conferences with the Knights of Labor unions. The many attacks of the Knights of Labor against the trades union, and especially on local shoemakers, were deplored. It was said that all efforts to heal the breach while they were on the attack and the federation on the defensive would only be a waste of time. The committee recommended that the highest duty of the federation was to defend the unions selected by the Knights of Labor for attack, and that the executive committee take such action as will enforce this idea. The recommendation of the committee was finally adopted.

A resolution was adopted favoring the support of labor representation in the administrative and legislative departments of the national and state governments and advising members to see that friends of labor command the militia rather than the friends of capital.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—The Federation of Labor convention adjourned Saturday afternoon after reelecting President Gompers, Secretary Christopher Evans and Treasurer John Lennon. P. J. McGuire was reelected first vice president. For second vice president William A. Carney, of Pittsburgh, who took an active part in the Homestead troubles, was elected by a large majority. Chicago secured the convention for 1893. President Gompers' salary was increased from $1,500 to $1,800 per annum. The salary of the secretary was increased from $1,200 to $1,500.

Resolutions were adopted calling on all the local unions affiliated with the federation to join the central labor bodies holding federation charters; condemning the Rock Island management for its hostile attitude toward the telegraph operators; condemning the Baron Hirsch fund and its recipients; demanding restriction of immigration; condemning the system compelling waiters to shave off their mustaches, and favoring the eight hour system. A resolution was unanimously adopted asking clemency for the imprisoned Chicago anarchists, Neebe and Schwab.

A resolution favoring direct elections by the people was passed unanimously and the executive council was authorized to conduct a campaign of education by appointing lecturers and distributing literature for the purpose of enlarging the scope of the federation's efforts in the direction of political action, providing that no partisan politics be introduced into the business of labor unions. The convention then adjourned.

EIGHT LIVES LOST.

Terrible Railway Disaster at Nelson Station, Minn.

The Men Were Killed While Asleep in a Caboose—Several Others Badly Injured—The Bodies of the Victims Were Burned.

A FEARFUL ACCIDENT.

ALEXANDRIA, Minn., Dec. 19.—A frightful accident occurred on the Great Northern railroad Sunday morning at Nelson station, 5 miles east of here, in which eight men were killed and five were seriously injured. There had been a collision Friday morning at Nelson and a number of cars were wrecked. The wreck train has been there two days clearing up and was making up preparatory for pulling out for the east. At 1 o'clock Sunday morning the wreck train caboose was left standing on the main track with a number of cars. An eastbound freight was due about 1 o'clock and had orders to side-track for the passenger train due here at 1:20.

The fireman of the freight tells the story as follows: There is a heavy grade west of the station, and as the freight, with thirty-six loaded cars, under charge of Conductor William Nickey and Engineer James Maloney, approached the switch the engine was shut off and brakes called for. There was no perceptible decrease of speed and Conductor Nickey climbed out of the caboose where he was and began setting brakes, but the speed was too great to stop. When within a train length of the caboose they saw the track was full ahead and both engineer and fire man jumped.

The engine struck the wreck train, threw the caboose on top of the next car, setting both on fire. There were fourteen men in the caboose. One jumped off, five were hurt, three were burned beyond recognition and four were crushed to death. One was totally burned up, not a sign of his remains being found.

The names of the killed are:

Nels O. Bokken, of Nelson; Christ Martenson, of Osakis; Ole Martenson, of Osakis, brother of the above; John Engstrand, of Spruce Hill; Engstrand's nephew, name unknown; Con Brummer, of Yankton, S. D.; one unknown.

The injured are:

A. M. Broseu, of St. Paul, back and head, serious; Thomas Welch, of Boston, Mass., bad scalp cuts, ribs broken; Pat Hannon, of Boston, Mass., shoulder dislocated; David Reed, of Nelson, slight injury to head; Henry Ross, fireman on east-bound freight, shoulder dislocated.

It is reported that the train was running about 12 miles an hour when it collided with the wreck train. The men killed were wreck-train hands and were asleep in the caboose when the engine struck it. O. Bergland, foreman, was the only one awake, and he had barely time to call to his men and jump, thus saving himself, but the warning cry came too late for the others, who were all killed or badly injured.

RESTRICT IMMIGRATION.

Governors of All the States in Favor of Cutting Down the Influx of Aliens.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The World prints the result of its efforts to ascertain from governors of various states in the union their views regarding the moving question of immigration. From the east, west, north and south restriction of immigration is urged, but the opinions differ as to the methods to be employed. All the governors heard from oppose absolute prohibition, except for warding off disease.

Held for Trial.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 19.—The hearing in the case of Robert Beatty, charged with having been a party to a plot to poison non-union men employed in the Carnegie steel works at Homestead, was held at the office of Alderman McMasters Saturday afternoon. "I will hold the defendant for trial at court," was the decision of the alderman after hearing the testimony of half a dozen witnesses.

Legally Hanged for Murder.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 17.—Joseph Jenkins (colored) was hanged at Mount Pleasant, Kelly county, Friday in the presence of 100 spectators. His neck was broken. The crime for which he suffered was the murder of John Morgan, a John's Island storekeeper, killing him with an ax and then robbing him.

Worst for Years.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 19.—The cotton crop of India has suffered severely, owing to the failure of the November rainfall. It is the worst season within twenty years.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

A large manufacturer, whose affairs were very much embarassed, and who was overworked and broken down with nervous exhaustion, went to a celebrated specialist. He was told that the only thing needed was to be relieved of care and worry, and have a change of thought. This doctor was more considerate of his patient's health than of his financial circumstances. He ought to have advised him to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the best remedy for nervous prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, headache, ill effects of spirits, tobacco, coffee, opium, etc. Thousands testify to cures. Book and trial bottle free at Baker & Hall's.

WHEN CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS LANDED.

He was actually unable to buy a bottle of Parmelee's Sarsaparilla at any price at any drug store in America. Now you can buy it for 50 cents at almost any drug store. This shows how much more fortunate people are now than they were in Columbus' time. Parmelee's Sarsaparilla is a blood purifier of great merit, and a tonic of remarkable virtue. For every disease or condition coming from an impure state of the blood it is an absolute remedy. It acts with great effect upon the liver, keeping that most important organ in healthy activity. It braces up the system "all run down" from sluggish circulation or inactive secretions, and is in all respects a most valuable remedy. 50 cents. Sold by dealers.

HAMILTON'S COUGH BALSAM.

The best made. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or money returned by the dealer who sells it to you. 25 cents for large bottle. Sold by dealers.

A GOOD WAY TO BE MISERABLE

Is to be a sufferer from Piles. Parmelee's Pile Suppositories are an easy and sure cure. Hundreds testify to their efficiency. 50c a box. Sold by druggists.

A SURE CROP.

A writer in Farm and Fireside says "one of the surest crops on the farm is Dyspepsia. The daily life of the typical farmer is suggestive of indigestion and dyspepsia." The writer might also have added that one of the best remedies for poor digestion, and a preventive of biliousness, dyspepsia, and all the long train of ills which follow is Parmelee's Mandrake and Dandelion Bitters. A large bottle costs only 25 cents. Sold by dealers.

IT CURED HIM OF SALT RHEUM.

CARROLLTON, N. Y., Aug. 2, '92.

Last winter I was laid up with Salt Rheum in my ankles. After trying many other remedies without finding any benefit, I was practically cured by the use of Parmelee's Household Ointment. I heartily recommend it to all who are similarly afflicted.

A. G. PACE.

For all Sores, Cuts, Burns, Bruises, etc., we guarantee it to be the best ointment made. 25c a box. Sold by dealers.

A RHEUMATIC MONTH.

This is a time of year when Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and other pains of that character show at their worst. Have you ever tried Parmelee's Universal Liniment in such cases? It has wonderful soothing and curative qualities. Sold by dealers.

Protect yourself when washing, by washing with Pearline. Your hands will be kept in perfect shape; everything washable will be kept from injury. It keeps your clothes from being worn out in the wash; it keeps you from wearing yourself out in washing them. If you mean to get the best, get Pearline; nothing else gets the best of dirt so easily. Use the imitations and they will get the best of you.

Think a Moment

Would it be necessary to peddle the imitations if they were as good as Pearline? Why do they select names ending in INE? 230 JAMES PYLE, New York.

A Close Call.

Henry Hover, a farmer living near Riga, was in that village Saturday. Among other Christmas presents he purchased was a large jag for himself. He had enough to divide with some one else, but he wouldn't do it. He kept it all to himself. And when he got in the wagon he thought he would take it along home with him and show it to the folks. But he carried it around so long the load was making him tired. So he gave the horses power of attorney and went to sleep. The team went all right until they got to the railroad crossing. Then, instead of continuing in the road they started up the track. Pretty soon a train struck them. One horse was killed, and the wagon smashed to smithereens. Hover shot into the air like a rocket, and landed on the pilot of the engine. He was carried forty rods before the engine could be stopped and an investigation made. Hurt? Why certainly not.—Adrian Times.

Col. C. W. Dean of Dayton, O., had the peculiar and serious experience of being sunstruck while engaged in battle before Port Hudson. La., June 14. 1863. As a result, from that time until last June he had a continual distracting pain in his head and weak spells, which compelled him for many years to give up everything of an active character. He was obliged to stay in doors, and could not even walk across the street. Last June he began using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Nerve Liver Pills, and is now completely cured.

It is the best remedy for rising of the breast known, and worth the price for that alone. Mrs. M. Brewster, Montgomery, Ala.

The home life of the Empress of Germany will be the subject of an illustrated article, giving a complete picture of the home life of Augusta Victoria. There will also be a series of unpublished writings of Henry Ward Beecher. The Countess of Aberdeen will tell how she keeps her servants and Mrs. Burton Harrison will continue her series on the well-bred girl in society. William Dean Howells will, upon the conclusion of his serial story written specially for the Journal, become a regular contributor to its pages. Miss Mabel Cahill, America's champion tennis player, will contribute two articles on the art of playing tennis, and Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney will travel through literary land with her girl friends. A number of society women will, in an article entitled "Under Which Name," give their preference as to whether they shall be addressed by letter in their own, or their husbands' Christian names.

Among other notable contributors will be Frank R. Stockton, Susan Coolidge, Josiah Allen's Wife, Madeline Bridges, Octave Thanet, Robert J. Burdette and Mrs. Burton Kingsland. The Journal has made arrangements with prominent artists to design a series of covers for the Journal of 1893. A CENSORSHIP OF THE PRESS.

When the people of these United States become fully apprised of what a weapon of tyranny and despotism the the postal system is being made, Congress will abdicate one of its powers with a rush and turn it over to the courts where it belongs. Notwithstanding the amendment to the constitution which declares that Congress shall not abridge the freedom of the press, the power exists and is exercised by the postal authorities to determine arbitrarily what matter shall or shall not be carried in the mails, and there is no appeal to the courts from the decisions of this censorship. The common people, who have but little use for the mails but the occasional sending of a piece of first or second-class matter, feel nothing of the burden of this tyranny, but some newspaper publishers have reason to regard it with sorrow. Examples of the arbitrary denial by some understrapper clerk of a publisher's right to use the mails except upon the clerk's own terms are plentiful; but a New York publication called Printers' Ink has volunteered to play Peter the Hermit and let its countrymen know how it has been oppressed and nearly ruined by the refusal of the department to carry it as second-class matter the same as other papers are carried. The proprietors of Printers' Ink have discovered that only publishers who can bring to bear the proper "influence" can obtain even respectful hearing in the department, much less a redress of grievances.

The worst of the matter is that a late decision of the Supreme Court has cut off the right of appeal to the courts, so that oppressed citizens are literally without remedy as much as they would have been in the fourteenth century when the censorship of the mails was absolute. Congress must give American citizens the rights and liberties which British subjects in England fought for and won in the very days when the colonies won their civil liberties. Printers' Ink is entitled to the thanks of the press for the publicity which it has given to the real state of things.—New York Sun.

Open the Gates.

The items below show whither public sentiment is drifting on the question of opening the World's Fair on Sunday.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, WIS.—Rev. W. A. Broadhurst, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, recently preached a sermon in favor of the opening of the World's Fair on Sunday. This stirred up some of the elders so that they threatened to have him brought before the synod. But several of the elders stood by their pastor. The parish is thus divided. Mr. Broadhurst, as reported in the Milwaukee Sentinel, "denounced as Puritanical the opposition to the opening of the Fair on Sunday, and said that the action of Congress in putting a Sunday closing clause in the appropriation bill is unconstitutional and against public policy. The religious people of the country, he said, went a long step when they coerced Congress into taking this action. They opened up a grave question when they secured the passage of the act. It was an interference of the Church with the State. "You cannot make men religious by law," said Mr. Broadhurst "You may forbid the Fair opening on Sunday, but you cannot prevent the trains running into Chicago filled with men and women. More will be gained, morally and spiritually, from an open than from a closed fair. The argument so often advanced that we should take this occasion to demonstrate how religious we are as a people savors of Pharisaism and cant."

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—President Higginbotham, of the World's Fair, has addressed a letter to each Congressman and Senator upon the Sunday closing question. The letter gives the resolutions in favor of Sunday opening adopted by the Board of Directors on November 11, 1892, and states that the writer and all others connected with the management of the fair know that the vast majority of the people of the United States is in favor of opening the gates seven days a week. In conclusion President Higginbotham asks if the exposition "must be hidden from the toiling thousands, because to view it would prostitute the 'American Sabbath?'" The letter urgently asks that the matter be reconsidered in favor of open gates on Sunday.

Magazine of American History.

The prosperous Magazine of American History opens its twenty-ninth volume with an attractive January number. The leading article is by Mr. Edward F. deLancy, describing "The Columbian Celebration of 1792, the first in the United States." It is curiously interesting to discover, at this late day, that the Tammany Society of New York celebrated the third anniversary of the landing of Columbus, and exhibited an illuminated monument in honor of the great navigator. One of the toasts at the unique festival one hundred years ago was, "May the New World never experience the vices and miseries of the Old." Among the numerous illustrations in Mr. deLancey's article is a fine picture of old Tammany Hall in 1830, the same building now occupied by the New York Sun, and a charming view of Genoa looking east. Colonel Norton concludes California in his History of the United states in Paragraphs. There are Christmas Sentiments and the Holly Song, showing that even stately history does not ignore the passing seasons; and among various instructive matters discussed in Minor Topics we find a description of Washington, by himself! This will elicit wide attention, as the truthful Washington does not make himself out as tall as the historians have done. The departments are admirably filled this month and there are five pages of important book notices. This magazine is edited with remarkable skill, as shown in its choice of precious material for permanent preservation. Subscription price, $5.00 a year. Published at 743 Broadway, New York.

CRUTCHY.

A Story of Two New Years.

BY EVA BEST.

"BUY my last paper, 'm?" The voice has the tremulous quaver of the professional mendicant, and moves me not a whit. They are all alike with their stock in trade, their whines, their pleas, their artful endeavors to work upon one's sympathies; and I move on through the darkening twilight of a bitterly cold New Year's eve, until the sound of a persistent "stump, stump," beside me, and the sight of a pair of eyes, hollow, yet radiant, lighted suddenly into starry reflectors by the coming of their owner into the glare of an electric lamp, cause me to stop at once.

It is a girl, I perceive; a girl upon crutches. Her rags are manifest, her cloak a farce; a tattered bit of scarlet wool is wound about her head, and in each naked, red hand is grasped the cross-piece of a rude crutch.

"Buy my last paper, 'm? All about—" but what she says chills me more than the biting night winds. From her blue, childish lips comes a glib enumeration of crimes no child should know—crimes from which a seasoned sinner might well recoil—intelligence of most satanic nature—and yet I feel that her own utterances touch herself no more for harm than do the foul waters the waxen petals of the lilies they upbear.

"Who are you, child?" I ask.

"Crutchy. Won't you buy my last paper?"

"Yes; but that's not enough. I—I—" stammering, because I feel that I am about to do one of those very foolish, impulsive things imputed me by my little world at large—"I should like to buy you."

"Me?"

"Yes. Are you for sale, Crutchy?"

"Not reg'lerly acrost a counter, 'm," rejoins Crutchy, in quick response to the suspicion of drollery in my mood. "It's you as 'u'd be sold, 'm, if you was to buy me. I'd go dirt cheap, though, and willin'."

"It's a bargain," I laugh, and down the brilliant street we tramp together.

"He'll be glad if I never come back," vouchsafed my new possession. "He hates me. Men allus hates women, doesn't they?"

I glance down at Crutchy in surprise. But the surprise vanishes as I note the child is older than I thought—a great girl, in fact, but not in stature.

"Who is 'he,' Crutchy? The clerk to whom I must render payment for my new purchase?"

"He's gran'dad; but he can't sell me. 'Sides"—and the starry eyes close sufficiently to twinkle—"he'd be too drunk to make change!"

"WON'T YOU BUY MY LAST PAPER?"

"And depressing to the purse, eh, Crutchy?"

The picture is finished. Keith takes it to the exhibition and comes home elate. It is accepted and will be "put upon the line." The demon of strong drink had not been seen for weeks. Crutchy's face is aglow with happiness, and I am coming to my old, gay self, much as a storm-blown vessel rights herself upon a calming sea.

"Our idea" is the center of attraction in the great art exhibition. Crutchy's pictured eyes go to the heart of a certain dealer. Keith, though offered a pretty penny, holds to a fixed price, and one night fetches the great sum home with him.

"My little woman shall have her old servants back again; and Crutchy shall have her wheeled chair!" cries Keith, flourishing a fistful of bills.

Full of our joy, we women indulge in a little dissipation; steaming coffee, and such chops as Keith affects, are set upon our lately frugal board.

"And what color shall be the upholstering of the wheeled chair, Crutchkins?" asks our hero, helping himself to another juicy chop.

"I must sleep on that," says Crutchy, the quaint.

"On the color of the chair? Ha! ha! Well, little woman, it's not everybody that has so many thousands in the house over night—indeed, it isn't the safest thing imaginable to thus entertain this sort of visitor—did outsiders but know of it! However, I've been carefully mum, and we're comparatively safe. I'll put it—all save this fiver—in the desk upstairs, and to-morrow I'll bank it, bright and early. And now I must leave you. Promised to meet my benevolent patron at the club, and talk over a new idea."

"Ke—" but I close my lips in time. I should be a criminal to suggest such an awful possibility as has flown like a devil into my brain. "Good-by, old boy, and don't stay too long away, for Crutchy and I are a slim battalion to cope with any burglarizing foe."

That long, long night my searching hand touched an empty pillow. Keith does not come home. The morning dawns. Crutchy crawls downstairs, looking white and haggard; evidently she has slept as little as have I. At noon we hear the stopping of a vehicle; my husband is brought home. We pay the men for their services, and turn to face our grief. The money has been too much for him—his flattering friends too seductive; we see it all, Crutchy and I, and sit there, silent in our anguish.

Next morning Keith tells the story that we, being women, intuitively know. He gropes his way upstairs, sober, sad, suffering, and has not had time to more than cross the room when—may Heaven save me from ever again hearing the sound I now hear—there comes a shriek that resembles the cry of a lost soul. I rush up the stairs, while Crutchy follows slowly.

"It's gone! The money's gone! I'm robbed!—I'm robbed!"

I fall upon a chair, stunned; nor do I seem to awaken from my stupor for hours and hours. Officers of the law, detectives, all who can aid in the search, come and go—a baffled lot. The money is not to be found, nor any trace of it. But the shock and my apathy arouse my husband. Like one touched by a powerful battery, he springs into new life, and swears, by all that he holds holy and dear, to have done with strong drink. And I know that he means it.

But Crutchy grows thinner as the days shorten; and when the sun enters Libra, I feel that the frail tenement will hold her but a little while longer. She feels it, too, and, nestling close, tells me of her gratitude.

"I couldn't do much for you, dearie," thus she pet-names me, "but what I could, I did. And when I die—"

"O, Crutchie," I wail.

"I want you to promise me to put something in my hand. I hope I'll live till New Year's, dearie, 'cause somehow it 'u'd mean more then. If I die afore, and it ain't too long, keep me till New Years, dearie, if you can."

I scarcely hear, so great is my grief; but recollect, afterward, what I now promise her.

"And, then, the last thing, dearie, open my Grimm's Fairy Tales, and you'll find something that I've wrote there."

She lives until New Year's eve. I allow no hands but mine to touch the dear, misshapen body, but place it, myself, reverently to rest.

With choking sobs I bid Keith fetch the book she loved so well; and, as he goes to do my bidding, I place the satin bag she asked for in her nerveless hands.

Keith comes to me, at last, and together we open the message from the dead, and read:

"DEAR ANGLE UPON ERTH. I stoled the monay. Youl find it in the Satten bag I toled you to putt in my hand. I stoled it cause I was frade your husben would kill hisself with so much monny to spend fer drink. I was goan to kepe it til new years and then giv it back and make him promuss to do Right. take it Now and tell him how it was. god bless you bothe.

"from
"CRUTCHY."

I am already glad that I have bargained for Crutchy. My intuition never fails me, however mad, at times, my impulses seem. I like my new little bundle of ready responses; but how about Keith?

Keith laughs when, at home at last, I tell him what I've done; calls me all sorts of fond, nonsensical names, and, a little later, leaves me with my "odd idea," to go to the club.

"You'll not stay long, Keith?" I ask.

"Can't promise, dear, really. There are a lot of fellows of the legion to be on hand to-night—"

"Of the legion, Keith—that old Parisian mob?"

"Ha! ha!—'mob'! You're not jealous of the legion, are you, little woman?"

I am. But pride will not allow me to be candid. Let him go to his legion—am I not his first thought, for all those gay Bohemians?

"Cantholi has a new idea"—all things, to Keith, are, in some sort, "ideas"—and he means to parade it. "Big canvas—weird subject—'Ring of Death,' or something of the sort."

"I like your style so much better, Keith."

"What—'The willows green, the pebbles white, the stream a line of glimmering light'?"

"For shame, Keith! Where did you find that, you—"

"On the floor. Debris from your desk, I presume. Allow me to continue: 'The low hills wrapped in purple mist; the mountain tops the sun has kissed—'"

"Keith! Keith! Go to your legion—are you utterly without heart?"

"She asks me that who captured it! Oh, come, little woman, the rhymes are not so bad. I've heard worse."

Keith sleeps so late next morning that I have time to make a pilgrimage to a bazar where ready-made clothing is obtainable, return with divers packages, and trick out the flotsam washed to me by destiny's waves from the ocean of life, before my husband makes his appearance.

As he enters the room I call Crutchy and formally introduce to her my lord and master. She lifts her great, bright eyes, and, it would seem, takes his measure at a glance. My senses being keen, I feel instinctively that Keith does not impress her as I have hoped—as I have been sure—he would. As if to find an answer to my unformed question in his face, I look at Keith. God help me!—the answer is there—speaking from the dull, bleared eyes, from the lax, unsteady lips, from the red, bloated cheeks, from the breath—but let what I have named suffice!

"Odd little beast—comic—make good model!"

"Keith!"

But the eyes have closed before my cry is ended. With a moan I turn and kneel before Crutchy, her arms around me, my head pillowed upon her hollow little breast.

From whence came that mysterious influence that brought together two atoms for mutual good—Crutchy and me? In the hours, the days, the weeks that pass, no mother could console me as does this crippled child. The hidousness of inebriety is no new thing to her. Her face is a barometer. I fall to reading, and confident am I that hope is near if a smile be in the ascendant.

It is smiling often of late, for Keith is working pretty hard now upon a new picture. Crutchy is his model. When his hands are steady the bright eyes grow in radiance, and all their dazzling beauty is caught upon the canvas; when they tremble and lose their cunning then Crutchy comes to me, and there's nothing I can do but bless my little New Year's gift!

My small inheritance is all gone—Keith's money nearly so, and shorter commons than those to which we've either one of us been ever used, is quite the order of our present day. Our last domestic takes her leave, and Crutchy and I vie with each other in the culinary art.

"Rice is cheap eatin', and a slice o' toast. Tea's too excitin' to the nerves—

THOUGHTS FOR THE DAY.

ANOTHER year! Another year
Has borne its record to the skies.
Another year! Another year,
Untried, unproved, before us lies:
We hail with smiles its dawning gray—
How shall we meet its final day?"

The time for settling up the year's account and closing the book of 1892 is at hand. We linger over its pages, noting the many blessings showered upon us from the hand of a merciful Father; a liberal sprinkling of sorrows and mistakes, many—perhaps all—readily traceable to ignorant or willful sins, for neither of which can we offer the slightest excuse; and the golden opportunities unheeded, of aiding our fellow creatures by look, word, deed or example.

But why should we pause to consider the marred and blurred pages of the old year, of the pure, fresh ones of the new? Because only the brute lives for the moment, leading an existence of disconnected dots. The brute-like man, to whom the past has no stimulus and contains no warning, and the future no invitation, passes the annual milestones without thought, repentance or regret. The wise man's life is as a line with a purpose in it, directed by what lies behind and aiming well at something ahead. God's labor is permanent in its results because it looks before and after, is cumulative, has its solid foundations and its spires of desire. And if we wish our life work to have any measure of the firmness and success of the Creator's great works, it must be made, like His, to grow with reasonableness out of the past and look with purpose toward the years to come. There are no times so appropriate for this wise and linking meditation as beginnings and endings—the close of the year when reason has action, with its lessons and promptings, behind it, and the start, when purpose has action, all fresh and unsullied, before it.

After duly considering the old year let us turn to the new, this volume of three hundred and sixty-five pages, everyone of which we shall fill with some sort of a record. As we wish it to be a satisfactory one, let us aim to make the very best of life; remembering that we were created in the image of God and that, through His promised strength, we are able to do all things well that may be given us to do. In order to attain such success, however, we must keep, each day, the resolutions made at the dawning of the year, and make the very best possible record on that day, thus opening the way for an improvement on the morrow, and so on.

The year 1893 will be made memorable to posterity by the Columbian exposition, in which the nations of the globe unite to celebrate the glorious results achieved through the constant and persistent efforts of one man. Let us not, then, while garnering the wisdom harvested from this great international exhibit, forget the lesson taught by the devotion of Columbus to his life purpose.

Having formulated and crystallized our New Year's resolutions, let us ever be mindful that, as Johnson says: "Hell is paved with good resolutions," and, unless we have resolution enough in our character—good solid resolution, compounded of will and wisdom, and the mixture thoroughly permeated with the grace of God—to live them, they will only go to improve that pavement which is already kept in very good repair.

We must not anticipate failure, but advance in the assurance that on New Year's day of 1894 we shall be able to review with gratification the individual and collective strides made during 1893.

It Tastes Good

One reason why Scott's Emulsion of Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda has had such a large sale is because it is "Almost as palatable as milk;" but the best reason is that its curative properties are unequalled. A NEW YEAR'S RESOLVE.

Why Squire Muffleton Bought a Suit for the Doctor.

SQUIRE MUFFLETON walked leisurely down the street puffing a fragrant Havana. The squire was a devout lover of the weed — one of those who pride themselves that smoking with them is a luxury rather than a habit and can be stopped at any moment. New Year's day had dawned auspiciously for the squire; the old year had proved an exceedingly profitable one and the new one bid fair to be, so the jovial justice was in an amiable frame of mind as he went along nodding and chatting to the passers by, with a good word for everyone. Presently he met Dr. Phiddlegrease.

"A happy New Year, doctor," bawled the squire, "and many fat cases for you!"

"The same to you," responded the medical man, "and many new suits on your docket."

The squire laughed heartily. "Well, this is a glorious New Year's morning," said he.

"Yes," assented the doctor, "splendid—a first rate morning for resolutions."

The squire shrugged his shoulders. "I never took much stock in New Year's resolutions—they don't amount to a row of pins."

"Well, I don't know; look at Charley Paddlepool—see what resolutions did for him."

"How's that?"

"Why, three years ago he chewed tobacco incessantly, drank like a fish and smoked all the time. Now he is a total abstainer."

"Just so," interposed the squire, smilingly.

"You see he began by resolving to stop chewing on New Year's day. He went a year without chewing. Then he resolved not to drink, and went a year without liquor. Last year he concluded to quit smoking, and now he's completely cured of the injurious habit. I tell you there's nothing like beginning the New Year with resolves."

"Just so," repeated the squire, cynically; "but anyone can do what Paddlepool did on New Year's or any other day. Now look at me. I smoke from eight to ten cigars every day, not because I am addicted to it, but because I like to, and can stop at any time. Why, bless your heart, it's no trick to stop smoking."

The doctor looked wise and grinned. "You think not?"

"Certainly," said the squire, with confidence; "no trick at all!"

The doctor's smile broadened. "Well, squire, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll wager you a suit of clothes that you can't keep for one week a New Year's resolve to stop smoking."

THE SQUIRE AND THE DOCTOR.

"Agreed!" exclaimed the squire, extending his hand, and, throwing away his half-smoked cigar, he went down the street whistling.

In the evening while the doctor was seated in his comfortable library the squire was ushered in. It was his custom to drop over occasionally to visit his friend and discuss social and business affairs. Upon this occasion the squire was in his usual good spirits, and came in vigorously chewing a toothpick. He took a seat opposite the doctor. Presently the latter lit a cigar which the squire eyed jealously but said nothing, and soon the two were engaged in conversation. After awhile the squire rose to go and as he did so, still talking, he took a long, tempting looking cigar from his pocket. He smelled of it approvingly and then as if recollecting himself put it back. The squire continued talking attentively. Pretty soon out came the cigar again. This time he bit the end off, rolled it between his fingers and placed it in his mouth. He felt in his pocket for a match while the doctor with difficulty refrained from laughing outright. As the squire finished sperking he struck a light and had taken but two puffs when the situation dawned upon him. The cigar dropped from his lips. The doctor was in a paroxysm of mirth. "Doctor," said the squire soberly, as he closed the door behind him with a bang, "you'd better step around in the morning and get measured for that suit."

A SONG OF PROPHECY.

HIS song fell on my ears what time
I heard the bells of midnight chime;

"I, who come with hands well laden,
With gifts for the far and near,
For prophet and priest, for sage and maiden,
I am the glad New Year.
Listen, O world, to the song I sing you—
Sweeter music can never be—
Open your hands to the good I bring you,
Open your souls to my prophecy.

"Wonderful ships that, long belated,
Have drifted the wide seas o'er,
With blessings for which the world has wetted,
Shall speedily find your shore.
The dreamer shall walk in fields elysian,
Right shall be lord of wrong;
The seer shall give you his truest vision,
And the singer his sweetest song.

"Such treasures as never were mined or minted
Shall come to the waiting hands;
Beauty and truth and love unstinted
Shall brighten and bless the lands.
Noble thoughts to brave deeds growing
Shall see true victories won;
The perfect fruit of patient sowing
Shall ripen beneath my sun.

"A sigh, if you will, for the king departed,
(In a song let the sigh be drowned)
Then lift your eyes, all happy hearted,
To me, the king new-crowned.
In sweet allegiance swift and willing,
O, world, clasp hands with me:
Help, I pray, to the blest fulfilling
Of promise and prophecy."

This song fell on my ears what time
I heard the bells of midnight chime.
I dare not say, nor yet deny,
That time the words will verify.
But this I know, 'tis well to clasp
The hands of hope in daily grasp:
'Tis well e'en while we sup on sorrows
To dream of fair and glad to-morrows.

Hail, then, to him whose reign must be
Blessing or bane from sea to sea!
Hail him gladly, O world, and bring
Your pledge of faith to the new-crowned king:
With eager feet to the purer heights,
Walk in his promised broader light;
Seek the gleam in the dim afar,
Of his whitest sail, of his brightest star;
With love and faith, while the glad bells chime,
Hail him, this latest child of time!

CARLOTTA PERRY.

A FEW RESOLUTIONS.

Make Them by All Means, But Don't Tell Your Girl About It.

Resolve: That you will lead an upright and noble life.

As you will promptly break this resolution it will ease any qualms of conscience you may have at breaking any others.

Resolve: That you will speak nothing but good of your friends.

In this way you will be able to learn very shortly how very few friends you have.

Resolve: That you will never drink again.

Then for a couple of weeks you can tell your friends that you break your good resolution merely to drink with them, and they will feel very, very happy.

Resolve: Not to marry.

If married already, point to this resolution at the end of the year with pride. If a female (which is to be hoped you are not), tell all the men about it.

Resolve: That you will be prudent and economical during the entire year.

If you are not all will be well, for you will probably have to be economical next year to make up for it.

Resolve: Not to tell your girl of your New Year's resolutions.

She is probably a trusting young thing and it will rend her heart to learn that, after all, you are not actually divine as she had supposed.—Life.

ONE WAY TO ASK.

Mr. Billings—Er—Miss Coolings—Clara—I have a question I would like to ask you.

Miss Coolings—Well?

Mr. Billings — Don't you think it would be a good idea if—er—this were the last New Year's eve that we come home single?

The Dun.

We're feeling blue about the gills,
For now this man of gall
Will fill his pocket full of bills
And make his New Year call.

TOO MUCH.

"Look here, Jimmy, this one 'wid some crambelly sauc'd do for New Year's, wouldn't it?"

"Don't, Johnny, don't! Rispect a feller's feelin's."—Life.

SERIOUS FOR DIAZ.

Mexican Revolutionists Are Rapidly Gaining Ground.

After the Battle of Guerrero, in Which Ten Men Were Killed, Another Garrison Is Attacked—No Quarter Given.

TROUBLE IN MEXICO.

NUEVA LAREDO, Mexico, Dec. 23.—Reports, although conflicting, come from every part of the northern side of the republic indicating the growth of the revolutionary movement. Dispatches are rushing to and fro from the Mexican officials to the United States officers on the frontier, and in the near future there will be a genuine revolution in Mexico.

Information was received here Thursday that Gen. Estrada, stationed at Mier, about 75 miles down the Rio Grande, was missing from his post of duty, and it is thought he has joined the revolutionists, who are marching toward the interior of Mexico. This is another indication that the outlook is serious for President Diaz. A courier says that the reported desertion of Gen. Estrada is confirmed and that he is now at the head of a thousand men who are in every way familiar with the fastnesses of the interior.

It is impossible to gain any information from those high in authority, as everyone is under the strictest orders not to make public the telegrams, but this much is positively known, that there was a battle the 17th on Mexican soil, near Guerrero, about 30 miles from the river, between the Mexican troops and revolutionists, with a victory for the latter.

There were five soldiers killed in the skirmish, the revolutionists completely routing the federal troops, and in a body 400 strong continued on their march toward the interior. When last heard from they were within a few hours' march of the town of Coralvo; which is situated 50 miles from the river, near the Candolia mountains, and 30 miles from the Mexican National railroad.

Another battle took place on the 19th, when ten men were killed at Coralvo, where there is a garrison. At this place five of the Mexican soldiers were burned half alive. A courier with official information gave it out that the revolutionists gave and asked no quarters. There is no lack of funds to carry out the movement.

TOO MUCH LIQUOR.

It Causes a Fight Between Wisconsin Indians in Which a Father and Son Are Killed and Two Children Wounded.

DULUTH, Minn., Dec. 23.—A dispatch from Barker, Carlton county, reports a terrible fight Wednesday night. A number of half-breeds and Indians from the Fond du Lac reservation have been living in tepees near the Barker depot for some time. They went to Cloquet to get their annuities, were paid by Agent Leahy and started home Wednesday. Stopping at Carlton they became very drunk. Reaching Barker at night, preparations were begun for a feast, and a free fight followed in which the squaws joined. Billets of wood were used, and finally the male Indians used their Winchesters. John Launtery, aged 28, was shot through the heart and died instantly. His 10-year-old son, King Bird, was shot through the head and died at noon. Two children, names unknown, are seriously wounded. Sheriff McKinnon has reached Barker to arrest the murderers.

FAMILIES MASSACRED.

Mexican Government Troops Unable to Suppress Yaqui and Mayo Indians.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, Dec. 23.—The Mexican government troops sent from here to the Sierra Madre mountains to suppress the Yaqui and Mayo Indian uprising are unable to put down the rebellion. The Indians, to the number of about 5,000 have their rendezvous in almost inaccessible canyons of the Yaqui river, and bands of them continue to make frequent raids upon the settlers. Dozens of families have been massacred during the past few weeks, and the troops have been powerless to prevent the depredations.

Suicide of Lumberman Mellor.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Dec. 23. — E. M. Mellor, of the lumbering firm of Hoxie & Mellor, which failed two years ago, now a resident of Chicago and connected with Joliet parties in the Northwestern Lumber company, committed suicide Thursday at Antigo, his old home, by shooting himself. He was to have defended a suit against him here for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Death from a Peculiar Cause.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Dec. 23.—John Muir, a well-known blacksmith, died suddenly Thursday afternoon under peculiar circumstances. He was in good health Wednesday, and while at work struck his own face with a hammer. His face began swelling. At noon Thursday the muscles of his throat began to swe and at 1 o'clock he choked to death.

Large Sale of Lands.

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 23.—The largest single sale of lands made by the state in several years was made by Land Commissioner Shaffer to President Cummer of the Cummer Lumber company of Cadillac Thursday. The transfer covered 3,000 acres of agricultural college lands in Wexford county and the consideration was $24,700.

McGlynn Is Restored.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—The famous case of Father McGlynn, of St. Stephen's church in this city, has finally been decided by the restoration to him of authority to perform his priestly functions. His advocacy of the doctrines of Henry George caused his suspension.

Perish in the Flames.

WAVERLY, Tenn., Dec. 23.—Three children of Marcus White were locked up in the house Wednesday night by their parents. The house was burned down and the children perished in the flames.

THE HERALD FOR 1893

For eighteen years last past, through good report and evil report, in prosperity and adversity alike, the HERALD has kept in "the middle of the road" in both a political and business sense. The record of the paper, under its present management, is well known, and nothing need be said on that point. Performance is better than promise. We have no special promises to make for the future, as the paper will speak for itself, as it has done in the past.

First and foremost, it will aim to be the best local newspaper in Lenawee County, and to hold its place as a household necessity in every family of Northern Lenawee. Though not a political organ in a partisan sense, the HERALD will always be found on the people's side in the great battle for equal rights and reduced taxation, and will continue to be an uncompromising advocate of tariff reform until that question shall be settled and settled right. All efforts to shake its business position and influence have proved unavailing, and it views the approach of 1893 with a serene confidence that the World's Fair year will be the most prosperous in its history.

Our Subscription rates next year will be only $1.10 within the County of Lenawee, if paid spot cash in advance. Beyond the County, $1.25 in advance. When payment is delayed an additional rate will be charged. We consider this a fair solution of the subscription problem. When subscribers desire accommodation they can afford to pay a reasonable bonus for that privilege. Here are our premium offers and club list for the coming year.

FIRST

The Herald and the American Farmer price $1.00, or,

The Herald and the Breeders' Guide, price $1.00, or

SECOND

THIRD.

FOURTH.

FIFTH.

The HERALD and a bird's-eye view of the Columbian Exposition grounds, a beautiful lithograph 16 by 24 inches in size, suitable for framing, or

Old subscribers, as well as new, can avail themselves of these premium offers by paying all arrearages and one year in advance.

Prof. Barrett, of St. Lawrence county, N. Y., speaking of pulmonary diseases, says: Not one death occurs now where twenty died before Downs' Elixir was known. Over fifty years of constant success places Downs' Elixir at the head of the long list of cough remedies.

The reason why Arnica & Oil Liniment is so popular with the ladies is because it is not only very healing and soothing but its odor is not at all offensive.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Andrew Hood, who from 1860 to about 1872, was a prominent merchant of Tecumseh, died at his residence in Detroit on the 22nd inst., in the 74th year of his age. The remains were brought to Tecumseh for interment on Saturday last, accompanied by the immediate members of the family and other friends.

Mr. Hood was one of the pioneers of Michigan, coming here in 1835, when but 16 years of age, in company with an older brother, driving the whole distance by wagon from Seneca county, N. Y., to Ann Arbor. The following fall their parents arrived, coming by boat from Buffalo to Detroit. The brother returned to New York State, while Andrew remained with his parents, his father taking up a farm four miles west of Ann Arbor. Andrew remained on the farm, assisting his father to clear it up and put it in shape to produce an income, till the year 1843, when he engaged in the general merchandise business at Pinckney, Livingston county, where he remained till about the year 1850, when he concluded to return to the business of farming and bought the old farm near Ann Arbor, where he had contributed so much of his muscle in earlier years. Success continued to crown his efforts and in 1860 he sold his farm and decided to remove to Tecumseh and again engage in trade, buying the business of general merchant tailoring and clothing of James H. Wheeler, his wife's brother. In the course of a few years this business was changed to that of general merchandise, consisting principally of dry goods, etc. About 1872 this business at Tecumseh was removed to Deerfield, where he remained up to about five years ago, when he moved to Detroit and became associated with his son, Willis F. Hood, in the drug business, in which he was engaged at the time of his death.

While engaged in business at Pinckney Mr. Hood married Miss Philura Wheeler, who survives him, —a daughter of James Wheeler, of Tecumseh, and a sister of Mrs. J. C. Eaton, who now lives about one mile east of Tecumseh with her son, Horace Eaton.

Many of the older residents of Tecumseh and vicinity will remember Mr. Hood and it is believed that none think of him with other than feelings of great respect and deep affection; many of them with gratitude, for he was a most kindly and liberal man and to know him was to love him. To do good was his greatest pleasure. No person in need was ever known to come to him without being relieved to the extent of his ability and he was always foremost in the support of every good cause. He has many relatives in the vicinity of Tecumseh, while his friends are legion.

Died, near Tecumseh, Mich., on Friday, Dec. 9th, 1892, Mrs. Margaret C. Hendershot, in the 83rd year of her age.

The maiden name of Mrs. Hendershot was Margaret Carnahan McBride. She was born at Whitehall, Penn., March 3rd, 1810. She was married Feb. 11, 1830, to Mr. Even Hendershot, and lived after her marriage for many years at Limestoneville, Penn. About twenty-five years ago the family removed to the spot which has ever since been Mrs. Hendershot's home. Her husband died Feb. 14th, 1878, yet the home was kept up as before his death until the widowed one was borne from it to be laid beside her loved companion in the cemetery near by.

Of the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Hendershot two are dead—one of them, their son William, having died less than a year ago. The surviving children are James B., of this place, Mrs. Mary Kramer of Jerseytown, Penn., Mrs. Jane Smith, of Macon, Mich., Mrs. Henrietta Hendershot, of Clinton, Mich., and Hugh A., now living at the homestead.

Mrs. Hendershot was a woman of marked integrity and uprightness of character. She was endowed by nature with a clear, strong mind and whatever responsibility was laid upon her she discharged conscientiously and well. Early in life, before her marriage, she made a public profession of her faith in the Savior and at her death she was, as she had been for 23 years, an esteemed member of the Presbyterian church of Tecumseh. Her children looked up to their mother with respect and affection and will cherish tenderly her memory, now that she has entered into the heavenly rest. Her last sickness was a brief one. Her mind wandered through the most of it, but in her wanderings she was heard to pray, as she had been accustomed to do daily. At last she fell into a gentle sleep, which proved the final sleep in Jesus.

Go to the Christmas Party this evening.

Frank Clark, of Detroit, is visiting friends here during the holidays.

An enterprising book agent suggests that every farmer paint his name on his barn.

Grant L. Dunbar, of Deerfield, was visiting his Tecumseh friends a portion of last week.

The Concert by Wolff's orchestra this evening will be well worth the admission charged.

Several columns of interesting New Year's reading will be found on our inside pages this week.

Mrs. Mary Hendershot and Mrs. J. V. Gohgen, of Macon, are visiting Mrs. Flora Sisson at Detroit, this week.

Miss Grace Blood, of Battle Creek, came Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Kishpaugh, and is enjoying all the pleasure included in holidays.

Fred McNair expects to go to Aspen, Col. this week to engage in the business of surveying. We regret to have him leave Tecumseh but wish him the best of success in his new venture.

Albert A. Kennedy and wife and son Charles, of Lansing, are spending the holidays with Tecumseh friends. Mr. Kennedy is now traveling throughout the State for the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Stacy, of the Tecumseh Herald, advertises a new sewing machine for sale. It looks slightly as if the veteran editor had made all preparations for entertaining a new housekeeper and that the lady had declined to enter upon her duties.—Hudson Post.

The following is the program for the Christmas party concert:

1—Overture, Nabucodonozor, Verdi.
2—Serenade, for Coronet and Flute. A. Emil Titl.
3—Selection from Opera Faust, Ch. Gounod.
4—Butterflies Enjoyment for flute and Claronet.
5—An Evening Out, Medley.

We have received a copy of President James B. Angell's annual report for the last college year. It shows that the State University is in a very flourishing condition. The attendance last year was the largest in the history of the institution, numbering 2692, increase over the preceding year of 272. In this list forty-six states and territories are represented, every state in the union but two. The attendance of women was 531, an increase of 86 over 1891. Fifteen foreign countries were represented.

During our brief visit at Ann Arbor last week, we took occasion to call upon the Tecumseh students now attending college there. They are all prospering and seem to enjoy student life at the University. Claude VanTine is a member of the freshman class in the literary department. He has a good room on William street and has doubtless tested the quality of "William St. hash" long before this. He is delighted with his experience and prospects thus far. Misses Mary Burridge and Ida Rector room together on Thayer street, near the Campus. They are both freshman "lits," and are getting nicely started in their studies. Miss Burridge is a member of the Choral Union in the alto division. Miss Anna Bailey is now in her senior year and will graduate next June in the B. L. Course. She has taken a high rank in her class, especially in music, being a member of the Choral Union, soprano division. She is also chairman of the executive committee of the Union, a position requiring not only musical talent but business ability, which she fills with marked credit. Tecumseh has reason to be proud of her 1893 delegation at the State University.

A great many letters are sent just before Christmas to nearly every large post-office, addressed to Santa Claus. Such letters, in accordance with the law, are sent to the dead letter office. But a benevolent gentleman of Philadelphia has written to the postmaster of that city, asking that all such letters be delivered to him as he wishes to make an appropriate present to the writers. And it is now under consideration whether the letters can be legally given to him.

The Detroit Journal has sent us a copy of their incomparable Christmas number, together with the Art Supplement. We believe we do not exaggerate when we say it is the handsomest number from an artistic standpoint of any put out this year, not excepting the London and Paris Christmas numbers, while from a literary point of view certainly none excel. We might name such eminent authors as Julian Hawthorne, George Parsons Lathrop, John Habberton, and others, who have contributed to this excellent number. "If you see it in the Journal, it is so," and "What will the Journal do next?" have come to be significant phrases. The Journal certainly stands at the head as a clean, newsy paper and when it comes to enterprise it leads all others.

It is to be regretted that the custom of receiving New Year's calls has been abandoned. It is a beautiful festivity for New Year's day and is attended with but little expense. We understand that some of our village matrons are seriously considering the propriety of reviving the custom this year, and hope they may conclude to do so.

Scribner's Magazine, for January, begins its thirteenth volume and seventh year, for which many important features are announced, some of them making their first appearance in this number. Serial fiction will be a feature of the year, with such writers as Frances Hodgson Burnett, H. C. Bunner, Robert Grant, Harold Frederic, and Miss Elliott, the author of "Jerry." In this number the first part of Mrs. Burnett's serial is given, under the title of "The One I Knew the Best of All," which is a charming bit of autobiography, covering the reminiscences of the author's childhood and youth up to the publication of her first story. It is believed that this story will do for the child-life of a girl very much what was done by Dickens in David Copperfield for the life of a boy.

Both Had Eczema
In Its Worst Form
After Physicians Failed, Hood's Sarsaparilla Perfectly Cured.
Great mental agony is endured by parents who see their children suffering from diseases caused by impure blood, and for which there seems no cure. This is turned to joy when Hood's Sarsaparilla is resorted to, for it expels the foul humors from the blood, and restores the diseased skin to fresh, healthy brightness. Read the following from grateful parents:
"To C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:
"We think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most valuable medicine on the market for blood and skin diseases. Our two children suffered terribly with the Worst Form of Eczema
for two years. We had three physicians in that time, but neither of them succeeded in curing them or even in giving them a little relief. At last we tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a month both children were perfectly cured. We recommend

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 23.—A train on the Mexican Southern railway was derailed Thursday. Four persons were killed and a number were injured.

FAIL TO DO THEIR DUTY.
Everybody has at times failed to do their duty toward themselves. Hundreds of lady readers suffer from sick headache, nervousness, sleeplessness and female troubles. Let them follow the example of Mrs. H. Herbechter, Stevens Point, Wis., who for five years suffered greatly from Nervous Prostration and sleeplessness, tried physicians and different medicines without success But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine caused sound sleep every night and she is feeling like a new person. Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, Laramie City, Wyoming, who tried all other remedies, declares that after three week's use of Nervine for headache, nervous prostration, etc., she was entirely relieved. Sold by Baker & Hall, Druggists. Trial bottle free.

To whom it may concern: "After an acquaintance with Dr. O. J. Fay extending over a period of eighteen years, I can cheerfully testify to his sincerity of purpose, integrity and high social and professional standing in this, the county of his residence. Having used the New Treatment for Consumption in my family for coughs and colds, I find that it possesses more real merit than any other medicines we have used for these complaints, and heartily recommend its use as a family medicine.

I can recommend Ely's Cream Balm to all sufferers from dry catarrh from personal experience.—Michael Reese, Pharmacist, Denver.

I had catarrh of the head and throat for five years. I used Ely's Cream Balm, and from the first application was relieved. The sense of smell, which had been lost, was restored after using one bottle. I have found the Balm the only satisfactory remedy for catarrh, and it has effected a cure in my case.—H. L. MANY WERE HURT.

Wreck of a Santa Fe Express Train Near Colorado Springs—Twenty-One Passengers Injured, Two of Whom Will Die.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Dec. 24.—The Chicago express on the Santa Fe road was derailed about 2 miles east of Halstead, Col., while running at a high rate of speed. The passenger coaches and Pullman sleeping cars were hurled down an embankment 50 feet high to the bottom, landing in a heap. The overturned cars immediately caught fire, and it was with the greatest difficulty the imprisoned passengers were rescued from a frightful death. A number of passengers and several of the train crew are reported injured, but no one was killed. A relief train with physicians and surgeons was sent from here and rendered assistance and relief to the injured. The accident is attributed to spreading rails. The following is a list of the injured:

Bert and Will Van Loon, will die; John Shall, of Ada, Kan.; E. B. McDonald, of Denver; Charles Long and wife, of Needles, Col.; Col. W. H. Yankee, of Denver; S. Samuels, of Salt Lake; E. L. Storey, conductor of the Pullman, right arm broken; G. H. Cone, of Denver; Mrs. G. H. Cone and her two children were badly bruised; D. Bruzzer, badly cut about head and neck; Niner Banziyer; George Watson, Denver; E. N. Waite, postal clerk, Denver, badly bruised hip and cut legs; Myrtle Van Loon, head bruised and badly cut; A. T. Lawrence, scalp cut; Charles Lingo, bruised; Mrs. Charles Lingo, internally injured.

The two boys who were most seriously hurt are dying. Two or three other people seriously injured have been taken to the hospital. The wrecked train returned to this city about 7:30 a. m., presenting a horrible sight. The trainmen carried the people out of the wrecked cars on stretchers. Some of them were taken to the St. Francis hospital, east of the city, and some to the homes of hospitable people, while others were distributed around to the various hotels.

DAVITT IS UNSEATED.

Charges of Intimidation at North-Meath Sustained—Victory for Parnellites.

DUBLIN, Dec. 24.—Michael Davitt has lost his seat in the commons, and will be ineligible for reelection while the present parliament endures. Davitt expected to be ousted, but hoped to escape the penalty that usually follows in cases of the kind. Justice O'Brien delivered the decision of the court on the election petition against Davitt's return. The decision deprives Davitt of his seat on the same ground as that which resulted in the unseating of Mr. Fullam as member of parliament for South Meath.

Victory for Prohibition.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 24.—The legislature has passed a bill providing for a state liquor dispensary with county dispensaries, the location of which will be confined to towns. They will be in charge of officers elected by state authorities, and only liquors that are analyzed by state chemists and found pure can be sold. They must be sold in sealed packages and the purchaser cannot break the seal in a dispensary.

Detectives Mistaken.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 23.—Adams Express detectives gave out a story Thursday afternoon that Messenger Charles A. Harden was the man who stole a $35,000 package billed from New York to Texas. They also said he had fled. Harden reported for duty Thursday night, and the detectives are retracting their statements. They now say they are as much at sea as ever.

Cholera's Advance.

VIENNA, Dec. 24.—The cholera is increasing in the province of Lublin, in Russian Poland, and adjoining the Austrian border. The consternation caused by the ravages of the cholera last autumn in that region had become allayed, but is again being aroused, and many of the people are fleeing from the stricken districts.

A Hotel Destroyed.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 24.—Baxter's hotel, the well-known stopping place for road men and bicyclists going to and from this city to Coney island, at the southern exit of Prospect park, was destroyed by fire at 4 a. m. Friday. The building was a large four-story structure. The loss is $30,000; no insurance.

Cast His Last Vote.

BLOOMFIELD, Ia., Dec. 24.—McCabe Benge died at his home near here yesterday, aged 111 years. He voted in every presidential contest since 1804 and his last vote was cast for President Harrison.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

How the Great Exposition Will Be Formally Opened.

The Only Address Will Be Made by Grover Cleveland, Who Will Also Set the Wheels in Motion—Other Plans Outlined.

OPENING DAY.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—The programme for opening the exposition next May has been completed by the committee having the matter in charge. Grover Cleveland, who will be president of the United States when the fair is opened, is to deliver the only address and start the machinery. No other orator will be heard. A poem, perhaps, by Oliver Wendell Holmes, and some music will precede Mr. Cleveland's address. After the wheels are buzzing and the crowds are rushing through the buildings it is proposed that President Cleveland and his party shall drive through the grounds and pay their respects to foreign commissioners to the fair, who will be waiting in the official headquarters to receive the presidential party. Later in the evening Mr. Cleveland's carriage will stop in front of festival hall, and there the president will hold a public reception for two hours, from 4 to 6 o'clock.

The public will not have an opportunity to attend the exercises of formally inaugurating the great exposition. Festival hall seats but 5,000 persons. One thousand tickets will be reserved for officials of the fair, members of congress and others. The remaining 4,000 seats will be sold at five dollars each, tickets being issued on invitation. This is the programme decided upon:

Music—Arranged by Theodore Thomas.
Prayer.
Music.
Presentation of chiefs of departments by the director general.
Poem.
Music.
Address and opening of the World's Columbian exposition by the president of the United States.
Benediction.

It is recommended that the exercises begin at exactly 10 o'clock on May 1 and close at noon or earlier. From noon to 1:30 o'clock lunch will be served President Cleveland and the 1,000 special guests.

Those who have been chosen to attend the inaugural exercises are: The president, vice-president and cabinet, the supreme court, the diplomatic corps, the United States senators, members of congress, world's fair directors, national commissioners, lady managers, foreign commissioners, world's fair officials and the Chicago aldermen. A number of distinguished American citizens will be added to the list.

Prof. Tomlins and Mr. Wilson, of the bureau of music at the world's fair, have decided upon the dates for the appearance of the festival choir, composed of representatives of the eastern and middle states, in festival hall, at the exposition. The programme is as follows:

June 7, Cantata, "Festo Ascensionis Christi." Bach: "Israel in Egypt," selections, Handel. June 8, "Elijah," Mendelssohn. June 9, "Hallelujah," cantata, opus fifty, A. Becker; selections, "Moses," Rubinstein; Vorspiel, quintette and chorus from third act "Die Meistersinger," Wagner.

CHOLERA IN HAMBURG.

Authorities Unable to Drive Out the Plague, Even in Cold Weather.

HAMBURG, Dec. 23.—It was thought that the extraordinary measures taken by the authorities would prevent another outbreak of cholera in the spring; but the indications now point to a recurrence of the disease in an epidemic form when warm weather sets in. Several cases of the Asiatic type of the disease have occurred recently and the outlook is serious. Thursday four new cases were officially reported and the people are beginning to grow restless, fearing that the disease will become widespread despite the cold weather. The authorities are doing everything possible to prevent the disease spreading. Particular attention has been paid to the water supply and the inhabitants now find it possible to avoid any use of the filthy water of the Elbe.

The authorities on both sides of the border are doing all they can to prevent a panic. The report that emigration to America is virtually stopped has caused much disappointment, as owing to dread of cholera and for other reasons multitudes were preparing to emigrate during the coming spring.

Death of Gen. Grant's Brother-in-Law.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 24.—Gen. Frederick T. Dent, the distinguished union soldier and brother-in-law of U. S. Grant, died Friday afternoon. He was 72 years of age. He will be interred in the military cemetery at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. Gen. Dent had been in Denver for the last four years, enjoying a peaceful old age. He was born in Missouri in 1820, and received an appointment to West Point from that state and served with honor in the Mexican and civil wars.

Escaped the Gallows.

OTTAWA, Ill., Dec. 24.—Edward Cannon, alleged murderer of Martin Ryan, died in his cell in murderers' row at the county jail without having made a confession. He was arrested in September, 1890, and later tried and sentenced to be hanged, but was granted a new trial by the supreme court last spring. The ailment which caused his death was consumption of the bowels.

Seven Men Killed in Street Brawls.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 23.—The following has been received from a correspondent in the city of Guatemala: "The municipal elections held on December 11 were extremely exciting. The occasion was marked by a number of street brawls, in which seven persons altogether were killed. The liberals triumphed."

Disfigured, But Still in the Ring.

DENISON, Tex., Dec. 23.—A queer bridal couple registered at a hotel in this city as Mr. and Mrs. Friday. The bridegroom lost his left leg, right arm and right eye in the confederate service, while the bride is minus her left arm and limps on a cork leg.

Is to be a sufferer from Piles. Parmelee's Pile Suppositories are an easy and sure cure. Hundreds testify to their efficiency. 50c a box. Sold by druggists.

A SURE CROP.

A writer in Farm and Fireside says "one of the surest crops on the farm is Dyspepsia. The daily life of the typical farmer is suggestive of indigestion and dyspepsia." The writer might also have added that one of the best remedies for poor digestion, and a preventive of biliousness, dyspepsia, and all the long train of ills which follow is Parmelee's Mandrake and Dandelion Bitters. A large bottle costs only 25 cents. Sold by dealers.

IT CURED HIM OF SALT RHEUM.

CARROLLTON, N. Y., Aug. 2, '92.

Last winter I was laid up with Salt Rheum in my ankles. After trying many other remedies without finding any benefit, I was practically cured by the use of Parmelee's Household Ointment. I heartily recommend it to all who are similarly afflicted.

A. G. PACE.

For all Sores, Cuts, Burns, Bruises, etc., we guarantee it to be the best ointment made. 25c a box. Sold by dealers.

A RHEUMATIC MONTH.

This is a time of year when Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and other pains of that character show at their worst. Have you ever tried Parmelee's Universal Liniment in such cases? It has wonderful soothing and curative qualities. Sold by dealers.

Take water and a little Pearline, and you have the best preparation in the world for washing and cleaning. It will do everything except harm. Use it on your clothes, your dishes, your paint, and your person. Try it on something that you think is too delicate or too difficult. It will silence your doubts in the one case, and save your strength in the other.

Send it Back

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back.

A LITTLE GIRL'S EXPERIENCE IN A LIGHTHOUSE.

Mr. and Mrs. Loron Trescott are keepers of the Gov. lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and half bottles was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at J. J. Orr's drug store.

Lane's Family Medicine moves the bowels each day. Most people need to use it.

Kimball, an instrumental solo by Dwight Hause, a quartette, a recitation by Mrs. Burroughs and a half-hour address by Rev. Reeves contributed in a large measure to the pleasure of the occasion. Supper was served to a part of the guests about half-past seven, and while the tables were being prepared a second time the company listened to the program.

If Clinton cannot have a lecture course she is at least promised something in the way of amateur entertainments, and, by the way, Clinton amateurs do better than half the professionals that come here, both musical and literary. That may sound a trifle conceited but it's the bare-faced truth. The Base Ball club will present the play, "A Soldier of Fortune," sometime in January. They have a splendid cast and promise the people something good. The Catholic society also have a play to be put on the stage on St. Patrick's Day. Their reputation in this line is too well known to need comment.

In a frenzy of insanity Mrs. Henry Baxter, of Rogers City, destroyed the sight of her year-old babe by thrusting a knife into each eye. For several weeks the mother has shown signs of insanity, but she was not regarded as dangerous. Early in the morning she arose, and, securing a penknife, went to her babe's crib. Forcing open the baby's eyelids, she thrust the point of the knife square into the pupils of the eyes. When discovered by her husband she was trying to choke the infant to death.

We appreciate Secretary of State Jachin's love for the old soldiers by the appointments he has made; out of forty-one he has appointed four old soldiers. PENTECOST POINTERS.

A Happy New Year to all.

December took its departure 'mid softly falling snowflakes, and still they come.

This being the very "first beginning" as the paddy said, of a new year, that is to give us also a new administration, here's wishing good luck to the unlucky, and a year of prosperity.

Pentecost members of the F. & A. M. who have hitherto met with Tecumseh, Adrian, and Brooklyn lodges, can now find their fellow craftsmen in Onsted lodge. Success to them in their worthy work.

John Pentecost has put in platform scales, where all can be "weighed in the balance" for a dime, and several prominent dealers and shippers are agitating for stock yards and other facilities for shipping stock from this point.

Pentecost is booming. In addition to the lumber industry, which employs a large number of men constantly, in handling timber and sawing it into lumber and placing it on the cars; there is also a lively shipping business, in hay, staves, etc.

The many friends of Mrs. Wesley Rogers, in Cambridge and Franklin, are rejoiced to hear that there is every prospect of her restoration to health, and hope to welcome her back to our midst once more as mistress of her beautiful home near Sand Lake. NEW ROUTE TO THE NORTHWEST

On and after Monday, November 28th 1892, the Toledo, Ann Arbor and North Michigan Railway's new car ferry, "Ann Arbor No. 1," will make daily trips between Frankfort, Mich., and Kewaunee, Wis.

This boat will carry freight cars across Lake Michigan, making the trip in 6 hours, so that all freight shipped by this route will be carried through without breaking bulk, as has been necessary heretofore with freight handled across the Lake.

As this is the shortest route to the northwest, it should be well patronized by Michigan shippers.

It is strictly an American remedy; home-made and without foreign flavor, we refer to Salvation Oil. The greatest cure on earth for pain.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier is admirably adapted to make "a little health go a long way." Its curative power is largely attributable to its stimulant, tonic and nutritive properties, by which the energy of the system is recruited. It is pleasant to the taste, easily borne on the stomach and harmless under prolonged use. Try it.

Prof. Howe of Ann Arbor University, made us a pleasant call Thursday. He is looking up data pertaining to the Commercial Telegraph Line. Says it is the only enterprise of the kind, of any extent, on the globe. Thinks it should be a public affair, constructed and maintained at public expense, so as to be available to everybody, the same as the U. S. mail.

The club meeting at Rev. Gulick's Wednesday night was a good one. An excellent literary programme, closing with a thirty minute paper on alcohol by Mr. Gulick. The paper was prompted by an interview with one of those "sympathetic temperance" men, who claimed we could not live without alcohol, as it was in nearly every article of food. The paper demonstrated the face that alcohol did not exist in a single living thing, but was the result of rot, decay and fermentation—an agent of death, not life. The next meeting will be held at Isaac Pennington's, Jan. 25. Program later.

If you would prosper the new year through, don't begin by writing it ninety-two.

An exchange says: "Tariff reform is not going to be the picnic which the Democrats expected." This isn't the picnic season. Wait till next summer.

The newspapers are very busy trying to choose a cabinet for Grover Cleveland, but Mr. Cleveland himself keeps perfectly cool and will doubtless make his own selection in due time.

The acquittal of Dr. Briggs will not only be generally approved, but it will give satisfaction to a strong minority in his own church. The days of old fogy theology are evidently passing away.

If the young ladies would make a New Year's resolve, which would increase their popularity beyond all measure, let them resolve to remove their hats at public entertainments.

To all the readers of the HERALD, to their children and children's children, to their grandfather's and grandmother's, their uncles and aunts and cousins, we extend our greetings for a happy New Year.

It has been forty years since the Democrats elected a Governor in the State of Illinois. That is just the number of years the children of Israel wandered in the wilderness before they reached the promised land.

On the official count Harrison gets one electoral vote in California to eight for Cleveland. This shows California was doing the best it could at the time, but it will now proceed to do better by electing a Democratic Senator.

If the Democracy shall be true to their creed and their pledges and revise the tariff on revenue lines, the advent of Cleveland's second administration will mark the beginning of the decadence of England's commercial supremacy.

Cleveland left a surplus of one hundred millions to his successor four years ago. Harrison will leave a deficit of eighty millions next March to his successor. That illustrates the difference between Democratic and Republican rule.

It took a good many years to educate people up to the moral badness of lotteries, which were perfectly legal institutions, but the time came at last, and in the case of legal extortions under the tariff the process of education is fortunately going on with a very considerable degree of rapidity.

The Jackson Courier says McKinley's fall is greater than Harrison's, or that of any other one man. Even his own Republican state, which the Democrats abandoned early in the campaign as hopelessly Republican, has recorded itself against his law, and his own congressional district has also repudiated him. It's an awful fall for the little man who thinks he looks like Napoleon.

Payments for pensions which were expected to reach $140,000,000 this year will actually reach about $175,000,000, and that in 1893 they are likely to climb to the stupendous total of $200,000,000 per annum. Had this been known before election day, and had it been known in addition to this that the Government is confronted with a deficit of $75,000,000 to $85,900,000. Harrison could not have obtained 100 votes in the Electoral College.

The Louisville Courier-Journal, which always has an opinion of its own on all subjects, says: "If Mr. Cleveland takes Mr. Carlisle, as Polk took Mr. Walker, for a colleague, and on his peculiar ground, for a guide, philosopher, and friend, he will have a great Secretary of the Treasury, a great Administrative policy, a great result both as to the tariff and the finances, and he and his administration will go down to history gloriously.

Mr. Cleveland signed more private pension bills during his four years term in the presidency than Grant had signed during eight years, or than any other of his predecessors. He also vetoed more private pension bills than any other president, and thus put a check upon a species of special reprehensible dishonesty. None of the bills he vetoed passed again. His record, both as to what he did and what he refused to do, deserves the commendation of every honest veteran of the war.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

A happy New Year to every subscriber to the HERALD. May they live long and prosper.

A happy New Year to those who are not subscribers. May they see the error of their way and reform at an early day.

A happy New Year to Grover Cleveland. May his second administration prove as successful as his first.

A happy New year to Benjamin Harrison. He will be relieved from official cares and responsibilities on the fourth of next March.

A happy New Year to all good Democrats. They deserve to be happy for they are now in sight of the promised land.

A happy New Year to all Republicans. Having been thoroughly cleaned out on the force bill and tariff issues, they can now bounce the old leaders and turn their attention to honest politics.

A happy New Year to Hon. James S. Gorman. He may take unto himself this benediction from his constituents: "Well done, good and faithful servant."

A happy New Year to Hon. James O'Donnell. Journalism is a jealous mistress and he can now devote his whole time and attention to his chosen profession.

A happy New Year to all the printers. May they always have phat takes, full forms, straight rules, clean cases and plethoric pockets.

A happy New Year to all our advertisers. May they prosper in business as they deserve and enjoy the full fruits of their liberality. They know the value of printer's ink.

A happy New Year to those who do not advertise. They will soon relieve themselves of all business cares and leave the field clear to their more enterprising competitors.

A happy New Year to all our manufacturing industries, both old and young. May their shadows never grow less and may their number be increased during the coming year.

A happy New Year to the farmers. They constitute the backbone of the Republic. May their lines fall in pleasanter places under a tariff reform administration.

A happy New Year to our merchants. May their trade increase, their bank account strengthen, and their advertising lengthen.

A happy New Year to the Common Council. May the water system, so auspiciously begun, be fully completed as speedily as possible. A pavement on Chicago street will be the next improvement.

A happy New Year to the three big doughboys, Waterman, Wiggins and Wood. It was a tight squeeze, but they got there just the same.

A happy New Year to Sheriff-elect Wilson. We believe he will make a worthy successor of the faithful officers who have preceded him.

A happy New Year to Representative Holdridge. Although belonging to the glorious minority he can make a good record in the legislature and we believe he will.

A happy New Year to the press of Lenawee County. As the advance guard in the march of progress may their business prosperity be commensurate with their deserts.

A happy New Year to the Populists. They polled a splendid vote, and if they did not get there themselves they can put the old parties on their good behavior.

A happy New Year to the Prohibitionists. They are always blessed with a clear conscience, whether they win or lose.

A happy New Year to our fathers and mothers. What would this nation be without them?

A happy New Year to the boys and girls. What would this nation become a generation hence without them?

A happy New Year to the old maids. Another leap year will come in 1896, if they live that long.

A happy New Year to the old bachelors. If their single blessedness be due to their own cowardice, shame on them. If it be due to feminine duplicity, they should take courage and try again.

A happy New Year to all the churches. May they keep abreast of the times and respect the spirit of modern progress. The heteroloxy of to-day may be the ortholoxy of 1900.

A happy New Year to our pastors. No class in the community do as much and faithful work for as small compensation. Their influence is potent for good. Verily, they are the salt of the earth.

A happy New Year to Major McKinley. He was the unwitting instrument of the greatest political revolution of modern times. The people owe him a debt of gratitude which can never be fully paid.

A happy New Year to the Michigan legislature. If they will give us a short business session, eschew politics, and lop off all useless expenditures, they may make a record which the people will endorse.

A happy New Year to our school teachers. They are engaged in a noble calling, second only in influence to that of the ministry. May their labor of love be crowned with success and receive its merited reward.

A happy New Year to Old Probs. May he keep cool and sober this year, give us good weather and plenty of it.

A happy New Year to all, both great and small, short and tall. Be virtuous and you will be happy.

Tariff Revolt in the West.

The vote cast at the late Presidential election in the Western States is a most instructive study to all who are interested in the drift of public sentiment on the economic issues of the day. Taking the Western States, beginning with Ohio, there are nineteen Commonwealths, and every one of them was strongly Republican on old party issues. They were not made so on the tariff issue, but when protection became an integral part of the Republican system of government, the Western Republicans accepted it simply because it was Republican and not because they were protectionists. They revolted over and over again in the election of members of Congress. The following vote of the nineteen States west of Pennsylvania, all of which are naturally, and most of them strongly, Republican on all old party issues, is an interesting study:

	Harrison.	Cleveland.	Weaver.
California	117,756	117,908	25,226
Colorado	38,614	. . .	52,982
Idaho	8,799	. . .	10,260
Illinois	397,325	424,149	20,685
Indiana	253,929	262,817	22,198
Iowa	219,383	196,408	20,616
Kansas	157,237	. . .	165,111
Michigan	222,708	202,296	19,792
Minnesota	122,736	100,575	30,398
Montana	18,883	17,534	7,250
Nebraska	80,895	24,740	82,587
Nevada	2,822	711	7,267
North Dakota	17,354	17,527	17,360
Ohio	405,187	404,115	14,852
Oregon	35,092	14,243	26,875
South Dakota	34,825	8,997	26,282
Washington	31,461	20,922	19,264
Wisconsin	176,578	177,448	9,879
Wyoming	8,570	. . .	7,586

Of these nineteen States Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington and Wyoming voted for Harrison, but in only three of them did he receive a majority against the combined vote for Cleveland and Weaver. In Iowa the combined Democratic and Populist vote is only a few thousand short of Harrison's vote. In Michigan and Wyoming it is less than a thousand short, and in Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota and Washington the united Democratic and Populist vote exceeded the Republican vote, and in most cases by large majorities.

The significant lesson of the vote in these nineteen Western States, which four years ago were solidly Republican without exception is that the entire West has revolted against high tariff taxes, and against what was taught in the late contest as the protection policy. It should be remembered that the Weaver vote is even more radical in its demand for tariff reform than the Democrats, and in most instances they are out and out free-traders. In estimating the strength of the protection and anti-protection voters of the West, it is entirely safe to count all those cast for both Cleveland and Weaver as against the protective policy as taught by the McKinley tariff; and having revolted against the policy of protection, the only question of the future is whether they will take pause at judicious tariff reform, or whether they will perpetuate the conflict in favor of the extermination of every feature of protection in our tariff laws.

Had the Republican administration maintained a judicious protective policy it could have held the entire Western States with the Republican party, but in the face of its solemn pledges to make tariff revision on the line of reduced taxation, the McKinley bill was given to the country with increased taxes on nearly all the necessaries of life. It started the revolution of 1890 by a million popular majority against the new tariff policy, and then in 1892 it gave Cleveland a majority of half million over Harrison, besides casting over a million in favor of a third and more radical tariff reform candidate for President. Kansas gave the largest Republican majority of any State in the Union in 1888. It was not only the largest majority; it was the largest proportion of the whole vote cast, but in 1892 it gave a clear majority of 6,000 against the same Republican candidate.

The impressive lesson of this revolution in the West is that the Western States are no longer protection States, and they have been driven from a protective policy by the steady increase of taxes upon the masses for the benefit of favored classes. What the future political attitude of those States may be is as yet uncertain, but the one thing surely ascertained is that they will never again support a high protective tariff policy.—Philadelphia Times.

The Michigan Plan.

The Republicans having regained control of the Legislature of Michigan, it is already suggested that they will repeal the act under which the Presidential Electors of that State are chosen by a popular vote in the several Congressional districts. This will be unfortunate. For while the Michigan plan, so called, made no difference in the recent election, and would have made no difference in the result if it had been in use in all the States, it is not often that we can count upon a tidal wave to give effect to the popular verdict, and under ordinary conditions the Michigan plan is much more equitable than the other.

It is curious to calculate how closely a vote on this plan would correspond with the present result. Counting California as Republican and allowing one Democratic Elector in Ohio, Cleveland will have 270 Electoral votes; Harrison, 151, and Weaver, 23. Assuming that the districts would have voted for Electors as they voted for Congressmen, there would be 226 Democratic district Electors with two Senatorial Electors from each of 22 States, making exactly 270; 116 Republicans, the same as the number of Representatives, with the addition of two from each of 17 States, making 150, and 14 Populists with 10 Senatorial Electors for each of 5 states, making 24. With the exception of one additional vote for Weaver, and even this may be charged in the final count, this result is exactly the same as the actual result.

The important consideration is that while the Michigan plan would have given a fair expression of the popular will over the whole country, even on a comparatively close vote, it has required, under the existing system, an overwhelming Democratic majority to secure this proportionate representation in the electoral vote. The Michigan plan is much more statesmanlike and it ought not only to be retained in Michigan but adopted in other States. But it will not be.—N. Y. Sun.

The Atlantic for January.

The early history of Illinois, when under French rule, forms the background against which Mrs. Catherwood sets the characters of her new serial story, "Old Kaskaskia," and it so quickly develops in romantic interest that the first part leaves the reader eager for the explanations which the next chapters must bring. Striking a more modern note than the Lady of Fort St. John, we are inclined to believe this is the best piece of work to which Mrs. Catherwood has yet put her hand. Scarcely less interesting or romantic than fiction is Mr. Francis Parkman's able paper on The Feudal Chiefs of Acadia, the first of a series which the historian is to contribute to the magazine during 1893. Written with all Mr. Parkman's lucidity and simplicity, it puts in a compact form the facts in regard to these feudal chiefs,—who they were; what they did, and what were their conflicting claims over the Acadian territory.

Among the more solid papers of the number are a consideration of George William Curtis in his relation to Civil Service Reform, an article which no reader interested in either the man or the measure can afford to neglect; John Fiske's interesting study of Edward Augustus Freeman and his place among historical writers; and an important paper by Sir Edward Strachey on Shakespeare in Love's Labour's Lost. Briefer fiction includes an amusing Diary of a Nervous Invalid and a pretty little story called "A Heart-Leaf from Stony Creek Bottom," which complete an admirable number, more than fulfilling the promises of the Atlantic for 1893.

Landgraf, wherein the power of sale in said mortgage contained has become operative. SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT

SINGLE TAX IN THE FEDERAL DISTRICT.

Report of the Committee to Investigate the District of Columbia Assessment.

Through the courtesy of Tom L. Johnson we publish a summary of the report on the assessment of taxes in the District of Columbia. This report comes from a select committee appointed to investigate the subject. Mr. Johnson is chairman of the committee, but the report is signed by every member of the committee. Mr. Johnson's associates are Mr. Washington, democrat, of Tennessee, and Mr. Wadsworth, republican, of New York. The report was presented May 24. It is based upon a resolution adopted by the house April 13. This resolution cites that the new assessment of the District exceeds the old by nearly 25 per cent.; and then goes on as follows:

Whereas, said old assessment on the land alone in the District is $76,000,000, when it should be more than $300,000,000; this shows an extraordinary undervaluation, and, what is still worse, the greatest injustice between the valuation of the land used for business purposes, which in many cases is assessed at less than 14 per cent. of its true value, and land used for residence purposes, especially where the small homes are situated, which is assessed at from 70 to 80 per cent. of its value, while in many cases land held for speculation is assessed at less than 10 per cent. of its true value. The foregoing facts were brought out by an expert valuation on enough land in the District to furnish an average. A public hearing was held by the commissioners, in which this subject was thoroughly discussed, and after a careful examination they say "the figures embraced in these showings seem to have been carefully and conservatively prepared;" and

Whereas, the new assessment should not only show the true value of property in lawfull money, as required by law, but should also preserve an equality in assessment of the land in different localities, and not bear more heavily in some sections than in others; therefore

Be it Resolved, That a select committee consisting of three members, be appointed by the speaker, which shall have power and authority to investigate and report upon the method of ascertaining land values by the board of assistant assessors in the District of Columbia; to inquire whether there is in the assessment now being prepared discrimination in favor of any section over others, and generally to inquire into all alleged inequalities pertaining to the assessment of land values.

Such committee shall have power to send for persons and papers, to examine witnesses under oath, may employ a stenographer and one clerk, and shall report the result of its investigation to the house, with such recommendation as it may deem proper to make. The expense of such investigation shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the house.

The report then says:

The testimony shows that the facts recited in the resolution are substantially true; that as a result of this investigation the assessment on land has been raised $125,000,000, and yet $225,000,000, more than half the value of land in the district, escapes taxation; that there is much inequality and discrimination; that land values are increasing at an enormous rate—on a conservative estimate to the amount of $40,000,000 annually, enough to pay off the entire bonded debt of the district in six months; that the assessment of buildings and the under-assessment of land is operating to discourage greatly the growth and improvement of the capital; that the assessment has been made in violation of the law, without proper publicity or inquiry, and in a careless and reckless manner; and that on a fair assessment of land alone it would be easy to obtain by a tax rate less than one-half of the present all the revenue required for the needs of the district. This would make the tax rate of the city of Washington 60 cents on the $100, a lower rate than that of any large city in the country.

The committee find that the assessors have, in accordance with ancient precedent, directly disregarded the law which requires property to be assessed at its true value, and says that the assessors interpret the words "true value" to mean the price property would fetch at forced sale under adverse circumstances.

Continuing, the report says:

When a man puts up a house in the District of Columbia he does something that adds to the wealth and stock of conveniences of the whole city, and he instinctively feels that it is wrong that his taxes should be increased for having done so. The poor man with a small and poor house has to submit. A few dollars' difference in the assessment will not pay him for the time and trouble of protesting. But the rich man, with the costly house, not merely has more time and larger interests, but finds the difference in the assessment a more important matter. Thus, in both these ways, there are powerful tendencies constantly at work to produce unjust inequality in the taxation of buildings and improvements. These tendencies must act directly and powerfully upon the taxation of land, with which the taxation of buildings and improvements is conjoined.

The committee finds a strong sentiment in the district in favor of assessing taxes upon the land values only. The committee says that this seems the correct principle. The man who holds land that would yield him an income were he to improve it, ought to pay as much toward the expenses of the district as he who by improvement actually does receive an income from his land, and the committee sees how much the suggested method of levying assessments would stimulate improvements and promote the growth and prosperity of the district while lessening the tendency toward inequality. The committee thinks that the district being the seat of the national government, and for that reason attracting many persons, the taxation should not be laid with the sole reference to the interest of local property owners. The report notes that every citizen called to the national capital finds it his primary care to provide himself with living accommodations, and apropos of this the report says:

As any assessment that falls on the erection and maintenance of buildings necessarily checks building and increases the cost while diminishing the comfort of living accommodations, it thus tends to lessen the comfort and increase the expenses of all citizens who are called on to reside in or visit Washington. On the other hand an assessment on the annual rental value of lands, such as these property owners recommend, has no tendency either to diminish house accommodation or to increase its cost. It simply takes from what the owner of land would otherwise put in his pocket, and, by making it as costly to him to keep land idle as to fully improve it, would tend to stimulate building and increase accommodation. It would thus promote the comfort and economy of citizens residing in or visiting the national capital, and instead of discouraging enterprise and improvement would tend to discourage the business of monopolizing land that is needed for the purposes for which the federal district was formed.

Furthermore, the report points out that the beautification of the district at national expense benefits local landowners, and it is therefore expedient that the assessment for local revenues should fall upon the beneficiaries. Then says the report?

Out of the twenty-four millions a year which the landowners of the district are already enabled to appropriate to themselves, and the forty millions a year which is being added to the salable value of their property by the growth of the district, it is surely but little to ask that they should contribute less than $500,000 more than they now contribute to municipal expenses. A tax rate of 51 cents on the $100 is now needed to raise the required revenue from land and improvements, but a tax of only 59 cents on the $100 would raise it from land alone, leaving all improvements exempt from taxation.

The report declares that to collect only 12½ per cent. of the annual rental value of land would suffice to raise the district's proportion of the increased sum of $6,000,000 asked of congress by the district commissioners, and 25 per cent. would suffice to raise the whole, so that not a penny need be asked of the national government. This could be done without increasing the cost of living in the district, and indeed, with the result of checking land speculation, and bringing land held for speculative purposes into use, an effect in turn, which would increase legitimate land values and thus enlarge the fund to be drawn upon for the district's needs.

The Cottage and the Mansion.

"Suppose I have a $1,000 house alongside Mayor Pingree's $30,000 mansion," says Inquirer, "would it be right to tax me as much as him?"

The answer is, yes, if the lots occupied by the $1,000 and the $30,000 houses are equally valuable. And for these reasons:

1. The value of the lots was made by the community; therefore, to tax them to their full value will deprive neither Inquirer nor Mayor Pingree of any wealth their exertions have produced.

2. The improvements on the lots are due solely to the exercise of human exertion of some kind. In one case it may be limb labor; in another case it may be mind labor; in a third case it may be a combination of limb and mind labor. In all cases, whatever is produced is due to work—industry—and whatever is saved is due to prudence and economy. The evil of the present system of taxation is that it taxes industry, and, therefore, discourages it. Now, to take the tax off industry will enable Inquirer to build a better house on the valuable lot he occupies. It will do this in several ways; by relieving him of other taxes, and, therefore, while increasing his taxes on his lot, abolishing it on his house, on his plant, if he is a small manufacturer; on his purchases, and, therefore, reducing their price, and at the same time increasing the value of his labor through the larger market and steadier work that would follow the freeing of industry from all burdens.

If the proprietor of the house assessed at $1,000 alongside of the house assessed at $30,000 would look at it in another way he would cease to repine. Suppose that the adjoining lot to himself, which is of the same value as his own, has on it a still poorer house than his. The house owned by the poorest man of the two is a small dilapidated shanty, which is assessed at $100. The poorest man also don't see the justice of having his home taxed the same as the $1,000 and $30,000 house. Suppose, too, that the lot adjoining the poorest man's lot is vacant. The owner, of course, will object to being taxed the same as the man who owns homes assessed at $100, $1,000 and $30,000 respectively, while his ground is innocent of human habitation. It is this short-sighted idea of paying taxes on all property, whether made by nature or by human labor, that has oppressed mankind through all ages, and has caused a large portion of the misery of the world. It is a policy which, more than any other, builds palaces for the few and condemns the many to life-long poverty.—Detroit News.

It was the single taxers who put the mortgage statistics into the census. It was the single taxers who printed a million copies of "Protection or Free Trade?" in the Congressional Record, and now these irrepressible agitators have asked the World's fair commissioners to label each foreign exhibit with a card giving the following information: Cost of goods at place of production; amount of duty, including customs brokerage; cost of transportation to Chicago; selling price in Chicago. The request is a reasonable one, and compliance with it will prove highly instructive.—St. Louis Republic.

REVIEW OF TRADE.

Business Has Been Prosperous During the Past Year.

Manufactures Show a Steady Increase—General Business in Good Condition—Smallest Number of Failures for Six Years.

A GOOD RECORD.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

The most prosperous year ever known in business closes to-day with strongly favorable indications for the future. From nearly all points comes the report that the holiday trade has been the largest ever known, and while wholesale trade is not usually active at this season of stock taking it is remarkably large. Settlements through clearing houses outside New York in December were apparently the largest ever made in any month, exceeding last year's by more than 10 per cent. For the year the volume is also about 10 per cent. larger than last year, and the largest ever known. Railroad earnings in December show an increase of about 3 per cent. over last year, and for the year an increase of about 5.5 per cent. Foreign trade has been smaller than last year in volume of exports—at New York $7,800,000 in value for the last four weeks, and at cotton ports about $10,000,000 less—but imports at New York have been $3,000,000 larger, and the month still shows a great excess of exports. For the year the excess of merchandise exports has been not far from $70,000,000, with the largest imports and the largest total of exports and imports ever known in any year.

The year closes with all woolen, cotton and silk machinery fully employed, and unsold stocks of goods much lighter than usual, while the demand for the coming season already exceeds the capacity of many mills. The orders in dry goods are extraordinary. Sales of wool at the chief markets have been 309,000,000 pounds, against 246,000,000 last year, and foreign imports have been the largest ever known, with a domestic supply but slightly behind the largest.

Boston reports a quiet wholesale trade. Wool is quiet but firm. At Philadelphia iron is weak. At Pittsburgh iron is slower, and the demand for finished products is diminishing, but glass is fairly active. The shoe trade of Cleveland is excellent and other trade good, though in iron no improvement is seen, and 4,000,000 tons iron ore remain on the docks. The clothing trade is good at Cincinnati, and machinery and foundry business up to the usual mark. At Detroit trade is maintained. Business at Chicago is good in all lines, especially in heavy dry goods. Holiday trade was very good at Milwaukee. At St. Louis retail trade unusually strong. Business at St. Paul exceeds last year's and is large at Minneapolis, though lack of water restricts the flour output. The lumber trade is most prosperous. Business at Omaha and at Kansas City is satisfactory. At Nashville trade is good and at New Orleans active, especially in sugar.

In iron the trade is weaker, the demand for finished products being at present light. But steel rails have been reduced to $29 per ton, and sales of 78,000 tons have followed. This great industry has been much affected by the market for securities, which has been depressed for some months by foreign selling and monetary uncertainties, so that companies have been restricted in purchases of rails and supplies. But for the last week stocks have been stronger, gaining about $2 per share in average prices. Speculation in products has been comparatively inactive, though wheat has been advanced by a western pool nearly two cents.

Cotton has been steady and strong, with diminished receipts.

The year 1892 was remarkable for fewer failures than have occurred in any other year since 1886, the numbers reported being 10,344, or 2,029 less than in 1891. The indebtedness of firms failing was but $114,000,000 in 1892, against $168,000,000 in 1891 and about the same in 1890.

The average liabilities of firms failing in 1892 has been only $11,000, the lowest average reported since 1878.

In 1892 only one in every 113 traders failed, against one in every ninety-three in 1891, and one in every 102 in 1890.

THE HERALD FOR 1893

For eighteen years last past, through good report and evil report, in prosperity and adversity alike, the HERALD has kept in "the middle of the road" in both a political and business sense. The record of the paper, under its present management, is well known, and nothing need be said on that point. Performance is better than promise. We have no special promises to make for the future, as the paper will speak for itself, as it has done in the past.

First and foremost, it will aim to be the best local newspaper in Lenawee County, and to hold its place as a household necessity in every family of Northern Lenawee. Though not a political organ in a partisan sense, the HERALD will always be found on the people's side in the great battle for equal rights and reduced taxation, and will continue to be an uncompromising advocate of tariff reform until that question shall be settled and settled right. All efforts to shake its business position and influence have proved unavailing, and it views the approach of 1893 with a serene confidence that the World's Fair year will be the most prosperous in its history.

Our Subscription rates next year will be only $1.10 within the County of Lenawee, if paid spot cash in advance. Beyond the County, $1.25 in advance. When payment is delayed an addiiional rate will be charged. We consider this a fair solution of the subscription problem. When subscribers desire accommodation they can afford to pay a reasonable bonus for that privilege. Here are our premium offers and club list for the coming year.

FIFTY YEARS OF WEDDED LIFE.

It is given to but few mortals in this vale of tears to enjoy a healthful and happy matrimonial voyage together for the full period of half a century. When an event of this kind does occur it is eminently proper that it should be fittingly observed. Last Saturday completed the fiftieth year of the wedded life of Mr. and Mrs. Hudson W. Conkling. They were married in the township of Raisin Dec. 31st, 1842. With the exception of a brief residence in that town they have passed their entire married life in Tecumseh. In this village they have traversed together the hills and vales of matrimony, shared its joys and sorrows, built up a nice home, acquired a comfortable competence and formed many friendships which will last as long as life.

Saturday afternoon and evening their friends were invited to join them in celebrating their golden wedding. Nearly one hundred guests were present altogether, about equally divided between afternoon and evening. This arrangement proved a very happy one, as the crowd was much better entertained and more hospitably provided for. All the little details necessary to accommodate a large company had been faithfully attended to and the result was a social occasion which will long be held in grateful remembrance by all who participated. The parlors were neatly trimmed with flowers and vines and the refreshment table was handsomely decorated. A golden bell was suspended from the arch between the two parlors. The method adopted for serving the menu was the one now most in vogue here for a large company; the guests were seated in the dining rooms, each one being provided with a lap table, and the refreshments were then passed. Among the table decorations were two glass candlesticks, which were used at the wedding fifty years ago. Upon the arrival of the guests they repaired at once to the east parlor, where they were introduced to the host and hostess and then mingled with the company. Mrs. Twiss and Mrs. L. C. Blood assisted in receiving.

Most of the company consisted of old neighbors and acquaintances living in Tecumseh and Raisin. The following were present from abroad: Mrs. Judge Twiss, of Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. W. T. Hebbard and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Blood of Lansing. Many congratulations were received from distant friends, both east and west, and many regrets from those who were unable to be present. A table in the hall upstairs was laden with gifts and mementos, many of them of rare beauty and cost, which were the center of attraction during the entire day. Mr. and Mrs. Conkling's modesty alone prevents our giving a full list of these gifts. Most of them were silver or gold table ware, and all displayed, more emphatically than words can express, the esteem of the donors. Mrs. Twiss rendered an appropriate selection of music, which was heartily enjoyed by all. The company was a most happy and congenial one, and from early afternoon until almost the hour when 1892 passed the boundary line of life, all went merry as a marriage bell within that hospitable home.

The guests departed, wishing their host and hostess many returns of their wedding anniversary and many more years of connubial health and happiness. Among the letters of regret was this neat little missive in rhyme, from their life-long friend, Hiram Raymond.

Dear Friends:—It gives us much regret,
When friends and neighbors there are met,
That we must absent be;
Oh! how we wish we could be there,
Your pleasures and your cheer to share
In jokes and repartee.

In fancy turn the tide of time
Backward to 1839,
When we, as boys, would hatch
The scheme to go by light of moon,
With dog and gun to hunt the coon,
Or—hunt the melon patch.

Our portion, true, was sometimes small,
But better so than none at all,
When nature's wants were few.
For when we dined on little store,
That left a void which called for more,
We'd make a turnip do.

Of gold we had but little store
And prospects poor for getting more;
So, to supply our sweet,
In spring we'd tap our maple trees,
And evenings have our sugar bees
And give our friends a treat.

And when we had enough to eat
Of mush and milk, but asked for meat,
The woods would make reply:
"I give the needy freedom here
To hunt the turkey and the deer,—
Your guns must win supply."

Ah, there's the rub! the game's on hand,
The drivers drive them to the stand,—
The little and the big.
And when we ask the reason why
They missed, they make the state reply,
"That blasted little twig!"

But now no more the woods we range,
For fifty years have made a change
That we can feel and see.
No more we live on scant supply.—
What we don't raise we've means to buy,
And give, too, bounteously.

May Heaven, from her ample store,
Give years to us another score;
But He, who knows the best,
Will set the time, or soon or late,
To open wide the "Pearly Gate"
And take us home to rest.

With best wishes of Raymonds at Raymond Farm.

Dixon, Ill., Dec. 27th, 1892.

THE EIGHTH ANNUAL PARTY.

"On with the dance, let joy be unconfined,—
No rest till morn when youth and pleasure meet
To chase the glowing hours with flying feet."

Tecumseh gathered all "her beauty and her chivalry" at the Opera House on Thursday evening, Dec. 29th, for the eighth annual Christmas Party, and, although not the largest, yet it was the finest party ever given by the young men.

THE DECORATIONS.

The hall presented a beautiful picture. The first thing that caught the eye upon entering was three evergreen and holly arches extending across the stage, partially screening the dining room, which was on the platform. The interior of the dining room was a bower of beauty, the walls being hung with pictures and the entrances and exits hidden by heavy tapestries. The ceiling of this room was a canopy of alternate strips of green, pink and white bunting. The floor was covered with rugs. A dainty lunch was served from ten to 12 o'clock. The dancing hall was decorated with pink, green, white and yellow bunting, hung from the center of the ceiling, causing the effect of a huge lily. The sides of the gallery were hung with yellow bunting, caught up with sprays of holly, while the front of the stage and the ladies' toilet room were covered with an artistic basket-work of pink and green, intertwined with sprays of holly.

The gentlemen having the decorations in charge were Herbert Baker, Chas. Ham, Levi Hayden and P. V. Woodard.

THE CONCERT AND MARCH.

Wolff's orchestra was at its best and the concert opened promptly at eight o'clock. They rehearsed the five selections as published last week, to the edification of a large crowd of spectators in the galleries. The pieces were all good, the medley being especially fine, which brought forth merited applause. Promptly at nine o'clock, the dancers filed upon the floor and went through the evolutions of the grand march. This was led by Capt. Will H. Hayden and Miss Hattie Conklin, assisted by Mr L. C. Hayden and Miss Camilla Mead. Several new combinations were introduced, which formed a beautiful spectacle as witnessed from the gallery. The fine decorations, brilliant illumination, elegant toilets of the ladies and superb music combined to produce a scene of rare brilliancy and one never before surpassed in the opera house. The grand march melted into the opening waltz and from that time until nearly four o'clock a. m. Terpsichore reigned supreme. The party as a whole was an unqualified success and reflected much credit upon the committee of young gentlemen in charge. Although not as large as some previous Christmas parties it proved to be a most enjoyable one for those who participated.

REV. SYLVANUS LANE

Of the Cincinnati M. E. Conference, makes a good point when he says: We have for years used Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family of five, and find it fully equal to all that is claimed for it. Some people are greatly prejudiced against patent medicines, but how the patent can hurt a medicine and not a machine is a mystery of mysteries to me.

Don't suffer with indigestion; use Baxter's Mandrake Bitters.

"The great problem that I have to deal with," said the keeper of the imbecile asylum, "is to find some occupation for the people under my charge." "Why not set them to inventing college yells?" asked the visitor.

A VISIT AT HOLLOWAY.

Business called us to Holloway one day last week and we spent a portion of the forenoon interviewing the inhabitants. Holloway is now putting on business airs and is rapidly forging to the front.

Mr. H. H. Osgood still runs the general store, in which the postoffice is located. Mr. Osgood does not object to act as postmaster after next March, but he takes the world as it comes and will be prepared to vacate if the authorities say so. His business is prospering and he intends to hold forth at the old stand.

Winship's new sawmill is doing a lively business this winter and keeps a number of men in employment.

Floyd Florence still runs the grocery and drug store and his building is about as full as it could be with judicious packing. If he should happen to get the postoffice he would be compelled to build on a "condition" somewhere or move the stove outdoors.

Alva Parker has lately opened a stock of hardware, boots and shoes, drugs and groceries in the old store on the north side and proposes to get his share of the trade. He is getting a good start and is well pleased with his prospects thus far.

The new creamery, however, is the absorbing object of public interest just at present and the good people of Holloway are much elated over the successful manner in which business has opened there. The establishment is owned by ten stockholders. James Lane is President, A. G. Hall Secretary and Geo. Holloway Manager. They use the Elgin process of making butter and cheese, their machinery and accessories being procured from the Davis & Rankin Co. of Chicago. The building itself is a substantial structure about thirty by fifty feet in size. The power is furnished by a 10-horse power boiler and 8-horse power engine. There are three large vats, one for new milk and the other two for cream and skim milk. The new milk is pumped from the large vat into the "separator." This mahine is a late patent, which separates the milk perfectly, turning the cream into one spout and the skimmed milk into another. The other machines are a churn, a butter worker and a curd worker. These appliances are all run by steam power and the exhaust steam is utilized to warm the building. Their first churning was done Dec. 17th and they are now churning each alternate day. Their first cheese was made last Saturday. As soon as the cows can be put upon spring pasture they expect to churn every day. Geo. Holloway is the active manager and a better man couldn't have been found for that place. This enterprise will be a great business help to Holloway and the people there are justly proud of its inception and progress.

is an arbitrary word used to designate the only bow (ring) which cannot be pulled off the watch.

Here's the idea
The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendant (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.
It positively prevents the loss of the watch by theft, and avoids injury to it from dropping.
IT CAN ONLY BE HAD with Jas. Boss Filled or other watch cases bearing this trade mark—
All watch dealers sell them without extra cost. Ask your jeweler for pamphlet, or send to the manufacturers.

GAINED MILLIONS.

Uncle Sam's Profits by the Loss of Paper Money.

It Is Estimated That Money Lost in Railway Wrecks, Fires, Etc., Has Wiped Out About $14,000,000 of Government Obligations.

THE TREASURY BENEFITED.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—In all that has been recently written about the depleted condition of the United States treasury little or no account has been taken of the fact that with each passing year the treasury is a large gainer by the complete destruction by casualty of its outstanding obligations. How much this amounts to, what percentage each year, etc., the best statisticians of the treasury department have no means of definitely learning. No two of their figures are alike. Since 1862, when the government began to issue paper money, $5,819,039,108 have been issued of all kinds and denominations up to July 1, 1892. Within the same period $4,852,451,629 have been redeemed, leaving outstanding July 1, 1892, as a liability against the government $967,177,479.

In an exhaustive inquiry on this subject made by United States Treasurer Hyatt it was estimated that the aggregate loss on all the issues up to January, 1888, would not be less than $8,700,000. This estimate did not include the fractional currency—50-cent, 25-cent, 10-cent and 5-cent shinplasters—in such extensive circulation for the few years following the war. Secretary Sherman construed the act of June 21, 1879, as stating that $8,375,934 of fractional currency issued under various acts had been destroyed and the debt statement as issued monthly carries as a debt bearing no interest but $6,903,462.62 of this fractional currency. United States Treasurer Nebeker, however, carries the full amount on his books and in his report this year states that more than $15,000,000 of this fractional currency is outstanding, though it has practically gone out of circulation, and but little more than $4,000 was presented for redemption last year. That which is outstanding is held to a great extent by collectors of coin and paper cabinets and its value as such is greater than its face value as money.

The aggregate of United States currency, fractional and otherwise, estimated to have been destroyed and not likely to be presented for redemption approximated by these figures more than $14,000,000. A recent estimate prepared in the treasury department places the sum as high as $20,000,000. This money can only be taken out of the liabilities of the government by congressional enactment. This will probably be attempted in the near future. The investigators into this subject have shown that most of the money lost has been destroyed in railroad wrecks that caught fire, though no inconsiderable quantity has been destroyed by fires that occurred in country banks, postoffices and residences.

HANGED BY A MOB.

The Murderers of Tax Collector Armstrong Lynched at Greenville, Ala.

GREENVILLE, Ala., Dec. 31.—About midnight Thursday two strangers went to the residence of Jailer Hill Bargainer and told him they had a prisoner to put in jail. Bargainer went with them to the jail, and upon reaching that place was met by a hundred armed and masked men, who, with pistols pointed at his head, demanded the keys. He gave them up and the cells of John Hipp and Charles Kelley, murderers of Tax Collector C. J. Armstrong, of Butler county, were thrown open. Both men were then taken out in their night clothing and hanged to the courthouse steps, not even being given time in which to pray. The mob then quietly dispersed. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that the men were hanged by unknown persons.

PUT IN HER PLACE.

How a Wife Taught Her Husband a Needed Lesson.

Mrs. Delameter sat in her bay window sewing. She was thinking as well as sewing—thinking of something that had happened in the morning.

If any living soul had dared insinuate to Mrs. Delameter that her husband was capable of a meanness she would have arisen in her wrath and hurled indignation at the offending insinuator. And yet there had been times in the course of their year of married life when she had almost admitted as much to herself in her inmost heart, though she had always hastened to assure herself that he "didn't intend it," and was "only thoughtless."

The trouble lay in a nutshell; there was only one pocketbook in the Delameter family, and its abiding place was Mr. Delameter's pocket. To a woman who had supported herself, single-handed and alone, for several years previous to marriage, it seemed unbearably humiliating to be obliged to sue for every dollar she spent.

That morning she felt the last straw had been added to her load of humiliation. She had conceived the brilliant plan of asking for more money than her immediate necessities demanded, with the idea of sparing herself a few necessary humiliations in the near future. She had screwed up her courage as she ate her breakfast to ask timidly, as Mr. Delameter rose from the table: "Tom, can you spare me ten dollars?"

"What's the trouble now?" asked Mr. Delameter, good-naturedly.

"I—need a pair of boots."

"Whew! Ten dollars for a pair of boots?" and he arched his eyebrows, still good-naturedly.

"No," stammered his wife, feeling and looking as guilty as though she had robbed a neighbor's clothes line over night, "the boots will be only three dollars, but—I thought it would be handy to have a little money by me, and—not to have to trouble you so often."

And Mr. Delameter—her face grew hot and she breathed fast every time she thought of it—Mr. Delameter took out a two-dollar bill, and a one-dollar bill, and a silver half-dollar, and laid them on the table, saying in an offhand way: "I guess that'll do you this time," and then put up his pocketbook and went away, whistling.

Mrs. Delameter was a good little woman, and she endeavored loyally to find excuses for such atrocious conduct. She was a forgiving little woman, too, and so when the clock on the mantel struck the half hour after five, she folded up her work, and set the tea table.

And Mr. Delameter came home and gave his wife an affectionate greeting, and looked at her admiringly across the table, and praised her cream cakes. And after supper he drew her down on his knee and said how jolly it was to have a home of one's own, and not have to live in a horrid boarding-house; and he was altogether in such a pleasant mood that Mrs. Delameter dared attempt a little serious talk, and paved the way by informing him that "Miss Southernwood came to see me to day."

"Ah?—she's the millinery lady, I believe."

"She wants me to trim hats for her in my spare time this summer."

"Indeed! Well, I hope you sent her to the right-about-face in double-quick time. The idea of my wife working in a shop!" said Mr. Delameter, with considerable spirit.

"I wish you'd let me do it."

"For heaven's sake what for?" Mr. Delameter spoke a little testily this time.

"Because I—it would seem so good to have a little money of my very own."

"Well, don't you have money of your very own? All that's mine is yours."

"I suppose so,—but oh, Tom, you don't know how I hate to ask for it."

"You silly little goose! Did I ever refuse you? I can't see why under the canopy you should feel that way!"

"But, really, Tom, I think—I'm almost sure—you would feel the same way."

"Nonsense! I shouldn't, either. I'd just as lief ask as not."

"Would you be willing to prove it?"

"Certainly I would, if there was any way, but I don't quite see"—

"Tom, will you prove it if I'll think of a way?"

"M'm, well—yes—I guess so. What's the way?"

"Well, I'll take that money I laid up before I was married out of the bank, and when your pay-day comes you will put every cent of your money into the bank."

"Well, I will—on your book!"

"Oh, no, that would spoil everything! Promise me you won't ever try to replace my money!"

"Well, I promise," said Mr. Delameter, laughing at her earnestness.

Then he looked thoughtful for several minutes.

"How long must the experiment last, to convince you?"

"Well, I think a month would do, don't you?"

"I think it would," he answered drily.

Mr. Delameter forgot his agreement till just as he was being paid off the next night, and then, being a man of his word, he stopped on the way home and emptied his pockets into the coffers of the bank, carrying away with him a solitary nickel, which he had overlooked, in the pocket where he kept his car fares. Then the whole affair slipped from his mind.

The next morning he parted with the nickel to the car conductor with cheerful unconsciousness, and realized not that he was penniless.

He was opening his lunch box at noon, when, as luck would have it, there suddenly appeared before him a friend of his boyhood days who had grown rich and aristocratic in the years since they had met. Mr. Delameter, in an exuberance of hospitality, immediately conducted him to the highest-priced restaurant in the vicinity, ordered a dinner in keeping with the place, leisurely discussed it with his friend, and at its close complacently drew forth and opened his pocketbook. His feelings at that intoxicating moment may be better imagined than described, as the novelists say.

That night he was glum all supper time, and afterwards buried himself in the day before's newspaper till bedtime.

When morning came, he lingered about after breakfast was over, with no ostensible reason, at last made a feint of starting, and then came back again.

"Oh, by the way," he said, with a fine air of carelessness, "I had to borrow some money yesterday."

"How much?" asked his better half, with a little blush.

"Five dollars."

"What for?" trembled on Mrs. Delameter's lips, but she did not say it. She simply handed him the exact sum.

"I guess you'd better let me have a little for car fares while you're about it."

A ten-cent piece was carefully selected and laid in his palm.

Mr. Delameter did not forget his straitened condition that day. He remembered it, of course, when he sent the bill to his friend; he felt it when he passed a fruit stand on which were displayed some particularly fine oranges; it was recalled to his attention when the little lame boy with candy made his usual rounds of the office; it was painfully present to his mind when a man with a subscription paper whereon figured the name of Delameter came to collect the money subscribed; and the luck was keenly appreciated when he had to forego buying his usual evening paper.

The third day he braced up, and with a reluctance he was wholly unable to conceal requested the means wherewith to buy a pair of light trousers.

The fourth day was Sunday. Mr. Delameter thought of the contribution box, and decided he wouldn't attend church. His head felt badly, he said.

The fifth day the grocer called at the office for his pay, and Mr. Delameter, mumbling something about "pocketbook" and "other pants" sent him to the house.

The sixth day Mrs. Delameter, with unlooked-for generosity, gave him fifty cents when he asked for car fare, and on the strength of this he hailed a man with strawberries, on the way home at night, bought two boxes, and found he was six cents short.

The seventh day Mr. Delameter realized that the experiment was not working quite in the way he meant it should, so he pulled himself together and boldly asked for a ten-dollar bill.

"What for?" queried his wife, as though with an effort.

"I—well, I want to get a pair of boots."

"Men's boots come high, don't they?" faltered Mrs. Delameter, with an artificial smile, as she opened her pocketbook.

"Oh, the boots won't be more than four dollars, probably, but I guess I can make away with the rest."

Mrs. Delameter hesitated, blushed, bit her lip, then slowly handed out two two-dollar bills and a silver half dollar.

"I guess that will do you, this time," she murmured, with downcast eyes.

Mr. Delameter glared at her and made as though he would cast the money from him. Then suddenly he seemed to recollect something and a brilliant red color flamed up from the edge of his white shirt collar to the roots of his hair. He jammed the money viciously into his breast pocket, made use of some word indicative of extreme anger and flung himself out of the house, slamming the door with great vehemence behind him.

Mrs. Delameter threw herself face downward on the lounge and cried and cried. The terrible fear that she had offended him beyond forgiveness and that he would never return to her assailed her at intervals all through the day.

When Mr. Delameter did actually come home at the usual hour she hardly dared raise her eyes to his face. But he was very quiet, did not slam things and hardly looked up from his food all ten time.

When Mrs. Delameter had cleared up the dishes, she slipped up behind her husband as he sat in the bay-window, with his elbows on his knees, his face between his hands, and his eyes on the carpet, and dropped the bone of contention, the pocketbook, into his lap, and fled.

He caught her dress before she had fled very far, and drew her back.

"Fannie," he said, with whimsical seriousness, "do you believe there is money enough in this pocketbook to induce some muscular man to kick me all I deserve to be kicked?"

"Oh, Tom!" sobbed Mrs. Delameter, "can you ever forgive me? You don't know how I hated to be so hateful!"

"Oh, come now! Do you pretend to say you didn't enjoy it?"

"Of course I didn't!" was the indignant answer; and then Mr. Delameter threw his head back, and laughed and laughed.

Finally he sobered down. "Well," he said, in a very business-like way, "now we'll have this thing fixed up. Have you any idea how much our household expenses are?"

"I have kept account of that, and of my personal expenses," said Mrs. Delameter, bringing him the book, "but I did not know how much you earned or how much your expenses were."

Mr. Delameter glanced at the neat columns, and turned over the leaves to look at the footing-up for the whole year. He seemed to be surprised at the total, and made a rapid mental calculation. Then he gave vent to a long, low whistle.

"Fannie," he declared, solemnly, "you are a dear little economical white angel; and I am—well, you don't allow me to use the sort of language that would fittingly describe what I am."

And then Mr. Delameter proposed that whenever he was paid off the housekeeping expenses should be deducted from the amount received and the rest divided equally between himself and Mrs. Delameter.

And they followed this plan, and continued to follow it, and it worked like a charm, and—er—they lived happily ever after—of course.—Housekeeper's Weekly.

MINERS IN A FIGHT.

Eleven Men Killed in a Colorado Mining Camp.

The Trouble Arose Over a Claim in the New Gold Fields in the San Juan District—Great Excitement Among Prospectors.

A FEARFUL BATTLE.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 29.—The San Juan mining camp has followed the precedents of all great mining camps by baptizing itself with human blood. A courier arrived in Bluffs City early Wednesday morning and reported a terrific battle Tuesday, in which over 100 shots were exchanged. He reported eleven men killed and a large number wounded. George Ferguson, an old prospector, and James Cody, known as "Blind Jim," one of the best-known characters in Arizona and New Mexican mining camps, are among the slain. The courier was in a state of breathless excitement and had left the ground after the last shot was fired to obtain medical aid.

A private dispatch from Dolores to John Eddy, a Denver mining man, confirms the terrible report. The trouble grew out of a dispute over certain claims which have been staked out. There are nearly 5,000 men on the fields, and there has been very little attention paid to the people staking off claims. The prospectors have simply devoted their time to prospecting and scouring the sands to find the most promising locations. There have been a few claims staked out, however, in places where many dollars to the pan have been found, but the lines of the claims, it is said, were not recorded and a quarrel ensued. The direct cause of the trouble was the discovery of large nuggets in the bed of a small stream.

Up to the moment of the rich strike everything was all right, but the sight of the large nuggets had the same effect on the prospectors as a red rag on a Mexican bull. Each man claimed that he had first located the ground, and to settle the dispute guns were brought to bear. There were over forty men engaged in the terrible conflict. Few, if any, escaped unhurt.

The information of the trouble has caused great excitement in Denver among prospectors, who were skeptical of the fabulous wealth of the new gold fields. The battle will undoubtedly bring thousands of people to the new camp, for the old prospectors regard deadly conflicts over mining claims as the best evidence of rich strikes.

Workmen in the tunnel under the East river caused the explosion by attempting to thaw out dynamite and the persons living in the tenement houses near by made up the killed and injured.

A RUNNING SORE FOR TEN YEARS.

ATHENS, PA., June 27th, 1892.

I have been afflicted with a fever sore, what the doctors call a "Varicose Ulcer," for the last ten years. My leg was very much swollen much of the time and was a running sore during the whole time. I was under the care of good physicians the most of the time, but no treatment seemed to do any good until I procured a box of Parmelee's Household Ointment from our druggist, Joseph Hines, of Athens, Pa., and one box completely healed my leg and I now consider it cured, as it has remained healed, and has given me no trouble for the last six months.

STEPHEN MCKINNEY.

Mr. Hines, the druggist referred to, certifies to the above, and adds: "Mr. McKinney has suffered very much with his leg, having been confined to the house and unable to use his leg at all. He is very enthusiastic in the praise of Parmelee's Ointment."

THE DUTY ON WOOL.

It Protects Only Protectionist Politicians —Some Facts Stated.

The editor of the American Wool and Cotton Reporter is by no means a free trader. He believes in protection, but he has to deal with facts in the wool and cotton industries and these facts have convinced him that protection to the wool industry is a farce, kept up by politicians and political wool-growers at the expense of consumers and actual wool growers. The following is an extract from an editorial in this journal for September 1, 1892:

"It is impossible not to admire the genial persistence with which Judge Lawrence, of Ohio, interjects his peculiar opinions respecting the wool tariff whenever an opportunity offers. His letter elsewhere contains some interesting and kindly suggestions respecting the Reporter's experiment with abandoned farms in Maine, but the Judge closes with a characteristic exordium to the Reporter to join with him in defending high duties upon wool.

The illogical character of his conclusions transpires first in his advocacy of sheep as a means of reclaiming the soil. He mentions a worn-out hay farm of 880 acres which yielded but seventeen loads of hay the season after it was purchased. No means of recuperation were found successful until sheep were tried, the result being that the farm eventually cut 800 loads of hay besides yielding other bountiful crops. But, wonderful to relate, this experiment occurred between 1840 and 1866, which was mainly a period of low wool duties!

Ah, judge, you forget yourself when you mentioned this interesting experiment in the same letter in which you make the success of sheep husbandry dependent upon the tariff.

If the "abandoned farms" of the Reporter are successful, we shall keep 1,000 sheep upon them eventually, and ought to raise $6,000 worth of lambs for market per annum. But 1,000 sheep can hardly be expected to produce more than $2,000 worth of wool per year. Adding to the annual product of lambs such a percentage of increase in the productive capacity of the land as Judge Lawrence suggests, and it will be seen that the wool is but a moderate factor in the success of the experiment.

We are afraid to expect that the success of the Reporter's experiment is as well assured as Judge Lawrence suggests. The chances seem to us about even that the experiment will prove a failure, and that the tariff has very little to do with the matter either one way or the other. But while we believe the main objection to the increased duties upon wool under the McKinley bill has been that they are a tax upon the consumer without doing the producer any good, we still admire the genial insistence with which Judge Lawrence presents his high tariff opinions whenever opportunity offers."

WHO PAYS THE TAX?

A Washington Man Learns an Object Lesson on the McKinley Theory. That the Foreigner Pays the Tax.

There is a street car driver in Washington named Mike Doran. He is a native of Ireland and has been in this country about six years. He is a pretty bright fellow, is a close reader of the newspapers and a careful observer of everything that is going on. During the past year Mike has been paying a good deal of attention to the tariff question and has been led away by the theories of the republicans that protection was a good thing for the poor man and helped to keep up wages. An incident occurred within the past week or ten days that has made Mike somewhat skeptical. He had been told, by the republicans, of course, and by McKinley in particular, that the foreigners paid our taxes. McKinley said so in his Minneapolis speech and Mike believed him at the time. About ten days ago a cousin of Mike's arrived in this country. He brought a present from Mike's mother to her son, consisting of twelve pairs of woolen socks which she herself knitted for him. It is safe to say that the value of the socks was about 20 cents a pair, but when Mike's cousin arrived at the custom house he was assessed 25 cents a pair tariff duty on the socks. When he came to Mike he showed his receipt from the custom house officers for the $3 that he had paid for the dozen socks, and Mike, of course, had to refund the money to him. This set Mike thinking, and on the suggestion of a friend, with whom he conferred, he addressed the following letter to Gov. McKinley on the subject:

HON. WILLIAM MCKINLEY: Dear Sir—I read your speeches in the house of representatives during the Fifty-first congress, in which you asserted and made me believe that the foreigners paid our taxes. I also read your speech as presiding officer of the republican national convention at Minneapolis, in which you asserted again that the foreigner paid our taxes. My mother sent me a dozen pair of socks from Ireland a few days ago, each pair being worth about 25 cents. My cousin, who brought them to me, had to pay 25 cents a pair tariff duties on the socks at the New York custom house. Will you please be kind enough to tell me to what foreign government I shall apply to have that 75 refunded to me? If the foreigner pays the tax, as you say he does, I am entitled to get my money back but I don't know just exactly to what foreign government to apply, and I hope you will be kind enough to inform me by return mail. Yours truly, MICHAEL DORAN.

This is a very pretty little object lesson, and should not be lost by people who are laboring to understand the tariff question.—Washington Cor. St. Louis Republic.

ICE COLD LOGIC.

Rules Proven Mostly By Exceptions—High Priests of Protection Logicians of a High Order.

McKinley, Harrison, Aldrich and the other high priests of protection, may not be mathematicians, but they are logicians of a high order and, outside of Euclid, no conclusions could be more clearly demonstrated than are those which they use in favor of protection. Observe how carefully their every step is taken and how irresistible is the invincible logic by which in each case they reach their conclusions:

1. The United States has protection and high wages; England has free trade and not such high wages; therefore protection makes high wages.

2. Germany, France and Italy have protection and extremely low wages; England, Belgium and New South Wales have free trade and comparatively high wages; therefore—but these are only exceptions which prove the rule that protection produces high wages in the United States.

3. The duty on corn and the price of corn were higher in 1891 than in 1889; cotton had no duty on it and the price was lower in 1891 than 1889; therefore protection increases the price of farm products.

4. Duties on wool, pork and hay were higher in 1891 than in 1889 and the prices were lower; the duty on sugar was lower in 1891 than in 1889 and the price was lower; therefore—but these are a few more exceptions that only prove the rule that protection is the farmer's best friend and increases the prices of what he has to sell and decreases the prices of what he has to buy.

5. France has protected home markets and her farmers are prosperous; England has free trade home markets and her farmers are not prosperous; therefore protected home markets bring prosperity to the farmer.

6. Italy, United States, and Germany have protected home markets and the farmers are not prosperous; Australia has no protected markets and her farmers are prosperous; therefore—but these are enough exceptions to prove the rule that protected home markets are the sole reliance of the over productive former.

7. But what is the use of more demonstration? Protection wouldn't protect if it didn't bring prosperity and do all that should be done. Hence all our blessings—such as good crops at high prices and plenty of work at high wages—are the direct result of protection; and all our curses—such as mortgaged and abandoned farms and little work at low wages—are the result of shiftlessness and extravagance on the part of farmers and improper distribution of labor—in no way due to protection, which could not possibly do harm to any one.

HIS ACCEPTANCE.

President Harrison On the Tariff—Tin Plate, Pearl Buttons and Silver Mining.

The only industries to which Mr. Harrison ventures to refer in his letter of acceptance are tin plate, pearl buttons and silver mining. Despite his moderate facts and immoderate predictions, the president cannot conceal the fact that, after the enormous tribute levied on the American people by the McKinley tariff, tin plate is not produced in commercial quantities in the United States, and he prudently avoids the remotest reference to the crushing weight of that tribute, nor does he find it wise to refer to the fact that the tax on silver-lead ores, that so excites his admiration, has transferred a large part of the American smelting industry to Mexican soil. He pays much attention to the merits of "reciprocity" under the McKinley bill, and introduces the subject with a grudging compliment to Mr. Blaine for "pressing" what he really invented. Mr. Harrison does not perceive, or if he does, he does not acknowledge, that whatever reciprocity has accomplished, be it much or little, is the effect of the partial adoption of freedom of commerce and the proportionate abandonment of the policy of tariff barriers to foreign trade. And besides this radical avoidance of the essential fact as concerns the merits of the two policies, he again descends to pettifogging by accusing the democrats of wishing to deprive the people of the benefits of reciprocity by repealing the law containing the provision for it. That is an argument for a rural jury, selected by straining off all who can read newspapers; it is not an argument for a rational and self-respecting political leader to address to the great jury of his countrymen. It is at once an insult to them and a disclosure of Mr. Harrison's caliber.—N. Y. Times.

THE TARIEF A DELUSION.

Laboring Men Pass Resolutions Calling For Its Abolition.

William Conklin, Brooklyn correspondent of the New York Times, says:

Acting under instructions of L. A. No. 7,212, I respectfully submit the following resolutions, which have been adopted by this body:

Whereas, The hostile and danzerous situation now existing at Homestead, Pa., is one of the natural effects of legislation which deprives labor of the full product of its toil, under the hypocritical pretense of beneficence; and

Whereas, The so-called protective tariff, which was ostensibly made in the interest of labor and to maintain a high standard of wages, is a fraud and a delusion for the reason that it prevents competition in production and thus gives greater profits to the capitalists, while it compels labor to compete freely for employment and thus forces wages downward toward the level of bare subsistence; and

Whereas, The demand of labor is simply for justice and for its full share of the wealth which it alone produces; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the first step toward preventing strikes and making labor contented must be the abolition of tariffs and of all other restrictions upon the freedom of production and exchange, and the securing of free and equal access to those bounties with which nature has blessed our magnificent country.

Resolved, That we congratulate our brothers in Homestead upon the fatal blow which they have struck at Pinkertonism, and we extend to them our cordial sympathy and well-wishes in the struggle which an unreasonable employer has forced upon them.

Resolved, That copies of those resolutions be forwarded to senators and representatives of New York, to the president of the Amalgamated association in Pittsburgh and to the daily papers of New York and Brooklyn.

WILLIAM CONKLIN,
Secretary Local Assembly No. 7,212.

An Unfair Partnership.

"To the extent that the mass of our citizens are inordinately burdened beyond any useful public purpose and for the benefit of a favored few, the government, under pretext of an exercise of its taxing power, enters gratuitously into partnership with these favorites, to their advantage and to the misery of a vast majority of our people."—Message of Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, December, 1888.

A Heavy Load.

In Russia the present governmental exaction—under the name of taxes—from the agricultural peasant is understood to amount to about 45 per cent of his annual product or earnings; and in Italy, although it is hardly fair to characterize its government as despotic, agriculture is burdened with a state exaction that absorbs from one-third to one-half of its annual returns.—David A. Wells.

Cures Others

Will cure You, is a true statement of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend, and try to impose upon you, as "just as good as Ayer's." Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's only, if you need a blood-purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation, and made a record for cures, that has never been equaled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this, my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and, in a short time, the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. Jarmann, 33 William st., New York City.

A merry party of young people gathered at the residence of E. Allshouse last Friday night to surprise his daughter Lyra. "A very pleasant evening indeed," was the report of every one there.

Splendid sleighing, glorious weather, and moonlight rides to the music of silver bells. What visions these words conjure up of spelling schools, singing schools, apple parings and all the list of jollities in "ye happy olden time."

Luther Mason, an old Franklin boy, was shaking hands last week with friends and relatives, after an absence of twenty-six years. Though Father Time has left his marks upon him there were still many left who recognized Lute with hearty good-will.

The men having returned from their holiday trip to Leonard, the sawmill is again enlivening our burg with its merry "zip" as the huge logs are fed to its hungry jaws, and the shrill shriek of the steam whistle once more disturbs the morning "snooze" of the natives and bids them "be up and doing."

Clarence Vanderpool, while hauling timber for Smith German last week, slipped and fell between his own log and one lying beside the track. He lost the reins and the team kept on, grinding him between the logs until Will German, who was driving another team, came to his rescue. Clarence escaped with a severely bruised leg and some minor injuries, to the wonder of all who saw the accident.

Our community was greatly shocked Monday to learn that our worthy postmaster, Elijah Buck, had suffered a severe shock of paralysis. He had attended to the afternoon mail as usual, and on reaching the store, after throwing the mail on the train, went to get an armful of wood and fell down unconscious, remaining so for some time after being carried into the house. He regained consciousness, but is reported as no better and is apparently sinking. His wife and children have the sympathy of everyone in their terrible affliction.

Christmas and the Exposition.

America is not without her Christmas present.

The December issue of the "World's Columbian Exposition Illustrated" comes to us dressed in a specially designed lithographed cover. On the front page Santa Claus is shown as presenting the World's Columbian Exposition as a Christmas present to Miss Columbia, who posing in her dignity, gracefully accepts it with thanks to her enterprising citizens. The scene is produced in rich colors and to be appreciated must be seen.

This number is attractive by its numerous official photographs of the dedicative parades, also illustrations of the Turkish, German and Irish villages to be produced at the Fair. In addition to this are the buildings of the French Colonies, Colorado Cliff Dwellers, while Hon. John T. Harris of Virginia is the frontispiece.

Among the leading articles are "Open the Fair Sunday," "Directors' Resolution on Sunday Closing," Transportation Department, "Music Department," "Description of Foreign Exhibits, etc. The Woman's Department is replete with interesting information regarding the women's work.

In all, this number is the richest yet published, and as this is the only publication entirely devoted to the Exposition interests, while answering for a complete guide, the entire issue will form an authentic history of the World's Columbian Exposition. The publishers want reliable agents in each town. Sample copy of Christmas issue sent for twenty-five cents. Address

Orange Judd, the celebrated philanthropist and editor who died in Chicago this week, was a frequent visitor to this place years ago, when his brother, Rev. H. Judd, was preaching here. He was the originator of the present system of crop reporting, adopted by the government, and also of the International system of Sunday School lessons.—Hudson Post.

Justice of the Peace G. W. Gillis performed his 'maiden' marriage ceremony so to speak, on Christmas eve, and is said to have done the job in the most scientific manner known to the magisterial profession. The two young people whom he made happy, and to whom he heartily extended the compliments of the season, were Mr. Fred Palmer and Miss Maud Dull.—Morenci Observer.

Mollie: What are you going to give Charley for Christmas? Jenny: A parrot. Mollie: Do you think he will be pleased with it? Jennie: Oh, yes; it can help him swear when the Christmas bills begin to come in.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier is admirably adapted to make "a little health go a long way." Its curative power is largely attributable to its stimulant, tonic and nutritive properties, by which the energy of the system is recruited. It is pleasant to the taste, easily borne on the stomach and harmless under prolonged use. Try it.

Ice is generally what it is cracked up to be when a bartender manipulates it.

HOLLOWAY HASH.

Fred Nay, of Tecumseh, was down and spent Sunday with his mother.

Mrs. George Hoxie of Blissfield was visiting her old friends here the first of the week.

Geo. Holloway is in Adrian this week on the Board of Supervisors as deputy for Horace Holdridge.

Dr. William Calhoun, of Milan, is spending the week as a guest of his uncle, Wm. Calhoun, of this place.

Holloway and Florance sold a carload of shelled corn the latter part of last week; and expect to sell another soon. Parties wishing corn will do well to call and receive their prices.

What is the reason for that broad smile that illuminates the countenance of W. E. Hoyt this week? Why! don't you know, he is the father of a bright little boy now. Friday night last was when this little piece of humanity came to brighten his home.

Fred Kopke is piling the logs into Winship's mill yard so fast that Lew is afraid to run the mill for fear that some of his employes will get killed. Fred had twelve teams drawing Tuesday of this week. He is clearing off the timber from Archie Boyd's farm.

We understand that Edith Graves has bought the Viola Holdridge property and that A. W. McKillip our Creamery butter maker is moving his family in and takes possesion this week. This will be very handy for Mr. McKillip as he will not have to walk three quarters of a mile, in these blizzards, now.

Frank Nay, of Westminister California, writes home that he is enjoying splendid health there and is growing fat on the ocean breeze from the "grand Pacific"; he is about three miles from the coast. He says; "I took a bath New Year's day in the Pacific Ocean. The thermomater ranges about 70 degrees from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. and then goes down to about 50 degrees for the night. I don't think I shall go back to Michigan to live and freeze around a green wood fire all winter."

Dr. Nixon, in the absence of Dr. Begel, will administer nauseating doses to those requiring Allopathic treatment while Dr. Kishpaugh, at his office east of the railroad will deal out his little pills to all who apply, with the needful.

Thos. and Fred Hartman and sister, Mrs. Lozier, of Harvey, Ill., and their brother, Joe Hartman, and O. L. Smith, a brother-in-law, from Ohio, were here the first of the week to attend the funeral of their uncle, J. Houghtby, of Little Hope. Mr. Houghtby was about 68 years of age and was one of the old settlers of Raisin. He had been spending the winter with his children at Leslie, Mich., and died there quite suddenly Friday night of heart trouble. Funeral Wednesday at the Raisin Quaker church.

Sheriff Wilson's Official Family.

Sheriff Ed G. Wilson entered upon his official duties as sheriff of Lenawee county at noon Jan. 2d. Thirty-five prisoners were turned over to him by ex-Sheriff Baldwin, and Mr. Wilson broke himself in by being the host at the New Year's supper. The family is busily engaged in settling the house.

Sheriff Wilson has appointed the following deputies: E. S. Ferguson, H. C. Lards, Adrian; C. C. Pease, Hudson; Daniel Staniger, Morenci; E. Harrington, Blissfield; Benj. Wilcox, Deerfield; H. W. Stevens, Tecumseh; J. W. Jackson, Addison; S. Lawton, Clayton; Geo. Hines, Onsted. Sheriff Wilson had decided upon Elbridge H. Hyde, of Tecumseh, as turnkey, but that gentleman has not yet accepted the position, the illness of his mother being the probable reason. Mr. Wilson says if Mr. Hyde declines he has not yet settled on anyone else for that important position.

TECUMSEH, MICH., JAN. 12, 1893.

The Michigan legislature has settled down to business in a quiet way. There was considerable excitement attending the senatorial caucus, but all is serene now.

Senator George Gray and Don M. Dickinson are said to have declined Cabinet portfolios. This fact shows the kind of timber which Cleveland is selecting to put into his Cabinet.

About the best Christmas present we have heard of is the fund of $4,000 sent to the starving families at Homestead. We do not observe the name of Mr. Carnegie among the subscribers, however.

About half a dozen Western States are all torn up over the election of U. S. Senators. The outcome is very uncertain in most of them and hence the complexion of the next U. S. Senate is still in doubt.

Congressman Tom Johnson, of Ohio, is always ready for a fight when anyone calls him "Thomas." Tom is the proper name given him by his sponsers, and he doesn't want it lengthened by any over-polite friend.

The newspapers are spending most of their time now making cabinet slates. It seems reasonably certain that two places have been definitely decided upon—Carlisle for the Treasury and Morrison for the Interior.

Col. Frank Stockbridge will succeed himself as U. S. Senator from Michigan. Uncle Cyrus went into the combat with hay on his horns, and pants tucked into his boots, but Col. Frank's check book was too much for him.

Ever since 1884 the Republicans have been bragging because the treasury books came within 2 cents of balancing with the cash. This time they are liable to balance exactly, but there will be very little cash for them to balance with.

The Oregon contest having been settled, the result in the Electoral College is finally determined, and Cleveland will have 276 to Harrison's 145. But it ought to be some comfort to our Republican friends that their man ran 74 votes ahead of Weaver.

Rumor says that Col. Dan Lamont, Cleveland's former private secretary, is booked for place in the new cabinet. Col. Lamont is a man of wonderful executive ability, and, with his previous Washington experience he would make an efficient cabinet officer.

Only 13,342 votes were cast in California against the constitutional amendment making United States Senators elective by the people, to 187,958 in its favor. This vote fairly represents the sentiment of the country. We presume an equally large majority would be cast in Michigan on that issue.

The indications now are that the New York machine will send Ed. Murphy, Jr., the Troy brewer, to the U. S. Senate. He will make a very good "me-too-Murphy" to David B. Hill, but if he has any other qualifications for the place, the Democrats generally have failed to recognize it.

It seems to be generally accepted that Cleveland has tendered to Senator Carlisle the Treasury portfolio, and that, after much hesitation, he has concluded to accept. If the whole cabinet shall be constructed on this pattern, it will be the ablest cabinet the country has known since President Lincoln's first one.

"Once on the free list, always on the free list" is pretty good tariff doctrine. It is safe to assume that a Democratic Congress will not increase the tax on sugar, although it may shift the tax from refined to raw sugar and transfer the bonus, now received by the sugar trust, to the treasury. It is equally safe to assume that a Democratic Congress is very likely to increase the tax on whiskey.

Grover Cleveland's frank and manly opposition to the election of Ed. Murphy as U. S. Senator from New York will strengthen him in every other state in the Union. He was elected in spite of the New York machine and he does not intend to begin his administration by truckling to the same influence. He has exercised his right, the same as any other citizen of New York, to express his preferences, and the machine can now take the responsibility of the election.

The Washigton Post says: "The frequent mention of Hon. William R. Morrison of Illinois in connection with a portfolio in Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet is indicative of a general impression throughout the country that Colonel Morrison's appointment is looked upon as not improbable, and that it would be eminently acceptable to the party and the people. There is much to be said in favor of his selection, and the suggestion has received no adverse criticism worth mentioning."

The latest Cabinet news gives this slate: Those who have conferred with Mr. Cleveland recently have no doubt that Colonel Morrison will be called to the Cabinet. In fact, it is now stated on what might be called reasonable and good authority that the President elect has practically selected five men. These are Carlisle, Morrison, Lamont, Tucker and Collins. There is some reason to believe that Mr. W. W. Foote of California is being seriously considered by the President elect, and that Mr. Blount of Georgia is also on the President's slate, awaiting consideration.

Col. Lamont's denial of the story that President-elect Cleveland has been dictating the choice of Senators in the states with Democratic Legislatures was scarcely needed. The story bore on its face the indications of its malicious origin and was so palpably at variance with Mr. Cleveland's well known habits and methods that it was only credited by his enemies. His opposition to the choice of Murphy in New York has been open and above board and has been based on his undoubted right to the same preference which every citizen of the Empire State has or may have in the matter.—Detroit Free Press.

Representative Holman, who is known to Congressional fame as 'the great objector' and as 'the watch dog of the Treasury' is a firm believer in the ultimate commercial union of the entire American Continent. What he means by commercial union is that the trade between every nation in America should be as free as that which exists between the states of our Union, and that a uniform tariff upon articles from other parts of the world should be adopted by all of the American nations. He predicts that the idea will be carried out within the next thirty years in its entirety and that one tariff will be in effect from Alaska to Cape Horn.

Since the reassembling of Congress the silver men, who have kept very quiet during all the talk about proposed silver legislation at the present session, are showing their teeth; and their humor has not been improved by the rumors charging that the Cleveland influence had caused desertions from their ranks. The pressure for the repeal of the present silver law is daily becoming more powerful. Notwithstanding all this talk, and that which is certain soon to be heard on the floor of both House and Senate, the present silver law will neither be repealed nor will that portion of it compelling monthly purchases of silver bullion be suspended, unless the members of the House who have banded themselves together under the leadership of Representative Pierce, of Tennessee, shall change their minds.

Ohio is another State whose Republicans—like those of Vermont, Maine, New York, and Indiana—are represented by Republican organs as suffering from "timidity" about voting under the secret-ballot system. Says one of those organs, the Miami Union.

"One of the curious things developed during the last election was the timidity with which a great many men approached the duty of voting under the Australian system. In fact, quite a number of men actually disfranchized themselves, rather than risk the chances of making a mistake in casting their ballots."

One of the most extraordinary features of the campaign was the necessity under which Republican editors everywhere labor of giving a large share of their energy to efforts at overcoming the "timidity" of so many of their party about going to the polls—especially when it is considered that we never hear of any such lack of courage on the part of Democrats, Prohibitionists, Farmers' Alliance men, Populists or Bellamyites.

The rumor is pretty well authenticated that Col. Wm. R. Morrison, of Ill., will be made Secretary of the Interior in Cleveland's Cabinet. If the triumphant election of Grover Cleveland to a second term has any political significance whatever, it means a radical revision of the tariff on revenue lines. He was the foremost advocate and representative of a revenue tariff, and the ablest opponent of monopoly protection. This fact forced his nomination and secured his election. If Cleveland himself correctly interprets the result, then the logic of the situation would impel him to select for his official advisers, men thoroughly in harmony with himself on this vital issue. Conspicuous among such men is Col. Morrison. He was a leader in tariff reform in its first inception and was battling for the people's cause years before Cleveland wrote his famous message of 1887. His appointment would be most satisfactory to the entire country and particularly to the West and Northwest which now constitute the center of the great tariff reform army. With such men as Carlisle and Morrison in the Cabinet there will be no faint-hearted or half-way work in revising the McKinley tariff.

Cleveland in New York.

The machine politicians of both parties who are jeering at Mr. Cleveland because his protest against Murphy will fail to defeat the latter are simply the victims of their own obtuseness. Mr. Cleveland understands the condition of New York politics as well as anybody in the Machine or out of it, and he was perfectly well aware before he gave utterance to his recent interview that things had been "fixed" for Murphy's election. Simply by placing his protest on record he has accomplished all he expected to accomplish. Now when it becomes necessary for him, in the performance of his duty as President, to smash the Machine and put his ponderous foot on "Senatorial courtesy," he cannot be accused of being responsible for the consequences because he did not indicate in time what his views and purposes were. Mr. Cleveland's published statement regarding Mr. Murphy's election was simply an announcement that he does not propose to be fettered and hedged in by the New York Machine, no matter what program it may carry out in attempting to paralyze his administration if it cannot control it.—St. Louis Republic.

A Question of Morals.

"Though the subject of tariff legislation involves a question of markets, it also involves a question of morals."—Cleveland's Letter of Acceptance.

"The power of the Government to collect revenue to defray its expenses is sovereign and absolute. It can take any part of a man's property without process, but it ought to take no more than enough to defray the expenses of the Government."—Judge Gresham.

"Constitutionally a tax can have no other basis than the raising of revenue for public purposes, and whatever governmental exaction has not this basis is tyrannical and unlawful."—Judge Cooley.

"Beyond a cavil there can be no lawful taxation which is not laid for public purposes. * * * To lay, with one hand, the power of the Government on the property of the citizen and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals, to aid enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms."—United States Supreme Court Justice Miller.

"Thou shalt not steal."—Eighth Commandment.—Louisville Courier Journal.

About Post Office Elections.

From many expressions of approval, some of which it has published, The Republic is well assured that its position in favor of post office elections is indorsed by an overwhelming majority of the Democrats of the country. If the party could be polled on the proposition it is entirely safe to say that 90 per cent of its voters would be found favoring a plan which would reduce the official power of appointment and increase the popular power of selection.

It is difficult to see, in fact, how any Democrat could oppose a system which will take away from one man, or at most a few men, an arbitrary power and vest it with the people. It is not necessary to have the assurance that the appointee under such circumstances might often be in the minority of the total number of votes cast. The fact would remain that he had received more of the support of his fellow-citizens than any other candidate. Besides all that, minority officers have become common in these days of closely divided politics and third and fourth parties. Minority officers occupy the greatest offices in the United States. They sit in the White House and preside over the Senate. Why should the line be drawn against them at the post office doors?

As it is, in a majority of cases the man getting the office is among the most unpopular in his community. Why this is so it is hard to say, but the truth of it will not be denied by men of experience in these matters and, least of all, by earnest party workers, who, after an expenditure of time, money and labor in a campaign, find themselves supplanted in party favor by those who have never contributed of either to any unselfish cause. Such men would never dare appeal to their fellow-citizens in an election, but as things stand they divide, demoralize and disorganize parties by their appropriation of what they have not earned and what the party does not want them to have.

This is not a Democratic view only. Both parties have suffered equally from causes, the only effect of which has been to destroy party organization and weaken party fealty.—St. Louis Republic.

The Doubly Oppressed Farmer.

Wheat struck 69¾ cents in Chicago within the last week. This is the lowest price it has reached since December, 1884, and only once in the last quarter of a century has wheat been lower in any month of the year.

This lowest price of wheat recorded but once before in more than twenty-five years comes to the farmer under the highest tariff taxes on everything he buys ever levied by the government in time of peace; and it clearly teaches the farmer the studied mockery of pretended tariff protection by increased taxes on grain, wool, etc. With the highest taxes imposed avowedly to protect the farmer, his wheat, corn, wool, now sell close to the lowest prices ever reached.

The farmers, as a class, receive no benefit from the tariff taxes on wheat, rye, corn, oats, hops, barley, potatoes, butter, cheese, eggs or wool. With the exception of wool and potatoes we export vastly more than we import and must seek foreign markets for our products, while few of like foreign products are consumed here. Our high taxes on wool have lessened the use of wool in our so-called woolen fabrics, and lessened demand has lessened the price.

The tariff on potatoes is a studied mockery of protection to the farmer. When we have an ordinary crop at home our importations do not exceed two per cent of the consumption, and do not affect the price; but the potato crop fails about once in five years, and when it fails more than half the farmers of the country are buyers and not sellers of potatoes. Instead of protecting the farmer the tariff on potatoes becomes a tax on him when it affects him at all, and to-day it is a fearful tax on forty-nine fiftieths of the whole people of the country.—Philadelphia Times.

The January North American.

The Review for January is a notable number, containing contributions of exceptional interest from distinguished writers and covering a wide range of timely subjects. The opening article, "Should Immigration be Suspended?" is by Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, whose position as chairman of the Senate Committee on Immigration gives him the right to speak as one having authority. After summing up the case in favor of the restriction of immigration he considers and answers the arguments of those who are opposed to that course. Bishop Coleman, of Delaware, in a thoughtful and temperate yet vigorous article, defines the Limits of Legitimate Religious Discussion. No one is better qualified to speak of Insomania than Dr. Wm. A. Hammond, whose article on the subject is very interesting. The question, "Does the Republican Party Need Reorganization?" is authoritatively answered by Senator Dolph, of Oregon. The Notes and Comments include four very readable papers.

Lane's Family Medicine moves the bowels each day. Most people need to use it.

Provide yourself with a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and so have the means at hand for contending successfully with a sudden cold. As an emergency medicine, it has no equal, and leading physicians everywhere recommend it.

VERY MUCH SURPRISED.

I have been afflicted with neuralgia for nearly two years, have tried physicians and all known remedies, but found no permanent relief until I tried a bottle of Dullam's Great German Liniment and it gave me instant and permanent relief. 25 cents per bottle Signed A. H. Snell.

The continual succession of boils, pimples, and eruptions from which many suffer, indicates an impure state of the blood. The most effective remedy is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It expels the poison harmlessly through the natural channels, and leaves the skin clean and clear.

Joseph Ruby, of Columbia, Pa., suffered from birth with scrofula humor, till he was perfectly cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

DON'T GET IMPOSED UPON.

Is a good motto to follow in buying a medicine as well as in everything else. By the universal satisfaction it has given, and by the many remarkable cures it has accomplished, Dullam's Great German Blood, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Cure has proven itself unequalled for building up and cleansing your system and for all diseases arising from impure blood. Do not experiment with an unheard of or untried article which you are told is as good, but be sure and get Dullam's. All druggists keep it. For sale by Jno. Orr.

The name of N. H. Downs' still lives, although he has been dead many years. His Elixir for the cure of coughs and colds has already outlived him a quarter of a century, and is still growing in favor with the public.

All those who have used Baxter's Mandrake Bitters speak very strongly in their praise. Twenty-five cents per bottle.

In case of hard cold nothing will relieve the breathing so quickly as to rub Arnica & Oil Liniment on the chest.

Many do know and all should know the merits of Brant's Balsam for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, all throat and Lung troubles, which may be forerunners of Constipation. The cost of knowing its value is so slight, (large 25 and 50 cent bottles), you will be wise to test it for its prompt use may save life. Mothers should know its value for Spasmodic or Membraneous Croup, which need quick attention or the child may die. It relaxes the contracted muscles or loosens the false membrane, causing the child to throw it off, giving quick relief. Sold by Jno J. Orr.

Simply Awful

Worst Case of Scrofula the Doctors Ever Saw

Completely Cured by HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

"When I was 4 or 5 years old I had a scrofulous sore on the middle finger of my left hand, which got so bad that the doctors cut the finger off, and later took off more than half my hand. Then the sore broke out on my arm, came out on my neck and face on both sides, nearly destroying the sight of one eye, also on my right arm. Doctors said it was the Worst Case of Scrofula they ever saw. It was simply awful! Five years ago I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Gradually I found that the sores were beginning to heal. I kept on till I had taken ten bottles, ten dollars! Just think of what a return I got for that investment! A thousand per cent? Yes, many thousand. For the past 4 years I have had no sores. I Work all the Time. Before, I could do no work. I know not what to say strong enough to express my gratitude to Hood's Sarsaparilla for my perfect cure." GEORGE W. TURNER, Farmer, Galway, Saratoga county, N. Y.

SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT.

Why I Became a Single Taxer.

Perhaps the numerous readers of the Standard may be interested in learning when and why I became a single taxer. Perhaps, also, the facts in the case may afford some encouragement to persons who have as yet only partially "seen the cat," but are honestly seeking for "the whole truth and nothing but the truth." This thought, whether well founded or otherwise, is my only apology for putting before the public an article so replete with personalities as this must necessarily be.

Up to the autumn of 1889 I knew little of Henry George and still less of the single tax theory. I had simply heard of Henry George as an aggressive reformer, an advocate of social changes, and the author of a famous book called "Progress and Poverty." I had never read any of his writings, nor had I any conception of what he believed and taught.

At the time mentioned I was a resident of Los Angeles, Cal., but was spending a few weeks in my old home, Chicago, Ill. I was president of the Illinois association, of Los Angeles, an organization which made engagements with a few notable speakers for public lectures.

While in Chicago I received a letter from Henry Harrison, the secretary of the Illinois association, who knew just as little of Henry George as I knew. Mr. Harrison stated that as Mr. George was announced to visit the Pacific coast, en route for Australia, some time during the coming winter, it might be best for our organization to secure him, if possible, for one or two lectures.

His suggestion was supported by Mr. F. L. Grosvenor, treasurer of our association. Thinking favorably of it, I immediately wrote to Mr. George, received a prompt response, and in a few days we had him under contract to lecture two consecutive nights in Los Angeles, under our management, the dates to be determined later on.

Soon after my return home I said to Harrison: "Well, Henry George is a noted character, but really I know very little as to what he believes, preaches or pretices. Suppose we get a copy of 'Progress and Poverty' and read it together before he comes here." This was agreed to. We procured a copy of the book and read it a little at a time. It opened our eyes on the land and labor questions, and made us the more desirous of meeting and hearing the noted agitatator and controversialist. On the last evening of February, 1890, Henry George appeared before a large audience in Illinois hall to deliver his first lecture in Los Angeles. Many of the leading citizens were present, and all were eager to see and hear the man of whom they had heard so much. As president of the organization it was my duty to introduce the lecturer, which I did with but few words. Let me say right here, that I had already learned enough of Henry George and the truths he promulgated to make that occasion one of the proudest in all my experience.

Mr. George spoke for an hour and a half on "The Social Problem." He was heartily applauded by many and carefully listened to by all. I have heard nearly every noted public speaker in the United States who has been on the stage of action within the past thirty years, but I can truthfully say that from no one else did I ever learn so much worth knowing as I learned from Henry George that night. His address was at once profound and brilliant, logical and witty, forcible and eloquent. It was a masterly arraignment of our present social system in all its hideous deformity, followed by an expose of the protection superstition and an explanation of the single tax theory—so clear, so plain, so simple and straightforward that no honest investigator could fail to be favorably impressed. The next night George spoke for an hour directly on the single tax, and then devoted an hour to answering questions from the audience. At the close of the meeting he immediately resumed his journey to Australia. I have never met him since that hour, but he left behind him in Los Angeles abundant food for thought and discussion, besides several new converts, who will be staunch single taxers and free traders as long as they live—Henry Harrison and myself being among the number. Mr. Harrison, being a very intelligent man and an independent thinker, readily grasped the truths presented, and being also a lover of justice, with the courage of his convictions, he did not hesitate to openly avow his belief in the greatest of all reforms.

F. L. Grosvenor is not yet an outspoken single taxer, but he is on the right road. He now reads and admires Henry George's writings, and being a man of noble impulse and an advocate of justice, his complete acceptance of Mr. George's views may be looked for in the near future.

For years prior to reading and hearing Henry George's arguments, I had been fully conscious that our modern social system was bad, and rapidly going from bad to worse. I had long been identified with reform movements, freely contributing time, labor and means according to my ability toward helping forward what I honestly believed to be a good cause. But on becoming a single taxer I discovered that this is the foundation of all other reforms. It lies at the bottom of all truth and justice in the social structure, or rather, it is itself the very embodyment of truth and justice.

He who can not understand the single tax theory, after careful investigation, must be exceedingly stupid. He who does understand it, and yet is unwilling to let the community take for its use that which the community itself creates, is a selfish, cold-blooded creature, a human shark, whose highest aim in life is to devour persistently the smaller fish and call it business. To my mind nothing is plainer than the proposition that the land belongs to the people for their use while they live, and therefore can not be monopolized without the rankest injustice. Equally clear is the proposition that no tax whatever should be imposed on labor, nor on the products or processes of labor. If these two propositions are not sound to the core, then there is neither truth nor justice to be found on earth. They are the basic principles that underlie the single tax system. Every well-posted single taxer can successfully defend these principles against "the world, the flesh and the devil." To deny them is equivalent to saying that the laborer is not entitled to what he earns; that the state acts wisely in doing all it can to discourage industry and offer premiums to idleness; that the speculator is entitled to greater consideration than the home-builder; that land monopoly, which robs uncounted millions of their natural inheritance, is a sacred system, ordained of God; that freedom of commerce is a crime, to be either restricted or entirely suppressed by law; that poverty and charity are twin necessities, inseparable from our social system.

Whoever denies the single tax principles must of necessity be driven to admit each and all of these monstrous propositions. There is no escape for him, though he may wriggle and twist like a fish out of water.

Single taxers do not want charity, either for ourselves or for anybody else. We simply ask for justice. Not justice for a few, but absolute, even-handed justice for all. And we are not begging for it, we demand it. We demand that access to land and the use thereof shall be as free as is the use of air, sunshine, or any of the other natural elements belonging to the people, because given to them by a wise creator, and without the use of which mankind can not exist. We demand also that every burden, every restriction, placed by our laws upon industry shall be removed, and all necessary revenue be raised from land values. These things the single tax, if given opportunity, will accomplish. No other reform movement can effect one-quarter as much for humanity. In fact all others, so far as adopted, must redound for the benefit of the landowner. From the very nature of the case this can not be otherwise. The single tax must come first. After that, various other reforms can be instituted, without becoming aids to land monopoly; because under the single tax system land monopoly will be impossible. Other reforms can then be beneficial to the people, just in proportion to the intrinsic merit of each reform.

Land monopoly is the overshadowing curse of the ages. Why, if you could take money monopoly, transportation monopoly, monopoly of personal property and all other monopolies known to modern times except this one, and place them in one side of the scales; then put land monopoly in the other side; so sure as God's laws are higher than man's laws—so sure as the birthright of every human being is more sacred than are any laws or customs that rob humanity of that birthright—just so sure would land monopoly turn the scales and outweigh all its rivals.

I sympathize with every honest movement for the betterment of our social conditions. I respect the men who from motives of philanthropy are earnestly endeavoring to push those reforms to the front. But believing as I do that land monopoly is the greatest monopoly of the age, and a more prolific cause of poverty and misery than all other monopolies combined, I shall continue to fight against it, by advocating the single tax, with what little ability God gave me, regardless of all other issues. —Ralph E. Hoyt, in the Standard.

An Earthly Paradise.

The single tax is constitutional. It is just. It is ample. Let the legislature declare it. Let the revenue raised thereby—the amount for New York City alone would be $100,000,000 annually—be spent in public improvements. Let the landlords be forced to pay this tax as a condition of holding vast sections of valuable land unimproved and vacant, or to give up the land to those who will improve it and employ labor in so doing. Let the railroads be taxed for the land value of their roadbeds, the mine owners for the value of the natural opportunities of their mines. In a word, let what is understood to be the single tax be fairly and fully imposed and collected, and as if with a magician's wand the nether world will vanish, and in its stead will arise a world wherein involuntary poverty will be unknown, inhabited by a well clad, well fed, well housed, happy, virtuous and temperate people—an earthly paradise.—N. Y. Metropolis.

John Russell Young, formerly American minister to China, contributes this interesting bit to the history of "Progress and Poverty:"

"That estimable gentleman, my dear and honored friend, Henry George, had written in those years a book which he felt, as Whiteman and Carlisle before him, to be a solemn message to mankind. Composed under depressing circumstances in California, he had managed by heroic sacrifices to put it into type. Now, if only some one would read his book! Henry George was then unknown beyond the threshold of his Pacific home. I was going to England, and took a dozen copies to peddle for him. I tried an old-fashioned bookseller at the Haymarket, who had exalted people for customers—a royal highness, Lord Beaconsfield, and the like. In a few days I called only to see the books on the shelves, and the bookseller debating with his conscience as to whether he should not go to the Old Baily and plead guilty to the condonement of a conspiracy for overturning society. All that was left was to take the volumes and ask the ever-willing Smalley, of the Tribune, to name some advanced thinkers of the 'crank' species at whom I might throw them, and have the rubbish well out of the way. This book was 'Progress and Poverty.' In a short time its sale in London had reached to sixty thousand a year. It gave its author world-wide fame as one of the foremost men of the time."

We have no hesitation in declaring our belief that the ideal taxation lies in the single land tax, laid exclusively on the rental value of land, independent of improvements.—New York Times, January 10, 1891.

THE HERALD FOR 1893

For eighteen years last past, through good report and evil report, in prosperity and adversity alike, the HERALD has kept in "the middle of the road" in both a political and business sense. The record of the paper, under its present management, is well known, and nothing need be said on that point. Performance is better than promise. We have no special promises to make for the future, as the paper will speak for itself, as it has done in the past.

First and foremost, it will aim to be the best local newspaper in Lenawee County, and to hold its place as a household necessity in every family of Northern Lenawee. Though not a political organ in a partisan sense, the HERALD will always be found on the people's side in the great battle for equal rights and reduced taxation, and will continue to be an uncompromising advocate of tariff reform until that question shall be settled and settled right. All efforts to shake its business position and influence have proved unavailing, and it views the approach of 1893 with a serene confidence that the World's Fair year will be the most prosperous in its history.

Our Subscription rates next year will be only $1.10 within the County of Lenawee, if paid spot cash in advance. Beyond the County, $1.25 in advance. When payment is delayed an addiiional rate will be charged. We consider this a fair solution of the subscription problem. When subscribers desire accommodation they can afford to pay a reasonable bonus for that privilege. Here are our premium offers and club list for the coming year.

FARMING AS A BUSINESS.

A late number of the Kansas City Times contains a lengthy biographical sketch of Edwin Taylor, State Senator elect of the fourth Kansas district. Mr. Taylor was a Raisin boy and has many old friends still residing in this vicinity, who will be interested to know that he is prospering.

Edwin Taylor, state senator-elect in the Fourth district of Kansas, was born in Tecumseh, Lenawee county, Mich., July 23, 1844. He is the eldest of six children. His father was keenly conscious of his deficient schooling and determined that his children should not be prevented from enjoying the educational advantages which had been denied to him. At the age of 7 young Taylor was started to school at the Raisin Valley Seminary. At the age of 11 he took his place at the plow tail; from that time on his summers were spent in the field and only his winters in the school room, until he went to the Michigan university, where he spent two years in the academic department. The farming of the senior Taylor was upon the lines then universally followed in that part of the world—what now, as then, is called "mixed farming." Cattle, hogs, horses, sheep, wheat and corn, barley and oats, with a small dairy, were its leading features. With all of this the boy was impatient, denouncing it as a confusion of little things, which must inevitably keep farming down and which would bankrupt any other business. Years before arriving of age, he promised himself that when he got to farming he would devote himself to a single line of agriculture—one suited to the conditions in which he was placed—and on it he would stand till it made or broke him.

His position was this: That farming is a business; that it is amenable to the laws of business; that in the progress of the world all businesses are becoming more and more specialized; that the dentist and barber are no longer one and the same person; that incompatible things should likewise be separated from each other in farming, and that the limited line of crop or stock selected by the farmer as suited to his tastes or situation should be pushed to its fullest capacity. He came to Kansas in 1871, locating in Montgomery county, staking all he had in the world upon the success of this new gospel of agriculture. It is not necessary to recount the details of his experience there. He chose potato growing as his specialty. On several accounts it was not suited to the conditions existing. For four years he struggled against adverse fortune, and then gathering together the fragments of the wreck took a change of base to Armstrong, Wyandotte county. Here he rented thirty-one acres of Mrs. Zerilda Armstrong and planted his potatoes. When the crop was made, rent, living and help paid for, he had just $13 in his pocket. There was a small profit on the first year's operations. The next year was more profitable and more land was rented. Every dollar that could be spared was put back into the business. At the time the Town Site and Bridge company made its purchases he was renting four farms below Armstrong, growing potatoes on them all. He then rented the large farm of J. F. Timmons at Edwardsville, in the same county, and as a next step bought the farm adjoining that village, where he now lives. It is a tract of 300 acres—260 acres on the famous Kaw bottoms, forty acres on the bluff. Here is located the family dwelling house, a roomy, two-story frame, which stands on the highest point of the farm overlooking the valley, and from its windows, with the aid of a field glass, can be seen every man and horse working in the fields below. In addition to the ordinary farm buildings there are upon this place an admirably arranged potato warehouse, having a storage capacity for 15,000 bushels, and, as an adjunct of the potato business, by way of producing the needed fertilizer, what Mr. Taylor calls his "beef factory." This is a cattle barn with accommodations for 136 head of steers, in which the beeves are chained to their mangers and fed and watered in their places. This factory is equipped with a steam engine, corn mill, feed cutter and turnip pulper; is connected by tramway with a silo of 500 tons capacity; is provided with a chute for loading and unloading cattle; making altogether, as President J. C. Evans of the Missouri State Horticultural society says, the most complete establishment of the kind in his knowledge. On all these buildings and contents $14,000 of insurance is carried and not a cent of mortgage. Here, to use the expressive phrase of the owner, the constant study is to divest agriculture of the characteristics of farming.

One illustration of this idea is that the ten-hour system and the weekly payment of the workmen have for several years been the rule.

While yet a boy Mr. Taylor contended that the farmer was at his weakest when he went to market. That instead of having a little of everything that must necessarily be peddled out in the home market, he should have lots of something so that he could handle it with advantage and put it into the hands of the final consumer. In accordance with this position, for several years he published a catalogue of his seed potatoes and largely disposed of them on mail orders received from the farmers themselves. As business increased this department became so burdensome that he cast about for a substitute system. Then was organized the Kaw Valley Potato association, a corporation formed for the purpose of selling potatoes raised by its members, of which Mr. Taylor is president. It is now in the third year of its existence as a potato seller and has done its work in such a manner as to show conclusively that organization is as applicable to farming as to any line of life.

Mr. Taylor has amply demonstrated his proposition: That farming is a business, subject to the laws of business. The persistence and ability to cope with practical affairs which his operations have shown him to possess are substantial qualities rarer and more useful in a legislator than fluent speech.

It is apparent that in a material sense Mr. Taylor will be a loser by being a senator. His ambitions are not political. He refused to have his name considered until the united pressure of all the parties—People's party, Democratic party and the better part of the republican party—was brought to bear upon him. He did not so much as lift a finger to secure the nomination, nor was he even present at the convention. In this age of corrupt, self-seeking politicians The Times takes pleasure in calling attention to this notable exception to the rule in politics.

The Bismark number of The Illustrated World's Fair is especially valuable because of the record for preservation which it offers to all who are interested in the history of the Exposition. All the orations and prayer, the ode and cognate matters are printed in full. The pictures faithfully and photographically show the audience in the great room, the chorus of 5,000 voices, the decorations and the parades. The civic parade and the dedication procession are both outlined carefully. Some surprising features of the horticultural display are printed with fine effect, and the gaily-decorated battleship is twice shown. Some of the agricultural pictures are especially impressive. The Japanese workmen are photographed with their temple. Prince Bismarck's page is of course the feature, and His Highness speaks with great interest and good feeling of the exhibition, praising the appearance of Director General Davis, whom the Prince regards as a typical American gentleman. The Illustrated World's Fair is published by Jewell N. Halligan, general manager; John McGovern, editor; 25 cents a copy, $2.50 a year, McVicker's Theater Building, Chicago. Prince Bismarck's article on the World's Columbian Exposition appears in the November issue of The Illustrated World's Fair.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

THE NEW BODY ORGANIZED AND DOWN TO BUSINESS.

Wm. Aldrich Tateum, of Grand Rapids, Speaker of the House---Bill in the Senate To Repeal the Miner Law---News.

The Democrats are out and the Republicans are in power again in the legislature of Michigan. The session of 1893 has begun with a whirl. In the the Senate Alfred J. Murphy, clerk of the last legislature called the body to order and Rev. C. H. Beale offered prayer. The roll of members was then called and the oath of office administered. The officers of the Senate were then elected as follows—all being selected by the Republican caucus: President pro tem., Senator Hopkins; secretary, D. E. Alward, of Clare; sergeant-at-arms, George H. Bassey, of Wayne; assistant sergeants-at-arms, D. G. Crotty and John Letts; engrossing and enrolling clerk, W. S. Carpenter, of Ypsilanti; assistant, Mrs. Florence Betts, of Detroit; postmistress, Mrs. M. Adele Hazlett; assistant, Mrs. A. G. Mosier, of Grand Rapids.

A committee was appointed to draft suitable resolutions on the death of ex-Gov. Baldwin. Senator Weiss gave notice of a bill to repeal the Miner election law. Ex-Secretary Murphy was granted $25 mileage and expenses—for calling order. Secretary Alward appointed as his assistants, E. V. Chilson, of Oakland, assistant secretary; James G. Clark, of Wayne, bill clerk; George Frost, of Jackson, messenger. Notice was given of contest for the seats of Senator Jordan, of the 15th district, and Senator Mugford, of the 26th district; both were referred. Adjourned.

Clerk Lyman A. Brant called the House of Representatives to order. Rev. Mr. Jordan offered prayer. The roll call showed all members present and all took the oath. The rules of the last legislature were temporarily adopted. The election of speaker then followed and resulted in the choice of Wm. Aldrich Tateum, of Grand Rapids. After he was escorted to his chair and had expressed his thanks a recess was taken.

Upon reassembling the House proceeded with the election of officers. L. M. Miller, of Wayne, was chosen chief clerk, and J. C. Stoner, of Lansing, sergeant-at-arms. The chief clerk appointed S. F. Cook, of Alger, Journal clerk; D. S. Crossman, of Ingham, correspondence clerk; M. L. Munson, of Eaton, financial clerk. A committee was ordered appointed to report resolutions on the death of ex-Gov. Baldwin. After other matters of minor import had been acted upon the House adjourned.

The second day's session was not marked by any important business except the reading of the governors' messages. In the senate a resolution to shorten the legislative session was laid over. Senators Weiss, Hopkins and Turnbull were appointed committee on the death of ex-Gov. Baldwin. The lieutenant-governor announced several appointments. Recess.

In the House notice was given of several bills: To prohibit the use of free railroad passes by state officers, legislators and the judiciary; to provide for better inspection of steam craft; to amend the election laws of the state. Several appointments were made by Speaker Tateum. The committee on contested seats was also announced. Recess.

A joint session of the Senate and House was held and committees appointed to wait upon the outgoing and incoming governors. As the honorable gentlemen entered the chamber all members of the Legislature arose and remained standing until their visitors were seated. Govs. Winans and Rich came first, side by side, then the supreme justices, followed by the state officers. The messages were then read and received with marked attention.

The Electoral College of Michigan.

The Michigan electoral college assembled in the Senate chamber at Lansing. Hon. J. A. Habbell, of Houghton, was made chairman and Henry A. Haigh, secretary. All the electors save J. H. Comstock, of the Twelfth District were present and the alterate represented that district.

The ballot for president and vice-president of the United States resulted as follows: Harrison and Reid, 9; Cleveland and Stevenson, 5.

Henry A. Haigh was elected messenger to carry a statement of the vote to the president of the United States Senate. W. L. Churchill was chosen messengers to carry a duplicate statement to the United States court at Detroit. A third copy of the statement was mailed to Vice-President Morton.

Four Brutal Woodsmen Shot a Boy.

As the mail stage from Rogers City to Alpena, driven by Dick Kelly, passed through Posen four woodsmen named Frank Lafineur, Frank Morrisy, Jacob Minerd and Tom Makoskey, all of whom had been drinking, fired shots—when opposite the dwelling of Simon Konwinski—directly at Andrew, Konwinski's eight-year-old son, shooting off a thumb and two fingers, badly lacerating the hand and inflicting an ugly wound in the breast. The boy was taken to Rogers City, where he lies in a state of collapse.

Mrs. Ansel Witherell, of Franklin, fell on a sidewalk and is fatally hurt.

Bathrick, the Novi fratricide, has has been held to the Oakland county circuit court for trial.

A Populist paper will be established at Grand Rapids. It will be operated on a co-operative plan.

The Chicago & West Michigan road will be extended from Kalkaska to Frederick in the spring.

Several cars were wrecked in the rear end collision on the Chicago & West Michigan at Williamsburg

A tame dove attacked the infant child of A. Fairchilds, of Fallasburg, and picked one eye so badly the sight is ruined.

George E. Ferguson completed a five year term of imprisonment at Jackson and was arrested as he passed out of the prison by the sheriff of Ottawa county. Ferguson is wanted on a charge of burglary.

CONGRESS AGAIN IN SESSION.

SENATE—Fourteenth day—After the holiday recess the Senate again resumed work—of which there is plenty to be done before adjournment, March 3. Mr. McPherson's bill to suspend the purchase of silver bullion under the Sherman act, was discussed, Mr. Allison, one of the international monetary conference delegates, being an interested auditor. The anti-option bill was the subject of an address by Mr. Sherman and others. Mr. Chandler introduced a second immigration restriction bill, with very stringent provisions. Executive session. Adjourned. House.—Small attendance. Private pension bills were taken from the calendar of unfinished business. Mr. Bland said it was time to call a halt in the indiscriminate manner of granting pensions which had now almost entirely depleted the treasury. But one bill was passed and the House, being without a quorum, adjourned.

SENATE, Fifteenth day—Mr. Vilas, of Wisconsin, made a strong address in opposition to the anti-option bill. A House joint resolution covering into the treasury $48,000—excess of the sum due Chickasaw and Choctaw Indians—was passed. A bill was passed compelling witnesses to testify before the inter-state commerce commissioners. A few other matters were given preliminary hearings and after an executive session the Senate adjourned. House.—The fortification appropriations bill passed without amendment or discussion. A few private pension bills were passed and, being without a quorum the House adjourned.

SENATE.—Sixteenth day—The subject of quarantine regulations and the bill to suspend immigration for one year were discussed to the exclusion of all other business. Mr. Chandler spoke for three hours. Senators McPherson, Platt, Mills and Dolph also aired their views. A resolution was adopted asking the secretary of state if the bill to suspend immigration would conflict with existing treaties. Adjourned. House.—Private pension bills occupied the day.

SENATE.—Seventeenth day—The quarantine and immigration questions occupied the session to the exclusion of all other business. House.—This was District of Columbia day and appropriations were the principal features.

SENATE.—Eighteenth day—The joint resolution, directing the secretary of the treasury to suspend all silver purchases under the Sherman act, was discussed and a substitute was offered but laid over indefinitely. Nothing was done with the resolution and the Senate then resumed the quarantine bill. An amendment was offered limiting its operation to January 1, 1895. The amendment was not voted upon and the bill went over without action. Such was also the fate of the McGarrahan claim. No other business was transacted. HOUSE.—The district of Columbia appropriations bill was passed. A bill to promote the efficiency of the military was considered, but not disposed of. A bitter struggle was called up on the bill permitting the Norfolk & Western railroad to enter the District of Columbia. The bill went over and the House adjourned.

CATHOLIC ARCHBISHOPS WAR.

Archbishop Ireland Prefers Serious Charges Against Archbishop Corrigan.

Formal charges of the gravest character have been preferred against Rev. Michael Augustine Corrigan, the Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, by a brother prelate. His grace of New York is accused by Rev. John Ireland, archbishop of St. Paul, of having engaged in an unlawful conspiracy to weaken or undo the effect of the pope's decisions in respect to church matters in America and of having had recourse to methods unbecoming a bishop, designed to discredit and disgrace Archbishop Ireland and Mgr. Satolli, the papal delegate to America. These charges, duly formulated, are now on their way to Rome, where they will be presented to the highest tribunal in the Roman Catholic church.

A Telegrapher Horsewhipped by a Woman.

Arley Harris, a telegraph operator employed by the Michigan Central railroad at Jackson was horsewhipped by a woman. Harris was jerking lightning as usual, when, without warning, he received several stinging blows, in rapid succession across his face and shoulders. Before he could recover himself, his fair assailant disappeared through the doorway, entered a hack and was driven rapidly away. Harris disclaims any knowledge of who the woman was.

A shoe factory will be established at Sturgis.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, January 9.—R. G. Dun & Co's weekly review of trade says: Business for the new year opens well. Every part of the country and nearly in almost every branch of business the traders are looking forward to a year of large transactions. But in financial circles the year opens with a considerable feeling of uncertainty, owing to the revival of gold exports and to the doubts about the action of [illegible]. The government crop report started a little stronger buying, but wheat soon reacted. In spite of as large receipts corn gained over 1c and oats also, while pork rose 5¢, and lard 30c, and hogs 50c per 100 lbs. Coffee is unchanged and oil 1@2c stronger, but cotton showed no change. Speculation in stocks is depressed by monetary anxiety. Government and other large disbursements make the money market easier, but bankers expect exports of gold to continue. The most prosperous year ever known in textile manufactures leaves the full production of most of the mills sold for months ahead, and the year opens with great strength in woolens and cottons. The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number 340 as compared with a total of 435 for the corresponding week of last year.

A Kalamazooo's Strange Disappearance

The continued absence of Robert W. Smith is the general topic of conversation in Kalamazoo. Smith left nearly six weeks ago on a business trip through the southwest and has not been heard from since a month ago, when he was in Iowa. He is well to do but he did not have over $1,000 with him. His business is in good condition and will be continued the same as before. The cause for his absence is a mystery. Some of his intimate friends believe he will return, if alive, but fear that he may have been foully dealt with. One person in Smith's employ says he knows where he is, but is sure he will never be back.

This insures Cadillac's prosperity for at least 15 years to come.

A couple at Holloway started on their wedding tour somewhat hurriedly. INTO A LOCOMOTIVE.

DISASTROUS COLLISION IN CLEVELAND.

A Motorman Loses Control of an Electric Car and as a Result Many People Are Severely Injured—Slippery Tracks the Cause.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 19.—Five persons were injured at a late hour last night in a collision between a street car and a New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio locomotive at the Union Street crossing.

A Newburgh belt line electric motor going toward the city was approaching the crossing at a high rate of speed. The approach to the track on Union Street at that point is down grade. The motorman lost control of the car on account of the slippery condition of the rails and it dashed into a freight engine which was crossing Union Street. The motor-car was badly wrecked. The passengers were thrown violently together and against the front end of the car. The screams of the women and children were frightful for a few moments.

As soon as possible the motorman, conductor and the uninjured passengers began to care for the wounded. They were:

J. POLOCK, bruised on the head.
ARTHUR TAYLER, cut in the face with glass.
WILLIAM L. BUDDILL, 676 Central Avenue; cut in face and head.
Mrs. MARY WELCH, bruised about the head.
WILLIAM CARTER, badly injured in back and arms badly bruised.

IS GEORGE J. INSANE?

Rockford's Bogus Savior Said to Be a Harmless Lunatic.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Jan. 10.—George Jacob Schweinfurth, the auburn-haired divinity of the Weldon farm is insane—or at least is pronounced so by good authority. Helen H. Gardener of New York, sometimes called "Heathen Helen," the well-known novelist and writer on semi-medica topics who has been visiting in Rockford, went to the Weldon heaven yesterday and sat for an hour at the feet of the self-appointed savior not so much to worship as to analyze. She has acquired a high reputation in matters pertaining to the brain and with the various phases of mental disorder. In pursuing her investigations in heredity considerable medical knowledge was necessary and she studied brain anatomy for two years with Dr. Spitzka, the most famous alienist in the country.

Being in the West Miss Gardener determined to see Schweinfurth and investigate so far as possible the mental characteristics of the man, partially from semi-scientific motives and partially with a view to using his peculiar institution in her literary work, either fiction or semi-medical. She came back thoroughly convinced that George Jacob is not a knave but a lunatic; not an object for rage but for pity. In an interview with a correspondent to-day she stated that beyond all question Schweinfurth is a mild sort of lunatic.

With reference to the alleged miraculous births which have occurred at heaven Miss Gardner said: "I would say Schweinfurth is not a sensual man I think he believes in his delusion thoroughly. He might possibly have been lead into immorality by a supposed command from above."

Miss Gardener's interview will create a sensation here. There is talk of empaneling a jury to examine into the bogus Christ's sanity.

MISS RHODES CAUSED HIS FALL

Gen Pocock of Ohio Loses His Commission on Account of the Young Woman.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan 10—A private dispatch from Columbus says that Gov. McKinley yesterday requested Adjt.-Gen. Pocock to hand in his resignation. This is the outcome of a long and bitter fight which nearly all the military men of the State have been waging against Pocock for nearly three months. The trouble was started at the dedication of the World's Fair buildings last October. It is said that Gen. Pocock refused to take his wife with him on the ground that he would be too busy commanding the Ohio troops. When the Governor's staff reached that city, however, the General introduced to them a Miss Rhodes of Zanesville, whom he announced as a friend of the family. So attentive was the General to her that the Ohio troops were very poorly managed. Gov. McKinley relieved him of the command on the second day, placing Assistant Adjt.-Gen. Howe in command.

When the party returned to Columbus the Governor called a meeting of staff officers, and there all of Pocock's actions were discussed. A brigade formation of Ohio troops is to be effected at a meeting to be held here Wednesday, and the regimental officers all over the State have refused to take any part in case Pocock has anything to do with it. Col. Bunker of Toledo placed the matter before the Governor, with the result that Pocock's resignation was demanded. Pocock has employed a detective to obtain avidence that Miss Rhodes is of good character.

Bourse is Depressed.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—The bourse to-day was very much depressed. Credit foncier showed a loss of 24 francs on the day. Spanish 3's declined 1⅝ per cent, while other foreign securities scored losses ranging from ⅛ to 1 per cent.

Socialist is Elected.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—At a by-election in the Albi arrondissement of the department of the Tarn, Prof. Jaures, a Socialist, was elected to the chamber by a large majority. In Carmaux the electorate voted for him almost unanimously.

NO HOPE FOR MR. BLAINE.

Believed That the Great Statesman May Not Live Through the Day.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—"There is no longer any hope. Mr. Blaine may not live through the day and certainly will not be alive when the sun rises to-morrow."

The gentleman who made this statement early this morning is known throughout the country as one of Mr. Blaine's most intimate friends.

He was called to the house yesterday when it was thought Mr. Blaine was dying and will be present to comfort the family when the hour of bereavement comes.

Members of Mr. Blaine's family were greatly relieved this morning when day dawned at the capital. Through the early morning watches they had not slept, but remained in easy call of the sick-room, prepared to be summoned in to witness the closing of the great life at any moment.

Dr. Johnston, the faithful physician, sat by the bedside of the dying statesman most of the night, and a greater part of the time held Mr. Blaine's hand to carefully note any change of pulsation.

When at last the light of morning broke on the capital and the doctor could give hope for another twelve hours members of the family, worn out from constant anxiety and watching, sought rest in a few minutes' slumber, while Dr. Johnston, encouraged by the restful condition of his patient, left the house rubbing his eyes and went to his residence for an hour's rest.

Most of the time Mr. Blaine is unconscious. Once or twice yesterday, during his serious illness, he spoke distinctly and intelligently to those at his bedside, but most of the time he is not mindful of what is going on around him.

BIG FIRE IN NEW YORK.

Furniture Dealers and Neckwear Manufacturers Burned Out.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Shortly after 7 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the six story building at 43 to 47 Elizabeth street, occupied on the first three floors by Frederick Doll & Co., furniture dealers, and by Berliner, Strauss & Danzer and Atlman Summer & Co., neckwear manufacturers. The structure was completely destroyed and a loss of $250,000 sustained.

The fire was discovered by the elevator man in the third floor of the building and he quickly gave the alarm to the 300 employes who had just started work for the day. Many of these were girls employed by the two neckwear factories and there was an immediate panic among them.

The fire escapes and the stairway which had not caught offered means of exit for the scared employes, but there were a number of narrow escapes of some of the frailer women who were caught in the jam on the stairways. All the people, however, got out in safety.

Earthquake in Chile.

VALPARAISO, Jan. 10.—Reports have been received by the director of the observatory at Santiago from both the northern and southern provinces of an earthquake shock Wednesday of greater severity than has been felt in Chile for many years. The shocks lasted from thirty to fifty seconds. Little damage was done.

Although the Brazilian Minister at Buenos Ayres denies the existence of an alliance between Chile and Brazil, neither the Chilean foreign office nor the Brazilian Minister at Santiago will either affirm or deny it.

A correspondent at Montevideo reports that affairs in Corrientes are progressing toward a settlement on the basis of the removal of Verner The national troops are disarming the belligerents. Fear of a revolution grows in Buenos Ayres on account of the irrdgular conduct of the government.

Populists Hold the Power.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—G. R. Tingle, one of the leading Democrats of Montana, came to New York with Senator Gorman a few days ago to see Mr. Cleveland. The object of his visit to New York was to confer with the President-elect about the Montana Senatorship. "The Montana Senate," he said, "seven Republicans and nine Democrats, and the three Populists in the House seem to hold the balance of power. The Populists have made terms with the Democrats. They have agreed to support a Democrat providing his views on the silver question are in accord with theirs. As a result of this deal a Democrat is almost certain to be elected."

Revealed the Robbery.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 10.—A systematic robbery, by which the Cramer Dry Plate Company of Buena Vista and Shenandoah Streets in the last three years has lost silver valued at $6,000, has been revealed through the arrest of Anthony Weiss, alias Dehm, Julian Miller, alias Warth, and Nicholas Schmidt, on a charge of larceny. Other arrests may follow. The prisoners are members of a gang of whom Weiss is the leader.

An Escaped Murderer Captured.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 10.—C. R. Carter, who six years ago was sentenced at Mount Vernon, Mo., to be hanged for the murder of Robert Crockett, and who escaped from custody before the sentence could be executed, has been arrested here. At the time of his arrest he was going under the name of R. C. Rose. Carter will be held until requisition papers arrive.

Killed by a Falling Tree.

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 10.—The prolonged absence of Lester Heidler and Samuel Niece, two young farmers living near Fairview, who had gone out to work in the woods, led to a search Saturday evening the men were found under a tree which they had felled. Heidler was lying under the trunk of the tree, crushed out of all human semblance.

MATTERS OF MOMENT.

MICHIGAN NEWS OF MORE OR LESS IMPORTANCE.

Senator Stockbridge Chosen to Succeed Himself as Michigan's Representative in the United States Senate.

The hardest battle, for the position of United States senator from Mishigan, which has been ought since the overthrow of Zach Chandler has taken place at Lansing. Senator Francis B. Stockbridge and ex-Gov. Cyrus G. Luce were the leading candidates and they and their friends had been hustling ever since the Republican victory in Michigan at the last election.

Matters were at fever heat when the caucus of legislators gathered to make their selection. State Senator Clapp, of Battle Creek, placed the name of Hon. Francis B. Stockbridge before the caucus and Mr. Ewing, of Hillsdale, did like honor for Hon. Cyrus G. Luce, while Mr. Chamberlain, of Gogebic, suggested Jay A. Hubbell. Several others were mentioned and seconded and a rising vote was taken which resulted as follows:

Francis B. Stockbridge, 48; Cyrus G. Luce, 20; Jay A. Hubbell, 10; William Hartauff, 2; J. G. Ramsdell, 2; O. L. Spaulding, 2; James O'Donnell, 1; B. M. Cutcheon, 1; J. C. Fitzgerald, 1. The vote was then made unanimous.

A LYNCHING PROBABLE.

Upper Peninsula People Aroused Over an Atrocious Murder.

Dr. Nicholas Melosche, of Portage Entry, who was shot by Erick Kagas, a Findlander, is dead. The only provocation for the crime was the doctor's refusal to dress a man's wounds in a saloon where a drunken row, resulting in the usual humane carving match, had taken place. Dr. Melosche was one of the most prominent physicians on Lake Superior, having been surgeon of the Quincy copper mine for years.

Sheriff Dunn has the murderer safely lodged in jail at Houghton together with all his associates in the fight. Although the jail is one of the best in the upper peninsula, unless there is something done to quell the feeling of the populace, Kagas will never be tried by a jury. The feeling against him is intense, for his crime was the most cold-blooded affair.

Gov. Richs' Reception.

Gov. Rich, in accordance with the usual custom, gave an informal reception in the executive parlors at Lansing. First the judges of the supreme court were admitted, followed by the officers, senators, representatives, members of state boards and finally by all citizens of Michigan generally who possessed the fortitude and the strength to withstand the jam which filled the halls and corridors. Gov. Rich stood next the entrance. Close at his side was Mrs. Rich, then ex-Governor and Mrs. Luce, and beside them Senator Stockbridge. Gov. Winans, not being in good health, was unable to remain but a few minutes. The executive parlors were beautifully decorated with flowers and hothouse plants. Prof. Louis Boos' band from Jackson discoursed excellent music from the floor of the rotunda during the reception, and the presence of the military of Jackson and Lansing added stateliness and brilliancy to the occasion.

Jail Birds' Clever Escape.

When the turnkey visited the cells of Bay county jail the other morning he found that three prisoners, John Morgan, forger, Wm. Turner, burglar, and Ed Wright, till tapper, had effected their escape during the night. The prisoners had help from the outside, as a lighted candle and the tools with which they had worked were found near the window through which they escaped. Two of the prisoners placed dummies in their cells and hid from the turnkey when he made his rounds. Blankets from empty cells were used to deaden the noise they in escaping made.

A Blind and Lame Woman Burned to Death

Henry Van Wie, living three miles southeast of Hudson, heard the cries of his wife, while he was attending to farm duties. Hastening to the house he found her body burned to a crisp and lying near the back door. She was blind and crippled, and it is thought that her clothing caught fire from the stove. An overturned water pail near where she was lying indicated the desperate effort she had made to save herself. She was about 60 years old. The dwelling took fire, but the flames were put out before much damage was done.

A Perilous Lake Voyage.

After being on her way for seven days, the steamer Sea Gull arrived at Charlevoix from Chicago, Capt. Gebbo with a crew of five men being on board. For 18 miles out of Chicago she made her way through ice. During 48 hours she was in a total calm off Sheboygan, Wis., and after that she had 40 miles of slush ice. The whole trip was in a continual snow storm, eight inches of snow falling on the deck during the last night. For 56 hours the captain remained at his post on deck.

An Insane Mother Tries to Kill Her Babe.

Mrs. George Grove, wife of a Kalamazoo mail carrier, has, it is said, attempted several times of late to kill her 2-year-old child, and the greatest precautions have been taken to prevent her from carrying out her insane idea. She imagines that the innocent babe is the cause of all her troubles. An application has been made to the probate court for her admission to the asylum.

A Young Man Suicides.

Gust Norquist a clerk in the store of Skudd Bros., Ironwood, committed suicide. He was found by Adolph Skudd, when he opened the store. Norquist's body lay in a pool of blood on the floor. He had shot himself in the temple. The deceased was an exemplary young Swede and was unmarried.

When Deputy Sheriff Myron attempted to arrest George Huston, of Greenwood, who was insane, Huston fled to the garret and drank a bottle of carbolic acid. He died in 10 minutes.

THE VALUE OF A SINGLE VOTE

A tie vote on two legislative candidates in Kansas at the last election was decided by lot. The value of a single vote was thus made apparent. A RUNNING SORE FOR TEN YEARS.

ATHENS, PA., June 27th, 1892.

I have been afflicted with a fever sore, what the doctors call a "Varicose Ulcer," for the last ten years. My leg was very much swollen much of the time and was a running sore during the whole time. I was under the care of good physicians the most of the time, but no treatment seemed to do any good until I procured a box of Parmelee's Household Ointment from our druggist, Joseph Hines, of Athens, Pa., and one box completely healed my leg and I now consider it cured, as it has remained healed, and has given me no trouble for the last six months.

STEPHEN MCKINNEY.

Mr. Hines, the druggist referred to, certifies to the above, and adds: "Mr. McKinney has suffered very much with his leg, having been confined to the house and unable to use his leg at all. He is very enthusiastic in the praise of Parmelee's Ointment."

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn" but his inhumanity to horses makes the hearts of many burn with righteous indignation. Where a horse is tied on main street where he can get the full benefit of the wind, and left standing from eight o'clock in the morning until five at night, without food or water, and with mercury hovering about zero, it is time that indignant citizens take the matter in their own hands and at least take care of the horse.

WINTRY BLASTS.

New York City and Vicinity in the Grasp of a Blizzard.

Traffic of All Kinds Impeded. Damage on the New Jersey Coast—A Furious Storm in Michigan—Suffering in Germany.

BAD WEATHER DOWN EAST.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A blinding snowstorm raged in New York all night and until 10 o'clock a. m. The wind blew a gale and piled the drifts in the open places from 3 to 6 feet high, and in the suburbs much higher. Many of the street car lines were blocked until the tracks were cleared. The cable line on the Brooklyn bridge broke down early in the morning and thousands of people were compelled to walk across in the storm. Alfred Murphy, a night ticket agent of the downtown elevated railway station, while clearing away the snow at 8 o'clock a. m. fell in a heap of snow and expired. Shipping was seriously handicapped.

The storm was at its worst in New Jersey. All the street car lines in Jersey City were blockaded by the drifts, which were in some instances 6 feet deep, and the sidewalks were impassable. Very few people ventured to walk to the ferries to come to New York. At May's landing, in South Jersey, the worst storm since the blizzard of five years ago raged. At last reports the snow was 15 inches deep on the level and in places was drifted to a depth of 8 feet. All trains are delayed, as the snow is drifting badly on the tracks.

The streets in Long Island City were practically impassable, and several street car lines are not running, the roads being completely snowed under. Many of the railroad trains from the east end of the island are not yet in, notwithstanding that the snow plows have been at work all night. In Suffolk county the snow has drifted into the railroad cuts 8 feet high, and will have to be dug out.

At Long Branch the storm wrought terrible damage to property and the bluff. The famous iron pier, the landing place of the Iron Steamboat company, is a total wreck. The high sea carried off a greater portion of the structure. The entire bluff on Chelsea avenue is gone. The Shrewsbury hotel at Sea Bright is being undermined. The bulkheads and bluff at that place are also going to pieces.

BLACKSTONE, Mass., Jan. 7.—Eighteen inches of snow have fallen on the level in the towns of North Bridge, Bridge, Millville and Blackstone, being the heaviest fall since the blizzard of 1888. Railway travel on the Consolidated and New England railroads was delayed. The average depth both north and south of these points is about 6 inches.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 7.—Dispatches from Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Holland and South Haven, on the eastern coast of Lake Michigan, and Escanaba and Decatur, Mich., indicate that one of the heaviest snowstorms in years has been raging. The storm was general throughout the state, but most severe in the vicinity of the places named. The snow drifted into the cuts and delayed railroad traffic generally, and country highways are also badly blockaded. Trains on the Chicago & West Michigan road have been badly delayed by drifting sand and snow, but the service is getting around to its usual shape.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The cold weather continues unabated. Two persons have been frozen to death at Toulouse and one at Bordeaux. The River Rhone is frozen over at Tarascon, the Garonne at Toulouse and the canal at Marseilles.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—A heavy mantle of snow covers the city of Berlin and all the surrounding country. The snow is so deep in the city streets that it has been found necessary to substitute sleighs for cabs and other wheeled vehicles. The sufferings of the people are increased by a growing scarcity of coal, due to the miners' strike in the Saar district. The mercury sank to 6 degrees below zero Friday.

Several persons have been frozen to death at Thorn and other places on the Vistula. The River Main, from Elvershein to its confluence with the Rhine, and the Rhine from Loreley to Caub, are frozen almost solid. Canal traffic has been almost completely stopped by the cold spell, and many people employed on the canal boats are out of work.

TELLER POPE CAPTURED.

The Man Who Robbed the Louisville Bank Caught in Florida.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 7.—William H. Pope, who on March 1, 1890, while occupying the position of teller of the Louisville city national bank, decamped with over $70,000 of the bank's funds, has been captured at Starke, Fla. He was identified by a Louisville man, an intimate friend. Officers have gone to Florida with the requisition papers.

A Mail Box Rifled.

SALT LAKE CITY, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Two men wrenched the lock off a United States mail box in this city yesterday and appropriated an armful of letters, among them being some containing drafts and checks amounting to $50,000, mailed by the Consolidated Implement company to eastern firms.

Ice Bridge at Niagara.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. Jan. 7.—Cold weather has formed an immense ice bridge at the falls, and Niagara river below the whirlpool, clear to its mouth at Youngstown, is frozen over, a condition which has not existed before in ten years.

A Church Burned.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Jan. 9.—The First Baptist church was burned at Saturday. Loss, $110,000; insurance, $30,000. The fire started from one of the furnaces and burned itself out, as the firemen were helpless.

Death of a Heavy-Weight.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 9.—Charles Uzay, police judge, died Friday. He was probably the largest man on the Pacific coast, weighing 480 pounds.

CHUNKS OF ICE.

They Form a Gorge in the Ohio at Cincinnati.

In This Frozen Raft All the Coal Fleets and Nine Packets Are Locked—Immense Damage Done When the Mass Breaks.

IN ICY CLUTCHES.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 9.—The ice gorge in the Ohio river broke Sunday afternoon and the worst fears of the river men have been realized. The moderating weather and the great pressure of the immense fields of ice caused the crash to come earlier than was anticipated. Word comes from Delhi that fifty men are in a perilous position on several coal barges floating down the river. They passed Delhi, 10 miles below Cincinnati, at 7 o'clock. Fears were entertained of a crash between Delhi and North Bend, as the ice in that vicinity was moving slowly and liable to gorge at any time. Collier and Budd, with four barges, were following up right behind.

The gorge that moved past Cincinnati extended from Coney island, above the mouth of the Little Miami, to below Anderson's ferry, a distance of nearly 18 miles. For 2 miles below this the water was clear and open. Then came another gorge, beginning at the month of the Great Miami and extending below Lawrenceburg. This lower gorge was about 5 miles long. The upper gorge with its doomed coal fleets crashed into it and tore it out and now both are grinding their way with a terrific roaring far down the Ohio at 5 or 6 miles an hour.

By 9 o'clock p. m. all apparent danger to the steamers at the landing was over. The gorge had passed and the river was comparatively clear. One towboat, the Mattheson, owned by Marmet & Co., valued at $10,000, was sunk and destroyed.

Down below the destruction of coal barges and other property, from accounts at this hour, has been terrible. The harbor towboats Comet, Benwood and Alice Barr were going down with the gorge, fully manned and working heroically to break the ice and save property.

Here is the nearest approach to an approximation of the destruction of coal fleets: Forty-five loaded barges, worth $4,000 each, $180,000; six empty barges, worth $2,000 each, $120,000. Grand total, $300,000.

Add to this a corrected statement of the value of Marmet's towboat Mattheson, which the owner puts at $10,000, and we have a grand total of $310,000. This includes the boats that were carried away last Friday. Not one cent of insurance is held on any of this property.

Won by Stockbridge.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 6.—Francis B. Stockbridge, of Kalamazoo, will succeed himself as United States senator from Michigan, having secured the republican caucus nomination on the first ballot Thursday night. Eighty-six votes were cast, with the following result: Stockbridge, 46; Luce, 20; Hubbell, 9; Hartsuff, 4; J. G. Ramsdell, 2; Oliver L. Spaulding, 2; John C. Fitzgerald, 1; Byron M. Cutcheon, 1; James O'Donnell, 1. The nomination of Stockbridge was then made unanimous.

It Was a Hoax.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Jan. 7.—Two correspondents sent by the Citizen to Bakersville, N. C., where that battle was said to have taken place, have returned, worn out and disgusted, having traveled nearly 100 miles with horses and in a continuous snowstorm. They say there has been no trouble whatever at Bakersville, nor is there reason to expect any.

Want Over $20,000,000.

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 9.—A petition to congress is being prepared by farmers and alliance men asking for another appropriation of $21,500,000 for construction of a people's railroad from the gulf of Mexico to the British possessions. It is claimed that the petition will receive over a million signatures.

Cockrell Chosen in Missouri.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 6.—The democratic joint caucus of the general assembly renominated F. M. Cockrell for United States senator by acclamation, starting him on his fourth term. The effort to indorse Gov. Francis for a cabinet position was defeated by the chairman adjourning the caucus.

Deadly Gas.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 9.—By an explosion of gas Saturday a house was wrecked, three persons killed and several injured. The list of the killed is as follows: Thomas Duffy, aged 35, ironworker; Mrs. Sophia Duffy, aged 33; daughter of Mrs. Duffy, aged 9 years.

Wheat, Corn and Oats.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The final estimates of the agricultural department for the year 1892 give crop productions as follows: Wheat, 515,949,000 bushels, value $322,111,881; corn, 1,628,464,000 bushels, value $642,146,630; oats, 661,035,000 bushels, value $209,253,911.

Frightful Accident in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 9.—A frightful accident is reported from Eischischek in the province of Wilna. The boiler of the public baths at that place exploded and six persons were instantly killed and fifteen mortally injured.

Nebraska's Deadlock Broken.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 7.—The deadlock in the senate has been broken by the election of Correll (rep.) president of the senate. Four democrats out of five gave him their support. The senate adjourned until next Tuesday.

Pierce's Appointment Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The senate has confirmed the following nomination: Gilbert A. Pierce, of Minnesota, to be United States minister resident and consul general to Portugal.

Lost Millions.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The lower and middle classes of England lost $35,000,000 by the collapse of the Liberal Building society of this city.

IN THE

North American Review

YOU WILL ALWAYS FIND

THE TOPICS are always those which are uppermost in the public mind—in morals, politics, science, literature, business, finance, industrial economy, social and municipal affairs, etc.—in short, all subjects on which Americans require and desire to be informed. No magazine follows so closely from month to month the course of public interest. All subjects are treated of impartially on both sides.

THE CONTRIBUTORS to the Review are the men and women to whom the world looks for the most authoritative statements on the subjects of the day. No other periodical prints such a succession of distinguished writers. The list is a role of the people who are making in history, controlling the affairs, and leading the opinion of the age, such as Mr. Gladstone, the Prime Minister of England; Mr. Blaine; Signor Crispi, Ex-Prime Minister of Italy, Baron Hirsch; H. R. H. the Count of Paris; Cardinal Gibbons; Bishops Potter, Doane, Mallalieu, Foss, etc.

THE TIME when these subjects are treated of by these contributors is the very time when the subjects are in the public mind—not a month or two after the people have ceased to think of them. The promptness with which the Review furnishes its readers with the most authoritative information upon the topics of the day is one of its most valuable features.

Mrs. Margaret Stout is suffering from an attack of la grippe.

Miss Lyra Allshouse is on the sick list but is reported on the gain to-day.

No, it is not because he is so proud that Henry Fuller will not even turn his head to speak to a friend; it is a large boil on his neck.

When did that time-honored individual, the "oldest inhabitant," ever see finer winter weather than we are now enjoying, or better sleighing?

Clarence Vanderpool, who came off second best in a scuffle with a sawlog last week, is, we are glad to say, able to limp about a little at this writing.

Harry Vanderpool, of this place, has shown himself a very thoughtful householder and a good provider by laying in a supply of Cole to last his lifetime; that is, if death or the divorce court does not interfere.

Mr. Elijah Buck, who suffered a stroke of paralysis last week, is still in a very precarious condition, although his friends have strong hopes of his ultimate recovery. He has regained the use of his eyes and is able to give some directions concerning the store and postoffice.

Richard Jones, of Bowdle, Edmonds county, South Dakota, is smiling on his old friends after some years' absence in the west. How is it, Dick, with such a handsome face and aldermanic proportions, to say nothing about a good bank account, that you are still in single harness? Pretty hard to please, eh?

Mrs. Henry Tingley, nee Frances Pawson, gave an old-fashioned quilting bee at the home of her parents in Franklin last Saturday, at which twenty-nine people sat down to dinner. To keep the men present from pricking their fingers, tangling the thread and bothering the girls generally, they—the men—were sent off to the woods hunting until dinner time, and when they returned each man had succeeded in capturing a huge appetite for dinner, besides the other game. Altogether, those from this place who attended declare it away ahead of anything else for a good social time.

MACON MUSIC.

Now is the time to get those logs in for sidewalks.

Supervisor Pennington met with the board at Adrian last week.

The farmers from a distance who need drain tile are improving the fine sleighing hauling from Sage's tile works.

The chicken pie social at Calvin Davenport's last Friday night was well attended and all did their part in devouring eleven fine chicken pies. The general summing up made an addition of twelve dollars and forty cents to the treasury.

The beautiful home of Mr. C. S. Foote, of Ridgeway, was filled to overflowing last Saturday by a joyous company of his friends from the Sunday School of the Reformed Church of South Macon, the occasion being to give him in this way a token of their esteem for him as Superintendent of the Sunday School, which post he has filled most acceptably for twelve years without interruption. His Bible class of young ladies gave him a beautiful book entitled "City Legends" as a token of their appreciation of his faithfulness in teaching, and his friends in the entire School presented him with a beautiful solid oak chair, carved and upholstered, purchased of Mr. Kinney, of Tecumseh. The honor of presenting the book and chair was granted to the pastor, J. I. Gulick, and called forth a neat impromptu speech from the surprised Superintendent. Such gatherings are rare but very enjoyable. A bountiful dinner was served and at a late hour of the afternoon all returned to their homes, rejoicing in these hours of social enjoyment and of real friendships only made stronger.

Mr. Dewitt Martin and wife have the full sympathy of the entire community in the death of their most beautiful and bright babe. It was sick with whooping cough for nearly six weeks and was supposed to be almost well again when it was suddenly taken with inflammation of the lungs and in its weakened state could not survive. The funeral services were held in the Reformed Church of South Macon on Sunday, January 8th, at 2 p. m. The crowded church attested the feeling of deep sympathy of the entire community with the bereaved parents. All that parental love could suggest was done for its comfort while living, and all that the love of parents and friends could provide or suggest was done in order to lay the little body away in the dust, within its beautiful casket, to await the morning of the Resurrection. "It is well" with the child. G.

Misses Vaile and Love, of Adrian, spent Sunday with Ollie Mead.

A company of about twenty-five young people from the Seminary had a very pleasant surprise at Ollie Mead's, Saturday night.

Two funerals occurred at Little Hope last week, that of Joseph Haughtby and Milton Jefferson both of whom died quite suddenly.

Christmas and the Exposition.

America is not without her Christmas present.

The December issue of the "World's Columbian Exposition Illustrated" comes to us dressed in a specially designed lithographed cover. On the front page Santa Claus is shown as presenting the World's Columbian Exposition as a Christmas present to Miss Columbia, who posing in her dignity, gracefully accepts it, with thanks to her enterprising citizens. The scene is produced in rich colors and to be appreciated must be seen.

This number is attractive by its numerous official photographs of the dedicative parades, also illustrations of the Turkish, German and Irish villages to be produced at the Fair. In addition to this are the buildings of the French Colonies, Colorado Cliff Dwellers, while Hon. John T. Harris of Virginia is the frontispiece.

Among the leading articles are "Open the Fair Sunday," "Directors' Resolution on Sunday Closing," Transportation Department, "Music Department," "Description of Foreign Exhibits, etc. The Woman's Department is replete with interesting information regarding the women's work.

In all, this number is the richest yet published, and as this is the only publication entirely devoted to the Exposition interests, while answering for a complete guide, the entire issue will form an authentic history of the World's Columbian Exposition. The publishers want reliable agents in each town. Sample copy of Christmas issue sent for twenty-five cents. Address

J. B. CAMPBELL,
150 Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

Mollie: What are you going to give Charley for Christmas? Jenny: A parrot. Mollie: Do you think he will be pleased with it? Jennie: Oh, yes; it can help him swear when the Christmas bills begin to come in.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier is admirably adapted to make "a little health go a long way." Its curative power is largely attributable to its stimulant, tonic and nutritive properties, by which the energy of the system is recruited. It is pleasant to the taste, easily borne on the stomach and harmless under prolonged use. Try it.

HOLLOWAY HASH.

Sol. Billmeyer of Cambridge was visiting friends here the first of the week.

Chas. Baker of Adrian was down last Saturday evening, visiting at H. H. Osgood's and inspecting the creamery.

Parties from Wolf Creek interested in a creamery at that place were here getting pointers and looking over our creamery last Friday.

We are of the opinion that we shall have to get a larger pencil or buy the compositor a pair of spectacles. He mixed our item at the close of last weeks correspondence so bad that we were unable to recognize it at all. It should have read: Thomas and Fred Hartman and Mrs. Lozier, brothers and sister of Harvey and Joe Hartman of this place, and O. L. Smith, all from Ohio.

The Holloway correspondent for the Adrian Telegram thought we were a little too previous in announcing that Grover Cleveland was to have Holloway creamery butter at Washington D. C. as Benny was there yet. We have since been informed that Grover will have his Holloway butter just the same as they have sent a consignment to York state, and received returns. That shipped to Washington will be stored, till after the 4th of March.

Quite a little sport was occasioned here, by the cutting of the first creamery cheese, on Saturday, last which was divided among the stockholders. Some however were lucky and others were not. One of the stockholders left his piece in the creamery to be called for later on: when he came to look for it, it was gone. Another took his home and fed it to his chickens; didn't know whether they were alive this morning or not. Another liked the cheese so well that he took all he could lay his hands on. Follow up this clue and may be you will find your cheese.

LAKE RIDGE LAGONICS.

Good sleighing.

Logs are coming in the mill yard.

There is a rush of wood and bolts.

Miss Aggie Stewart is convalescing from measles.

Orrel Harmon resumed studies at Cleary's college of Ypsilanti last Monday.

Donna, two-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Martin, died Jan. 6th of whooping cough and inflammation of the lungs. Donna was a general favorite.

While David Preston and Herbert Cranshaw were felling a lodged tree in Henry McCarbery's woods last Friday, through some mishap the tree fell on Preston breaking two ribs and his collar bone.

Neighbors and friends to the number of 25 or 30, met at James Patterson's last Wednesday, and sawed, split, drew and piled up at Mrs. Mary J. Stewart's 25 or 30 cords of stove wood, as a sympathetic cold weather offering.

Between 7 and 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, a grand meteoric illumination was witnessed by many in this vicinity resulting from a large meteor, the size of a half bushel, comet shaped, originating near here, moving in a South westerly direction and bursting just beyond Ridgeway, throwing off sparks in its flight and terminating in a beautiful spray, resembling a huge skyrocket, followed by a low rumbling noise like that of distant thunder.

Remember the club meeting at Isaac Pennington's Wednesday eve, the 25th inst. Everybody invited. In connection with a literary and musical program, will be a paper on "road making," followed by discussion. Governors and congressmen are agitating the "good road" question. In fact the national government and money power are pulling all the ropes for an excuse to renew the government bond fraud. Extensive "road making" will give them a grand opportunity. We want good roads and should push the work, but not under a bond or tax system. So come out and discuss the question from a reasonable and fair standpoint.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

has won, on merit alone, a widespread and enduring reputation. It is a combination of vegetable agents, the result of the experience of one who made the diseases of women a life-long study. Taken according to directions the organs awake to new life and energy, leaving the woman free from pain at these periods. Sold by Jno. Orr.

Mr. Leland T. Powers has achieved fame as an impersonator of character, and the entertainment furnished by him last evening, was charming in every respect. To say that it was capital but feebly defines its excellence. The impersonations were marvels of genius. In the beautiful comedy of David Garrick he showed his almost limitless capabilities. Besides the great diversity of minor characters there was the noble Garrick himself, the magnificence of whose character and personage Mr. Powers portrayed with faultless skill. The audience went into raptures and it is no wonder. It was an evening of unalloyed pleasure.—Brooklyn Eagle.

TECUMSEH, MICH., JAN. 19, 1893.

The right man for Secretary of State is Don M. Dickinson, and his Michigan friends would like to know, you know, why he does'nt accept the tender.

The monkey and parrot time, in which the Kansas legislature is now indulging, is another most emphatic argument in favor of electing U. S. Senators by popular vote.

Old Roman Thurman has been heard from. He has started out on the second month of his 80th year, and all he wants of President elect Cleveland is a photograph of Baby Ruth.

Old Probs is giving us some very respectable winter weather these days. With the thermometer hovering near zero and with splendid sleighing, the most fastidious man should be satisfied.

No change will be made by this Congress in the meeting of Congress and for the inauguration of President, the House having defeated the resolution providing for the change by a vote of 121 to 49.

Cabinet Slates are plenty these days. It is safe to predict however that Carlisle and Morrison will both be "in it", and if the whole cabinet is constructed after the same pattern the people will have no cause to complain.

The death of Gen. B. F. Butler removes from earth one of the most prominent public characters of the war and reconstruction era. Whatever men may think of his political course, none can deny that he was a man of wonderful versatility and intellectual vigor.

The choice of Edward Murphy, Jr., for U. S. Senator to represent the great state of New York, is very disappointing to the Democratic masses generally. True, he is the peer of the present incumbent, Frank Hiscock, but the people had a right to expect better things from a Democratic legislature.

Mr. Cleveland is a great puzzle to the republicans. His courage and common sense make him conspicuously great but the republicans deny his greatness, and talk of his luck and ponderosity and all that sort of thing. If Lincoln was great then Cleveland is great, for their leading characteristics are decidedly similar

The Free Press says: "Everybody can laugh over the ridiculous factional fight in the Lower House of Delaware's Legislature. It contains two Republicans, and they are at each other hammer and tongs, trying to determine which shall be the acknowledged leader of the minority.

It was very kind of Mr. Tom Platt to send Mr. Cleveland a permit to deadhead anything he pleased over the lines of the United States Express company, and it was not unkind of Mr. Cleveland to send it back—as he did, probably on the ground that Democrats do not elect Presidents to be deadheads in Mr. Platt's enterprises.

The St. Louis Republic asks this very pertinent question: "Before Mr. Murphy is admitted to the senate we trust that a committee will be appointed to ascertain whether it has been his habit to put aloes in his beer. No man who is not above suspicion of making an article of beer less pure than that sold over Mr. Morton's bar is worthy to sit in the United States Senate to represent the great and civilized State of New York.

The selection of Ed. Murphy for Senator in New York is the opening gun in what is likely to be a bitter factional war in that State. Luckily the machine has struck the first blow, and Cleveland is not the man to surrender in such a conflict. Let the New York factions proceed with their Kilkenny cat fight. The Northwest and the South will control the Democratic party and national politics hereafter.

The interest of the entire population—consumers as well as manufacturers—clearly forbid the withdrawal of every particle of our tariff duties at one sweep. It is fortunate that the work to be done will be controlled by intelligent and careful men who cannot be induced to support a policy of destruction, but are determined to put in force, with due deliberation, a policy of justice that will preserve and encourage rather than destroy or injure those interests which deserve to be preserved and encouraged for the common good.

The election of Edward Murphy to the U. S. Senate may revolutionize some of the "customs of that body. Will not "senatorial courtesy" require the Solons of that body to drink Troy beer hereafter instead of cold tea?

A present consisting of a pair of woolen gloves has arrived from England for Mr. Cleveland, and now awaits his pleasure. The tariff has not been paid, and if Mr. Cleveland wishes the gloves he must pay duties at the rate of 49 1-2 cents per pound and 60 5-8 cents ad valorem. They were probably sent by some good democrat sojourning on the other side as a reminder of the necessity of an extra session in which the iniquitous tariff must be handled without gloves.

President Harrison has put all the free delivery postoffices under the operation of the civil service law, thus adding, it is estimated, 7,000 new places to the classified service. This is a good thing to do, but why did President Harrison delay doing it till the end of his term—that is, till he had himself had all the partisan manipulation of these 7,000 places that he could have? Death bed repentance, perhaps, is better than none, but it may occur in such a manner as to excite suspicion of a man's sincerity.

The nomination of Murphy by the Democratic caucus at Albany insures his election to the United States Senate. The selection is a defiance of the Cleveland sentiment in the State and an invitation by the Hill machine of a conflict with the coming Democratic administration, and with all the forces of the opposition to the continued denomination of the machine in the Democratic party of New York. It is just as well that this conflict should be precipitated by the machine itself, for it was bound to come, and the more arrogant and defiant the leaders show themselves the more certain and complete will be the disaster that awaits them.—N. Y. Times.

For the second time within less than nine months the Vice President's desk in the Senate chamber was last week presided over by Cardinal Gibbons, of the Roman Catholic Church, arrayed in his impressive canonical robes and accompanied by the insignia of his position. The first time was last May, when the Cardinal conducted the funeral services of the late Senator Barbour, of Virginia, and last week he was there, assisted by Bishop Keane, of the Catholic University, and a half-score of priests, to conduct the funeral services of Senator Kenna, of West Virginia. The floor and galleries were crowded to their full capacity, and few who were present will ever forget the scene.

The receipts of the treasury are spent from week to week as they come in. There is no "available surplus" other than small amounts of fractional currency and the deposits with national banks. For a year past the Harrison administration has been seriously embarrassed to make ends meet, and now, with pensions constantly increasing, it is preparing to leave the Cleveland administration "the bag to hold." The management of national finances will be no easy matter for the next four years, but by lowering the duties of the McKinley law and by increasing the whiskey tax the Democrats will be able to meet the increasing expense of pensions without serious difficulty—except to the people who have to pay the taxes. —St. Louis Republic.

The election of U. S. Senators by the people is a reform that must come at an early day. The St. Louis Republic truly says: The election of Senators by the legislatures has ceased to give average results that accord with a republican form of government. Not even the form is preserved when, as in New Hampshire, a mere clerk unseats enough members of a majority to turn it into a minority, nor is it longer the American republican form when the courts are used to control legislatures in their organization, with the ulterior purpose of defeating one candidate and electing another. The election of United States Senators by direct vote will not be a cure-all, but it will be a great improvement on the present system, for which improvement must come soon, unless the long succession of frauds and usurpations it has made easily possible are really to end in actual violence and in a Mexicanized Senate.

The House Ways and Means Committee favors the repeal of the sugar bounty law, and it is probable that the committee will make a favorable report on Representative Scott's bill providing for its repeal. Representative Scott claims that a canvass he has made of the House and Senate shows that the bill will pass, but others say that it will be impossible to get the bill through the Senate, unless it be amended so as to put a tax on foreign sugar. There is an impression, however, that if the bill gets to the Senate a number of Republican Senators who supported the bounty clause of the McKinley tariff bill under compulsion will gladly vote for its repeal as a matter of principle. The two Louisiana Senators and Senator Peffer are expected to vote against repeal, unless their sugar-raising constituents are protected by a tax on foreign sugar, but no case is recalled of Congress having restored the tax on an article after having once taken it off, and precedent always plays an influential part in Congressional legislation.

Col. Watterson's Wager.

We may regard it as certain that the Hon. John Griffith Carlisle has consented to be secretary of the Treasury in Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet. Nothing less than an absolute conviction of certainty could have justified the Hon. Henry Watterson in making the following utterance:

"While the Courier-Journal in no sense pretends to speak for the Senator, or for the President-elect, or for anybody except itself, and while now and then one or two of its predictions have gone astray, as it were, it hereby offers to bet the Star-eyed Goddess and every shred of her new Inauguration Ball costume against a last year's Harrison and Reid election ticket, that the next Secretary of the Treasury will be John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky."

Nothing could be a better symbol of the absolutely worthless than an old ballot: nothing symbolizes so well the innermost quintessence of supreme loveliness, perfect virtue, and dazzling economic health as the Star-eyed Goddess. Symbolizes? Nay, is! Beauty, virtue, wisdom are only nicknames of her, and with what constant chivalric devotion has Col. Watterson worshipped her. With what dithyrambs of whirling fire, and panegyrics sweeter than Assyrian amomum or the heart of the Blue Grass he has celebrated her. Not Lesbia, nor Beatrice, nor Laura, nor Lydia Pinkham, has been so enshrined in the memories of men. Would the Colonel part from her? Why, the head is not more native to the heart. Would the Colonel let her appear at the Inauguration Ball without her inauguration costume—but let us favor our tongues and not blaspheme. Henry Watterson certainly will not allow the Star-eyed to catch cold on the Fourth of March or any other day.

The solemn nature of the odds which Col. Watterson lays so blithely is sufficient proof of the sincerity of his belief and the correctness of his information. Mr. Carlisle will be the man.—N. Y. Sun.

The New York Senatorship.

Edward Murphy bears the same relation to the Democratic organization of New York that Senator Quay bears to the Republican organization of Pennsylvania. He is the undoubted favorite of the active rain-and-shine Democratic workers of the Empire State, as Quay is of the active rain-and-shine Republican workers of this State; and there is not a shade of sentimentalism in the politics of either. The action of the New York Electoral College nominating Mr. Murphy for Senator with but few dissenting votes, before voting for Cleveland for President, was conclusive proof of the purpose and power of the Democratic organization of New York to have him as Senator regardless of the approval or disapproval of the President-elect.

True, it is unprecedented in the history of Electoral Colleges, but it is the logical expression of the present political conditions in that State. Members of Electoral Colleges have occasionally signed recommendations for Cabinet positions as individuals; but never before did a College, acting in its organized capacity, recommend any man for either national or State office.

The nomination of Mr. Murphy was consummated last night and his election is certain to follow. What then? The breach in the Democratic lines of New York has been made, and it is only a question of time when it must bring the opposing factions into actual conflict. Prudential considerations may restrain Senators Hill and Murphy from aggressive warfare against the administration, but the chasm between the opposing elements seems to be impassible, and the shock of battle cannot long be delayed.

The result of such a conflict may be serious embarrassment to the Cleveland administration, but it must be the destruction of the political power of all who are arrayed against the President. He will have the party with him throughout the country and the machinery of the party outside of New York, and he will have ninety-nine hundredths of the whole people with him. These facts may temper the purposes of the anti-Cleveland forces in New York, and the more they shall be tempered by the obvious facts the better it will be for them.

The opposing Democratic forces in New York appear to be irreconcilable, and that means a cyclone clearing up of the political atmosphere. After the storm there will be a healthier political sentiment in New York, and that will compensate for the struggle.—Philadelphia Times.

Death of General Butler.

The following merited tribute to the memory of the late Gen. Butler is from the New York Sun.

"For the last quarter of a century at least Benjamin Franklin Butler has stood out as the most original, the most American, and the most picturesque character in our public life. He had courage equal to every occasion; his given word needed no backer; his friendships and his enmities knew no variableness or shadow of turning; his opinions were never disguised nor withheld; his devotion to his country was without qualification; his faith in the future of liberty and democracy was neither intoxicated by their victories nor disheartened by their defeats; his intellectual resources were marvellous; his mind naturally adhered to the cause of the poor and the weak, and his delight was to stand by the under dog in the fight. In these qualities he was a great and an exceptional man, and his friends valued him and loved him as truly as his foes detested. But was he great always and in everything? Were his thoughts always thoughts of reality, and his utterances and acts always the utterances and acts of wisdom? Who would say so? No man attains to that height, and no man ever scorned the impostures of sham goodness and unattainable perfection more than Ben Butler. He was no pretender and no hypocrite. He lived his life, a life full of energy, of effort, of success, and of failure, and he has passed to the allotted reward; while we who remain may well be grateful to Heaven that such a man has been:

"Nor farther seek his merits to disclose,
Or draw his frailties from their dread abode,
Where they alike in trembling hope repose,
The bosom of his Father and his God."

SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT

A Farmer on Farmers.

"So you want the farmers to pay all the taxes!"

This is the remark I most frequently hear when I call a farmer's attention to to the question of the single tax, and it shows plainly, what I have frequently noticed, that they still hold to the traditional idea that the farmers of the country own the land.

To a certain extent they did a hundred years or so ago own the land. But conditions have changed, and to-day the farmers own the acres indeed, but the towns own the values. A few blocks in New York city to-day have more value, I venture, than all the land values of farms from Westchester to Albany.

This may seem strange to those not conversant with the facts, but it is true, nevertheless. The present selling value of farms is measured largely by their improvements, and these improvements are, many of them, of the most substantial kind.

Of course, the question of whether some particular class of persons is to pay more or less than they do under our present system, does not affect the question of the justice of the single tax. But it is important to show that the system will not rob or oppress any legitimate industry.

I have in my mind a snug little farm of one hundred acres. In discussing the question I have several times mentioned this farm, and asked my listener to picture to his imagination the farm without improvements. I say: "Suppose all the rocks and stones back in the soil from whence they were dug; the fences, shade and fruit trees, buildings, water pipes, wells, roadways, and all improvements whatever, obliterated. What annual rental would the farm be worth?" The estimates given have varied from thirty to fifty dollars. Under the single tax these fifty dollars would represent the utmost limit of that farmer's annual taxes. Yet the annual tax on that farm has averaged over sixty dollars for the last twenty years; and the owner estimates that the national taxes have cost him, directly and indirectly, several times as much. This is no exceptional case, but fairly represents the average of eastern farms. The farmers of the country are paying far more in taxes under our present system than they would under the single tax. If then the farmers would pay less under the single tax, who would pay the necessary increase to make it up? The increase in taxes would fall upon those persons who hold land from its most profitable use for speculative purposes. They are the ones who are always talking to the assessors about their land not yielding any income; and they are to be found at every little country village and railway station. Did you never notice? Even in these small centers of trade there is sure to be some of the most desirable and convenient land unoccupied, because the owners are waiting for the growth and necessity of the community to enhance its selling value. These are the men who escape the taxes that the farmer is obliged to pay; and they are at the same time obstructing the growth and welfare of the town in which they live.—Chas C. Benton.

Single Tax Enthusiasm.

We sometimes hear it said that while private property in land is certainly wrong and should be abolished, yet that the advocates of this reform are apt to be "enthusiasts" in their expectations of its results. Such criticisms spring from a failure to realize that the wrong in question is no mere fiscal mistake, but involves a breach of natural order whose consequences must necessarily extend to the farthest limit of the chain of cause and effect. Tracing out the connection of these consequences, we may find in the removal of their cause wherewith to justify some enthusiasm on the part of workers for that end.

In every community some locations have a value above others, which, in no respect the product of individual exertion, results from the distribution of population, and increases as population increases. This value is the natural community fund. Its appropriation by individuals is the robbery of the community. Legalize such spoliation and the individuals thus enriched hold the key to the situation in their ability to control the land market. Not only is it true that the growing population can create less with the same exertion than on preferable sites, but out of this less they must pay with one hand an ever-increasing proportion to swell the unearned wealth of their landlord, and with the other to replace the community fund thus diverted into his private coffers.

The fate of a community founded upon such a basis is simply a question of the rapidity of its growth, and, however delayed, is certain. Given the source of the stream, and the general trend of the land which it waters, and whatever may be its windings we know what ocean it must find at last. The differentiation into the very rich and the very poor, begins with the presence of its cause and will cease only with the removal of that cause.

The very rich and the very poor. Vast wealth. Abject poverty. What do the words imply? Abject poverty means the loss of self-respect and of the respect of one's fellows. It means to suffer, and to see one's dearest suffer, from cold and hunger, and never-rested weariness. It means to toil on through pain and disease till death opens the door of escape. Yet more than this; it means every temptation to drunkenness and crime; it means the dull brutality born of despair. It means children growing up without home or parental care, ignorant of the refinements of cleanliness and the safeguards of decency; familiar with evil from babyhood. Hopeless want and all the vice that springs from it; this is the meaning of abject poverty.

To escape such a fate, to reach the standing ground of unthreatened competence—ever harder and harder to gain—becomes the goal of the frantic crowd; and it is a struggle in which the success of one means the disaster to many. Public opinion, debauched of necessity, condones more and more of baseness, dishonor, and even crime, whose outcome is the attainment of wealth. Honor is reserved for riches alone, and the ostentation of its evidences becomes the occupation of its possessors, and the strained efforts of those who, to hide a lack become shameful, strive to make a show behind which there is no reality. When ideals have fallen thus low; when work has become a badge of disgrace; when success in money-getting is the standard of conduct; then are the teachers of morals but as salt that has lost its savor; public spirit and patriotism but words left for the hypocrites of party to conjure with; then the indolence and vice born of luxury; no less than the indolence and vice born of want; leave their lurking place for the broad light of day. Class hatreds flourish; class wars prevail, till social order perishes and chaos comes again.

Such being the evils which must result from private ownership of land, there is surely enough in the removal of their cause to waken enthusiasm in the minds of those who love their race. Abolish this cause, and those whom it forces into poverty and vice are released from its fatal pressure. The fines which it has exacted from industry and thrift—checking production and thrift—are no longer levied. Those whom it has enabled to live in luxury at the expense of their fellows are no longer able to draw an income from such a source. With the dread of want dies the deification of riches. Temptations to ostentation in living are minimized, for as wealth loses its prestage, its evidences, call for more of envy or admiration than a string of scalps or an elaborate pattern in tattooing. Morality and patriotism and public spirit, no longer trodden under foot in the mad race for money, once more lift their august heads, and class hatreds must disappear as class lines tend to vanish.

But this is not all. A righteous reform not only casts out the devil, it opens the door to the angel. Natural law being in its nature beneficent, its violation is the reversal of a mighty engine for good. And so renewed obedience results in negation of evil. All the force of the power that was hurrying civilization to destruction now carries the race forward. "Turn yourselves and live ye," said the prophet of old. The change of direction involves a change of goal, and is vital.

But who supposes that, the single tax once in operation, humanity is to ship its oars and drift? Rather is it then only worth while to row when freed from the swift current that sets toward ruin. To remove an obstacle makes progress possible. The man who has gained one neight is in a position to scale a higher. Cause enough for enthusiasm if we may hope that our faithful discharge of the duty of our day and generation may enable those who come after to see, with purged vision, tasks hidden from eyes dimmed by familiarity with the long night of injustice and misery.—Margaret S. Littell.

Compensation.

It is an undeniable fact that the one great, overwhelming objection to the single tax is that it would destroy existing land values. All other objections are as nothing compared to this, and it must be met in a way satisfactory to practical men. While to the far-thinking single taxer, who sees ample compensation in an improved condition of society, the objection has no weight, to the ordinary thinker it may serve to completely bar all further examination of the subject. Hence argument on this point may be of great use. Stated in the briefest way, this fundamental objection to the single tax—the one whereon will be fought the great and final battle for equal human rights—is this: "It will destroy existing values." Here, in five words, we have the gauge of battle—the most portentous that the world has ever known.

It may be a point gained to know that this objection, as to the destruction of existing values, applies with equal force to all inventions, all social progress, all discovery of new methods.

Our opponents must concede two important facts—first, that social progress involves the continual destruction of existing values; and second, that society has no thought of compensation for such destruction of values.

Thus, a new steam engine may drive all existing engines into the scrap heap; the inventor of the wire nail machine destroyed vast sums that were invested in machinery for making cut nails; while new processes for making steel are driving the iron industry into ruin. But society is without mercy, and knows no thought of compensation. It must be clear to all that here is a great law, a fixed fact, in view of which it is just as illogical to condemn the single tax because it would destroy existing land values, as to condemn railroads because they destroyed the value of stage routes.—A. C. Sekell.

This is the Remedy.

Here in Maryland we have thousands of acres untouched and uncultivated. Why? Somebody owns it, certainly, and the tax upon it is so small that these gentry can afford to pay it and hold on, hoping for a speculative rise, instead of either going to work on it themselves or releasing it to others who would work it, if it were only free from rent to the inexorable landlord, and they would not be fined by the government for being industrious. Single tax on land values would cure all this. It would put such a small tax on agricultural lands, and at the same time relieve the farmer from all other taxes on improvements, and clothing, and articles of consumption, that men would have no occasion to rush out to the wild lands of the West, leaving behind them states half cultivated and cities only half built up with houses.—Baltimore (Md.) Critic.

—"Been busy?" said one bootblack to another. "I should say so! I blacked a feller's boots, an' he wouldn't pay me; so I had to black his eye extra."

THE HERALD FOR 1893

For eighteen years last past, through good report and evil report, in prosperity and adversity alike, the HERALD has kept in "the middle of the road" in both a political and business sense. The record of the paper, under its present management, is well known, and nothing need be said on that point. Performance is better than promise. We have no special promises to make for the future, as the paper will speak for itself, as it has done in the past.

First and foremost, it will aim to be the best local newspaper in Lenawee County, and to hold its place as a household necessity in every family of Northern Lenawee. Though not a political organ in a partisan sense, the HERALD will always be found on the people's side in the great battle for equal rights and reduced taxation, and will continue to be an uncompromising advocate of tariff reform until that question shall be settled and settled right. All efforts to shake its business position and influence have proved unavailing, and it views the approach of 1893 with a serene confidence that the World's Fair year will be the most prosperous in its history.

Our Subscription rates next year will be only $1.10 within the County of Lenawee, if paid strictly cash in advance. Beyond the County, $1.25 in advance. When payment is delayed an additional rate will be charged. We consider this a fair solution of the subscription problem. When subscribers desire accommodation they can afford to pay a reasonable bonus for that privilege. Here are our premium offers and club list for the coming year.

The Herald and the American Farmer price $1.00, or,

The Herald and the Breeders' Guide, price $1.00, or

It is expected that the sheet will be ready for distribution about Feb. 1st.

From the worn records of the register of deeds office we find that the first deed placed on file there was made January 31, 1827, by John Jacob Shuall and his wife Katharine, to Ammon Sperry. The land deeded over in this warrantee deed was 12 1-2 acres, now believed to be owned by R. Mills, in the northwest corner of Clinton township, and was originally purchased from the government about eight months before, May 18, 1826. Mrs. Shuall had her mark, X attached, in place of her name, and the paper was witnessed by D. B. Bird, certified to by Justice Thomas Goodrich, and filed with the register of probate, Geo. Spafford, the day following. The office of register of deeds was not then in existence.—Evening Telegram.

A hazy reminiscence of the distant past which makes present-day Adrian residents feel distinctly cosmopolitan in comparison is told by George W. Lewis. Fifty-six years ago, on the site surrounding the present location of the Wilcox hardware store, was a public square. The father of Mr. Lewis proposed erecting a house on the square, contrary to the village ordinance, and strenuous efforts were at once made by the town board to thwart his design. But before an injunction restraining the erection of the building could be secured from the county officials at Tecumseh, which was then the county seat, the intrepid Mr. Lewis put up his house. At that time the only traveling facilities between the two villages was a foot trail through the woods, and the time employed in traversing it and procuring the necessary papers gave Mr. Lewis ample opportunity to complete his dwelling, which, when once up, was allowed to stand.—Adrian Times.

HERE IS PROGRESS.

It has come to be quite the fashion to look to Michigan for progress in agriculture, so grand and generous are the provisions by that State for education in the science of making the earth yield the maximum of her richness. But progress in farming makes progress in other lines inevitable. The Engineering Magazine for January contains the following communication from George S. Tiffany of Tecumseh, Mich.:

In the November number of this Magazine, in the electrical department, mention is made of a "rural farming district in Michigan that has provided itself with a telegraph line 8 miles in length." There is a line in the northern part of Lenawee county which was commenced by connecting two farm houses and has been extended from house to house and village to village until it is now over a hundred miles in length, and connects newspaper offices, doctor's offices, and stores in Adrian, Tecumseh, Clinton, Franklin, Macon, Ridgeway, and Raisin. The farmer keeps up the line across his farm and owns the instrument. One cannot enumerate the benefits it confers, but one, which the manager, Mr. R. J. W. Bowen of Tecumseh, mentioned to me to-day, is worthy of s[illegible]. The election returns came in very early from towns on the line and were given to the agent of the Associated Press in exchange for their dispatches, which were immediately sent over the wire to each farm house. In receiving news the farmers of Lenawee county had an advantage over the business man of New York and Chicago.

"I could not sleep last night," said Mr. Bowen, "for I lay in bed listening to the instrument ticking off the election news."

What do you think of that? The company is named the Commercial Telegraph Co.: but it is a misnomer; it should be named the Farmers' Telegraph Co., for it is such. The system should be extended until every farm-house is bound to every other with cords of steel.

We can imagine nothing to hinder every farmer from having a [illegible] in his house. Wire is cheap, batteries cost but little and the table outfit is inexpensive. Let each one for himself imagine all the benefits that a telegraph instrument in his own house would confer. What an education for the children of a rural family! Curiosity to know the meaning of the ticking would stimulate every little mind to become an expert reader of the instrument. What an awakening is in store for the rural communities? When the storms are howling and the snow is drifting the entire rural community may sit down and visit with neighbors miles away. All the neighborhood gossip of the better quality can be loaded on the wires for the interest of all. The market reports can be sent in every day from nearby villages and the village storekeeper may bid for a new supply of eggs or butter among the people on the line. Hail to the Farmers' Telegraph company, to regulate rural commerce. No monopoly shall control the farmer's line, but like the highway it shall be everybody's. It will be the highway of news and information. William and Maria shall be able to do their courting by means of a cipher that none shall know but themselves. But the owners of the wires may object to love messages which might glut the line. Shall we make a prediction? Well, it is that the Michigan idea will spread from house to house till the absence of the telegraph in the rural home will be the exception to a general rule. What farming community of New York State will be the first to adopt it?—Buffalo Times.

THE FARMERS' UNION.

The Farmers' Union was heartily welcomed at the home of H. B. Eaton on Friday evening, Jan. 13. The meeting was called to order and the secretary's report read and accepted. It was moved and carried that the meetings be continued. The election of officers was then held, resulting as follows:

OBITUARY.

The following notice is taken from the Jackson Patriot:

Ellery Sisson died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs Geo. Shuart, Jan. 7th, in his 80th year. Mr. Sisson resided in Lenawee county all his life until about five weeks ago, when he came here to visit his daughter. He has voted in Tecumseh at every presidential election since attaining his majority, and was a staunch democrat.

Mr. Sisson was one of the earliest settlers of this township. His father located the old Aaron Comfort farm, across the road from N. M. Sutton's, the present home of A. J. Van Winkle and of Dr. C. A. Waldron. Mr. Sisson himself resided in Tecumseh and Raisin for more than 70 years, until a few weeks ago when he went to live with his daughter in Jackson.

The following is taken from the Hanover Times.

Died, after a brief illness, at her residence in Jackson, Saturday, the 24th inst., Mrs. Nora Youngs, in her 30th year. Her maiden name was Shuart. The family were former residents of Hanover. Mrs. Youngs leaves to the care of her deeply distressed husband and generous parents here, three children, one son and two daughters. She was a loving and sympathizing wife and mother, a kind and generous neighbor and friend. Her remains were brought to this village for interment, where, after appropriate services they were laid beside a sister, who deceased some years since.

Cambridge Farmers' Club.

The fourth annual meeting of the Cambridge Farmers' club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Cooper, Saturday Jan. 7th, 1893. There were over one hundred and thirty persons in attendance, not including the little ones that wiggled around so that they could not be counted.

Notwithstanding the great number present, the house, like its owner's heart, was ample to accommodate them all. The barns are large and roomy, affording comfortable shelter for over fifty horses.

Mr. Cooper's family was all at home and each seemed to try to outvie the other in entertaining. The nice sleighing, the beautiful day, the hospitable greeting of the host and hostess, the pleasant and social manner in which the day was spent all conspired to make it a day long to be remembered.

The meeting was called to order by the president about 12 o'clock, opened by singing by the club; prayer by the chaplain, The next in order was the election of the following officers:

President—A. J. Case.
Vice Pres.—Miss Anna White.
Secretary—Samuel White.
Treasurer—Mrs. Marion Case.
Ex. Com.—Mrs. J. Reed, Mrs. Albert Dewey, Mrs. Wilson Reed.
Chaplain—Albert Dewey.
Organist—Miss Stella Dewey.
Adjourned for dinner.

At 2 o'clock the meeting was again called to order and the following program carried out:

Singing by the Club.
Rec.—"The Blizzard,"—Veda Baker.
Song—Beulah Decker.
Inst. Music—Mrs. Mahrr.
Song—Mrs. W. Ayres.
Sel—"The Christian's Inner Life"—Jane Graves.
Paper—"What is the Cause of the Depressed Condition of the Farmer?—John W. Stafford.

This paper was well written, showing that the subject had been thoroughly studied, and well maintained his position that the cause was due to monopolies. Owing to the lateness of the hour it was not discussed which was very much regretted.

Then came a paper by C. H. Dewey, entitled "The Object and Duties of the Club." This also had to be much abreviated but was full of valuable hints and suggestions.

Closed by instrumental music by Miss Stella Dewey.

The next meeting will be held at Mr. and Mrs. David Neeley's.

Farmers' Social Club.

The F. S. C. met at F. C. Rector's, Tuesday evening Jan. 17, with a small attendance but a good program. Let there be a good attendance at the next meeting which will be held at Mr. J. T. Boyce's, Jan. 31, with the following programme.

Singing—by the club.
Dec.—Garland Gillespie.
Paper, Ideal Homes—Mrs. G. B. Garlinghouse.
Charade—Agnes Kehoe.
Reading—Mrs. B. J. Rector.
Dialogue.

The entertainment was one of the best ever given in Norristown. As an impersonator Mr. Powers has no superior. The different characters which he assumes make a wonderful performance, and his acting is perfect.—Norristown (Pa.) Herald.

"The Old Checkered Shawl" is the name of one of the latest and best songs. The words and music are by L. B. Mitchell. It tells a good joke in a capital style. The publishers, S. W. Straub & Co., 245 State St., Chicago, will mail a copy to any address upon receipt of 30 cents.

C. E. Williamson filled the big storage room of his refrigerator building last week. It took six teams four and a half days to do the job. The room now contains 417 loads of ice which averaged 1 1-2 tons each, making 625 tons of ice altogether, covering the immense floor, ten feet deep.

Mr. Leland T. Powers was the star actor and all the rest of the company in the charming comedy of David Garrick at Carnegie Music Hall last evening, and it cannot be said of him that he had a poor support neither. In fact it is seldom that every character in a play is impersonated in such a faultless manner. Mr. Powers, by his striking and unique performance, augmented the reputation he has previously gained in this city.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Congressman Gorman has just secured the appointment of Michigan's first Democratic postmaster. Edward Humphrey who died at his residence in this place last week, had resided here since 1883. He was born in Dutchess County, New York in 1829. With his parents he moved to Michigan in 1853, settling in Hillsdale County. Until his removal to Tecumseh his home was in that county, in the town of Wheatland. He married July 1st. 1855, and was the father of three children; only one of these, a daughter survives him, with his widow. For many years he was connected as a member, and in official ways, with the Baptist church. He never removed his membership from the organization at Church's Corners, and to that place his body was taken on Friday, Jan. 13th. Pastor H. A. Smith, of this place, accompanied the friends and conducted the funeral services.

The Program of the Schumann Concert next Wednesday evening, will consist of an address by Dr. Tracy; musicale by the Schumann quartet, assisted by Miss Jessie Wright, Reader from the Noble school of Detroit; a trip to the World's Fair, illustrated by the stereopticon.

We were surprised, and most agreeably so, at the singing of the Schumann Male Quartet last night. These young men hail from Chicago, and like everything from that city are in the front rank. They are quite young, and the future has much in store for them. Success is sure to crown their efforts, and we hope to see them in Pittsburgh again ere long.—Pittsburgh Post.

Frank Davidson has always been regarded as a quiet, inoffensive citizen, a man of few words and gentle voice, except at auction sales. His friends were much surprised to hear that he got into a fracas at Ridgeway last Friday evening and sustained a severe caneing. The tribulation occurred at the box social and the cane was a beautiful stick, gold mounted. Frank will sling on more style than ever now.

Over 500,000 tons of Chili Salt-Petre or Nitrate of Soda was used in Europe last year for manure. As yet it is little known in this country. It is admitted to be the most powerful of all fertilizers and the cheapest and best source of Nitrogen. In "Harris' Rural Annual" for 1893, full and reliable directions are given for its use on farm and garden crops, small fruits, greenhouse plants, roses, etc. It will be sent free to any of our subscribers who send their names to Joseph Harris Co., Moreton Farm, Monroe Co., N. Y.

Of Leland T. Powers the Press has said much, and deservedly, too, for he is one of the best impersonators on the American stage. He is always "a whole show by himself." Last night Mr. Powers presented an entire play of three acts and impersonated one dozen characters without any assistance. The story was told as forcibly as though the cast had consisted of one dozen talented artists instead of but one. Not one dramatic situation was lost. The audience was one of the largest ever in the auditorium and it showed its appreciation of Mr. Powers' efforts by continued applause. The play was 'David Garrick,' and the presentation was a delicious treat.—Kansas City Times.

MICHIGAN MATTERS.

SUMMARY OF THE HAPPENINGS AMONG THE WOLVERINES.

Agricultural College Threatened with a Diphtheria Epidemic—Michigan Federation of Labor Meets at Muskegon—Bank Commissioner Sherwood's Report.

Diphtheria at the Agricultural College.

Diphtheria, which created such consternation at the Agricultural college last spring, has again made its appearance there. One of the employes visited his daughter, who was ill with the disease in Detroit, and returned the following day. He had the certificate of the Detroit health officer that he had been properly disinfected. He again went to Detroit, and returned sick and brought a note from the same health official advising that he be placed in quarantine. His ailment proved to be diphtheria. Every precaution is being taken to stamp out the disease. The winter vacation will not end for a month, and as but few students are on the ground no serious results are apprehended. The college officials are greatly incensed at the course pursued [illegible].

His business is in good condition and will be continued the same as before. The cause for his absence is a mystery. Some of his intimate friends believe he will return, if alive, but fear that he may have been foully dealt with. One person in Smith's employ says he knows where he is, but is sure he will never be back.

Fire was discovered on the fifth level of the No. 7 shaft in the Norrie Mine at Iron Mountain. The fire was so situated that much difficulty was experienced in getting at it. The fire was extinguished, however, and the damage was only nominal as No. 7 shaft was wet and the flames made progress slowly. The fire originated in Lander's house, 600 feet under ground, and burned the logging out of three or four sets.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

GEN. BENJAMIN F. BUTLER DIES VERY SUDDENLY.

The Old War Horse, Statesman and Lawyer Succumbs to Heart Failure—The Senate Passes the Quarantine Bill and Gives Power to Prohibit Immigration.

Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts, died at his Washington residence, on New Jersey avenue, very suddenly. The cause of the general's death was heart failure. His death created an immense surprise, as it was not even known he was failing any more than any man that had lived and labored so long would.

Benjamin Franklin Butler was born in Deerfield, N. H., November 5, 1818. He graduated at Waterville college, Maine, in 1838, was admitted to the bar in 1840 and began practice at Lowell, Mass., in 1841. He was elected a member of the Massachusetts house of representatives in 1853 as a Democrat, and to the state senate in 1859. He was a delegate to the Democratic national convention in 1860 and in the same year was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts. He was a brigadier general of militia when the war broke out, and served in the union armies from 1861 until relieved from his command by Gen. Grant after his ineffectual expedition against Fort Fisher. In 1866 he was elected a member of Congress by the Republicans, where he remained until 1879, with the exception of the term for 1875-7. He was the Republican candidate for governor of Massachusetts in 1871, but was defeated. He was also defeated in 1878 and 1879, then being the candidate of the Greenback party and one wing of the Democratic party. He ran the fifth time for governor in 1882, this time as regular Democratic candidate and was elected, his associates on the ticket being defeated. He was renominated in 1883, but was defeated. He was renominated candidate of the Greenback party for President in 1884.

Gen. Butler was a great lawyer. He was at times an extreme partisan, and was at one time an idol of the Republican party. He was not a great general, but he was a very conspicuous military figure during the war.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.—Eighteenth day—The joint resolution, directing the secretary of the treasury to suspend all silver purchases under the Sherman act, was discussed and a substitute was offered but laid over indefinitely. Nothing was done with the resolution and the Senate then resumed the quarantine bill. An amendment was offered limiting its operation to January 1, 1895. The amendment was not voted upon and the bill went over without action. Such was also the fate of the McGarrahan claim. No other business was transacted. HOUSE.—The district of Columbia appropriations bill was passed. A bill to promote the efficiency of the military was considered, but not disposed of. A bitter struggle was called up on the bill permitting the Norfolk & Western railroad to enter the District of Columbia. The bill went over and the House adjourned.

SENATE.—Nineteenth day—The bill granting additional quarantine powers and imposing additional duties upon the secretary of the treasury and marine hospital service was passed. An important amendment was adopted, the section giving the President power to suspend immigration from infected countries, and now the section gives to the President power not only to suspend immigration, but to prohibit in whole, or in part, the introduction of either persons and property. This made the passage of the immigration bill, which was pending, unnecessary and it was allowed to lapse. An appropriation of $1,000,000 was made to enable the President to carry the quarantine act into effect. The act of 1879 establishing a national board of health is repealed. The anti-options bill discussion was resumed, but no action was taken. HOUSE.—A bill was passed granting the Norfolk & Western railroad an entrance into the District of Columbia. The House proceeded to the consideration of the Crain joint resolution proposing amendments to the Constitution substituting the 31st day of December for the 4th day of March as the commencement and termination of the official terms of members of the House of Representatives and of the United States senators and providing that Congress shall hold its annual meeting on the second Monday in January and substituting the 30th of April for the 4th of March as the date for the commencement and limitation of the terms of the President and Vice-President. A long and interesting discussion followed, after which a vote was taken which resulted in the defeat of the measure. Adjourned.

SENATE.—Twentieth day—A shade of gloom pervaded the senate chamber as the assembled members gazed upon the black draped chair and desk of the late Senator Kenna, of West Virginia, who had just passed from life a few hours before. Mr. Blackburn, of Kentucky, announced the sad event and sent resolutions to the President of the Senate. They were read and adopted. They provided for a committee of seven to take order for superintending the funeral, and to accompany the remains to Mr. Kenna's late home in West Virginia and direct invitations to attend the funeral to the President of the United Sates and to members of his cabinet, the major-general commanding the army and the senior admiral of the navy, the chief justice and the associate justices of the supreme court and the diplomatic corps. The committee was appointed, and then, as a further mark of respect, the Senate adjourned. HOUSE.—No business but the reception of the banking committees, majority and minority reports on the repeal of the Sherman act. Senator Kenna's death was announced and the House adjourned after passing suitable resolutions.

SENATE.—Twenty-second day—The galleries were crowded to witness the funeral services over the late Senator Kenna, of West Virginia. President Harrison and cabinet, chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court, and the family of the dead Senator, in deep mourning, occupied the diplomatic gallery. A procession of robed priests preceeded by the acolytes bearing a censor and tall wax candles, lighted, marched down the aisle, followed by a squad of capitol police in full uniform, escorting and carrying the casket, which was covered with palms and flowers. The priests, with Bishop Keane, of the Catholic University, in his purple robes, ranged themselves about the coffin. The services were conducted by Bishop Keane and Father Donahue, of St. Joseph's, the church which Mr. Kenna and family attended, assisted by 18 priests and the Dominican fathers of Washington. Fr. Donahue opened the religious services and Bishop Keane delivered a very impressive discourse. The body was then removed to the Chesapeake & Ohio railway station and accompanied by the deceased family and the senate and House committees was conveyed to the last resting place in West Virginia. No business of importance in the House.

SENATE.—Twenty-third day—A bill was passed extending to the North Pacific ocean the provisions for the protection of fur seals. The McGarrahan bill was discussed and went over. The anti-options bill was taken up and two amendments offered, one was killed and the other restricting the operation of the bill to "gambling transactions"—went over. HOUSE.—Private war claims occupied the day and private pension bills were considered at the evening session.

Gust Norquist a clerk in the store of Skudd Bros., Ironwood, committed suicide. He was found by Adolph Skudd, when he opened the store. Norquist's body lay in a pool of blood on the floor. He had shot himself in the temple. The deceased was an exemplary young Swede and was unmarried.

STANDS SIX TO FIVE.

THE COMMITTEE FAVORS SUNDAY OPENING RESOLUTION.

Closers Are Working Hard—Both Houses Now Oppose the Measure and the Report Will Be Delayed to Give Them Time to See Light.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Stock in the World's Fair Sunday opening question has slumped since the close of the hearing before the House committee yesterday. The attention which the speeches have drawn to the question has caused among the Sunday closers an agitation which has, for the time at least, lessened the chances of passing the Durborow resolution. Mr. Durborow appreciates the change and has concluded to wait about ten days before calling his committee together to consider the resolution. By that time he hopes the agitation will have subsided and the opposition recede to the anti-hearing size. The chances for getting the resolution favorably reported are good. All the members are here, and, if a full [illegible] five in favor of it, unless in the meantime the pressure of the Sunday closing constituents becomes sufficiently strong to change one of the six. This pressure is already strong and is growing stronger. Every mail brings petitions against the resolution and every hour telegrams. Were the Sunday openers of the country as active as the Sunday closers the present pressure would be more than overcome, and not only the committee, but Congress would adopt the resolution by a sweeping majority.

The only member of the committee who is personally opposed to Sunday opening is Dingley of Maine. He thinks the country will go down in an everlasting smash if the Fair should be opened on Sunday. The others talk well, but in their talk one can hear the voice of the hustling Sunday closing constituent. McCreary is also induced by personal ambition to favor Sunday closing. He is a candidate for Carlisle's seat in the Senate when the latter goes into Cleveland's Cabinet, and as the Legislature of this State has adopted a resolution to close the Kentucky exhibit on Sunday, he deems it wise to keep in line with that body. There is a strong pressure from Massachusetts being made on Coggswell to vote against the Durborow resolution. He favors throwing the gates wide open. That is his honest opinion, but the preachers are annoying him and he may be compelled to give in to them. Those of the committee who are expected to vote for the resolution are Durborow, Houk, Wheeler, Little, Coggswell, Lagan. Those opposed are Dingley, Robinson, Reilly, Dollivar, McCreary. It had been hoped that Robinson might be brought into the sunlight of liberalism, but the Sunday closers go after him and are keeping him in the foggy atmosphere of the dark ages.

FAST IN THE ICE.

New York Bay Frozen Over and Several Vessels Caught.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The observer at Sandy Hook reports the bay and all the water around the Hook, as far as can be seen, covered with ice. A small steamer is fast in the ice between Romer beacon and the east bank, and there is a three-masted vessel, apparently a coal barge, broadside on the rocks at Romer beacon.

All of the ferryboats leaving the Battery are running on time to-day with the exception of the ferry to South Brooklyn. One of the boats made a round trip in an hour and ten minutes to-day, and this was about the average time consumed by all the vessels of this line. Twenty-five minutes is the regular time one way for the passage. The Staten Island boats were only a few moments longer in making the trip than in ordinary weather. The ice is not heavy now, and is not likely to become worse under the present weather.

Combine of Lithographers.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 16.—Twelve gentlemen interested in the lithographing business held an all-day session at the Stillman yesterday, winding up last evening with a banquet. The result is a combine of the lithographers of Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo and Rochester. The name of the organization is the Lithographers' Association of the Lake District. The officers are: President, W. J. Morgan of Cleveland; Vice President, R. H. Stecher of Rochester; Secretary and Treasurer, G. H. Dunston of Buffalo.

Sudden Desire to Go Abroad.

JACKSON, Mich., Jan. 16.—Harry A. Metton, one year from Gratiot County for forgery, escaped from the State prison, taking with him a few articles belonging to Clerk Tabor. He had learned that his sister contemplated a European trip and it is believed he was seized with a sudden desire to go abroad.

Narrowly Escaped Asphyxiation.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—Six families on Erie Street, this city, and three families on Perrysville Avenue, Allegheny, in all twenty-five people, narrowly escaped death this morning from asphyxiation by illuminating gas. In both cases broken mains were responsible.

Russia will Send Three Warships.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 16.—Russia will send three warships to New York to take part in the naval demonstration in connection with the Columbus fetes. The vessels will be under the command of Admiral Kaznakoff.

SUFFRAGISTS IN CONVENTION.

Opening of the Annual Meeting in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the National American Women's Suffrage Association will open in Metzerott Hall to-morrow. The services will consist of a sermon by the Rev. Anna F. Eastman and a talk by the Rev. Anna H. Shaw. The presiding officer is Miss Susan B. Anthony; the Corresponding Secretary, Miss Rachel Foster Avery; the Vice-President-at-Large, the Rev. Anna Howard Shaw; Treasurer, Harriet Taylor Upton; Auditor, William D. Foulke. The opening services Monday will include an address by Senator Carey of Wyoming and the annual President's message by Miss Susan B. Anthony. Among the speakers during the session will be: Carroll D. Wright on "Women in Industry." Miss C. L. Chapman will give an address on "Comparisons Are Odious," the Rev. Anna H. Shaw on "The Attitude of Women for Political Parties." Mrs. Ellen B. Dietrick is to speak on "The Best Method of Interesting Women in Suffrage." Mrs. Lillie Devereaux Blake on "Legal Disabilities." Mrs. May Wright Sewall is to speak on "Municipal Housekeeping."

SATOLLI WILL STAY.

Made a Permanent Delegate to the United States by the Pope.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The following cable message was received by Manager Satolli to-day:

ROME, Jan. 14.—The apostolic delegation is permanently established in the United States and you are confirmed as the first delegate.

O'CONNELL.

Inquiries at the Catholic University here, where Mgr. Satolli is residing, confirm the authenticity of this piece of news. The importance of this message, in the light of recent events, and coming as it does from the American Secretary of the propaganda, will be readily appreciated by American Roman Catholics. It signifies that the desperate faction headed by Archbishop Corrigan of New York that has striven to discredit Satolli and to drive him from the United States, has received a most decisive setback. The objects of the intrigues of this powerful clique are now well-known at Rome, and every move made by the arrogant Archbishop of New York will be watched and checkmated.

SAVED BY A CAT.

Eight Families Narrowly Escape Being Burned in Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Patrick O'Neill, a Brooklyn shoemaker, is the owner of a black and white cat which he claims saved the lives not only of his own family, but of seven other families in the same house. Fire broke out yesterday morning in O'Neill's apartments on the second floor. The cat tried to alarm the family but failed. The marks of its nails in the fireboard which had ignited showed that the cat had tried to pull it down. At 3 o'clock Hugh O'Neill, a son who is employed as a messenger, returned home. The animal ran to meet him in the hall and by its strange actions convinced the boy that something was wrong. He discovered the fire and gave the alarm. Great excitement prevailed and the families were driven out into the street in their night clothes.

Bold Robber Caught at Last.

MASON CITY, Iowa, Jan. 16.—The highwayman who has been holding up a number of travelers on the road between this city and Nora Springs the last two weeks was captured last night. About 10 o'clock he approached the station agent and three other men who were playing cards in the station house at Portland, and with drawn revolvers ordered their hands up. He then compelled them to lie face downward on the floor. As he then began to tie their hands and feet one of the men jumped up. A fight ensued in which several shots were fired, but the robber was overcome, and being firmly bound was sent to this city on the midnight train.

Business in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—In the Senate to-day Senator White introduced Donelson Caffery, successor of the late Senator Gibson of Louisiana, and Mr. Caffery took the oath of office. A discussion ensued over a resolution introduced by Senator Wolcott instructing the Committee on Foreign Relations to inquire what sums had been expended in the construction of the Nicaragua Canal. Senator Wolcott desired the information, as it was proposed that the Government support the scheme by guaranteeing the company's bonds.

Expects a Strike on the Wabash.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 16.—The Wabash Railroad Company expects its operators to walk out in a body to-day. So sure is it that such action will be taken that the officials have hired new men to stand in readiness to take the offices the moment the order goes into effect. Of course all of the offices cannot be filled, but the management says that it will have a competent man for every twenty miles of road.

Aurora Man Killed While Hunting.

AURORA, Ill., Jan. 16.—Albert Norton of this city was accidentally killed this morning while hunting. His companion attempted to pull a gun out of the sleigh and lodged a load of shot in Norton's breast.

Ex-Congressman Rice Dead.

FREMONT, Ohio, Jan. 16.—Dr. John B. Rice, ex-Congressman, one of the best known men in Sandusky County, died this morning after a long illness with Bright's disease, terminating in pneumonia.

A RUNNING SORE FOR TEN YEARS.

ATHENS, PA., June 27th, 1892.

I have been afflicted with a fever sore, what the doctors call a "Varicose Ulcer," for the last ten years. My leg was very much swollen much of the time and was a running sore during the whole time. I was under the care of good physicians the most of the time, but no treatment seemed to do any good until I procured a box of Parmelee's Household Ointment from our druggist, Joseph Hines, of Athens, Pa., and one box completely healed my leg and I now consider it cured, as it has remained healed, and has given me no trouble for the last six months.

Last Thursday afternoon, while Mrs. Laura Tuttle was away from home, the upper portion of her house caught fire and but for the prompt work done the building would have been burned to the ground in a short time, as the flames had gained such headway when discovered. Mrs. Tuttle's sister, Mrs. Clark, who was in the house at the time, smelled smoke and going to the stairway found it completely filled. She summoned assistance and the fire was soon extinguished, though considerable harm was done to the furniture, carpets etc. by the liberal use of the Babcock extinguishers. The fire is supposed to have started in some manner from an oil stove which had been left burning in the room.

Harvey's Big Hotel Burned.

The following dispatch appeared in the daily papers of Jan. 10th:

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—The Harvey World's Fair hotel at One Hundred and Forty-seventh and Halstead streets was destroyed by fire last night, causing a loss of $90,000, with an insurance of $50,000. Manager G. P. Waring is of the opinion that the fire was of incendiary origin. The building, which was almost ready for occupancy, was a two-story structure and contained 800 rooms.

This referred to the enterprise projected by Walter Thomas Mills, the "Little Giant," so well known as a Prohibition public speaker, and the Waring Bros. The president and manager, Hon. G. P. Waring, was formerly secretary and afterward treasurer of the State central committee, as well as one of the prodrietors of The Messenger for a year or so. He is well known to Michigan temperance workers. The object was to construct a large hotel for the accommodrtion of temperance and Christian people, and the money for that purpose was largely subscribed on a co-operative basis by temperance people over the country. The announcement of the hotel's destruction was a great shock to the friends of the enterprise. The hotel will be rebuilt at once.

JIM.

Sometimes, when the scent of early May
Sifts through my window, a soft spring day,
I shut my eyes and can seem to see
Little lame Jim in the apple tree,
Playing umpire, "just for fun!"
In the races he never might hope to run,
And can hear him laugh as he shouted, gay—
"One—to make ready!
Two—to be steady!
Three, and—Away!"

Never a race was there for Jim.
Never a course marked out for him.
But always, the boys with tender care
Bore him out in the soft May air
And bolstered him up in the tree in state,
With a "There! old feller! aint that great!
Now give us a start: that verse you know—
'One—to make ready!
Two—to be steady!
Three, and—Go!'"

Over the brook and down the lane,
Through the meadow and back again—
And Jim would forget his dignity,
And lean far out from his perch to see,
Watching the boys, as they leaped the wall.
"Hi! Run, Bill, run!" I could hear him call,
And his clear voice chant as the victor came:
"The first's the best,
The second's the same,
The last's the worst of all the game."

Dear little Jim! His race is run,
His walls are cleared and his vict'ry won,
And the boys rub their eyes with grimy paws
"We can't run races," they say, "because
Jim's not in the tree to start us fair.
It's no fun playing with Jim not there.
Nobody else knows how to say:
'One—to make ready!
Two—to be steady!
Three, and—Away!'"

SNAKES AS SURGEONS.

Farmer Ansley's Rattlers Lead to Important Revelations.

A Crop That Never Fails and Can Do Its Own Doctoring—Blacksmith Hanley's Stories of Gifted Reptiles—Two Dollars Ahead.

A. A. Ansley owns and lives on a big farm in Pike township, this county. Pine creek and the turnpike road from Condersport to Galeton run through the property, and the high pine barren known as Huckleberry hill rises on one side of it. Farmer Ansley is one of the solid citizens of Potter county. Some farmers would not think that they had reason to be proud of the fact that they had three big rattlesnake dens on their farms; much less would they regard such appurtenances thereunto belonging as something to add to the value of their holdings. But Farmer Ansley does both. He points with pride to the rocky face of Huckleberry hill and indicates three different places within the space of a few acres where rattlesnakes den and have denned from time out of mind. The Ansley farm is no better for hay, grain, potatoes and buckwheat than any of the neighboring farms of that part of the Pine creek country are, but the owner values it at not less than five dollars an acre more than the average price of surrounding soil.

"Why," he says, "there isn't another cultivated farm in the county, nor in the state, I guess, that has three fertile and prosperous dens of rattlesnakes on it. I have never attempted to gather a full crop of rattlesnakes on my farm, because I haven't had to, but I believe I could pick five hundred marketable snakes most any season. At the rate rattlesnake products are ruling nowadays—skins, oil and rattles—these useful snakes ought to net about three dollars apiece. Now, s'pose drought should make a failure of my hay crop, and rot knock my potatoes into a cocked hat, and the weevil chew my wheat all up, and early frost nip my buckwheat, I'd be in just as bad shape as any other farmer in these parts, if it wasn't that I would have the rattlesnake crop to fall back on in such an emergency. Dry weather doesn't shrivel up the rattlesnakes, nor rot doesn't get into 'em, nor weevil bore 'em, nor frost cut them down to the roots. They are sure and handy by, and all I would have to do would be to harvest them and get them ready for market. Why, with a never-failing reserve crop like that waiting for me, I'd be actually sacrificing this farm if I sold it, even with the five dollars an acre added to the price of farms that haven't got this great advantage."

The three snake dens on the Ansley farm are visible from the road, up among the rocky openings of Huckleberry hill. Farmer Ansley is obliged to kill several dozen rattlesnakes every year, as they come down into his fields and interfere now and then with the gardening of his crops. He had to stop reaping one day because a big rattlesnake objected to the passing of the machine at the same time he himself was going across the field, and pitched into it. The result was that the snake got tangled up in the cutting bar and clogged up the knives so that they could not work, and the reaper and the team had to stand idle for an hour or more while the shattered remains of the snake were picked and dug out of the machine. One day recently Farmer Ansley had hanging in his orchard nine handsome specimens of what a rattlesnake crop would be if it should be gathered. These nine were killed because their presence in certain localities on the farm delayed the work of the hired men.

Farmer Ansley has decided opinions about the ability of rattlesnakes—at least those that grow on his farm—to do extraordinary things, and one of these is an operation in ophidian surgery, in the successful performance of which, as wonderful as it is, Farmer Ansley is not only willing but apparently anxious to back up any of his snakes with money.

"There's one of my snakes now," said the farmer the other day, speaking about his dens to a number of curious callers, as a big, bright-hued, fiery-eyed rattlesnake crawled indolently under a rail fence and out to the roadside, where he paused to bask in the sun. "Now, I'll bet any of you an even ten dollars that I can cut that snake in two with an ax, place the two parts ten feet from each other, leave them there, and in ten hours' time the part with the head on will have come back to the other half, shoved its cut end against the cut end of the piece with the tail on, and by an operation of its own will have cemented or grown itself together again so that it can travel away just as good a snake as it ever was."

There either was not ten dollars among the visitors, or any one of them who had the amount was afraid to take the bet, for it was not taken.

"I'll bet you two dollars," said one of the party.

"No, sir!" said Farmer Ansley. "I don't put any of my snakes to the strain of that operation for less than ten dollars!"

So the men came away. They were from Roulette, and when they arrived home and told the story of Farmer Ansley's bet they were glad he hadn't taken him up on the two-dollar bet they offered to make, for Dan Hanley told them something that convinced them that if Farmer Ansley had taken them up he would have won the stake. Dan Hanley is the village blacksmith. He is a well-to-do citizen, and his word has never been questioned in the community—at least it never had been up to that time. If it has suffered any since then the fact is due entirely to the circumstance that snakes are able to do queer things.

"There is no doubt that the rattlesnake could have done just what Farmer Ansley offered to bet it could," said Blacksmith Hanley. "I know it from what I have seen myself on my stoop one day, when one of these common garter snakes came out of the grass on to the walk. I had a hoe in my hand and got up and whacked the snake in two with it. The part with the tail on squirmed about a good bit, but the part that had the head on wriggled away as lively as could be and hid under a board. I sat there awhile, somewhat surprised at what I had seen, and by and by I saw the head of the snake peek out from under the board. Pretty soon the snake came boldly out and made its way with that part of its body to where the other half lay. It backed itself up against the severed end of the other part, pressed the two ends together and then bent its head back to the place of separation, and with its mouth and tongue covered the wound with a slimy substance all around about the severed spot. It plastered itself in this way for a minute or more, then straightened out and lay quiet for some time. Then the snake started away, apparently as whole and firm as it was before I chopped the hoe through it, and disappeared in the grass and bushes.

"Another time I came across a snake that had been cut in two or squashed in two by something, I don't know what. Now that snake had been hurt in such a way that it was unable to turn itself and perform the surgical operation I had seen the garter snake perform; but another snake was there, and was trying to do the act for the severed snake. The well snake worked with a will, trying to join the two parts of the other one by plastering the wound with its mouth and tongue. The effort was a failure, though, and after awhile the good Samaritan snake gave up the attempt and went away. I have a witness to the garter snake's mending of itself, and I will go with anyone and make affidavit to both of these queer snake doings. The snakes weren't rattlers, of course; but if common, everyday, no-account snakes are able to doctor themselves up in this way, how can anyone dare to doubt that a wide-awake, gifted snake like a rattlesnake can do it?"

And there the subject rests at present. But the party who visited Farmer Ansley are congratulating themselves that there are two dollars more in Roulette than there would have been if the farmer had taken the bet, and shuddering to think that there might have been ten dollars less in town if they had taken the farmer's bet.—Roulette (Pa.) Cor. N. Y. Sun.

A UNIQUE WILL.

Breaking It Would Have Taken All from the Contestants.

One of the famous legal complications which Boston has witnessed managed to involve in its intricacies quite a number of notable men. For many years one of the law offices in the old Joy building was occupied by a veteran lawyer known as "Jerry" Brown. Quite late in life this old gentleman was married to one of his clients, who not long after died. When her will was opened it was found to have been made shortly before her marriage. By it she bequeathed practically all her property to her intended husband, giving small bequests to her relatives and to public charities, and also remembering her husband's nephew, J. Q. A. Brackett, whom she named, with him, as executor. The will was witnessed by Albert E. Pillsbury.

The heirs at law immediately set up an attempt to break the will, on the ground of undue influence. The documents they filed stated that among the property was a house on the Back bay and a large amount of land in Kansas. They retained as counsel John D. Long and Stillman B. Allen. The executors retained Charles R. Train and J. Q. Tecle. The will was allowed in the probate court and an appeal taken to the supreme court. There the will was set aside. Then the executors appealed to the full bench on exceptions, but before the case reached trial it was settled.

The reason it was settled was this: By the laws of Kansas, when there is no will the property of a wife all goes to her husband. The heirs were, therefore, fighting to break a will, which, if broken, would have left them nothing for their pains, while the legatee under the will was fighting to preserve it intact, when he was sure to get more by having the will broken. The consequence was that he settled with the natural heirs on his own terms.

"Uncle Jerry" lived a number of years to relate with satisfaction the story of his triumph. There was no such contest over his will, for he made none, the ex-governor being his only heir and the administrator of his estate.—Boston Traveler.

Work at The Probate Court.

As indicating the amount of work done in the probate office for this county during the year 1892 we submit a statement furnished by A. E. Barager, the efficient probate register, as follows

No. of new estates commenced	210
No. of old estates closed	141
No. of letters of administration issued	61
No. of wills proved and letters issued	91
No. of guardians appointed for minors	31
No. of guardains appointed for incompetent persons	11
No. of dependent children sent to state public school	3
No. of insane sent to asylum, 17 indigent, 1 private	18
No. of adoption and change of name	3
No. of minors released from guardianship	30
No. of drain cases	2
No. of bonds and sellers issued and recorded	374
No. of sales of real estate	32
No. of appraisers and commissioners warrants issued	304
No. of petitions drawn	000
No. of final statements and accounts	141
No. of orders and decrees	1975

The above figures give but a faint idea of the amount of work done. Many of the hearings are contested, most of the wills have to be twice copied and recorded, bonds, letters, license to sell real estate, decrees have to be recorded and compared, as well as a vast amount of miscellaneous work necessarily done in connection with the settlement of estates not enumerated above.

North American Review
BY THE RIGHT MEN,
AT THE RIGHT TIME.

THE TOPICS are always those which are uppermost in the public mind—in morals, politics, science, literature, business, finance, industrial economy, social and municipal affairs, etc.—in short, all subjects on which Americans require and desire to be informed. No magazine follows so closely from month to month the course of public interest. All subjects are treated of impartially on both sides.

THE CONTRIBUTORS to the Review are the men and women to whom the world looks for the most authoritative statements on the subjects of the day. No other periodical can point to such a succession of distinguished writers. The list is a role of the people who are making in history, controlling the affairs, and leading the opinion of the age, such as Mr. Gladstone, the Prime Minister of England; Mr. Blaine; Signor Crispi, Ex-Prime Minister of Italy, Baron Hirsch; H. R. H. the Count of Paris; Cardinal Gibbons; Bishops Potter, Doane, Mallalieu, Foss, etc.

THE TIME when these subjects are treated of by these contributors is the very time when the subjects are in the public mind—not a month or two after the people have ceased to think of them. The promptness with which the Review furnishes its readers with the most authoritative information upon the topics of the day is one of its most valuable features!

Mrs. Henry Tingley, nee Frances Pawson, gave an old-fashioned quilting bee at the home of her parents in Franklin last Saturday, at which twenty-nine people sat down to dinner. To keep the men present from pricking their fingers, tangling the thread and bothering the girls generally, they—the men—were sent off to the woods hunting until dinner time, and when they returned each man had succeeded in capturing a huge appetite for dinner, besides the other game. Altogether, those from this place who attended declare it away ahead of anything else for a good social time.

The beautiful home of Mr. C. S. Foote, of Ridgeway, was filled to overflowing last Saturday by a joyous company of his friends from the Sunday School of the Reformed Church of South Macon, the occasion being to give him in this way a token of their esteem for him as Superintendent of the Sunday School, which post he has filled most acceptably for twelve years without interruption. His Bible class of young ladies gave him a beautiful book entitled "City Legends" as a token of their appreciation of his faithfulness in teaching, and his friends in the entire School presented him with a beautiful solid oak chair, carved and upholstered, purchased of Mr. Kinney, of Tecumseh. The honor of presenting the book and chair was granted to the pastor, J. I. Gulick, and called forth a neat impromptu speech from the surprised Superintendent. Such gatherings are rare but very enjoyable. A bountiful dinner was served and at a late hour of the afternoon all returned to their homes, rejoicing in these hours of social enjoyment and of real friendships only made stronger.

Mr. Dewitt Martin and wife have the full sympathy of the entire community in the death of their most beautiful and bright babe. It was sick with whooping cough for nearly six weeks and was supposed to be almost well again when it was suddenly taken with inflammation of the lungs and in its weakened state could not survive. The funeral services were held in the Reformed Church of South Macon on Sunday, January 8th, at 2 p. m. The crowded church attested the feeling of deep sympathy of the entire community with the bereaved parents. All that parental love could suggest was done for its comfort while living, and all that the love of parents and friends could provide or suggest was done in order to lay the little body away in the dust, within its beautiful casket, to await the morning of the Resurrection. "It is well" with the child. G.

The attendance at the Box social held at the Library, Friday evening, was not as large as usual, owing to there being several other entertainments the same evening. Those present spent a very pleasant time. The proceeds amounted to $25.00, the boxes selling from 30c to $2.60. F. J. Christmas and the Exposition.

America is not without her Christmas present.

The December issue of the "World's Columbian Exposition Illustrated" comes to us dressed in a specially designed lithographed cover. On the front page Santa Claus is shown as presenting the World's Columbian Exposition as a Christmas present to Miss Columbia, who posing in her dignity, gracefully accepts it with thanks to her enterprising citizens. The scene is produced in rich colors and to be appreciated must be seen.

This number is attractive by its numerous official photographs of the dedicative parades, also illustrations of the Turkish, German and Irish villages to be produced at the Fair. In addition to this are the buildings of the French Colonies, Colorado Cliff Dwellers, while Hon. John T. Harris of Virginia is the frontispiece.

Among the leading articles are "Open the Fair Sunday," "Directors' Resolution on Sunday Closing," Transportation Department, "Music Department," "Description of Foreign Exhibits, etc. The Woman's Department is replete with interesting information regarding the women's work.

In all, this number is the richest yet published, and as this is the only publication entirely devoted to the Exposition interests, while answering for a complete guide, the entire issue will form an authentic history of the World's Columbian Exposition. The publishers want reliable agents in each town. Sample copy of Christmas issue sent for twenty-five cents. Address

Mollie: What are you going to give Charley for Christmas? Jenny: A parrot. Mollie: Do you think he will be pleased with it? Jennie: Oh, yes; it can help him swear when the Christmas bills begin to come in.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier is admirably adapted to make "a little health go a long way." Its curative power is largely attributable to its stimulant, tonic and nutritive properties, by which the energy of the system is recruited. It is pleasant to the taste, easily borne on the stomach and harmless under prolonged use. Try it.

HOLLOWAY HASH.

Sol. Billmeyer of Cambridge was visiting friends here the first of the week.

Chas. Baker of Adrian was down last Saturday evening, visiting at H. H. Osgood's and inspecting the creamery.

Parties from Wolf Creek interested in a creamery at that place were here getting pointers and looking over our creamery last Friday.

We are of the opinion that we shall have to get a larger pencil or buy the compositor a pair of spectacles. He mixed our item at the close of last weeks correspondence so bad that we were unable to recognize it at all. It should have read: Thomas and Fred Hartman and Mrs. Lozier, brothers and sister of Harvey and Joe Hartman of this place, and O. L. Smith, all from Ohio.

The Holloway correspondent for the Adrian Telegram thought we were a little too previous in announcing that Grover Cleveland was to have Holloway creamery butter at Washington D. C. as Benny was there yet. We have since been informed that Grover will have his Holloway butter just the same as they have sent a consignment to York state, and received returns. That shipped to Washington will be stored, till after the 4th of March.

Quite a little sport was occasioned here, by the cutting of the first creamery cheese, on Saturday, last which was divided among the stockholders. Some however were lucky and others were not. One of the stockholders left his piece in the creamery to be called for later on: when he came to look for it, it was gone. Another took his home and fed it to his chickens; didn't know whether they were alive this morning or not. Another liked the cheese so well that he took all he could lay his hands on. Follow up this clue and may be you will find your cheese.

Neighbors and friends to the number of 25 or 30, met at James Patterson's last Wednesday, and sawed, split, drew and piled up at Mrs. Mary J. Stewart's 25 or 30 cords of stove wood, as a sympathetic cold weather offering.

Between 7 and 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, a grand meteoric illumination was witnessed by many in this vicinity resulting from a large meteor, the size of a half bushel, comet shaped, originating near here, moving in a South westerly direction and bursting just beyond Ridgeway, throwing off sparks in its flight and terminating in a beautiful spray, resembling a huge skyrocket, followed by a low rumbling noise like that of distant thunder.

Remember the club meeting at Isaac Pennington's Wednesday eve, the 25th inst. Everybody invited. In connection with a literary and musical program, will be a paper on "road making," followed by discussion. Governors and congressmen are agitating the "good road" question. In fact the national government and money power are pulling all the ropes for an excuse to renew the government bond fraud. Extensive "road making" will give them a grand opportunity. We want good roads and should push the work, but not under a bond or tax system. So come out and discuss the question from a reasonable and fair standpoint.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR has won, on merit alone, a widespread and enduring reputation. It is a combination of vegetable agents, the result of the experience of one who made the diseases of women a life-long study. Taken according to directions the organs awake to new life and energy, leaving the woman free from pain, at these periods. Sold by Jno. Orr.

Mr. Leland T. Powers has achieved fame as an impersonator of character, and the entertainment furnished by him last evening, was charming in every respect. To say that it was capital but feebly defines its excellence. The impersonations were marvels of genius. In the beautiful comedy of David Garrick he showed his almost limitless capabilities. Besides the great diversity of minor characters there was the noble Garrick himself, the magnificence of whose character and personage Mr. Powers portrayed with faultless skill. The audience went into raptures and it is no wonder. It was an evening of unalloyed pleasure.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The right man for Secretary of State is Don M. Dickinson, and his Michigan friends would like to know, you know, why he does'nt accept the tender.

The monkey and parrot time, in which the Kansas legislature is now indulging, is another most emphatic argument in favor of electing U. S. Senators by popular vote.

Old Roman Thurman has been heard from. He has started out on the second month of his 80th year, and all he wants of President-elect Cleveland is a photograph of Baby Ruth.

Old Probs is giving us some very respectable winter weather these days. With the thermometer hovering near zero and with splendid sleighing, the most fastidious man should be satisfied.

No change will be made by this Congress in the meeting of Congress and for the inauguration of President, the House having defeated the resolution providing for the change by a vote of 121 to 49.

Cabinet Slates are plenty these days. It is safe to predict however that Carlisle and Morrison will both be "in it", and if the whole cabinet is constructed after the same pattern the people will have no cause to complain.

The death of Gen. B. F. Butler removes from earth one of the most prominent public characters of the war and reconstruction era. Whatever men may think of his political course, none can deny that he was a man of wonderful versatility and intellectual vigor.

The choice of Edward Murphy, Jr., for U. S. Senator to represent the great state of New York, is very disappointing to the Democratic masses generally. True, he is the peer of the present incumbent, Frank Hiscock, but the people had a right to expect better things from a Democratic legislature.

Mr. Cleveland is a great puzzle to the republicans. His courage and common sense make him conspicuously great but the republicans deny his greatness, and talk of his luck and ponderosity and all that sort of thing. If Lincoln was great then Cleveland is great, for their leading characteristics are decidedly similar

The Free Press says: "Everybody can laugh over the ridiculous factional fight in the Lower House of Delaware's Legislature. It contains two Republicans, and they are at each other hammer and tongs, trying to determine which shall be the acknowledged leader of the minority.

It was very kind of Mr. Tom Platt to send Mr. Cleveland a permit to deadhead anything he pleased over the lines of the United States Express company, and it was not unkind of Mr. Cleveland to send it back—as he did, probably on the ground that Democrats do not elect Presidents to be deadheads in Mr. Platt's enterprises.

The St. Louis Republic asks this very pertinent question: "Before Mr. Murphy is admitted to the senate we trust that a committee will be appointed to ascertain whether it has been his habit to put aloes in his beer. No man who is not above suspicion of making an article of beer less pure than that sold over Mr. Morton's bar is worthy to sit in the United States Senate to represent the great and civilized State of New York.

The selection of Ed. Murphy for Senator in New York is the opening gun in what is likely to be a bitter factional war in that State. Luckily the machine has struck the first blow, and Cleveland is not the man to surrender in such a conflict. Let the New York factions proceed with their Kilkenny cat fight. The Northwest and the South will control the Democratic party and national politics hereafter.

The interest of the entire population—consumers as well as manufacturers—clearly forbid the withdrawal of every particle of our tariff duties at one sweep. It is fortunate that the work to be done will be controlled by intelligent and careful men who cannot be induced to support a policy of destruction, but are determined to put in force, with due deliberation, a policy of justice that will preserve and encourage rather than destroy or injure those interests which deserve to be preserved and encouraged for the common good.

The election of Edward Murphy to the U. S. Senate may revolutionize some of the customs of that body. Will not "senatorial courtesy" require the Solons of that body to drink Tory hereafter instead of cold tea?

A present consisting of a pair of woolen gloves has arrived from England for Mr. Cleveland, and now awaits his pleasure. The tariff has not been paid, and if Mr. Cleveland wishes the gloves he must pay duties at the rate of 49 1-2 cents per pound and 60.5-8 cents ad valorem. They were probably sent by some good democrat sojourning on the other side as a reminder of the necessity of an extra session in which the iniquitous tariff must be handled without gloves.

President Harrison has put all the free delivery postoffices under the operation of the civil service law, thus adding, it is estimated, 7,000 new places to the classified service. This is a good thing to do, but why did President Harrison delay doing it till the end of his term—that is, till he had himself had all the partisan manipulation of these 7,000 places that he could have? Death bed repentance, perhaps, is better than none, but it may occur in such a manner as to excite suspicion of a man's sincerity.

The nomination of Murphy by the Democratic caucus at Albany insures his election to the United States Senate. The selection is a defiance of the Cleveland sentiment in the State and an invitation by the Hill machine of a conflict with the coming Democratic administration, and with all the forces of the opposition to the continued denomination of the machine in the Democratic party of New York. It is just as well that this conflict should be precipitated by the machine itself, for it was bound to come, and the more arrogant and defiant the leaders show themselves the more certain and complete will be the disaster that awaits them.—N. Y. Times.

For the second time within less than nine months the Vice President's desk in the Senate chamber was last week presided over by Cardinal Gibbons, of the Roman Catholic Church, arrayed in his impressive canonical robes and accompanied by the insignia of his position. The first time was last May, when the Cardinal conducted the funeral services of the late Senator Barbour, of Virginia, and last week he was there, assisted by Bishop Keane, of the Catholic University, and a half-score of priests, to conduct the funeral services of Senator Kenna, of West Virginia. The floor and galleries were crowded to their full capacity, and few who were present will ever forget the scene.

The receipts of the treasury are spent from week to week as they come in. There is no "available surplus" other than small amounts of fractional currency and the deposits with national banks. For a year past the Harrison administration has been seriously embarrassed to make ends meet, and now, with pensions constantly increasing, it is preparing to leave the Cleveland administration "the bag to hold." The management of national finances will be no easy matter for the next four years, but by lowering the duties of the McKinley law and by increasing the whiskey tax the Democrats will be able to meet the increasing expense of pensions without serious difficulty—except to the people who have to pay the taxes. —St. Louis Republic.

The election of U. S. Senators by the people is a reform that must come at an early day. The St. Louis Republic truly says: The election of Senators by the legislatures has ceased to give average results that accord with a republican form of government. Not even the form is preserved when, as in New Hampshire, a mere clerk unseats enough members of a majority to turn it into a minority, nor is it longer the American republican form when the courts are used to control legislatures in their organization, with the ulterior purpose of defeating one candidate and electing another. The election of United States Senators by direct vote will not be a cure-all, but it will be a great improvement on the present system, for which improvement must come soon, unless the long succession of frauds and usurpations it has made easily possible are really to end in actual violence and in a Mexicanized Senate.

The House Ways and Means Committee favors the repeal of the sugar bounty law, and it is probable that the committee will make a favorable report on Representative Scott's bill providing for its repeal. Representative Scott claims that a canvass he has made of the House and Senate shows that the bill will pass, but others say that it will be impossible to get the bill through the Senate, unless it be amended so as to put a tax on foreign sugar. There is an impression, however, that if the bill gets to the Senate a number of Republican Senators who supported the bounty clause of the McKinley tariff bill under compulsion will gladly vote for its repeal as a matter of principle. The two Louisiana Senators and Senator Peffer are expected to vote against repeal, unless their sugar-raising constituents are protected by a tax on foreign sugar, but no case is recalled of Congress having restored the tax on an article after having once taken it off, and precedent always plays an influential part in Congressional legislation.

Col. Watterson's Wager.

We may regard it as certain that the Hon. John Griffith Carlisle has consented to be secretary of the Treasury in Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet. Nothing less than an absolute conviction of certainty could have justified the Hon. Henry Watterson in making the following utterance:

"While the Courier-Journal in no sense pretends to speak for the Senator, or for the President-elect, or for anybody except itself, and while now and then one or two of its predictions have gone astray, as it were, it hereby offers to bet the Star-eyed Goddess and every shred of her new Inauguration Ball costume against a last year's Harrison and Reid election ticket, that the next Secretary of the Treasury will be John G. Carlisle of Kentucky."

Nothing could be a better symbol of the absolutely worthless than an old ballot; nothing symbolizes so well the innermost quintessence of supreme loveliness, perfect virtue, and dazzling economic health as the Star-eyed Goddess. Symbolizes? Nay, is! Beauty, virtue, wisdom are only nicknames of her, and with what constant chivalric devotion has Col. Watterson worshipped her. With what dithyrambs of whirling fire, and panegyrics sweeter than Assyrian amomum or the heart of the Blue Grass he has celebrated her. Not Lesbia, nor Beatrice, nor Laura, nor Lydia Pinkham, has been so enshrined in the memories of men. Would the Colonel part from her? Why, the head is not more native to the heart. Would the Colonel let her appear at the Inauguration Ball without her inauguration costume—but let us favor our tongues and not blaspheme. Henry Watterson certainly will not allow the Star-eyed to catch cold on the Fourth of March or any other day.

The solemn nature of the odds which Col. Watterson lays so blithely is sufficient proof of the sincerity of his belief and the correctness of his information. Mr. Carlisle will be the man.—N. Y. Sun.

The New York Senatorship.

Edward Murphy bears the same relation to the Democratic organization of New York that Senator Quay bears to the Republican organization of Pennsylvania. He is the undoubted favorite of the active rain-and-shine Democratic workers of the Empire State, as Quay is of the active rain-and-shine Republican workers of this State; and there is not a shade of sentimentalism in the politics of either. The action of the New York Electoral College nominating Mr. Murphy for Senator with but few dissenting votes, before voting for Cleveland for President, was conclusive proof of the purpose and power of the Democratic organization of New York to have him as Senator regardless of the approval or disapproval of the President-elect.

True, it is unprecedented in the history of Electoral Colleges, but it is the logical expression of the present political conditions in that State. Members of Electoral Colleges have occasionally signed recommendations for Cabinet positions as individuals; but never before did a College, acting in its organized capacity, recommend any man for either national or State office.

The nomination of Mr. Murphy was consummated last night and his election is certain to follow. What then? The breach in the Democratic lines of New York has been made, and it is only a question of time when it must bring the opposing factions into actual conflict. Prudential considerations may restrain Senators Hill and Murphy from aggressive warfare against the administration, but the chasm between the opposing elements seems to be impassible, and the shock of battle cannot long be delayed.

The result of such a conflict may be serious embarrassment to the Cleveland administration, but it must be the destruction of the political power of all who are arrayed against the President. He will have the party with him throughout the country and the machinery of the party outside of New York, and he will have ninety-nine hundredths of the whole people with him. These facts may temper the purposes of the anti-Cleveland forces in New York, and the more they shall be tempered by the obvious facts the better it will be for them.

The opposing Democratic forces in New York appear to be irreconcilable, and that means a cyclone clearing up of the political atmosphere. After the storm there will be a healthier political sentiment in New York, and that will compensate for the struggle.—Philadelphia Times.

Death of General Butler.

The following merited tribute to the memory of the late Gen. Butler is from the New York Sun.

"For the last quarter of a century at least Benjamin Franklin Butler has stood out as the most original, the most American, and the most picturesque character in our public life. He had courage equal to every occasion; his given word needed no backer; his friendships and his enmities knew no variableness or shadow of turning; his opinions were never disguised nor withheld; his devotion to his country was without qualification; his faith in the future of liberty and democracy was neither intoxicated by their victories nor disheartened by their defeats; his intellectual resources were marvellous; his mind naturally adhered to the cause of the poor and the weak, and his delight was to stand by the under dog in the fight. In these qualities he was a great and an exceptional man, and his friends valued him and loved him as truly as his foes detested. But was he great always and in everything? Were his thoughts always thoughts of reality, and his utterances and acts always the utterances and acts of wisdom? Who would say so? No man attains to that height, and no man ever scorned the impostures of sham goodness and unattainable perfection more than Ben Butler. He was no pretender and no hypocrite. He lived his life, a life full of energy, of effort, of success, and of failure, and he has passed to the allotted reward; while we who remain may well be grateful to Heaven that such a man has been:

"Nor farther seek his merits to disclose,
Or draw his frailties from their dread abode,
Where they alike in trembling hope repose,
The bosom of his Father and his God."

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do such that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave, Chicago, Ill.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is superior to all other preparations claiming to be blood purifiers. First of all, because the principal ingredient used in it is the extract of genuine Honduras sarsaparilla root, the variety richest in medicinal properties. Also, because the yellow dock, being raised expressly for the Company, is always fresh and of the very best kind. With equal discrimination and care, each of the other ingredients are selected and compounded. It is

SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT

A Farmer on Farmers.

"So you want the farmers to pay all the taxes!"

This is the remark I most frequently hear when I call a farmer's attention to to the question of the single tax, and it shows plainly what I have frequently noticed, that they still hold to the traditional idea that the farmers of the country own the land.

To a certain extent they did a hundred years or so ago own the land. But conditions have changed, and to-day the farmers own the acres indeed, but the towns own the values. A few blocks in New York city to-day have more value, I venture, than all the land values of farms from Westchester to Albany.

This may seem strange to those not conversant with the facts, but it is true, nevertheless. The present selling value of farms is measured largely by their improvements, and these improvements are, many of them, of the most substantial kind.

Of course, the question of whether some particular class of persons is to pay more or less than they do under our present system, does not affect the question of the justice of the single tax. But it is important to show that the system will not rob or oppress any legitimate industry.

I have in my mind a snug little farm of one hundred acres. In discussing the question I have several times mentioned this farm, and asked my listener to picture to his imagination the farm without improvements. I say: "Suppose all the rocks and stones back in the soil from whence they were dug; the fences, shade and fruit trees, buildings, water pipes, wells, roadways, and all improvements whatever, obliterated. What annual rental would the farm be worth?" The estimates given have varied from thirty to fifty dollars. Under the single tax these fifty dollars would represent the utmost limit of that farmer's annual taxes. Yet the annual tax on that farm has averaged over sixty dollars for the last twenty years; and the owner estimates that the national taxes have cost him, directly and indirectly, several times as much. This is no exceptional case, but fairly represents the average of eastern farms. The farmers of the country are paying far more in taxes under our present system than they would under the single tax. If then the farmers would pay less under the single tax, who would pay the necessary increase to make it up? The increase in taxes would fall upon those persons who hold land from its most profitable use for speculative purposes. They are the ones who are always talking to the assessors about their land not yielding any income; and they are to be found at every little country village and railway station. Did you never notice? Even in these small centers of trade there is sure to be some of the most desirable and convenient land unoccupied, because the owners are waiting for the growth and necessity of the community to enhance its selling value. These are the men who escape the taxes that the farmer is obliged to pay; and they are at the same time obstructing the growth and welfare of the town in which they live.—Chas. C. Benton.

Single Tax Enthusiasm.

We sometimes hear it said that while private property in land is certainly wrong and should be abolished, yet that the advocates of this reform are apt to be "enthusiasts" in their expectations of its results. Such criticisms spring from a failure to realize that the wrong in question is no mere fiscal mistake, but involves a breach of natural order whose consequences must necessarily extend to the farthest limit of the chain of cause and effect. Tracing out the connection of these consequences, we may find in the removal of their cause wherewith to justify some enthusiasm on the part of workers for that end.

In every community some locations have a value above others, which, in no respect the product of individual exertion, results from the distribution of population, and increases as population increases. This value is the natural community fund. Its appropriation by individuals is the robbery of the community. Legalize such spoliation and the individuals thus enriched hold the key to the situation in their ability to control the land market. Not only is it true that the growing population can create less with the same exertion than on preferable sites, but out of this less they must pay with one hand an ever-increasing proportion to swell the unearned wealth of their landlord, and with the other to replace the community fund thus diverted into his private coffers.

The fate of a community founded upon such a basis is simply a question of the rapidity of its growth, and, however delayed, is certain. Given the source of the stream, and the general trend of the land which it waters, and whatever may be its windings we know what ocean it must find at last. The differentiation into the very rich and the very poor, begins with the presence of its cause and will cease only with the removal of that cause.

The very rich and the very poor. Vast wealth. Abject poverty. What do the words imply? Abject poverty means the loss of self-respect and of the respect of one's fellows. It means to suffer, and to see one's dearest suffer, from cold and hunger, and never-rested weariness. It means to toil on through pain and disease till death opens the door of escape. Yet more than this; it means every temptation to drunkenness and crime; it means the dull brutality born of despair. It means children growing up without home or parental care, ignorant of the refinements of cleanliness and the safeguards of decency; familiar with evil from babyhood. Hopeless want and all the vice that springs from it; this is the meaning of abject poverty.

To escape such a fate, to reach the standing ground of unthreatened competence—ever harder and harder to gain—becomes the goal of the frantic crowd; and it is a struggle in which the success of one means the disaster to many. Public opinion, debauched of necessity, condones more and more of baseness, dishonor, and even crime, whose outcome is the attainment of wealth. Honor is reserved for riches alone, and the ostentation of its evidences becomes the occupation of its possessors, and the strained efforts of those who, to hide a lack become shameful, strive to make a show behind which there is no reality. When ideals have fallen thus low; when work has become a badge of disgrace; when success in money-getting is the standard of conduct; then are the teachers of morals but as salt that has lost its savor; public spirit and patriotism but words left for the hypocrites of party to conjure with; then the indolence and vice born of luxury; no less than the indolence and vice born of want; leave their lurking place for the broad light of day. Class hatreds flourish; class wars prevail, till social order perishes and chaos comes again.

Such being the evils which must result from private ownership of land, there is surely enough in the removal of their cause to waken enthusiasm in the minds of those who love their race. Abolish this cause, and those whom it forces into poverty and vice are released from its fatal pressure. The fines which it has exacted from industry and thrift—checking production and thrift—are no longer levied. Those whom it has enabled to live in luxury at the expense of their fellows are no longer able to draw an income from such a source. With the dread of want dies the deification of riches. Temptations to ostentation in living are minimized, for as wealth loses its prestage, its evidences, call for more of envy or admiration than a string of scalps or an elaborate pattern in tattooing. Morality and patriotism and public spirit, no longer trodden under foot in the mad race for money, once more lift their august heads, and class hatreds must disappear as class lines tend to vanish.

But this is not all. A righteous reform not only casts out the devil, it opens the door to the angel. Natural law being in its nature beneficent, its violation is the reversal of a mighty engine for good. And so renewed obedience results in negation of evil. All the force of the power that was hurrying civilization to destruction now carries the race forward. "Turn yourselves and live ye," said the prophet of old. The change of direction involves a change of goal, and is vital.

But who supposes that, the single tax once in operation, humanity is to ship its oars and drift? Rather is it then only worth while to row when freed from the swift current that sets toward ruin. To remove an obstacle makes progress possible. The man who has gained one height is in a position to scale a higher. Cause enough for enthusiasm if we may hope that our faithful discharge of the duty of our day and generation may enable those who come after to see, with purged vision, tasks hidden from eyes dimmed by familiarity with the long night of injustice and misery.—Margaret S. Littell.

Compensation.

It is an undeniable fact that the one great, overwhelming objection to the single tax is that it would destroy existing land values. All other objections are as nothing compared to this, and it must be met in a way satisfactory to practical men. While to the far-thinking single taxer, who sees ample compensation in an improved condition of society, the objection has no weight, to the ordinary thinker it may serve to completely bar all further examination of the subject. Hence argument on this point may be of great use. Stated in the briefest way, this fundamental objection to the single tax—the one whereon will be fought the great and final battle for equal human rights—is this: "It will destroy existing values." Here, in five words, we have the gauge of battle—the most portentous that the world has ever known.

It may be a point gained to know that this objection, as to the destruction of existing values, applies with equal force to all inventions, all social progress, all discovery of new methods.

Our opponents must concede two important facts—first, that social progress involves the continual destruction of existing values; and second, that society has no thought of compensation for such destruction of values.

Thus, a new steam engine may drive all existing engines into the scrap heap; the inventor of the wire nail machine destroyed vast sums that were invested in machinery for making cut nails; while new processes for making steel are driving the iron industry into ruin. But society is without mercy, and knows no thought of compensation. It must be clear to all that here is a great law, a fixed fact, in view of which it is just as illogical to condemn the single tax because it would destroy existing land values, as to condemn railroads because they destroyed the value of stage routes.—A. C. Sekell.

This is the Remedy.

Here in Maryland we have thousands of acres untouched and uncultivated. Why? Somebody owns it, certainly, and the tax upon it is so small that these gentry can afford to pay it and hold on, hoping for a speculative rise, instead of either going to work on it themselves or releasing it to others who would work it, if it were only free from rent to the inexorable landlord, and they would not be fined by the government for being industrious. Single tax on land values would cure all this. It would put such a small tax on agricultural lands, and at the same time relieve the farmer from all other taxes on improvements, and clothing, and articles of consumption, that men would have no occasion to rush out to the wild lands of the West, leaving behind them states half cultivated and cities only half built up with houses.—Baltimore (Md.) Critic.

—"Been busy?" said one bootblack to another. "I should say so! I blacked a feller's boots, an' he wouldn't pay me; so I had to black his eye extra."

THE HERALD FOR 1893

For eighteen years last past, through good report and evil report, in prosperity and adversity alike, the HERALD has kept in "the middle of the road" in both a political and business sense. The record of the paper, under its present management, is well known, and nothing need be said on that point. Performance is better than promise. We have no special promises to make for the future, as the paper will speak for itself, as it has done in the past.

First and foremost, it will aim to be the best local newspaper in Lenawee County, and to hold its place as a household necessity in every family of Northern Lenawee. Though not a political organ in a partisan sense, the HERALD will always be found on the people's side in the great battle for equal rights and reduced taxation, and will continue to be an uncompromising advocate of tariff reform until that question shall be settled and settled right. All efforts to shake its business position and influence have proved unavailing, and it views the approach of 1893 with a serene confidence that the World's Fair year will be the most prosperous in its history.

Our Subscription rates next year will be only $1.10 within the County of Lenawee, if paid spot cash in advance. Beyond the County, $1.25 in advance. When payment is delayed an additional rate will be charged. We consider this a fair solution of the subscription problem. When subscribers desire accommodation they can afford to pay a reasonable bonus for that privilege. Here are our premium offers and club list for the coming year.

The Herald and the American Farmer price $1.00, or,

The Herald and the Breeders' Guide, price $1.00, or

Why don't farmers raise broom corn? An item is going the rounds of the papers which says a half acre of ground in Indiana raised enough to sell for $50.

A Hillsdale county paper notes the fact that a man named Huggett is working himself to death. With such a name and plenty of ladies in sight, he is excusable.—Hudson Post.

Franklin farmers have taken stock in a cheese factory or creamery, which is to be built just west of Tipton by a Chicago party. There is some kicking about the price the committee contracted for, but no one can lose over $200, as that is the limit of stock he is entitled to purchase. They will push the matter, however, and have a first-class plant.

The Baptist young people's union, of Adrian, are preparing one of the handsomest newspapers for publication that has ever been brought out in Adrian. It will be profusely illustrated with half-tone productions made by the Web Engraving Co., and will be printed on enameled paper of a cream tint. It is expected that the sheet will be ready for distribution about Feb. 1st.

From the worn records of the register of deeds office we find that the first deed placed on file there was made January 31, 1827, by John Jacob Shuall and his wife Katharine, to Ammon Sperry. The land deeded over in this warrantee deed was 12 1-2 acres, now believed to be owned by R. Mills, in the northwest corner of Clinton township, and was originally purchased from the government about eight months before, May 18, 1826. Mrs. Shuall had her mark, X attached, in place of her name, and the paper was witnessed by D. B. Bird, certified to by Justice Thomas Goodrich, and filed with the register of probate, Geo. Spafford, the day following. The office of register of deeds was not then in existence.—Evening Telegram.

A hazy reminiscence of the distant past which makes present-day Adrian residents feel distinctly cosmopolitan in comparison is told by George W. Lewis. Fifty-six years ago, on the site surrounding the present location of the Wilcox hardware store, was a public square. The father of Mr. Lewis proposed erecting a house on the square, contrary to the village ordinance, and strenuous efforts were at once made by the town board to thwart his design. But before an injunction restraining the erection of the building could be secured from the county officials at Tecumseh, which was then the county seat, the intrepid Mr. Lewis put up his house. At that time the only traveling facilities between the two villages was a foot trail through the woods, and the time employed in traversing it and procuring the necessary papers gave Mr. Lewis ample opportunity to complete his dwelling, which, when once up, was allowed to stand.—Adrian Times.

HERE IS PROGRESS.

It has come to be quite the fashion to look to Michigan for progress in agriculture, so grand and generous are the provisions by that State for education in the science of making the earth yield the maximum of her richness. But progress in farming makes progress in other lines inevitable. The Engineering Magazine for January contains the following communication from George S. Tiffany of Tecumseh, Mich.:

In the November number of this Magazine, in the electrical department, mention is made of a "rural farming district in Michigan that has provided itself with a telegraph line 8 miles in length." There is a line in the northern part of Lenawee county which was commenced by connecting two farm houses and has been extended from house to house and village to village until it is now over a hundred miles in length, and connects newspaper offices, doctor's offices, and stores in Adrian, Tecumseh, Clinton, Franklin, Macon, Ridgeway, and Raisin. The farmer keeps up the line across his farm and owns the instrument. One cannot enumerate the benefits it confers, but one, which the manager, Mr. R. J. W. Bowen of Tecumseh, mentioned to me to-day, is worthy of special mention. The election returns came in very early from towns on the line and were given to the agent of the Associated Press in exchange for their dispatches, which were immediately sent over the wire to each farm house. In receiving news the farmers of Lenawee county had an advantage over the business man of New York and Chicago.

"I could not sleep last night," said Mr. Bowen, "for I lay in bed listening to the instrument ticking off the election news."

What do you think of that? The company is named the Commercial Telegraph Co.; but it is a misnomer; it should be named the Farmers' Telegraph Co., for it is such. The system should be extended until every farm-house is bound to every other with cords of steel.

We can imagine nothing to hinder every farmer from having a ticker in his house. Wire is cheap, batteries cost but little and the table outfit is inexpensive. Let each one for himself imagine all the benefits that a telegraph instrument in his own house would confer. What an education for the children of a rural family! Curiosity to know the meaning of the ticking would stimulate every little mind to become an expert reader of the instrument. What an awakeni is in store for the rural communities? When the storms are howling and the snow is drifting the entire rural community may sit down and visit with neighbors miles away. All the neighborhood gossip of the better quality can be loaded on the wires for the interest of all. The market reports can be sent in every day from nearby villages and the village storekeeper may bid for a new supply of eggs or butter among the people on the line. Hail to the Farmers' Telegraph company, to regulate rural commerce. No monopoly shall control the farmer's line, but like the highway it shall be everybody's. It will be the highway of news and information. William and Maria shall be able to do their courting by means of a cipher that none shall know but themselves. But the owners of the wires may object to love messages which might glut the line. Shall we make a prediction? Well, it is that the Michigan idea will spread from house to house till the absence of the telegraph in the rural home will be the exception to a general rule. What farming community of New York State will be the first to adopt it?—Buffalo Times.

OBITUARY.

The following notice is taken from the Jackson Patriot:

Ellery Sisson died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Geo. Shuart, Jan. 7th, in his 80th year. Mr. Sisson resided in Lenawee county all his life until about five weeks ago, when he came here to visit his daughter. He has voted in Tecumseh at every presidential election since attaining his majority, and was a staunch democrat.

Mr. Sisson was one of the earliest settlers of this township. His father located the old Aaron Comfort farm, across the road from N. M. Sutton's, the present home of A. J. Van Winkle and of Dr. C. A. Waldron. Mr. Sisson himself resided in Tecumseh and Raisin for more than 70 years, until a few weeks ago when he went to live with his daughter in Jackson.

The following is taken from the Hanover Times.

Died, after a brief illness, at her residence in Jackson, Saturday, the 24th inst., Mrs. Nora Youngs, in her 30th year. Her maiden name was Shuart. The family were former residents of Hanover. Mrs. Youngs leaves to the care of her deeply distressed husband and generous parents here, three children, one son and two daughters. She was a loving and sympathizing wife and mother, a kind and generous neighbor and friend. Her remains were brought to this village for interment, where, after appropriate services they were laid beside a sister, who deceased some years since.

Cambridge Farmers' Club.

The fourth annual meeting of the Cambridge Farmers' club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Cooper, Saturday Jan. 7th, 1893. There were over one hundred and thirty persons in attendance, not including the little ones that wiggled around so that they could not be counted.

Notwithstanding the great number present, the house, like its owner's heart, was ample to accommodate them all. The barns are large and roomy, affording comfortable shelter for over fifty horses.

Mr. Cooper's family was all at home and each seemed to try to outvie the other in entertaining. The nice sleighing, the beautiful day, the hospitable greeting of the host and hostess, the pleasant and social manner in which the day was spent all conspired to make it a day long to be remembered.

The meeting was called to order by the president about 12 o'clock, opened by singing by the club; prayer by the chaplain. The next in order was the election of the following officers:

President—A. J. Case.
Vice Pres.—Miss Anna White.
Secretary—Samuel White.
Treasurer—Mrs. Marion Case.
Ex. Com.—Mrs. J. Reed, Mrs. Albert Dewey, Mrs. Wilson Reed.
Chaplain—Albert Dewey.
Organist—Miss Stella Dewey.
Adjourned for dinner.

At 2 o'clock the meeting was again called to order and the following program carried out:

Singing by the Club.
Rec.—"The Blizzard."—Veda Baker.
Song—Beulah Decker.
Inst. Music—Mrs. Mahrr.
Song—Mrs. W. Ayres.
Sel—"The Christian's Inner Life"—Jane Graves.
Paper—"What is the Cause of the Depressed Condition of the Farmer?—John W. Stafford.

This paper was well written, showing that the subject had been thoroughly studied, and well maintained his position that the cause was due to monopolies. Owing to the lateness of the hour it was not discussed which was very much regretted.

Then came a paper by C. H. Dewey, entitled "The Object and Duties of the Club." This also had to be much abreviated but was full of valuable hints and suggestions.

Closed by instrumental music by Miss Stella Dewey.

The next meeting will be held at Mr. and Mrs. David Neeley's.

Farmers' Social Club.

The F. S. C. met at F. C. Rector's, Tuesday evening Jan. 17, with a small attendance but a good program. Let there be a good attendance at the next meeting which will be held at Mr. J. T. Boyce's, Jan. 31, with the following programme.

Singing—by the club.
Dec.—Garland Gillespie.
Paper, Ideal Homes—Mrs. G. B. Garlinghouse.
Charade—Agnes Kehoe.
Reading—Mrs. B. J. Rector.
Dialogue.
Essay—Mrs. A. P. Coddington.
Dec.—Andrew Kehoe.
Music—School children.
Reading—Mr. J. T. Boyce.
Paper—Mr. B. F. DePuy.
Question: What causes the scarcity of farm labor and how shall we remedy it? opened by Mr. Kehoe.

He married July 1st. 1855, and was the father of three children; only one of these, a daughter survives him, with his widow. For many years he was connected as a member, and in official ways, with the Baptist church. We were surprised, and most agreeably so, at the singing of the Schumann Male Quartet last night. These young men hail from Chicago, and like everything from that city are in the front rank. They are quite young, and the future has much in store for them. Success is sure to crown their efforts, and we hope to see them in Pittsburgh again ere long.—Pittsburgh Post.

Frank Davidson has always been regarded as a quiet, inoffensive citizen, a man of few words and gentle voice, except at auction sales. Over 500,000 tons of Chili Salt-Petre or Nitrate of Soda was used in Europe last year for manure. As yet it is little known in this country. It is admitted to be the most powerful of all fertilizers and the cheapest and best source of Nitrogen. In "Harris' Rural Annual" for 1893, full and reliable directions are given for its use on farm and garden crops, small fruits, greenhouse plants, roses, etc. It will be sent free to any of our subscribers who send their names to Joseph Harris Co., Moreton Farm, Monroe Co., N. Y.

Of Leland T. Powers the Press has said much, and deservedly, too, for he is one of the best impersonators on the American stage. He is always "a whole show by himself." Last night Mr. Powers presented an entire play of three acts and impersonated one dozen characters without any assistance. The story was told as forcibly as though the cast had consisted of one dozen talented artists instead of but one. Not one dramatic situation was lost. The audience was one of the largest ever in the auditorium and it showed its appreciation of Mr. Powers' efforts by continued applause. The play was 'David Garrick,' and the presentation was a delicious treat.—Kansas City Times.

MICHIGAN MATTERS.

SUMMARY OF THE HAPPENINGS AMONG THE WOLVERINES.

Agricultural College Threatened with a Diphtheria Epidemic—Michigan Federation of Labor Meets at Muskegon—Bank Commissioner Sherwood's Report

Diphtheria at the Agricultural College.

Diphtheria, which created such consternation at the Agricultural college last spring, has again made its appearance there. One of the employes visited his daughter, who was ill with the disease in Detroit, and returned the following day. He had the certificate of the Detroit health officer that he had been properly disinfected. He again went to Detroit, and returned sick and brought a note from the same health official advising that he be placed in quarantine. His ailment proved to be diphtheria. Every precaution is being taken to stamp out the disease. The winter vacation will not end for a month, and as but few students are on the ground no serious results are apprehended. The college officials are greatly incensed at the course pursued by the Detroit authorities.

A Kalamazooloo's Strange Disappearance.

The continued absence of Robert W. Smith is the general topic of conversation in Kalamazoo. Smith left nearly six weeks ago on a business trip through the southwest and has not been heard from since a month ago, when he was in Iowa. He is well-to-do but he did not have over $1,000 with him. His business is in good condition and will be continued the same as before. The cause for his absence is a mystery. Some of his intimate friends believe he will return, if alive, but fear that he may have been foully dealt with. One person in Smith's employ says he knows where he is, but is sure he will never be back.

Norrie Mine Fire.

Fire was discovered on the fifth level of the No. 7 shaft in the Norrie Mine at Iron Mountain. The fire was so situated that much difficulty was experienced in getting at it. The firemen had to work from the fourth level but their work was retarded by dense smoke. The fire was extinguished, however, and the damage was only nominal as No. 7 shaft was wet and the flames made progress slowly. The fire originated in Lander's house, 600 feet under ground, and burned the logging out of three or four sets.

A Telegrapher Horsewhipped by a Woman

Before he could recover himself, his fair assailant disappeared through the doorway, entered a hack and was driven rapidly away. Harris disclaims any knowledge of who the woman was.

Goodwin is 20 years old and has a good position in the World's Fair city.

Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. Over twelve years I was afflicted with a very serious female difficulty and for the last sixteen months was under treatment of three of the very best physicians that money could employ. Under their skillful treatment I gradually grew worse until they decided they could render me no permanent help. One of my friends pursuaded me to try a bottle of Dullam's Great German Uterine Tonic, and after taking three bottles, can say I am in better health than I have been for twenty years and am now sixty years old, but feel as young as at thirty.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

GEN. BENJAMIN F. BUTLER DIES VERY SUDDENLY.

The Old War Horse, Statesman and Lawyer Succumbs to Heart Failure—The Senate Passes the Quarantine Bill and Gives Power to Prohibit Immigration.

Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts, died at his Washington residence, on New Jersey avenue, very suddenly. The cause of the general's death was heart failure. His death created an immense surprise, as it was not even known he was failing any more than any man that had lived and labored so long would.

Benjamin Franklin Butler was born in Deerfield, N. H., November 5, 1818. He graduated at Waterville college, Maine, in 1838, was admitted to the bar in 1840 and began practice at Lowell, Mass., in 1841. He was elected a member of the Massachusetts house of representatives in 1853 as a Democrat, and to the state senate in 1859. He was a delegate to the Democratic national convention in 1860 and in the same year was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts. He was a brigadier general of militia when the war broke out, and served in the union armies from 1861 until relieved from his command by Gen. Grant after his ineffectual expedition against Fort Fisher. In 1866 he was elected a member of Congress by the Republicans, where he remained until 1879, with the exception of the term for 1875-7. He was the Republican candidate for governor of Massachusetts in 1871, but was defeated. He was also defeated in 1878 and, 1879, then being the candidate of the Greenback party and one wing of the Democratic party. He ran the fifth time for governor in 1882, this time as regular Democratic candidate and was elected, his associates on the ticket being defeated. He was renominated in [illegible] but was defeated. He was renominated candidate of the Greenback party for President in 1884.

Gen. Butler was a great lawyer. He was at times an extreme partisan, and was at one time an idol of the Republican party. He was not a great general, but he was a very conspicuous military figure during the war.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.—Eighteenth day—The joint resolution, directing the secretary of the treasury to suspend all silver purchases under the Sherman act, was discussed and a substitute was offered but laid over indefinitely. Nothing was done with the resolution and the Senate then resumed the quarantine bill. An amendment was offered limiting its operation to January 1, 1895. The amendment was not voted upon and the bill went over without action. Such was also the fate of the McGarrahan claim. No other business was transacted. HOUSE.—The district of Columbia appropriations bill was passed. A bill to promote the efficiency of the military was considered, but not disposed of. A bitter struggle was called up on the bill permitting the Norfolk & Western railroad to enter the District of Columbia. The bill went over and the House adjourned.

SENATE.—Nineteenth day—The bill granting additional quarantine powers and imposing additional duties upon the secretary of the treasury and marine hospital service was passed. An important amendment was adopted, the section giving the President power to suspend immigration from infected countries, and now the section gives to the President power not only to suspend immigration, but to prohibit in whole, or in part, the introduction of either persons and property. This made the passage of the immigration bill, which was pending, unnecessary and it was allowed to lapse. An appropriation of $1,000,000 was made to enable the President to carry the quarantine act into effect. The act of 1879 establishing a national board of health is repealed. The anti-options bill discussion was resumed, but no action was taken. HOUSE.—A bill was passed granting the Norfolk & Western railroad an entrance into the District of Columbia. The House proceeded to the consideration of the Crain joint resolution proposing amendments to the Constitution substituting the 31st day of December for the 4th day of March as the commencement and termination of the official terms of members of the House of Representatives and of the United States senators and providing that Congress shall hold its annual meeting on the second Monday in January and substituting the 30th of April for the 4th of March as the date for the commencement and limitation of the terms of the President and Vice-President. A long and interesting discussion followed, after which a vote was taken which resulted in the defeat of the measure. Adjourned.

SENATE.—Twentieth day—A shade of gloom pervaded the senate chamber as the assembled members gazed upon the black-draped chair and desk of the late Senator Kenna, of West Virginia, who had just passed from life a few hours before. Mr. Blackburn, of Kentucky, announced the sad event and sent resolutions to the President of the Senate. They were read and adopted. They provided for a committee of seven to take order for superintending the funeral and to accompany the remains to Mr. Kenna's late home in West Virginia and direct invitations to attend the funeral to the President of the United States and to members of his cabinet, the major-general commanding the army and the senior admiral of the navy, the chief justice and the associate justices of the supreme court and the diplomatic corps. The committee was appointed, and then, as a further mark of respect, the Senate adjourned. HOUSE.—No business but the reception of the banking committees, majority and minority reports on the repeal of the Sherman act, Senator Kenna's death was announced and the House adjourned after passing suitable resolutions.

SENATE.—Twenty-second day—The galleries were crowded to witness the funeral services over the late Senator Kenna, of West Virginia. President Harrison and cabinet, chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court, and the family of the dead senator, in deep mourning, occupied the diplomatic gallery. A procession of robed priests preceded by the acolytes bearing a censor and tall wax candles, lighted, marched down the aisle, followed by a squad of capitol police in full uniform, escorting and carrying the casket, which was covered with palms and flowers. The priests, with Bishop Keane of the Catholic University, in his purple robes, ranged themselves about the coffin. The services were conducted by Bishop Keane and Father Donahue, of St. Joseph's, the church which Mr. Kenna and family attended, assisted by 18 priests and the Dominican fathers of Washington. Fr. Donahue opened the religious services and Bishop Keane delivered a very impressive discourse. The body was then removed to the Chesapeake & Ohio railway station and accompanied by the deceased family and the senate and House committees was conveyed to the last resting place in West Virginia. No business of importance in the House.

SENATE.—Twenty-third day a bill was passed extending to the North Pacific ocean the provisions for the protection of fur seals. The McGarrahan bill was discussed and went over. The anti-options bill was taken up and two amendments offered, one was killed and the other—restricting the operation of the bill to gambling transactions—went over. HOUSE.—Private war claims occupied the day and private pension bills were considered at the evening session.

Gust Norquist a clerk in the store of Skudd Bros., Ironwood, committed suicide. He was found by Adolph Skudd, when he opened the store. Norquist's body lay in a pool of blood on the floor. He had shot himself in the temple. The deceased was an exemplary young Swede and was unmarried.

STANDS SIX TO FIVE.

THE COMMITTEE FAVORS SUNDAY OPENING RESOLUTION.

Closers Are Working Hard—Both Houses Now Oppose the Measure and the Report Will Be Delayed to Give Them Time to See Light.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Stock in the World's Fair Sunday opening question has slumped since the close of the hearing before the House committee yesterday. The attention which the speeches have drawn to the question has caused among the Sunday closers an agitation which has, for the time at least, lessened the chances of passing the Durborow resolution. Mr. Durborow appreciates the change and has concluded to wait about ten days before calling his committee together to consider the resolution. By that time he hopes the agitation will have subsided and the opposition recede to the anti-hearing side. The chances for getting the resolution favorably reported are good. All the members are here, and, if a full committee will vote, will stand 6 to five in favor of it, unless in the meantime the pressure of the Sunday closing constituents becomes sufficiently strong to change one of the six. This pressure is already strong and is growing stronger. Every mail brings petitions against the resolution and every hour telegrams. Were the Sunday openers of the country as active as the Sunday closers the present pressure would be more than overcome, and not only the committee, but Congress would adopt the resolution by a sweeping majority.

The only member of the committee who is personally opposed to Sunday opening is Dingley of Maine. He thinks the country will go down in everlasting smash if the Fair should be opened on Sunday. The others talk well, but in their talk one can hear the voice of the hustling Sunday closing constituent. McCreary is also induced by personal ambition to favor Sunday closing. He is a candidate for Carlisle's seat in the Senate when the latter goes into Cleveland's Cabinet, and as the Legislature of this State has adopted a resolution to close the Kentucky exhibit on Sunday, he deems it wise to keep in line with that body. There is a strong pressure from Massachusetts being made on Coggswell to vote against the Durborow resolution. He favors throwing the gates wide open. That is his honest opinion, but the preachers are annoying him and he may be compelled to give in to them. Those of the committee who are expected to vote for the resolution are Durborow, Houk, Wheeler, Little, Coggswell, Lagan. Those opposed are Dingley, Robinson, Reilly, Dollivar, McCreary. It had been hoped that Robinson might be brought into the sunlight of liberalism, but the Sunday closers go after him and are keeping him in the foggy atmosphere of the dark ages.

FAST IN THE ICE.

New York Bay Frozen Over and Several Vessels Caught.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The observer at Sandy Hook reports the bay and all the water around the Hook, as far as can be seen, covered with ice. A small steamer is fast in the ice between Romer beacon and the east bank, and there is a three-masted vessel, apparently a coal barge broadside on the rocks at Romer beach.

All of the ferryboats leaving the Battery are running on time to-day with the exception of the ferry to South Brooklyn. One of the boats made a round trip in an hour and ten minutes to-day, and this was about the average time consumed by all the vessels of this line. Twenty-five minutes is the regular time one way for the passage. The Staten Island boats were only a few moments longer in making the trip than in ordinary weather. The ice is not heavy now, and is not likely to become worse under the present weather.

Combine of Lithographers.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 16.—Twelve gentlemen interested in the lithographing business held an all-day session at the Stillman yesterday, winding up last evening with a banquet. The result is a combine of the lithographers of Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo and Rochester. The name of the organization is the Lithographers' Association of the Lake District. The officers are: President, W. J. Morgan of Cleveland; Vice President, R. H. Stecher of Rochester; Secretary and Treasurer, G. H. Dunston of Buffalo.

Sudden Desire to Go Abroad.

JACKSON, Mich., Jan. 16.—Harry A. Metton, one year from Gratiot County for forgery, escaped from the State prison, taking with him a few articles belonging to Clerk Tabor. He had learned that his sister contemplated a European trip and it is believed he was seized with a sudden desire to go abroad.

Narrowly Escaped Asphyxiation.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—Six families on Erie Street, this city, and three families on Perrysville Avenue, Allegheny, in all twenty-five people, narrowly escaped death this morning from asphyxiation by illuminating gas. In both cases broken mains were responsible.

Russia will Send Three Warships.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 16.—Russia will send three warships to New York to take part in the naval demonstration in connection with the Columbus fetes. The vessels will be under the command of Admiral Kaznakoff.

SUFFRAGISTS IN CONVENTION.

Opening of the Annual Meeting in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the National American Women's Suffrage Association will open in Metzerott Hall tomorrow. The services will consist of a sermon by the Rev. Anna F. Eastman and a talk by the Rev. Anna H. Shaw. The presiding officer is Miss Susan B. Anthony; the Corresponding Secretary, Miss Rachel Foster Avery; the Vice-President-at-Large, the Rev. Anna Howard Shaw; Treasurer, Harriet Taylor Upton; Auditor, William D. Foulke. The opening services Monday will include an address by Senator Carey of Wyoming and the annual President's message by Miss Susan B. Anthony. Among the speakers during the sessions will be: Carroll D. Wright on "Women in Industry," Miss C. L. Chapman will give an address on "Comparisons Are Odious," the Rev. Anna H. Shaw on "The Attitude of Women for Political Parties," Mrs. Ellen B. Dietrick is to speak on "The Best Method of Interesting Women in Suffrage," Mrs. Lillie Devereaux Blake on "Legal Disabilities," Mrs. May Wright Sewall is to speak on "Municipal House keeping."

SATOLLI WILL STAY.

Made a Permanent Delegate to the United States by the Pope.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The following cable message was received by Manager Satolli to-day:

ROME, Jan. 14.—The apostolic delegation is permanently established in the United States and you are confirmed as the first delegate.

O'CONNELL.

Inquiries at the Catholic University here, where Mgr. Satolli is residing, confirm the authenticity of this piece of news. The importance of this message, in the light of recent events, and coming as it does from the American Secretary of the propaganda, will be readily appreciated by American Roman Catholics. It signifies that the desperate faction headed by Archbishop Corrigan of New York that has striven to discredit Satolli and to drive him from the United States, has received a most decisive setback. The objects of the intrigues of this powerful clique are now well-known at Rome, and every move made by the arrogant Archbishop of New York will be watched and checkmated.

SAVED BY A CAT.

Eight Families Narrowly Escape Being Burned in Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Patrick O'Neill, a Brooklyn shoemaker, is the owner of a black and white cat which he claims saved the lives not only of his own family, but of seven other families in the same house. Fire broke out yesterday morning in O'Neill's apartments on the second floor. The cat tried to alarm the family but failed. The marks of its nails in the fireboard which had ignited showed that the cat had tried to pull it down. At 3 o'clock Hugh O'Neill, a son who is employed as a messenger, returned home. The animal ran to meet him in the hall and by its strange actions convinced the boy that something was wrong. He discovered the fire and gave the alarm. Great excitement prevailed and the families were driven out into the street in their night clothes.

Bold Robber Caught at Last.

MASON CITY, Iowa, Jan. 16.—The highwayman who has been holding up a number of travelers on the road between this city and Nora Springs the last two weeks was captured last night. About 10 o'clock he approached the station agent and three other men who were playing cards in the station house at Portland, and with drawn revolvers ordered their hands up. He then compelled them to tie face downward on the floor. As he then began to tie their hands and feet one of the men jumped up. A fight ensued in which several shots were fired, but the robber was overcome, and being firmly bound was sent to this city on the midnight train.

Business in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—In the Senate to-day Senator White introduced Donelson Caffery, successor of the late Senator Gibson of Louisiana, and Mr. Caffery took the oath of office. A discussion ensued over a resolution introduced by Senator Wolcott instructing the Committee on Foreign Relations to inquire what sums had been expended in the construction of the Nicaragua Canal. Senator Wolcott desired the information, as it was proposed that the Government support the scheme by guaranteeing the company's bonds.

Expects a Strike on the Wabash.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 16.—The Wabash Railroad Company expects its operators to walk out in a body to-day. So sure is it that such action will be taken that the officials have hired new men to stand in readiness to take the offices the moment the order goes into effect. Of course all of the offices cannot be filled, but the management says that it will have a competent man for every twenty miles of road.

Aurora Man Killed While Hunting.

AURORA, Ill., Jan. 16.—Albert Norton of this city was accidentally killed this morning while hunting. His companion attempted to pull a gun out of the sleigh and lodged a load of shot in Norton's breast.

Ex-Congressman Rice Dead.

FREMONT, Ohio, Jan. 16.—Dr. John B. Rice, ex-Congressman, one of the best known men in Sandusky County, died this morning after a long illness with Bright's disease, terminating in pneumonia.

ADMITTED THE FACTS.

Newspaper editors have to be very careful in opening their columns for statements. But aware that the Dr. Miles Medical Co., are responsible, we make room for the following testimonial from R. McDougall, Auburn, Ind., who for two years noticed a stoppage or skipping of the pulse, his left side got so under he could not lie on it, his heart fluttered, he was alarmed, went to different doctors, found no relief, but one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure cured him. The elegant book, New and Startling Facts," free at Baker and Hall's. It tells all about Heart and Nervous Diseases and many wonderful cures.

A RUNNING SORE FOR TEN YEARS.

ATHENS, PA., June 27th, 1892.

I have been afflicted with a fever sore, what the doctors call a "Varicose Ulcer," for the last ten years. My leg was very much swollen much of the time and was a running sore during the whole time. I was under the care of good physicians the most of the time, but no treatment seemed to do any good until I procured a box of Parmelee's Household Ointment from our druggist, Joseph Hines, of Athens, Pa., and one box completely healed my leg and I now consider it cured, as it has remained healed, and has given me no trouble for the last six months.

STEPHEN MCKINNEY.

Mr. Hines, the druggist referred to, certifies to the above, and adds: "Mr. McKinney has suffered very much with his leg, having been confined to the house and unable to use his leg at all. He is very enthusiastic in the praise of Parmelee's Ointment."

Last Thursday afternoon, while Mrs. Laura Tuttle was away from home, the upper portion of her house caught fire and but for the prompt work done the building would have been burned to the ground in a short time, as the flames had gained such headway when discovered. Mrs. Tuttle's sister, Mrs. Clark, who was in the house at the time, smelled smoke and going to the stairway found it completely filled. She summoned assistance and the fire was soon extinguished, though considerable harm was done to the furniture, carpets etc. by the liberal use of the Babcock extinguishers. The fire is supposed to have started in some manner from an oil stove which had been left burning in the room.

JIM.

Sometimes, when the scent of early May
Sifts through my window, a soft spring day,
I shut my eyes and can seem to see
Little lame Jim in the apple tree,
Playing umpire. "Just for fun!"
In the races he never might hope to run,
And can hear him laugh as he shouted, gay—
"One—to make ready!
Two—to be steady!
Three, and—Away!"

Never a race was there for Jim,
Never a course marked out for him,
But always, the boys with tender care
Bore him out in the soft May air
And bolstered him up in the tree in state,
With a "There! old feller! ain't that great!
Now give us a start; that verse you know—
'One—to make ready!
Two—to be steady!
Three, and—Go!'"

Over the brook and down the lane,
Through the meadow and back again—
And Jim would forget his dignity,
And lean far out from his perch to see,
Watching the boys, as they leaped the wall.
"Hi! Run, Bill, run!" I could hear him call,
And his clear voice chant as the victor came:
"The first's the best,
The second's the same,
The last's the worst of all the game."

Dear little Jim! His race is run,
His walls are cleared and his vict'ry won,
And the boys rub their eyes with grimy paws
"We can't run races," they say, "because
Jim's not in the tree to start us fair.
It's no fun playing with Jim not there."
Nobody else knows how to say:
'One—to make ready!
Two—to be steady!
Three, and—Away!'"

SNAKES AS SURGEONS.

Farmer Ansley's Rattlers Lead to Important Revelations.

A Crop That Never Fails and Can Do Its Own Doctoring—Blacksmith Hanley's Stories of Gifted Reptiles—Two Dollars Ahead.

A. A. Ansley owns and lives on a big farm in Pike township, this county. Pine creek and the turnpike road from Condersport to Galeton run through the property, and the high pine barren known as Huckleberry hill rises on one side of it. Farmer Ansley is one of the solid citizens of Potter county. Some farmers would not think that they had reason to be proud of the fact that they had three big rattlesnake dens on their farms; much less would they regard such appurtenances thereunto belonging as something to add to the value of their holdings. But Farmer Ansley does both. He points with pride to the rocky face of Huckleberry hill and indicates three different places within the space of a few acres where rattlesnakes den and have denned from time out of mind. The Ansley farm is no better for hay, grain, potatoes and buckwheat than any of the neighboring farms of that part of the Pine creek country are, but the owner values it at not less than five dollars an acre more than the average price of surrounding soil.

"Why," he says, "there isn't another cultivated farm in the county, nor in the state, I guess, that has three fertile and prosperous dens of rattlesnakes on it. I have never attempted to gather a full crop of rattlesnakes on my farm, because I haven't had to, but I believe I could pick five hundred marketable snakes most any season. At the rate rattlesnake products are ruling nowadays—skins, oil and rattles—these useful snakes ought to net about three dollars apiece. Now, s'pose drought should make a failure of my hay crop, and rot knock my potatoes into a cocked hat, and the weevil chew my wheat all up, and early frost nip my buckwheat, I'd be in just as bad shape as any other farmer in these parts, if it wasn't that I would have the rattlesnake crop to fall back on in such an emergency. Dry weather doesn't shrivel up the rattlesnakes, nor rot doesn't get into 'em, nor weevil bore 'em, nor frost cut them down to the roots. They are sure and handy by, and all I would have to do would be to harvest them and get them ready for market. Why, with a never-failing reserve crop like that waiting for me, I'd be actually sacrificing this farm if I sold it, even with the five dollars an acre added to the price of farms that haven't got this great advantage."

The three snake dens on the Ansley farm are visible from the road, up among the rocky openings of Huckleberry hill. Farmer Ansley is obliged to kill several dozen rattlesnakes every year, as they come down into his fields and interfere now and then with the gardening of his crops. He had to stop reaping one day because a big rattlesnake objected to the passing of the machine at the same time he himself was going across the field, and pitched into it. The result was that the snake got tangled up in the cutting bar and clogged up the knives so that they could not work, and the reaper and the team had to stand idle for an hour or more while the shattered remains of the snake were picked and dug out of the machine. One day recently Farmer Ansley had hanging in his orchard nine handsome specimens of what his rattlesnake crop would be if it should be gathered. These nine were killed because their presence in certain localities on the farm delayed the work of the hired men.

Farmer Ansley has decided opinions about the ability of rattlesnakes—at least those that grow on his farm—to do extraordinary things, and one of these is an operation in ophidian surgery, in the successful performance of which, as wonderful as it is, Farmer Ansley is not only willing but apparently anxious to back up any of his snakes with money.

"There's one of my snakes now," said the farmer the other day, speaking about his dens to a number of curious callers, as a big, bright-hued, fiery-eyed rattlesnake crawled indolently under a rail fence and out to the roadside, where he paused to bask in the sun. "Now, I'll bet any of you an even ten dollars that I can cut that snake in two with an ax, place the two parts ten feet from each other, leave them there, and in ten hours' time the part with the head on will have come back to the other half, shoved its cut end against the cut end of the piece with the tail on, and by an operation of its own will have cemented or grown itself together again so that it can travel away just as good a snake as it ever was."

There either was not ten dollars among the visitors, or any one of them who had the amount was afraid to take the bet, for it was not taken.

"I'll bet you two dollars," said one of the party.

"No, sir!" said Farmer Ansley, "I don't put any of my snakes to the strain of that operation for less than ten dollars!"

So the men came away. They were from Roulette, and when they arrived home and told the story of Farmer Ansley's bet they were glad he hadn't taken him up on the two-dollar bet they offered to make, for Dan Hanley told them something that convinced them that if Farmer Ansley had taken them up he would have won the stake. Dan Hanley is the village blacksmith. He is a well-to-do citizen, and his word has never been questioned in the community—at least it never had been up to that time. If it has suffered any since then the fact is due entirely to the circumstance that snakes are able to do queer things.

"There is no doubt that the rattlesnake could have done just what Farmer Ansley offered to bet it could," said Blacksmith Hanley. "I know it from what I have seen myself. I was sitting on my stoop one day, when one of these common garter snakes came out of the grass on to the walk. I had a hoe in my hand and got up and whacked the snake in two with it. The part with the tail on squirmed about a good bit, but the part that had the head on wriggled away as lively as could be and hid under a board. I sat there awhile, somewhat surprised at what I had seen, and by and by I saw the head of the snake peek out from under the board. Pretty soon the snake came boldly out and made its way with that part of its body to where the other half lay. It backed itself up against the severed end of the other part, pressed the two ends together and then bent its head back to the place of separation, and with its mouth and tongue covered the wound with a slimy substance all around about the severed spot. It plastered itself in this way for a minute or more, then straightened out and lay quiet for some time. Then the snake started away, apparently as whole and firm as it was before I chopped the hoe through it, and disappeared in the grass and bushes.

"Another time I came across a snake that had been cut in two or squashed in two by something, I don't know what. Now that snake had been hurt in such a way that it was unable to turn itself and perform the surgical operation I had seen the garter snake perform; but another snake was there, and was trying to do the act for the severed snake. The well snake worked with a will, trying to join the two parts of the other one by plastering the wound with its mouth and tongue. The effort was a failure, though, and after awhile the good Samaritan snake gave up the attempt and went away. I have a witness to the garter snake's mending of itself, and I will go with anyone and make affidavit to both of these queer snake doings. The snakes weren't rattlers, of course; but if common, everyday, no-account snakes are able to doctor themselves up in this way, how can anyone dare to doubt that a wide-awake, gifted snake like a rattlesnake can do it?"

And there the subject rests at present. But the party who visited Farmer Ansley are congratulating themselves that there are two dollars more in Roulette than there would have been if the farmer had taken the bet, and shuddering to think that there might have been ten dollars less in town if they had taken the farmer's bet.—Roulette (Pa.) Cor. N. Y. Sun.

A UNIQUE WILL.

Breaking It Would Have Taken All from the Contestants.

One of the famous legal complications which Boston has witnessed managed to involve in its intricacies quite a number of notable men. For many years one of the law offices in the old Joy building was occupied by a veteran lawyer known as "Jerry" Brown. Quite late in life this old gentleman was married to one of his clients, who not long after died. When her will was opened it was found to have been made shortly before her marriage. By it she bequeathed practically all her property to her intended husband, giving small bequests to her relatives and to public charities, and also remembering her husband's nephew, J. Q. A. Brackett, whom she named, with him, as executor. The will was witnessed by Albert E. Pillsbury.

The heirs at law immediately set up an attempt to break the will, on the ground of undue influence. The documents they filed stated that among the property was a house on the Back bay and a large amount of land in Kansas. They retained as counsel John D. Long and Stillman B. Allen. The executors retained Charles R. Train and J. Q. Teele. The will was allowed in the probate court and an appeal taken to the supreme court. There the will was set aside. Then the executors appealed to the full bench on exceptions, but before the case reached trial it was settled.

The reason it was settled was this: By the laws of Kansas, when there is no will the property of a wife all goes to her husband. The heirs were, therefore, fighting to break a will, which, if broken, would have left them nothing for their pains, while the legatee under the will was fighting to preserve it intact, when he was sure to get more by having the will broken. The consequence was that he settled with the natural heirs on his own terms.

"Uncle Jerry" lived a number of years to relate with satisfaction the story of his triumph. There was no such contest over his will, for he made none, the ex-governor being his only heir and the administrator of his estate.—Boston Traveler.

Work at The Probate Court.

As indicating the amount of work done in the probate office for this county during the year 1892 we submit a statement furnished by A. E. Barager, the efficient probate register, as follows

No. of new estates commenced	216
No. of old estates closed	141
No. of letters of administration issued	61
No. of wills proved and letters issued	91
No. of guardians appointed for minors	31
No. of guardians appointed for incompetent persons	11
No. of dependent children sent to state public school	3
No. of insane sent to asylum, 17 indigent, 1 private	18
No. of adoption and change of name	8
No. of minors released from guardianship	30

No. of bonds and sellers issued and recorded	374
No. of sales of real estate	32
No. of appraisers and commissioners warrants issued	304
No. of petitions drawn	600
No. of final statements and accounts	141
No. of orders and decrees	1975

The above figures give but a faint idea of the amount of work done. Many of the hearings are contested, most of the wills have to be twice copied and recorded, bonds, letters, license to sell real estate and all orders and decrees have to be recorded and compared, as well as a vast amount of miscellaneous work necessarily done in conpection with the settlement of estates not enumerated above.

AT THE RIGHT TIME.

THE TOPICS are always those which are uppermost in the public mind—in morals, politics, science, literature, business, finance, industrial economy, social and municipal affairs, etc.—in short, all subjects on which Americans require and desire to be informed. No magazine follows so closely from month to month the course of public interest. All subjects are treated of impartially on both sides.

THE CONTRIBUTORS to the Review are the men and women to whom the world looks for the most authoritative statements on the subjects of the day. No other periodical can point to such a succession of distinguished writers. The list is a role of the people who are making in history, controlling the affairs, and leading the opinion of the age, such as Mr. Gladstone, the Prime Minister of England; Mr. Blaine; Signor Crispi, Ex-Prime Minister of Italy, Baron Hirsch; H. R. H. the Count of Paris; Cardinal Gibbons; Bishops Potter, Doane, Mallalieu, Foss, etc.

THE TIME when these subjects are treated of by these contributors is the very time when the subjects are in the public mind—not a month or two after the people have ceased to think of them. The promptness with which the Review furnishes its readers with the most authoritative information upon the topics of the day is one of its most valuable features.

The L. C. S. was held at the home of Mrs. W. R. Wilson on Friday evening, and was well attended. A short program was presented, after which the election of officers was held, resulting as follows:

President—Mrs. C. M. Gove.
1st Vice Pres.—Mrs. T. H. Temple.
2nd " " —" A. J. Sutton.
Secretary—Mrs. S. P. Smith.
Treasurer—" R. S. Houseman.
Ex. Com.—Mrs. Sarah Rappleye, Mrs. Agnes Loree, Misses Lou Arner, Lulu Rappleye and Flota Smith.
Chaplain—Dr. D. W. Loree.

We publish by request the following address, given by F. J. Temple in presenting the cane to Frank Davidson at the recent box social.

If you'll pardon me one moment I have just a word to say;
'Twill not disarrange the program and
I trust you'll not say nay.

It has been our yearly custom since the Library was first founded,
To meet here in these parlors and have the truth expounded

By yourself, as to the value of the boxes brought up here;
And thus our meet together has occurred just once a year.

And I think these annual gatherings have proved a benefit,
If for no other reason than to let you make a hit.

For you are sure to make it in your own original style,
And the way that you get at it would make anybody smile.

You seem to have an interest in whatever you undertake,
And if enjoyment counts for aught you are sure to take the cake.

You have always shown an interest in this building and these books,
And if anyone should doubt it they could tell it by your looks.

You have always paid attention to the boys and to the babies,
And you seem to be, especially, a favorite with the ladies;

For the boxes that they bring here,
filled with cakes and candies nice,
Seem to—owing to your talking—always bring a fancy price.

And that, doubtless, is one reason why
this banner thus unfurls,
And tends to keep you solid, especially with the girls.

For according to the saying, things are not just as they seem,
And a few of the directors have been working up a scheme.

From the fact that you take interest without the hope of gain,
We concluded to surprise you and present you with this cane.

Not that you are old and feeble, or decrepit in your walk,
Nor that you ever hesitate or lack for words in talk;

But to show that we appreciate the work that you have done,
And that you're ever ready as when you first begun.

May you always have enjoyment in coming to this hall,
Is the wish and the desire, I am sure,
of members all.

A bomb was found Tuesday morning by the cashier of the Exchange Bank, lying close to the building, behind one of the iron columns supporting the front. The fuse had burned close to the wax, but for some reason had gone out, which probably saved the building from being wrecked. It was a genuine bomb, the outer shell being composed of a 6-inch piece of 1-inch gas pipe, and upon analysis the composition showed nitro-glycerine and other explosives of similar character. The bank authorities we learn have spotted the perpetrators and intend to follow up the case to the end.

TIPTON TOPICS.

The weather has somewhat moderated since last week. Wouldn't care to have it repeated again this year.

Mrs. Mary Simmons, wife of Abner W. Simmons, died Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, at the age of 67 years. She had lived in Franklin nearly 50 years. She leaves a husband and two children, a son and daughter, and a large circle of warm friends to mourn her loss.

W. J. Hampton's new store and dwelling is nearing completion and when finished it is doubtful whether it could be duplicated in the State of Michigan for what it is intended for: Store, hall and dwelling. He thinks he will be able to have his opening party about February 9, when all Franklin people turn out en masse and give him a grand send-off.

Last Monday afternoon Wm. Brighton, who works for Joe Keeney, met with a sad accident, by which he fractured a leg. He had felled a small tree and as it struck the ground it sprang sideways, catching his leg against a small log, breaking it just above the ankle and holding him to the ground. He had managed to extricate himself before help arrived. Wib Doming and Frank Mangus were cutting wood for Ab. Simmons when they heard his cries and lost no time in getting there, as did also Leroy Dibble, and they did all they could to make the poor man as comfortable as possible. When Joe's team came back after another load they got him onto the sled and took him to the house and Dr. North was summoned. Mr. Brighton came from Tecumseh only about a week ago to work for Mr. Keeney.

EAST FRANKLIN.

Died, at her home in Franklin, on Sunday morning, Mrs. Abner Simmons.

Wm. Witheral will open his house for a box social next Friday evening. Let there be a large attendance.

The next meeting of the lyceum will be at the home of Clark Payne next Saturday evening. All are invited.

Mrs. Lottie Mudget, of Jackson, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Bunting. She will spend some time in this vicinity.

We understand that Oliver Mull arose at midnight recently, and, not wishing to disturb the horses for so slight a matter, trudged on foot to Tecumseh. His children, whose sickness occasioned this twelve-mile walk, are better.

Tecumseh and Franklin Club.

The next meeting of the Club will be held at the residence of Henry Wilson, Friday evening Feb. 3. The following program will be presented.

Raisin Valley Seminary.

The work in astronomy and physical geography having been completed a class is now being organized in orthoepy.

We are glad to welcome Arthur Bailey back to school, seemingly little the worse for his recent lively tussle with neuralgia.

Will Stanley has been promoted to the vacant place on the Big Four Telegraph Combination lately vacated by Kate Mosher.

The many friends of Clark Corbett missed his smiling face from Collections last week, owing to a severe attack of his old malady, chronic dyspepsia.

Expectation is running high in Junior circles at present and many an undergraduate's heart is fluttering between hope and fear as he vainly tries to foretell the impression he will make at the Junior Public, Jan. 27th.

The Phi Kappa Psi's graciously condescended to admit the public within their sacred portals Jan. 13, on which occasion a reproduction of the old fairy tale of "Cinderella's Slipper" in pantomime was very creditably rendered.

MACON MUSIC.

Now is the time to get in those logs for sidewalks on this fine sleighing.

Mrs. Henry Heesen and daughter Grace, of Tecumseh visited at Edwin Howell's, last Saturday.

Samuel Hatch has gone on the road again, he is selling candies of which he has a very fine assortment.

Ace Smith who has been visiting in New York state for the past two months returned the first of the week.

There will be a quarterly meeting at the Baptist Church beginning February 3d, continuing until Sunday night, February 5th.

Horace Burgess, who has been visiting his mother and sisters in Chicago for the past six weeks is very sick. Last night Mrs. Eugene Burdett and Daisy, his daughters, received a telegram to come on at once. They took the train for Chicago Wednesday morning.

HOLLOWAY HASH.

We notice that, since the moderating of the weather, one of our merchants has discarded his black rubber coat and donned a white linen one in its place during business hours.

Will Wilson is moving his goods to the prairie, preparatory to taking lessons in butter making at the creamery in Morenci. He was in Dundee the first of the week and were he not a married man we should say he had some attraction there.

Last Saturday evening a pretty sight might have been seen just at dusk; eleven teams, loaded with logs wended their way into Winship's mill yard, they aggregated over 6,0000 ft. of lumber. Lew was so well pleased that he set up the cigars for the boys.

We understand that A. D. Macham has got a new patent fire-extinguisher. Al. can explain the fine points and working of the machine better than we can write them. We have not yet learned whether he will introduce one in the creamery building or not.

On Thursday last the Stewart and Russell Magic Concert Co., were billed for this place. As a $1.75 house was hardly worth playing for, so they packed their baggage and left on the first train the next morning and we are unable to say whether they were good or not.

One day last week, one of our strong men, while scraping sawdust from beneath the saw at Winship's mill, broke a tooth from the saw and came near being food for the worms himself. If he had not left the mill in hot haste we would not have been able to have found a grease spot of him.

Trouble in camp. The creamery meetings of late seem to be war meetings. A. G. Hall has resigned his position as secretary and manager. Holloway is taking the cross of two offices now; this seems unfair when there are those who would willingly relieve him of one. James Lane was delegated to Detroit in the interests of the Creamery but was not as successful as was anticipated.

PENTECOST POINTERS.

W. B. German's little Roy is very ill with lung trouble.

Arthur Carpenter, a former resident of this place, was calling on his friends last week.

T. M. Camburn and wife of South Dakota, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Smith German last Thursday.

Some persons think it is not very surprising that we have such an unusual amount of snow this winter, since it has come to be known that a young man of this place has been praying for about 5 1-2 feet of snow for a year or more.

On Sunday morning a large fox was seen leisurely trotting along the highway, evidently thinking himself safe from dogs and guns because it was Sunday, but alas for Reynard; he was seen crossing the mill yard, and when last heard from he was closely pursued by men dogs and guns.

As Mrs. Chas. Diffenbacker and her friend Mrs. Allshouse and little son were out driving last their horse became frightened and upset the cutter, tumbling its occupants out in the snow and then ran away. The ladies and their horse escaped injury, but the cutter was sadly demoralized.

Ferdinand Cox, only son of the late Wm. Cox of this vicinity, lost a valuable watch, some twelve or fifteen years ago. The young man died soon afterwards. Last week, his brother-in-law, W. A. Wilde who occupies the Cox homestead, found the long lost "timer" among a lot of rubbish in the barn on the premises. On being wound, the watch started running and seeming none the worse for its long rest.

TECUMSEH, MICH., JAN. 26, 1893.

The crop of political tares sown by Ex-Speaker Reed during the Fiftieth Congress is yielding an abundant harvest in Kansas just now.

The House committee on Territories has made a favorable report on the bill introduced by Delegate Caine for the admission of Utah to statehood.

Senator Murphy of New York can find one congenial occupation in the next Senate, at all events. He can pair with Senator Quay of Pennsylvania.

The Michigan legislature seems to be bent on repealing the Miner electoral law. Very well, gentlemen, go ahead; you are making a splendid issue to lose the State on, two years hence.

It is now said that Col. Dan Lamont is booked for the War Department. He would make a good Cabinet officer in any position, but wouldn't he fit the postoffice chair the best?

The election of Ed Murphy to the U. S. Senate from New York makes it reasonably certain that the Democracy will not take their Presidential nominee from that State four years hence.

The present year bids fair to be noted for a distinguished necrological list. Ex-President Hayes, Gen. Butler and Senator Kenna have all passed over to the other shore since New Years.

The Populists in Kansas take to Speaker Reed's tactics as naturally as a duck takes to water. But the Republicans do not relish his peculiar style of "counting a quorum" when it is applied against them.

Senator Quay was re-elected U. S. Senator from Pennsylvania without any contest and with only a faint show of opposition. His Pennsylvania machine works as smoothly and promptly as the Hill-Tammany machine does in New York.

The resignation of Senator Carlisle makes it incumbent on Kentucky to find another man of brains to take his place. Every State ought to have one man of brains in the Senate, and Kentucky must continue to set a good example.

"I will take care of California," said Senator Stanford some weeks ago, referring to the pending Senatorial contest in that State. The election of a Democratic Senator recalls the fact that men are apt to get dizzy just before they fall.

Mr. Cleveland is reported to have asked what the Democratic party is in power for, if not to repeal the McKinley law. The people generally are asking the same question and they will continue to ask it until that iniquity shall be wiped from the statute book.

The Democrats have elected their Senator in California. The other disputed States are yet trembling in the balance. The chances favor the Democrats in Wyoming and Montana, while the Populists have the inside track in Kansas and Nebraska.

In Nebraska the Senatorial vote on the first day was scattered between 34 candidates, the highest candidate receiving only 33 votes out of 132 votes cast, while 17 candidates had each just one admirer. Nebraska must be well stocked with Senatorial candidates.

The House has put itself on record as favoring the election of Senators by direct vote of the people, by passing the joint resolution authorizing the change, but if the determined opposition by the Republicans of the House is an indication of the position of the Republican Senators on the question its prospect for getting through the Senate is not so good as its friends might wish it to be.

Senator Peffer not only wants Sena- but also President and Vice-presi- ected by popular vote, and he g and able speech on the week, showing that he had d careful study of the ch lost much of the have received, be- ment of business which compelled tions, as it were, veral days.

The Senatorial contest in Wisconsin is waxing warm with a triple contest on hand. But as the Democrats have a good working majority they are sure of electing their candidate when they once agree upon him.

The action of Grover Cleveland in attending the funeral of R. B. Hayes, at much sacrifice and inconvenience to himself, is in striking contrast to the action of the Ohio legislature in neglecting to adjourn out of respect to his memory.

The St. Louis Post says: "There is no defeat for Mr. Cleveland in the Murphy case. The new President merely expressed his opinion. It is all the worse for the Democracy of New York if they they do not choose their best men to represent them at Washington.

The New York World aptly says: "The legislators who were elected, pledged, 'bunched and branded" to vote for Quay in Pennsylvania and Murphy in New York yesterday fulfilled the contract. It is small wonder that a provision for electing Senators by the people went through the House with a rush."

Senator Carlisle has formally accepted the Treasury portfolio and has forwarded his resignation as U. S. Senator to the Governor of Kentucky. We shall soon know more about the balance of the Cabinet, as Carlisle will doubtless be consulted by Mr. Cleveland in regard to its make-up. It seems reasonably certain that Col. Morrison of Illinois will be another member.

The following extract from a recent novel exhibits manners, if not morals, in a curious way. "Husband and wife ate on together in silence. There was manifestly an ill will and feeling between them. The husband devoured a plate of soup, half a fish, a piece of roast beef and a slice of plum pudding, without ever once opening his mouth." Now, the question arises, how under the sun did he manage it?

The New York Recorder, one of the ablest Republican newspapers of Gotham, speaks out in meeting in this fashion: "If the old, discredited crowd of spavined war-horses are not retired the result will be a counter-organization that will bury them too deep for resurrection. We want young leaders for the campaigns of the future, not ancient fossils whose smirched records are so many millstones hung around the party's neck to drag it down into the waters of defeat again."

Grover Cleveland did a very graceful act in postponing his business engagements, although they were crowding upon him, to attend the funeral of Ex-President Hayes. Although the political crime which sent Mr. Hayes to the White House can never be condoned, still it hardly accords with Christian charity to permit our political prejudices to follow a man beyond the grave. Cleveland will lose no friends by his act of generosity to a personal friend and respect to the great office of the Presidency.

Ex-Secretary Blaine's magnificent constitution, or rather recuperative powers, have prolonged his life for the past few weeks. For days the newspaper correspondents have kept close watch upon his house in hourly expectation of being obliged to telegraph the sad news of his demise. Surrounded by his family and attended by skillful physicians he has so far baffled the dread disease which seems to hold him so securely in its grasp. His friends stick closer to him than ever in these trying days, but they will have to surrender to the dread messenger, for the sands of his life are rapidly ebbing away.

Some of the more silly of the Republican organs are trying to delude their readers with intricate figures showing that "Cleveland is a minority President." If anybody can get consolation out of this sort of thing it is perhaps cruel to deprive him of it. Counting the million and odd votes for Weaver, the Democratic candidate did not have a majority of the popular vote. But a large proportion of the fusion vote was cast by Democrats, and all of the Populist vote was a square revolt from and protest against Republicanism. If Mr. Cleveland will be a "minority President," what sort of minority must Harrison be in, who received nearly 400,000 less votes than the Democratic candidate?—N. Y. World.

Men now living, and especially those who were voters in 1876, can never agree in their estimate of Rutherford B. Hayes. His death recalls one of the strangest events in American history. Though not elected President he filled that office for four years, by the mandate of the highest legal tribunal of the land. His administration was a clean and creditable one, blotted by no personal or official scandals and he won the respect of good citizens of all parties by his efforts to fill out his official term with honor to himself and credit to the Republic. He has challenged only respect during the dozen years of his retirement. He has now passed away and the mantle of charity should be thrown over his tomb.

Dandruff forms when the glands of the skin are weakened, and, if neglected, baldness is sure to follow. Hall's Hair Renewer is the best preventive.

Mr. Cleveland at Fremont.

Peculiarly graceful and becoming is the act of the President-elect in subjecting himself to the inconveniences and discomforts of travel in a most inclement season and making the long journey required that he might pay the proper tribute of respect to the memory of ex-President Hayes. He would not have been criticised had he consulted his own convenience and comfort and contented himself with communicating to the family of the deceased ex-President the ordinary formal assurances of his sympathy without putting himself to the trouble of making the journey to attend the funeral in person. All the more creditable is it that this manifestation of official courtesy and respect is exhibited to the memory of that one of his predecessors for whom his political associates and party friends had the most bitter personal hatred; a hatred so bitter and so vindictive that it has not stopped with his death, but has even found brutal expression by the side of his open grave. An illustration of this undying malignity, in striking contrast with Mr. Cleveland's graceful and gracious tribute to the memory of his predecessor, is presented in the action of the Indiana Legislature, which, with coarse indecency and brutal manners, voted down a motion to adjourn out of respect to the ex-President's memory.

It is for The Tribune a very grateful task to award praise to a political opponent in such circumstances. Mr. Cleveland is not our President in a partisan sense, but he is the President-elect of the United States, and whatever he does in an official or semi-official capacity concerns all of us who are citizens. For many reasons his conduct in this matter deserves special commendation. He has done with modesty and dignity and at considerable sacrifice of personal ease and comfort a very gracious and becoming act, for which all American citizens who have pride in their country, its history and its rulers, and all men everywhere who believe in that common humanity which at the grave forgets all unkindness, will hold him in high honor. It may be but a little thing but it is one of these little things that go a long way toward smoothing out the differences that make so many misunderstandings in the world.—N. Y. Tribune.

Mr. Crisp and the Speakership.

If Mr. Crisp can remedy the error that he committed at the beginning of the present Congress, discard the unworthy and unfit men whom he then put in control of legislation, and organize the House in such a manner that it will be an efficient and sympathetic ally of the Executive, the friends of Mr. Cleveland can well afford, in the interest of peace, and for the prevention of friction that may be disastrous, to re-elect the Speaker, and to thus maintain an almost unbroken precedent. It is almost impossible to conceive that Mr. Crisp can assure the earnest and sincere men who are determined to do all in their power to give Mr. Cleveland the co-operation of Congress, that he can and will satisfy the first condition that will command their support. Nevertheless, Mr. Crisp is making the attempt to accomplish this seemingly impossible task, and the friends of the incoming administration are apparently willing to give him a chance. If he does not succeed, it will be their duty—a duty which will do-lless be performed—to select one of their own number, like Mr. W. L. Wilson, as their candidate for the Speakership. And if such a candidate should be named, he would probably be elected Speaker.—Harper's Weekly.

Are we "A Christian Nation?"

A correspondent, commenting on the increasing tendency to make religious observance a matter of compulsion by the direct or indirect use of civil enactment, denies that the Supreme Court was sound either in the law or the evidence when it asserted this to be a "Christian Nation."

That, of course was the language of the demagogue, the hypocrite, the pharisee. We are not yet free from those who devour the substance of widows and, for a pretense, make long prayers, and whether these are in or out of office they are the ones who are most urgent for compulsion as the handmaid of religion. These are the ones who always stand ready to appeal to Cæsar and to force him, even when he is unwilling, to crucify every Christ who is sent to them.

It was never intended that this should be "a Christian Nation." It was intended that Christians, Jews, heathen and infidels should live together here in full enjoyment of entire liberty of conscience. It was never intended that any Jew or any heathen should be compelled to ask any Christian or any number of Christians for toleration in America. It was asserted, on the contrary, that liberty of conscience is a matter of every man's right, and not of the mere toleration of any goverment or any majority whatever.

To a certain class of persons it seems hopeless that the doctrines of Christianity should ever make their way by their own innerent force. Of those the disciple who cut off the ear of the priest's servant and Christ denied his own Master with an oath. They are continually attempting to draw the sword of the State to strike someone whom they regard as an enemy of religion; to cut off the power of some class in the community that they regard as inimical to Christianity. To them there is no meaning in the command, "Put up thy sword into the sheath;" and they can understand nothing of that self sacrifice which, with power to call "legion of angels," yet relies solely on the power of truth—on the compulsion that sooner or later truth, if there be no violence to convert it to error, must exert over reason.

This is not a Christian Nation," and as long as Christianity is perverted into an excuse for using the force of the State it will be slow in becoming a Christian people.

The truest Christianity we have is religious liberty. If we maintain it we will finally work out the highest possible type of religion by reaching a clearer and fuller understanding of what Christianity really means. If we lose it we lose everything.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier is admirably adapted to make a little health go a long way. Christmas and the Exposition.

America is not without her Christmas present.

The December issue of the "World's Columbian Exposition Illustrated" comes to us dressed in a specially designed lithographed cover. On the front page Santa Claus is shown as presenting the World's Columbian Exposition as a Christmas present to Miss Columbia, who posing in her dignity, gracefully accepts it with thanks to her enterprising citizens. The scene is produced in rich colors and to be appreciated must be seen.

This number is attractive by its numerous official photographs of the dedicative parades, also illustrations of the Turkish, German and Irish villages to be produced at the Fair. In addition to this are the buildings of the French Colonies, Colorado Cliff Dwellers, while Hon. John T. Harris of Virginia is the frontispiece.

Among the leading articles are "Open the Fair Sunday," "Directors' Resolution on Sunday Closing," Transportation Department, "Music Department," "Description of Foreign Exhibits, etc. The Woman's Department is replete with interesting information regarding the women's work.

In all, this number is the richest yet published, and as this is the only publication entirely devoted to the Exposition interests, while answering for a complete guide, the entire issue will form an authentic history of the World's Columbian Exposition. The publishers want reliable agents in each town. Sample copy of Christmas issue sent for twenty-five cents. Address

As it was a large bottle for 25c. I took one. It helped me; I used six bottles and was cured completely. (Cost $1.50.) Prompt to act, sure to cure

"I will trade off some of those shop-worn goods on the working people," he thought to himself.

Alas! misguided man that he was!

The sun rose bright and smiling. When the vendor arrived at his post the street was cleanly swept. The shop windows were still covered with their shutters, and only a few wagons went rattling by. The vendor whistled cheerfully to himself.

All of a sudden the sound of many feet attracted his attention.

Confused cries of "Catch him! Catch him!" broke upon his ears.

He turned and saw a crowd of people. Some had canes and some brooms. Here was a man with the fire shovel, there one flourishing the tongs. Some were without hats; some were struggling into their coats.

"Catch him! Catch him!" was the cry of all.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen," cried the vendor, spreading out his arms. But one of his own adjectives, whizzing by his ears, warned him that expostulation was vain. He seized his pack and ran.

"Catch him! Catch him!" cried all the townspeople.

Down the narrow streets he dodged, threw the broad streets he flew, pelted from behind, panting for breath. But the vendor was still a man of resource. He had now got fairly out of town. He spied a vacant marshy plot close by the road. Into it he flew, and set his goods before him in the manner of a stockade, until only his head appeared above the top thereof.

The vendor's conduct fairly took away the breath of the townspeople. How strangely he looked peering over his adjectives.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I am a peaceable man. In what have I offended?"

There was a confused murmur, and then one man stood forth to act as spokesman for the rest. He was an erect gentleman and prim also, although at present somewhat ruffled by his late exertions.

"You have made a jabbering goose of my daughter," said the gentleman.

"And of mine!"

"And of mine," shouted voices from the crowd—and the vendor was obliged to dodge down behind his stockade to avoid the adjectives that descended upon him.

The gentleman waited for him to appear.

"And a gibbering maniac of my son," he continued.

Here the uproar was so great that the prim gentleman seized a broom and waved the townspeople into order.

The vendor, leaning his head upon his hand, observed the enemy with his bright eyes.

"How much will you take?" said the vendor, finally.

"Take his head," said one voice.

"Take his money," said another.

"Take his pack," said a third.

"His tongue," said a fourth, and all the townspeople spoke at once.

The prim gentleman lost his temper. He laid about him with his broom. But for every blow he gave he got one in return.

The vendor saw his chance. He seized the whole stockade with both his hands and hurled it at the enemy.

For a moment the sky was darkened.

"Catch him! Catch him!" cried the townspeople. But their voices became muffled and they were bent to the very earth; they were bewildered and blinded by the shower of adjectives.

It was some time before the prim gentleman, passing his hand across his forehead, stumbled to an upright position.

"Where am I at? Where am I at?" he said, faintly.

At his feet all manner of broken objects, false and true, fair, fantastic, sharp, blunt, curved, straight, short and long, lay glittering in the morning sunlight. Around his neck he found a twisted chain. "You-dear-darling-delicious-daisy-papa," said the chain; "there's the sweetest ham for breakfast!"

The prim gentleman turned stiffly in the direction of home, whither indeed the chain seemed to lead him. Once only he paused on the road.

"Did we catch him?" he questioned of a neighbor.

"Did we?" said the neighbor.

"Did we?" cried another and another and still another, as the question passed on down the line of the returning citizens.

Not one could answer, but a gay and mocking laugh rang through the air. The whole company looked up and then down, and to this side and to that side, and even backward. Nothing was to be seen.

"It is the wind blowing from the west," said the prim gentleman. "Why, breakfast hour is at hand," and so saying he hastened home.

As to the adjective vendor, whither he went, and how, 'twas never known. We know the wind was blowing from the west, and we know that whether by land or by water, whether on foot or wing, the vendor was a shifty man.—Margaret Newcomb, in Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All Sores, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Burns, Sore Throat, Lameness, Rheumatism, Piles, Inflammation of Lungs and Bowels, Bronchitis, Croup, Salt Rheum, Chilblains, Affection of the Spine, Erysipelas, Nervous Irritation, and all disorders attendant with Inflammation.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends, if but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Prices 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

THE HERALD FOR 1893

For eighteen years last past, through good report and evil report, in prosperity and adversity alike, the HERALD has kept in "the middle of the road" in both a political and business sense. The record of the paper, under its present management, is well known, and nothing need be said on that point. Performance is better than promise. We have no special promises to make for the future, as the paper will speak for itself, as it has done in the past.

First and foremost, it will aim to be the best local newspaper in Lenawee County, and to hold its place as a household necessity in every family of Northern Lenawee. Though not a political organ in a partisan sense, the HERALD will always be found on the people's side in the great battle for equal rights and reduced taxation, and will continue to be an uncompromising advocate of tariff reform until that question shall be settled and settled right. All efforts to shake its business position and influence have proved unavailing, and it views the approach of 1893 with a serene confidence that the World's Fair year will be the most prosperous in its history.

Our Subscription rates next year will be only $1.10 within the County of Lenawee, if paid spot cash in advance. Beyond the County, $1.25 in advance. When payment is delayed an additional rate will be charged. We consider this a fair solution of the subscription problem. When subscribers desire accommodation they can afford to pay a reasonable bonus for that privilege. Here are our premium offers and club list for the coming year.

FIRST

The Herald and the American Farmer price $1.00, or,

The Herald and the Breeders' Guide, price $1.00, or

The HERALD and the Home Magazine (Mrs. Gen. Logan's paper), price 50 cents, with its cooking chart, price 50 cents, a total value of $2.50, for $1.50.

SECOND

The HERALD and the N. Y. World Almanac for 1893, which is the best statistical annual now published, both for $1.50.

THIRD.

The HERALD and Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, the regular $6.00 edition, half morocco bound, a total value of $7.50 for $2.50. The book will be sent direct to the subscriber at his expense.

FOURTH.

The HERALD and the Great Divide, including a gem stone cabinet of 20 gems as a premium. Or the HERALD and the Home Maker, one of the best monthlies, all for $2.00.

FIFTH.

The HERALD and a bird's-eye view of the Columbian Exposition grounds, a beautiful lithograph 16 by 24 inches in size, suitable for framing, or

The HERALD and Henry George's great book, entitled, Protection or Free Trade, both for $1.25.

SIXTH.

The Cosmopolitan is one of the best magazines now published, the regular subscription price of which is three dollars. It will be taken at this price, $3.00, with a year's subscription to the HERALD thrown in.

Old subscribers, as well as new, can avail themselves of these premium offers by paying all arrearages and one year in advance.

In Memoriam.

Mrs. Isaac Adams is dead. The journey was finished at Omaha, Nebraska, January 20th. It was a long one, spanning this entire century, save the opening and the remainder of the present decade. The heart that has just ceased its beatings began to pulsate when this Republic was an experiment and this Coutinent, beyond the sea board States, an unknown wilderness. It was before the second war with England, during the first administration of President Madison. There then lived in the village of Charlemont, amid the Berkshire hills of Massachusetts, a plain young couple of Puritan descent, John and Elizabeth Fisher. In 1811 their first child was born and christened Mary. As years passed brothers and sisters entered the household until the family circle numbered twelve sons and daughters. In addition to the village schools, the children from time to time, were given the [illegible] afforded by academies in neighboring towns. An epoch in the life of Mary was the winter of '29, when she attended a select school for girls by Mary Lyon, founder of the Mt. Holyoke Seminary. Finally the time came when the anxious parents decided that the future of their flock demanded a wider field for operations than their snug New England home. In 1836 the great migration was undertaken. The rocky 70-acre homestead, and the father's cabinet-shop were converted into money; the stage-coach winding along the valley of the Deerfield, over Hoosac Mountain to Troy, was chartered; fond farewells were chokingly uttered; eyes blinded in tears looked for the last time upon the dear scenes of childhood, and the long journey westward was began. At Troy there was the transfer to the Erie Canal and at Buffalo the canal boat was exchanged for the lake steamer. At Monroe, Michigan, family and household goods were transferred to wagons, and hauled by ox teams to their new home in the forest, three and one-half miles north of Tecumseh, now the farm of the youngest son, John Fisker. During the succeeding thirteen years Mary Fisher, as eldest daughter continued to share with her mother the responsibilities of pioneer life. In 1839 she was one of 15 who organized the Baptist church of Tecumseh. Of this little band of fifteen she was the last survivor.

In 1840 she became the wife of Isaac Adams. Their companionship lasted thirty years, terminating with the death of Deacon Adams in 1870. For the past ten years Mrs. Adams has resided with her only son, Isaac, at Omaha, excepting one year spent at Lincoln, Nebraska, with her daughter Francina, now Mrs. J. J. Wilson. In early life Mrs. Adams was not robust but care and prudence brought into healthy action her vigorous constitution so that for the last forty years of her life she scarcely experienced any sickness. In August last, paralysis rendered her helpless. Realizing that there was no relief, she longed to be free from the bonds which time had forged. With the opening of the year the disease assumed a new phase, but to her its progress was not unwelcome. She predicted that ere the 23d of January, the fourteenth anniversary of the departure of him whose memory she cherished so tenderly, she would have joined him. As the month grew apace she numbered the days as one waiting a long and anticipated meeting. Thus was the passing of this life, long and ripe. The milestones along its way can be pointed out, but who can conceive the scope of its century of influence! She inherited many of those traits that have enabled the sons and daughters of New England, though comparatively few in numbers, to stamp their character upon all genuine American institutions. To her, christianity and the highest christian morality was not a faith and practice necessary to be accepted and cultivated. It was ingrained and instructive. Anything else was simply unnatural and abhorrent. Her influence was confined to the family circle. There, though silent, it was as vital and all-pervading as the atmosphere. Prior to the attack of paralysis her faculties, both physical and mental, never waned. She never grew old. She enjoyed the life of a growing city. Her surroundings and new associations were always agreeable. The past had no more grasp upon her than upon one who knows of it from heresay only. She was abreast of the times, in full sympathy with the busy and progressive. She made herself companionable. She leaves to her children and relatives the best of legacies, an inestimable fund of precious memories.

Mrs. Samuel Holden, who departed this life on the 9th day of January inst. was one of our oldest residents. Had she lived until May 23d next, she would would have been 84 years of age. She was born in Groton, N. Y. in 1809, and was there united in marriage to Mr. Harlo C. Smith in October 1832. In the spring of 1834 they drifted westward into the territory of Michigan, and settled on a farm in the township of Cambridge which was then almost an unbroken wilderness. Here they carved out for themselves a substantial home and here were born to them five sons, to make that home happy. In February 1858 they moved upon a farm in Raisin where they lived until 1869, when they purchased the old Jas. C. Eddy place just west of this village. Mr. Smith died in October 1875. In May 1877 she was married to Mr. Samuel Holden who now survives her; also two sons by her first husband, Albert E. Smith of Onsted, and Sylvester H. Smith of Adrian. The deceased was a woman of modest manners who loved her home and kindred, and fulfilled all the duties of wife and mother in the humble station to which God had assigned her. She was for many years a member of the Tecumseh M. E. church and died in the hope of a blessed immortality.

He came to Michigan in 1853, from the place of his nativity, Dutchess Co., New York. In 1883 he moved to Tecumseh, where his death occurred Tuesday night, the 11th. Card of Thanks.

We desire to publicly express our heartfelt thanks to the kind friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us in our hours of sorrow.

Attention, Company!

ORDER No. 2.

Necessity renders it obligatory upon the officers of this Company to thus publicly warn delinquent members and to quote Sec. 182, Article XIV., of the Militia Laws of Michigan, which reads as follows: "Inexcusable absence from regular drills or parades, to the number of 5 times in any one quarter, shall be deemed sufficient to justify the sentence of dishonorable dismissal from the service, or such other sentence as a court martial may impose, etc."

Doubtless you do not grasp the real significance of a dishonorable discharge, which means that you have been found unworthy to serve as protectors of your State. You have been proven to be unreliable. You have grown to be a burden and object of scorn to your friends and comrades, who think your room is preferable to your presence. You are therefore dismissed from the service in disgrace and ostracized. You have forfeited any and all chances of re-election, re-enlistment or re-appointment in the service of the State. All unexcused absence of the past will be overlooked, provided an effort is made to do your duty. Otherwise we will be obliged to exercise the full power of the above quoted law.

The New York Musical Monthly for January has arrived. It contains eight piece selections, four vocal and four instrumental. The vocal piece entitled, "Chicago," is a rattler and is destined to have a big run. The music in this number, if bought in sheet form, would cost at least two dollars, while the yearly subscription for the monthly is only $1.50. Published by R. A. Saalfield, 5 Broadway, N. Y.

Not in the history of the present generation has Lake Erie been frozen as it now. There is an unbroken field of ice from Detroit river to Put-in-Bay. Fishermen have driven fifteen miles out from Monroe and returned with the statement that the ice was solid all the way, and that it extended as far as they could see. The entire Lake Erie archipelago is frozen up, and teams are crossing the mouth of the Detroit river. Fishermen have been compelled to suspend business. Considerable uneasiness is felt, because if the winter breaks up as it usually does, there can scarcely fail to be a very serious flood.

Now is the time to pay up.

The appearance of Mr. Leland T. Powers, the great Boston impersonator, was a great success here last night. He is beyond doubt one of the most versatile men in the land, being recognized as such. His impersonations last night were remarkable. He played the play, (David Garrick) assuming each character, running the dialogue, doing the stage business, and all, and no more finished actor ever stood before an audience than he seemed to be.—La Fayette (Ind.) Journal.

The famous monologist, Leland T. Powers, of Boston, appeared at Music Hall last evening before a large audience. The entertainment was not, as many anticipated, a "reading" or a mere display of elocution, for Mr. Powers, without the aid of scenery or any of the attributes which are usually used in presenting a play, took the different parts of the various characters in that charming comedy, David Garrick, and brought the scenes so vividly before the imagination of the audience that it would rival any play upon the modern stage.—Syracuse Courier.

Referring to the loss of the distinguished Boston churchman, the Tribune says the sudden and unexpected death of Bishop Brooks cannot fail to call to Detroiters the untimely demise of Bishop Harris. Both men were in the prime of life, in possession of full bodily vigor, and with long careers in prospect. Bishop Harris was much the younger of the two, but in his short life had lived twenty years beyond his age. Both men, too, were of the broad and liberal school of Episcopalianism, though Bishop Brooks stood largely alone and for himself in his views of faith and doctrine.

Covers were laid for 225 people, and every seat was occupied by an enthusiastic member of the Alger Guards or by some honored guest.

AWFUL HOLOCAUST.

17 PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH BY BURNING OIL.

Ten or More Fatally Burned and at Least 50 Have Serious Injuries—A Fast Passenger Train Crashes Into the Rear of an Oil Train.—Other News.

A wreck which, in its consequences, is one of the most appalling and disastrous that has occurred in years, occurred at Wann Junction, or Alton Junction, Ill., a few miles northeast of St. Louis, Mo. The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus & St Louis, "Southwestern Limited" passenger train, consisting of an engine, and four coaches, going east ran into a switch half a mile north of Wann Junction, and, crashed into a train consisting of seven tank cars standing there. The result was a fire and afterward an explosion, which 17 persons their lives, fatally injured eight or ten more, while fully 50 others suffered painful burns.

At the junction there are several switches and on one of them the train of oil tanks had been run to allow the "limited," which was late, the right of way. The switch had been left open and when the fast train, running 40 miles an hour, came thundering on it crashed into the tank cars. The engineer of the passenger saw the danger, shouted to his fireman, reversed the engine, pulled on the air brakes and both jumped—a second too late, for the engineer was killed and the fireman seriously injured. The crash was somewhat diminished by the engineer's thoughtfulness and bravery and not a passenger was seriously injured.

The first four tanks of oil were burst by the collision and the train was soon ablaze. Large crowds surrounded the wreck to watch the work of the fire demon when an explosion of awful propensities shook the earth. The remaining tanks had exploded with terrific force and the scene which followed was terrible in the extreme. Pieces of their iron sides were thrown far out into the adjacent fields and showering upon the assembled crowd of sightseers a mass of flaming liquid. For just one second after the noise of the explosion there was no sound save the swish of the seething oil as it forced through the air. Then there arose a confusion of agonizing appeals for help and cries of terror to which no tongue nor pen can do justice. For several minutes the panic was indescribable. Those touched by the burning oil grouped about wildly, seeking in vain for relief from their tortue. Almost without exception the injured were burned about the face, and had their eyesight temporarily if not permanently destroyed.

Gradually the horror of the holocaust gave way to relization of the necessity for quick relief for the wounded and willing hands tenderly carried the dead and injured to Wann, where they were placed in the depot and taken to Alton. When a list of the dead and wounded was taken 17 souls had left their clay and 12 more were hovering between life and death while at least 50 were seriously burned.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Doings of Congress for one Week.—But Little Accomplished.

SENATE.—Twenty-fourth day—Senator Morrill, of Vermont, addressed the Senate in opposition to the McGarrahan claim. Senator Peffer, of Kansas, spoke favoring the constitutional amendment limiting the presidential office to one term. Senator Call, of Florida, defended the anti-options bill. An amendment to the latter measure was agreed to fixing the date of its going into effect at July 1, 1893. The committee on foreign relations were instructed to inquire as to the expenditure in and about the Nicaragua canal. HOUSE.—A resolution was passed calling upon the executive departments for information as to the number of war claims allowed or disallowed. The rules were suspended and a joint resolution was passed providing for the election of Senators of the United States by a direct popular vote. Adjourned.

SENATE.—Twenty-fifth day—Mr. Peffer resumed his speech in support of the joint resolution to amend the constitution so as to limit the presidential office to one term. The McGarrahan claim came up and the presiding officer called for a vote which resulted, yeas, 29; nays, 18; the bill was lost, a two-thirds vote being necessary to carry it over the President's objection. A bill to repeal the silver bullion purchase of the Sherman bill was reported from the committee on finance; it is understood that Mr. Sherman was the "father" of the bill to repeal. The anti-options bill came in for three hours scathing denunciation from Senators Hoar, Vest and Platt. Executive session. HOUSE.—The only action of general importance was the passage of the Senate bill to provide for the punishment of offenses on the high seas.

Twenty-sixth day—Both Senate and House adjourned without transacting any business, in respect to the memory of ex-President Hayes.

SENATE.—Twenty-seventh day—Mr. Peffer concluded his speech in favor of a single term of the presidential office. A new McGarrahan bill was introduced and referred. Mr. Walcott, of Colorado, introduced a resolution directing the postmaster-general to discontinue the sale of the Columbian postage stamps except where specifically called for; the reason given was that the size made them ridiculous. The anti-option bill was again discussed and went over. HOUSE.—Mr. Kilgore, of Texas, posed as an obstructionist and prevented the passage of several measures. A bill was passed for a bridge across the Mississippi river at New Orleans. The national quarantine bill was laid over. The Senate bill concerning testimony in criminal cases growing out of the interstate commerce act was taken up and a substitute agreed and agreed to providing that no person shall be excused from attending or testifying before the Interstate Commerce Commission on the ground that the testimony or evidence may tend to criminate him. The bill as amended then passed.

SENATE.—Twenty-eighth day—No miscellaneous business was transacted. Mr. Brice, of Ohio, offered a resolution that the Senate has heard with deep regret of the death R. B. Hayes, formerly chief magistrate of the United States, and that as a further mark of respect to his memory on this, the day of his funeral, the Senate do now adjourn. The resolution was agreed to, and the Senate adjourned. HOUSE.—The general deficiency appropriations bill was received and placed on the calendar, as was a report from the committee on manufactures, on the sweating system, and also a bill to repeal the section of revised statutes concerning supervisors of elections. Mr. Outhwaite, of Ohio, then offered the following: Resolved, that this House on this the day of the funeral of the late Rutherford B. Hayes, formerly chief magistrate of the United States, as a further mark of respect to his memory, do now adjourn. The resolution was adopted and the House adjourned.

SENATE.—Twenty-ninth day—Senator Wolcott made a breezy and vigorous attack upon the new Columbian postage stamps and came near securing the passage of a resolution discontinuing their sale "except as chest protectors," but the resolution was finally referred to the postoffice committee. The time-worn anti-options bill was again discussed. The credentials of Mr. Turple, were received and placed on file and then the Senate adjourned. HOUSE.—The national quarantine bill was discussed at length and went over without action. Senate bill, for the abolition of port tradeships, passed. The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill was reported and placed on the calendar. Adjourned.

HERZ THE SCAPEGOAT

THE BLACKMAILER SURROUNDED BY ENEMIES.

The Odium of the Panama Canal Scheme to Be Placed Upon Him—French Authorities Very Anxious for His Extradition—Foreign News of Interest.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The authorities appear determined to show by their energy in obtaining evidence against Dr. Cornelius Herz that they are in earnest in their effort to procure his extradition. They realize that they labor under a considerable disadvantage in dealing with Dr. Herz at the distance of London. If they had him here he could be subjected to the usual process of examination, which includes browbeating, confronting, entrapping and everything in the way of inquisition short of actual physical torture, and sometimes approaches that very closely in the persistent subjection of the accused to long and exhausting sittings, with a view of compelling admission through sheer weariness and desire for rest. As Herz cannot be subjected to this sort of racking in advance of extradition, the authorities are doing the next best thing for their purposes by putting his friends through the process. M. Clemenceau was confronted yesterday with M. Stephane with the view of eliciting, if possible, some acknowledgments that might be sent to London to strengthen the case against Herz. The examination was private, but, according to the Petit Journal, listeners on the outside heard enough to convince them that a very lively encounter was in progress within. Clemenceau stoutly maintained his denials of any knowledge of corrupt or criminal conduct on the part of Herz or anybody else, and used language that in any other place would have been promptly followed by a challenge or a duel. Clemenceau stood his ground under all the pressure and the examination closed without any admission of wrong on his part, and, it is understood, without any additional damage to Herz.

All parties are furious against Herz. The "Panamites," as they are called, are enraged against him for the share he is alleged to have taken in betraying them to Andrieux and assisting the ex-prefect in the exposures which have caused so much scandal, while those who were implicated in the scandal would like to see the chief responsibility for the disgrace laid upon a foreigner, and a German at that. One of the charges most generally uttered against Herz is that he is a Bavarian, and consequently a compatriot of the soldier brigands who fired Bazeilles in September, 1870. It happens that Dr. Herz was born at Besancon, in France, and is not the son of Bavarian, but of Hessian parents. He is, therefore, only of German parentage. This, however, makes no difference to his assailants, who persist in denouncing him a German and spare no effort to prove that he was the chief hand in the Panama affair. One of the newspapers goes so far as to declare that foreigners are chiefly responsible for the Panama scandal.

CASEY LIKELY TO WITHDRAW.

North Dakota Republicans Trying to "Get Together."

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 23.—The Legislature in joint session took the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th ballots for Senator. On the 15th ballot the vote of John D. Benton, Democrat, ran up to 39, which is within 8 of a majority. Two attempts were made by Senator Casey to secure an adjournment but without effect. The Smith men joined with the Populists and Democrats to keep the mill grinding. Then came the sixteenth ballot, with the Democrats and Populists voting almost solidly for Benton, again making his vote 39. The joint session then dissolved for the day by a vote of 57 to 38.

The Republicans impediately went into conference at the capitol building. The candidates agreed that none but a Republican should be elected and a committee was appointed to adjust differences and report to a meeting of the Republican members. There is a general break of the Casey forces, his vote never running above 13, and it is reported from Washington that he will withdraw next week.

MORE REPUBLICANS UNSEATED

Kansas Populists Still Increasing the Membership of Their House.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 23.—The Populist House did not attempt to pass the appropriation bill yesterday, which will be made a case for the Supreme Court to test the legality of that organization. Seven Republican members were unseated upon technicalities and six Populists sworn in, one refusing to accept the seat offered him. The Populists, through Gov. Lewelling made a proposition to support a Democrat for Senator if the three Democratic members would leave the Republican House and enter the Populist House. The proposition was rejected. The Populists are now inclined to favor Judge John Martin, unless the Populist House should be declared the legal House, in which case they would not need Democratic votes.

J. B. Watkins of Lawrence is a new aspirant for Senatorial honors. He claims to have pledges from four of the five Democrats and also from forty Republicans. He is a capitalist and railroad builder. He is a Democrat and has never before appeared in politics.

PAVEY AND HIS BOOKS.

The Ex-Auditor to Be Investigated by the Legislature or the Courts.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 23.—There is little doubt that the conduct of ex-Auditor Pavey in abstracting the cash books which show the receipts and expenditures of the insurance and banking departments of the office during his term of service will lead to an investigation, either by the Legislature or in court. Auditor Gore has discharged his duty, in part at least, by putting the facts in the case in the possession of the Attorney-General, and is willing to co-operate with the officer and the Governor in whatever course they decide should be taken. Prominent Democrats take the position that suit ought to be instituted against the ex-auditor to recover the difference between the amount shown by the books in the office to have been received and the amount the Treasurer's books show to have been paid into the State Treasury. It is also suggested that the attention of the Sangamon County Circuit Court grand jury be called to the matter.

Fearing that the General would reduce her to want she came to America and applied here for a divorce on the ground of non-support and cruelty. Gen. Lopez will fight the case and is expected here himself in a few weeks.

MICHIGAN MATTERS.

SUMMARY OF THE HAPPENINGS AMONG THE WOLVERINES.

The Michigan Supreme Court Bench Seeks to be Relieved by Having Additional Judges Appointed—A Bloody Attempt at Murder—A New Oil Test.

Supreme Court Bench Wants Relief.

At a meeting of the Michigan State Bar association in the supreme court at Lansing, Judge Edward Cahill, of Lansing, presided. In a brief address the chairman pointed out that the meeting was held in order to consult as to the best way in which the present excessive pressure on the supreme court could be relieved. After much animated discussion, and many votes being taken for the various amendments thrown out, it was ultimately decided to ask the legislature to increase the supreme bench by five additional members. Before adjourning, a committee of three were appointed to draft a bill to place the views of the association before the legislature.

A Devilish Attempt to Murder.

Ale Jarvi, a Finlander, murderously assaulted his room-mate in a saloon in Negaunee. He stabbed him in the chest and slashed him in the face several times, making his appearance a most ghastly one. Jarvi was arrested and held in $1,000 bonds.

Judiciary, recommending indefinite postponement of bills repealing the acts establishing the central board of control and for the state board of inspectors. The Senate then went into committee of the whole for the consideration of the bill repealing the Miner law. The bill was agree to and when the committee rose the bill went to its third reading and after some discussion the bill to repeal the passed by a vote of 20 yeas, 9 nays. HOUSE.—Bills introduced: Authorizing Ann Arbor to borrow $50,000 for a sewer system; authorizing Bay City to borrow $75,000 for the completion of her City Hall; placing mutual building and loan associations under supervision of the bank commissioner; amending dog tax law; for a constitutional amendment prohibiting free railroad passes to legislators, state and judicial officers; to repeal act creating state boards of inspectors for penal and charitable institutions; making special appropriations for improvements at the Michigan Insane asylum. A resolution was offered and referred requiring visiting committees to state institutions to file an itemized account of their expenses with the clerk. A resolution upon the death of Gen. Butler was read and ordered spread upon the Journal. The House acquiesced in the Senate resolution for a visit to state institutions.

SENATE.—Twelfth day—Petition was read from supervisors of Kent county for the repeal of the mortgage tax law. The special committee on the Wheeler vs. Mugford contested election case reported in favor of Senator Mugford, the sitting member. Adopted. Bills introduced: That all members of visiting commissees file with the clerk of the Senate a bill of their actual necessary expenses—adopted; authorizing proceedings against garnishees; relative to the fees of the peace officers; to amend the free school act of the city of Detroit; to provide for the incorporation of the supreme and subordinate commanderies of the United Friends of America; relative to the management of insane asylums. Bills passed: To authorize the purchase of 20 acres of land to be used in connection with the Wayne county insane asylum; to amend an act relative to public institutions and private schools. A resolution was presented and referred directing the clerk of the senate to request the auditor-general to furnish a statement of expenses, receipts and disbursement with the present financial standing of each of our several state institutions for the current year and the past four years. In committee of the whole a joint resolution was considered—but no action was taken—to fix the salaries of members of the legislature at $500 per session. HOUSE.—The Senate bill for the repeal of the Miner law was read twice by the title and referred. A number of leaves of absence were granted. Notice was given of numerous bills and the House adjourned.

SENATE.—Twelfth day—Short session. One bill introduced—relative to new trials and exceptions in criminal cases. HOUSE.—Petitions were received from Kent county relative to the proposed new county of Stockbridge, also for the repeal of the mortgage tax law. A number of members gave notice of bills to be introduced hereafter. Adjourned

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

A large manufacturer, whose affairs were very much embarassed, and who was overworked and broken down with nervous exhaustion, went to a celebrated specialist. He was told that the only thing needed was to be relieved of care and worry, and have a change of thought. This doctor was more considerate of his patient's health than of his financial circumstances. He ought to have advised him to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the best remedy for nervous prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, headache, ill effects of spirits, tobacco, coffee, opium, etc. Thousands testify to cures. Book and trial bottle free at Baker & Hall's.

THE VALUE OF A SINGLE VOTE

A tie vote on two legislative candidates in Kansas at the last election was decided by lot. The value of a single vote was thus made apparent. A RUNNING SORE FOR TEN YEARS.

ATHENS, PA., June 27th, 1892.

I have been afflicted with a fever sore, what the doctors call a "Varicose Ulcer," for the last ten years. My leg was very much swollen much of the time and was a running sore during the whole time. I was under the care of good physicians the most of the time, but no treatment seemed to do any good until I procured a box of Parmelee's Household Ointment from our druggist, Joseph Hines, of Athens, Pa., and one box completely healed my leg and I now consider it cured, as it has remained healed, and has given me no trouble for the last six months.

STEPHEN MCKINNEY.

Mr. Hines, the druggist referred to, certifies to the above, and adds: "Mr. McKinney has suffered very much with his leg, having been confined to the house and unable to use his leg at all. He is very enthusiastic in the praise of Parmelee's Ointment."

It was unhesitatingly pronounced the best of the series, although the others have all been very enjoyable. The young musicians are giving a great deal of pleasure to the music loving people and that their work is appreciated is shown by the hearty response given the invitations.

Terrific Explosion at Blissfield.

Blissfield had a sensation last Saturday evening. The boiler of the steam grist mill exploded, completely wrecking the brick engine house. Four boys were buried in the ruins and it took an hour to extricate them. They escaped with only a few bruises. The engine room of Hathaway's planing mill, situated a few feet distant, was also demolished. The head of the boiler was blown sixty feet away, crashing through the side of Mr. Josenhan's house and into the kitchen, where the family were all seated at supper. Fortunately fire did not break out at the scene of the explosion or the four boys would certainly have perished. The escape of Mr. and Mrs. Josenhans and their three children was almost a miracle. The summer kitchen was swept completely away and they were all injured by flying splinters, but none of them seriously. Bricks were found eighty rods distant. The cause of the explosion is a profound mystery.

The wonderful popularity attained by Hood's Sarsaparilla Calendar last year, will be repeated by Hood's Household Calendar-Almanac, 1893, just published. A happier combination of calendar and almanac, of beauty and utility, of art and advertising, has seldom been produced. The lovely picture of "The Young Discoverers" lithographed in many delicate colors, will be welcome everywhere, while the pad is attractively printed in colors but with sharp, plain figures. Copies may be obtained of the druggists, or by sending six cents in stamps for one copy, or ten cents for two, to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Mama, said Tom, does sugar ever cure anybody of anything? Why do you ask my boy? I thought I'd like to catch it, said Tommy.

Mamma: Did you and Ethel play church with your dolls? Little Dora: We tried to, but we couldn't, cause we hadn't any boy doll for a preacher. We dressed up Johnny's jumpinjack an' tried him, but he was a little too lively for a regular church, so we turned it into a revival.

The Adrian Press is publishing some raw letters from Editor Smith, who is sojourning in the South.

The Brooklyn race track and stables will be fitted up in the spring for a general horse training business.

The Addison Courier denies that it is settled that the C. J. & M. shops are going to be moved to Addison.

The Hudson Gazette says: An East Side man who put a hot flatiron in his bed Sunday night found it snapped in two the next morning.

The splendid ice harvest this winter enables farmers to store away more of that commodity than ever before in the history of Lenawee county.

Farmers can at least take comfort in zero weather, for it annihilates a multitude of the insect pests of the fields and orchards. Cold winters are usually followed by good crops.

Hillsdale county will vote in the spring on a proposition to bond for $50,000 to erect a new court house. Its old building is a disgrace to civilization as represented by that thriving county.

A party of Adrianites had the distinction, Saturday night, of running to Chicago on the last train to leave the old Wabash depot at Detroit. At midnight the new depot was opened.—Adrian Telegram.

Mr. Charles Cole, Sr., has been a resident of this place forty years and avers that during that period snow has not been known to remain so many consecutive days without thawing as during the present winter.—Addison Courier.

The average temperature of January has been so low that to bring the month up to the usual mean the next two weeks must be very mild. The chances are that the average for the month will be lower than usual, and that the next fortnight will not prove remarkable for high temperature.

All of the druggists recently arrested in Hillsdale county are released. This is owing to an opinion which has been handed down from the Supreme Court sustaining Judge Lane's decree that the prosecution should have been made under the local option law, whereas they were made under the old liquor law.

Phil. Seewald, the veteran jeweler, went to Tiffin, Ohio, last Saturday, to visit his brother. Before leaving he created a sensation by investing in an overcoat. During the 51 years of his torrestrial experience this is the first time he ever felt the necessity of such an article.—Hudson Gazette.

Dr. Nelson, of Ridgeway, who is a Sabbath school teacher, as well as a pension examiner, was lately made the recipient of a fine easy chair from his class. This in a measure compensates for the regrets he has when he hauls out $40 to pay Jo Emery for $20 worth of meal tickets, owing to his faith in McKinley republicanism.—Adrian Press

Miss Ella VanNorden, of Adrian, has applied for a patent on a device for holding up ladies' dresses, and the Telegram thinks the invention will realize the lady a handsome fortune. But Ella is too late in the market. Fashion has already decreed that the long dresses must go and that they be cut three inches above the floor, "or longer."

The Columbian stamps will be the second jubilee series ever issued by any country in the world since postage stamps came into use. England honored the fiftieth year of Queen Victoria's reign by a set of jubilee stamps in 1887, and they are still in use. Most of them are printed in two colors and are very beautiful specimens of the stamp engraver's art.

These cold mornings don't put a frosty bit into a horse's mouth. A dip in a pail of cold water will take the frost out of it and save your animal intense suffering. It is not supposed that any one does this intentionally, but from instances of horses with bleeding mouths one sees occasionally, it is apparent there are some thoughtless persons.

The Tecumseh schools being closed last week on account of scarlet fever, Supt. Kellogg put in his time visiting the Hillsdale and Hudson schools. He spoke very highly of what he saw here, and was particularly impressed with the primary department under Misses Perkins and Doty. He took back with him several specimens of the work done by the children to exhibit to the teachers in his school.—Hudson Gazette.

There seems to be discrimination in the postoffice delivery against The Evening Telegram. One subscriber who receives his paper at the postoffice has inquired there daily for his paper and has been told that there was nothing for him. Saturday he secured five papers, for five different days, and wants to know the reason and the why? The papers were delivered to the postoffice authorities on time. Another thing, it is impossible to get The Telegram to Holloway on the evening mail, while other papers find no difficulty in reaching that point.—Adrian Telegram.

We notice that Representative Raymond, of this district, voted for Stockbridge for U. S. Senator in the caucus held last Thursday evening, and undoubtedly will do so when the vote is taken by the legislature. We, of course, do not fully understand the sentiment of the people in the entire district, but down this way it seemed to be for anybody but Stockbridge by a large majority. We believe this is the sentiment of the county generally. But Mr. Raymond can probably give a good reason why he voted as he did, and the people would, perhaps, be glad to know what it is.—Blissfield Advance.

TAX REFORM DEPARTMENT.

LOGICAL REFLECTIONS.

From "Who Pays Your Taxes?"

The imposition of all taxes upon real estate is the best system of taxation; because the real payers of taxes would have a conscious and direct pecuniary interest in honest and cheap government; because it relieves capital from taxation, and thus removes a discouragement to its reproductive use, and because taxes upon real estate are easily, cheaply and certainly collected and, bear least heavily on the farmer and the worker.

Farmers as a rule are skeptical of any benefit to come to them from transferring all taxes to real estate. They want it proved.

It is notorious that in many, perhaps in most, parts of the country farm lands have for the last ten years been decreasing in value, while suburban lands have steadily increased in value. But most of the farms are assessed just as high as ever, while the increase in value of suburban lands has failed to greatly increase the assessments. The consequence is that farm lands are paying a higher tax in proportion to their real value than are suburban lands. We should insist upon a fair assessment of all real estate. Again, the farmers are now assessed, not only upon their land and houses, but also on their stock, their farm implements, and upon other personal property. We should remove all these taxes upon personal property. Thus, the farmer's stock and tools of trade, things with which he makes his living, would at once be relieved from burdens now discouraging to industry. It is worth noting also that the farmer's personal property is generally of a character not easily concealed and therefore open to assessment, while the personal property of many other persons may be easily spirited out of sight when the assessor comes around, and no law that can be made can prevent it. If all personal property were relieved from taxation this source of injustice would disappear.

Some of the farmers are strongly opposed to the idea that mortgages and incomes should be exempt. They insist that the holder of the mortgage is practically the part owner of the land upon which the mortgage rests, and that to tax the land and exempt the mortgage is unjust. But, experience shows that to tax the mortgage and exempt the land is simply to tax the land in another way, and a harder way. The effect of taxing mortgages is to increase the rate at which money loans, and to make it more difficult for borrowers to get money. In other words, the result of taxing capital in any form, is to drive that form of capital away from the jurisdiction in which such a system of taxation prevails. If the attempt is made to counteract this tendency of taxes upon mortgages to raise the rate of interest by penal laws limiting the rate, two things follow: Lenders of money, as far as possible, avoid placing mortgages within a district subject to such tax laws, and such as do venture their capital, defy the laws and charge an additional rate for the additional risk.

The idea of taxing incomes has always been a seductive one to many advocates of direct taxation. An income tax, however, begins with the design of exempting by far the larger part of the community from taxation; for all income tax laws name a minimum income that is not to be taxed; and as a rule that minimum is much larger than the income of at least three-fourths of the community. That is not fair; and, besides, though a man may be poor he does not want to take charity from the government by having some one else pay his taxes. Of those whose incomes fall within the provisions of an income tax many are able to conceal the true amount of their incomes, so that as a general rule the honest man of moderate means and the salaried man whose income is easily ascertainable, whether he will or no, pay more than their share of the taxes.

Farmers May Then Prosper!

In the nature of things the personal property tax is a farce, and as such, how much better that it be abolished entirely and that real estate, the natural bearer of burdens for the support of government, be obliged to carry it. This may not appear at first a favorable plan to the farmers, but after all, the increased taxation such a plan would entail, would not affect him so much, (it would affect him but a little in fact) as it would the owners of property in large towns and cities valued at large amounts; amounts when put in comparison to the farmers' real estate value in point of size, are as the mountain to the mole hill. There are single acres within the limits of our great cities which would sell on the market at the enormous value of $15,000,000. How much would a single acre of the farmer's real estate, put upon the market, be valued at? And if he paid his taxes on his real estate according to that value, and the city real estate paid in proportion to its value, is it not clear that the farmer's taxes would drop down to almost nothing, would pale into insignificance? And is it not equally clear that this valuable real estate in and near the big cities would be paying the lion's share of the taxes, and at the same time a more just share, when the present personal property tax farce is wiped from the face of mother nature?"

Then "rejoice, O, ye farmers!" "and be exceeding glad!!"

E. J. F.

A Loadstone Upon the Neck of Toilers.

The spirit of the law of personal taxation tends to discourage industry and thrift amongst all classes of workers, and were the law fully and effectively enforced it would be still more destructive in its results. It is indeed a weight upon the hoe-handle of industry, and nowhere is this more conspicuously shown than in the tax upon deposits in savings banks which are largely handearned savings, the results of the industry of the "working classes."—Long Islander, Huntington, Suffolk County.

Personal Taxation.

The Brooklyn Daily Eagle in an able editorial article concerning the decrease of the total assessed valuation of personal property in that city, over a million and a half during the past year, closes as follows:

Every effort at Albany to give effect to personalty taxation to make the personal pay its share of the taxes, to rate all sorts of possessions within this range of the levy, has left things worse than before. It might be thought well to repeat the experiment made in Pennsylvania and elsewhere and, with corporate and some other exceptions, to exempt personal property. Able thinkers and writers have urged this course. They have contended that with the exceptions suggested, the list of which has been enlarged or curtailed according to various recommendations, taxes should be levied on real estate, houses and land, in proportion to its actual value. They have favored this measure, not for the purpose of reforming or revolutionizing society or confiscating landed property, not with a view to bring in by some communistic, socialistic, nationalistic or other forcing process a premature millennium, but simply because real estate is the best distributor of taxes. It has been often shown that, under a fair system of real estate taxation, it is alike impossible for Mr. Astor or the woman who washes his clothes to escape from contributing a share to the general burden of expenditure.

But whether radical methods shall be tried or whether there may suddenly be developed a method of making assessors omniscient as well as inquisitive, or of compelling owners to tell the truth and inculcating widely a sense of the sin of perjury, something ought to be done about the personal tax. There ought to be an end of that annual absurdity of the official statement that of all other than landed property there is an amount equal to only about $18 for each inhabitant.

The Attractions of New York.

Nearly nine thousand children in New York city are making envelopes at three and a half cents a thousand. Other thousands are feather strippers, cutting from the stem, curling and packing, for ten hours a day, many of the working-places being dark basements close and foul. A host make paper collars, for a child of five can do this. A girl of twelve counts and boxes twenty thousand a day. A grandmother of eighty and a child of four sit side by side stripping tobacco, the hands of the little ones covered with sores, and her face waxy pale. Hysteria, epilepsy, nervous diseases in many forms, wait on this work in which the fumes of nicotine take the place of oxygen. Yet legislation seems powerless to effect the matter and only an aroused public feeling, in clear understanding of what price we must some day pay for each defrauded body and starved soul, lies any hope of remedy. Whether worker or outcast most needs help many a looker-on has questioned; for often the outcast has fared the better and knows, even at the worst, some joy in living.—From "Child Life in the Slums of New York."

Modern Methods.

Direct taxation is right in principle, because it makes a taxpayer conscious of what the government takes in revenue, and therefore enlists him on the side of economical administration. Furthermore, direct taxation takes from the taxpayer nothing more than is turned into the public treasury. Upon moral grounds, direct taxation is better than any other, because if applied to right objects, it offers no premium upon dishonesty.

Real estate offers the best subject for taxation, because it is get-at-able and can not be concealed, and because such taxation does not discourage the investment of capital in productive operation.

The Inquisition.

It is difficult to overrate the moral and material advantages we shall gain by abolishing all taxes upon personal property. We should be relieved at once from inquisitorial visits upon the part of assessors. More than half of the trouble and expense of assessing and collecting taxes would disappear were personal property stricken from the assessment roll.

They Feel Where the Shoe Pinches.

Those who are earning what they receive by any kind of honest endeavor are becoming convinced that taxes are so levied as to bear more heavily upon them than upon those who do nothing or next to nothing that is of the least use to anybody.—American Machinist, N. Y. City.

Inequality Rampant.

"If taxing an individual in proportion to his means is to be the test of equity of taxation, inequality seems to be inseparably associated with the great majority of taxes."—H. Fawcett, Man. of Pol. E., 6th Ed., p. 517.

That's What's the Matter.

The folly of taxing such perishable and shifting products as groceries in the store, or wheat and corn in the farmers' bins, or his horses and cows, has been demonstrated time and time again.

"It is no wonder that in their desperation the small farmers should cry out for the equal enforcement of the laws taxing personalty; it is no wonder that they should attempt to stem the current in ignorance of the impossibility of the task. They have forgotten Walpole's saying, that it is safer to tax real than personal estate, because 'landed gentlemen are like the flocks upon their plains, who suffer themselves to be shorn without resistance; whereas the trading part of the nation resemble the boar, who will not suffer a bristle to be plucked from his back without making the whole parish to echo with his complaints."—Sinclair, His. of Public Rev. Vol. iii, Appendix p. 72.

Work at The Probate Court.

As indicating the amount of work done in the probate office for this county during the year 1892 we submit a statement furnished by A. E. Barager, the efficient probate register, as follows

No. of new estates commenced	216
No. of old estates closed	141
No. of letters of administration issued	61
No. of wills proved and letters issued	91
No. of guardians appointed for minors	31
No. of guardains appointed for incompetent persons	11
No. of dependent children sent to state public school	3
No. of insane sent to asylum, 17 indigent, 1 private	18
No. of adoption and change of name	3
No. of minors released from guardianship	30
No. of drain cases	2
No. of bonds and sellers issued and	374
No. of sales of real estate
No. of appraisers and commissioners warrants issued	304
No. of petitions drawn	600
No. of final statements and accounts	141
No. of orders and decrees	1975

The above figures give but a faint idea of the amount of work done. Many of the hearings are contested, most of the wills have to be twice copied and recorded, bonds, letters, license to sell real estate and all orders and decrees have to be recorded and compared, as well as a vast amount of miscellaneous work necessarily done in connection with the settlement of estates not enumerated above.

IN THE

North American Review.

YOU WILL ALWAYS FIND

BY THE RIGHT MEN,
AT THE RIGHT TIME.

THE TOPICS are always those which are uppermost in the public mind—in morals, politics, science, literature, business, finance, industrial economy, social and municipal affairs, etc.—in short, all subjects on which Americans require and desire to be informed. No magazine follows so closely from month to month the course of public interest. All subjects are treated of impartially on both sides.

THE CONTRIBUTORS to the Review are the men and women to whom the world looks for the most authoritative statements on the subjects of the day. No other periodical can point to such a succession of distinguished writers. The list is a role of the people who are making in history, controlling the affairs, and leading the opinion of the age, such as Mr. Gladstone, the Prime Minister of England; Mr. Blaine; Signor Crispi, Ex-Prime Minister of Italy, Baron Hirsch; H. R. H. the Count of Paris; Cardinal Gibbons; Bishops Potter, Doane, Mackaye, Foss, etc.

THE TIME when these subjects are treated of by these contributors is the very time when the subjects are in the public mind—not a month or two after the people have ceased to think of them. The promptness with which the Review furnishes its readers with the most authoritative information upon the topics of the day is one of its most valuable features.

BRITTON BUDGET.

Jedediah will be here the 3rd and 4th. Come and hear him.

Jedediah Judkins, J. P., tomorrow and Saturday nights.

C. B. and W. Exelby have purchased a 40 acre farm of Mary J. Smith.

Miss Susie Palmer, of Dundee, is visiting Miss Serene Zeluff for a few days.

Lively times in town last Tuesday. Street corner rumpuses were the order of the day.

A court of the star chamber we understand was, initiated at the Tank House last Monday.

Jedediah Judkins at the opera house to-morrow and Saturday nights. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

We insist that two or three of our citizens are getting more laurels to their credit than is rightfully due them—so do they.

The meeting of two or three Masons at the tank house Monday was wrongfully construed to be a secret consultation of town officers.

The shower of Monday evening seemingly quieted the fiery torrent that raged within the heated breasts of a few of our townsmen during the day.

Our shoemaker, C. W. Martin, has given up his shop here and last week Wednesday removed to Windsor, Ont., where he will engage in the broom manufacturing business.

The ladies' home missionary society will give their regular monthly public dinner at G. A. R. Hall, Wednesday, Feb'y 8th. Let everyone come. Dinner 10 cents.

A. Russell, of Macon, has purchased the house and lot owned by A. W. Curtiss and we learn that he intends to remove here in the near future to engage in the furniture and undertaking business.

The boys are all ready to smoke on our townsman, C. B. Tripp, as we understand he made a bridegroom's trip to Dundee yesterday. We all unite in wishing him much joy and a happy future. The happy bride was Miss Alta Suydam, of Dundee.

We wish to correct the notice in this column last week, that the regular review of Tent 467 was on Tuesday evening, Jan. 31st. Regular reviews come on the first and 4d Tuesdays of each month, which will bring the next review next Tuesday, when it is urgently desired that all knights be present.

Myra M. Turner has brought suit against the town of Ridgeway for $3,000 for alleged damages sustained in an accident at the bridge at Jim Barlow's place. We understand that the town is justified in its action in the matter on the ground that the bridge was let under contract and that all was done that was required of them by law, as far as providing against accidents was concerned.

J. D. Smith has purchased I. S. Osborn's large hay warehouse and will at once remodel half of it by raising the roof four feet and putting in elevating appliances. The other half he will use for farming implements, wagons, buggies, etc. His business here will be under the management of A. W. Curtiss, who will attend to the grain business and in a measure look after Mr. Smith's interests. We welcome Mr. Smith in this enterprise and trust he may meet with success in his undertaking. He is a man of push and good business ability and we believe that in selecting our village for this line of traffic he has shown good judgment, which in the end will reap him rich reward.

TIPTON TOPICS.

The M. E. social held at the residence of Mr. Harry Jeffery last Friday afternoon and evening was well attended and enjoyed by all.

An invitation extended to the M. E. and Congregational Sunday Schools of Tipton by Mr. Hause, of Clinton, was largely responded to on Saturday last. They took a ramble through the woolen mill, after which a fine dinner was served. A very enjoyable time is reported by all.

Jay Pawson and Miss Carrie Lewis set out on the voyage of life together Wednesday evening of last week. The young couple have gone to Athens, Mich., where they will spend their honeymoon. May a long and happy life be theirs.

The friends and near relatives of C. H. Hardy, of Franklin, numbering in all about 50, gave him a very pleasant surprise last Monday evening. He was presented with a very nice gentleman's easy chair as a token of their esteem, after which the party partook of a fine supper. An enjoyable time was had by all.

To the Editor:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the thousand and one ills which arise from deranged female organs. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any lady if they will send their Express and P. O address. Yours respectfully, Dr. B. D. MARCHISI, Utica, N. Y.

THE MOST PLEASANT WAY

Of preventing the grippe, colds, headaches and fevers is to use the liquid laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, whenever the system needs a gentle, yet effective cleansing. To be benefitted one must get the true remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only. For sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles.

Mollie: What are you going to give Charley for Christmas? Jenny: A parrot. Mollie: Do you think he will be pleased with it? Jennie: Oh, yes; it can help him swear when the Christmas bills begin to come in.

The person who lost a pair of mittens may have them by calling at Sutton & Arner's store.

Don't forget the L. C. S. to be held at Mrs. C. M. Gove's on Friday evening of the present week.

Those who heard Leland T. Powers at Tecumseh on Saturday night were highly delighted with his entertainment.

Kate Sherman went to Toledo Tuesday for a week's visit before leaving for an indefinite stay in York State with friends.

The next parlor meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. C. L. Lowe, on South Church street, next week Wednesday evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

A few weeks ago the correspondent of the Macon Music for the HERALD did a little crowing over the fact that Doctor Hendershot had upset the Democratic majority in that town by the arrival of a boy at his home. Never mind, brother; Cyrus Underwood has been looking after that majority from this part of the township, keeping it at par by the arrival of a daughter at his home, second to no girl baby, Ruth excepted.

PENTECOST POINTERS.

James Wallace was taken very ill Monday morning.

Mrs. Smith German is on the sick list again with lung trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pentecost entertained relatives from Battle Creek last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tingley, of Rollin, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. German last Wednesday and Thursday.

Many old people are predicting a season of unusual fruitfulness to follow this winter's snowfall. The farmers all hope they may prove true prophets.

"Oh, the snow, the beautiful snow!" we're afraid it will have to go; but oh and alas! if it comes to pass, just think of the mud, you know; and the girls and the boys will mourn for the joys that went along with the snow.

Postmaster Buck continues to improve and is able to sit up and attend to his bills and books, which are brought to him in his room, which he does not leave yet. Mr. Fuller kindly assists in the management of the postoffice, while Miss Ida Buck attends to the store.

Many persons in this vicinity who ordered portraits from W. P. Elmore, then of Addison but now of Battle Creek, are still waiting for the portraits, which were to be delivered at Christmas, the cause of the delay being that Mr. Elmore's studio was burned out and the portraits damaged by water and smoke, so the work must be done over again. The pictures will be delivered as soon as possible, however; at least we are so informed by the agent, Mrs. D. H. Ellsworth.

FRANKLIN FACTS.

Measles have about disappeared.

Clark Whelan has been visiting relatives here.

Box social at Wm. Witherell's last Friday night for the benefit of the orchestra boys.

Annie and Inez Allen are in Tekonsha visiting their aunt.

Ed Spalding has bought Elmer Wilson's farm.

News comes to us from Charlotte of the death there on New Year's day of Mrs. Jerome Tripp, a former resident of Franklin. The letter says that the deceased was over a hundred years old.

The next lyceum will be held on Saturday evening, Feb. 11, at Mrs. A. B. Wisner's. A good program will be prepared and the question whether women should have the right of franchise will be discussed. Howard Whelan has the affirmative and Carl Wisner the negative, followed by other speakers. Everybody invited.

GOOD LOOKS.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the Liver be inactive you have a Bilious look, if your stomach be disordered you have a Dyspeptic look, and if your Kidneys be affected you have a Pinched look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alterative and tonic which acts directly on these vital organs. Cures Pimples, Blotches, Boils and gives a good complexion. Sold at J. J. Orr's drug store, 50c. per bottle.

HOLLOWAY HASH.

Maurice Nay spent Monday and Tuesday in Dundee as the guest of A. L. Adee.

A. L. Adee, of Dundee, was visiting friends here the latter part of last week.

Holloway & Florence sold two carloads of shelled corn last week and have ordered another.

A party at E. R. Tate's Wednesday evening tripped the "light fantastic." Ed is the boy to entertain a company of young folks.

The boys are anxious to know which is the better man—Ed Dixon, our section foreman, or Will Holt, our station agent. Form a ring, boys—Queensberry rules.

Bill Cox has a sick horse. Parties wishing further particulars as to the case will inquire of Floyd Florence, who will inform them to the minutest point, as he has it all by heart now.

John Bond greatly regrets the loss of his dog, which he took to Britton with him a week ago Tuesday and has not seen since. The dog probably took an overdose of "red-eye" and lost the scent.

F. G. Florence received a box of fish from Saginaw one day last week. We sampled them and pronounced them very fine. They were mostly perch, caught through the ice on Saginaw Bay by Mr. Kelley, father-in-law of Floyd.

Ever and anon a great commotion is heard in Maccabee hall. Is it the swarming of bees? Hardly. It resembles more the tramp of a thousand mailed warriors. Will some one please enlighten us on the subject?

Last week the Schwab family were highly entertained. On Monday evening a sleigh-load containing nine couples from Adrian swooped down on them for a little game of progressive euchre. Edith Schwab captured the first prize. On Wednesday they were again the entertainers of a load from Adrian, consisting of eighteen women. They report a grand time.

The Maccabees are agitating the question of getting a carpet for their hall. One of the members of the Britton tent offered to donate half a dollar toward helping them. If others will be as liberal we will soon see the Holloway tent in shape to return the compliment that the Britton tent paid them, in the invitation to an oyster supper some few weeks ago at their public installation.

At the social at D. P. Anthony's on Wednesday evening of last week, we are informed that John Calhoun received the first prize for trimming a girl's hat the nicest and that Ed Dawson received the booby prize for making the biggest botch of one. What a fine time the girls must have had watching the boys prick their fingers, and various other mishaps which occurred. Never mind, boys; next time have the girls pound a few nails in a plank and watch for "ragged" thumbs the next day.

LAKE RIDGE LACONICS.

There is a case of small-pox reported at Saline.

F. S. Aten has moved back on the Ambrose farm.

Mrs. F. N. Miller took the train for Buffalo Friday.

Waine Sanger's wife of York died the 21st, of typhoid fever.

Mrs L. Osgood is gradually wasting away, with no hopes of recovery.

Mrs. E. Hinkley and Mrs. F. S. Stimpson of Milan, made a flying trip up the Ridge Tuesday.

Mr. Will McCarbery and Miss Aggie Stewart, both of Macon, were wedlocked at Adrian the 25th by Rev. W. K. Spencer.

Clarence Patterson was taken suddenly ill while visiting his aunt, Mrs. M. J. Stewart Sunday. Dr. Hardy, of Britton was called by wire and relieved his suffering.

A big crowd at the club meeting and a good program. The paper on "road making" brought out a lively and varied discussion. Next meeting in four weeks, at N. C. Miller's, Feb. 22.

Remember the social at Grange hall is Friday evening of this week. We would be pleased to have the ladies and gentlemen contribute some article for the grab-bag. Five cents is the rate per grab, the number of times not limited. By order of Com.

MACON MUSIC.

Edward Miller visited friends in Ypsilanti Saturday and Sunday.

The young people gave Carrie Camburn a surprise last Friday night.

E. P. Jones, of Chicago, who came to attend the funeral service of Horace Burgess, returned Monday.

Horace Burgess, whose companion was taken from him by the hand of death, November 18, 1892, thought to find partial reconciliation by paying his aged mother and two sisters, of Chicago, a visit and accordingly went. December 13th he was taken sick there and after three weeks' suffering Mrs. Eugene Burdett and Daisy, his two daughters, received a telegram to come and help administer to the wants of their father. They took the morning train at Tecumseh Wednesday, Jan. 25th, arriving in Chicago at 3 o'clock p. m. and at 10 o'clock in the evening he passed away. This community was shocked on Thursday to hear that death had again visited the already bereaved family. The deceased was in his fifty-sixth year. On Friday, Jan. 27th, the remains, accompanied by his daughters and E. P. Jones, brother-in-law of deceased, arrived at Tecumseh. The funeral was held at the Baptist church Sunday, at 2 o'clock, Rev. J. I. Gulick officiating. The services were continued at the cemetery by Beers Post, of which the deceased was a member, who paid the last sad rites to the departed comrade. The deceased had lived many years in this vicinity and had many warm friends who feel in their hearts that this bereavement is not confined to the two daughters alone, for we all realize that we have lost a true friend and neighbor,—one who was ever ready with hand and purse to help all who were in need.

Baptist quarterly meeting will be held at the church Feb. 3d, 4th and 5th.

TECUMSEH, MICH., FEB. 2, 1893.

Does Ex-Senator Ingalls of Kansas regard the present political condition of that state as an iridescent dream?

The brains of the Republican party will be buried when the body of James G. Blaine shall be consigned to the tomb.

The action of the Kansas Populists is undoubtedly flavored with irregularity, but their ideas of controlling legislatures were obtained by a study of Republican methods.

In revising the pension rolls it should be borne in mind that the worthy veterans are entitled to justice. At the same time it should be remembered that the taxpayers are not deserving of injustice.

The living alumni of the University of Michigan number twice as many as the living alumni of any other American educational institution. There are 10,603 of them. Harvard is next with 5,553, and Yale is third with 4,618.

The St. Louis Republic pokes fun at the Kansas Republicans in this fashion: "The Kansas Republicans may now proceed to gnaw a file and flee unto the Mountains of Hepsidam. The Populists can give them odds and still beat them counting a quorum.

The election of Judge Martin as Senator from Kansas adds one more member to the Democratic side of that body. This is an absolute gain which was unexpected, as it was generally supposed that the Populists would choose the Kansas Senator.

The death of Bishop Brooks removes from this earthly sphere one of the noblest pulpit orators of the present generation. As a gifted clergyman he was the equal of Henry Ward Beecher or Edwin H. Chapin, and his untimely death leaves a void that no man now living can fill.

Senator Turpie, who has been re-elected by the Indiana legislature, is said to have eight languages at his tongue's end. He reads Latin, Greek and Hebrew almost as readily, it is averred, as English, and he has a fluent command of French, German, Spanish and Italian.

Justice Lamar's death leaves a vacancy on the Supreme bench for President Harrison to fill. Lamar was considered one of the ablest lawyers on the Bench and had he lived North of Mason and Dixon's line, instead of South, he would have been one of the great political leaders of the present generation.

The adjournment of Congress for one day every time a distinguished individual happens to die is becoming a farce. Such action is appropriate enough when a member of Congress or an official in high station is summoned across the river, but in other cases it is a needless waste of Congressional time and in bad taste as well.

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, who has just been re-elected to the U. S. Senate by the silver party, will be an out and out independent in the new Senate. His victory was a very remarkable one, his new party electing every member of the legislature and carrying every county and township and every precinct in the state but two.

Some imaginative newspaper correspondent has started the story that President Harrison will soon vacate, allow Vice President Morton to take the chair, who will then appoint Harrison to the place on the Supreme Bench made vacant by Justice Lamar's death. This is about as reliable as most of the Cabinet slates that are published.

Blaine's death, although expected for several weeks, produced a great shock in Washington. In the affections of the Republican masses he was the foremost man of the party and was regarded by all parties as one of the ablest statesmen of his time. He resembled Clay and Douglas in his ability for popular leadership and no statesman since their day has possessed so strong a hold on the affections of his followers. Death has made sad havoc among the great names of America thus far during 1893.

Mr. Blaine's career has been so often compared with that of the great commoner, Henry Clay, that a close correspondence in the circumstances of each death scene is worthy of notice. Mr. Clay died in Washington June 28, 1852, between 11 o'clock and noon. The Houses of Congress were assembling for the day's session when his death was announced, and each immediately adjourned. Mr. Blaine's death occurred at the same hour, and the Houses of Congress immediately adjourned upon assembling for the afternoon's session. Mr. Clay was much older than Mr. Blaine, his age being seventy-five when he died.

That Kansas deadlock is a sad commentary on decency in American politics. The Populists have the governor and the senate. The house, however, as elected is Republican. The Populists organized a house of their own and the Republicans also organized a house. Both houses are occupying the same room. The Populist senate and the governor have recognized the Populist house, but seem to be afraid that their recognition will not prove effective. The supreme court will be called upon to settle the deadlock, but as yet no case has been made up for judicial determination as to which constitutes the legal house.

Here is the latest Cabinet forecast, which is likely correct in part:

For Secretary of State, Don M. Dickinson, of Michigan.

For Secretary of the Treasury, John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky.

For Secretary of the Interior, W. R. Morrison, of Illinois.

For Secretary of War, P. A. Collins, of Massachusetts.

For Secretary of the Navy, Daniel S Lamont, of New York.

For Attorney-General, Hoke Smith, of Georgia.

For Postmaster-General, Hugh C. Wallace, of Washington.

For Secretary of Agriculture, D. R. Francis, of Missouri.

The following from an exchange is pretty good moral philosophy, whether utilized in business, politics, society or religion: "'Tis not money, but the love of it, that is the root of all evil. The Bible never condemns rich men, but only stingy or dishonest rich men. Money is essential. Without it we cannot get shelter, food, clothing, fuel—the barest necessaries of life. Without considerable of it we cannot command travel, books, pictures, comforts—the necessities of the intellectual life. But while good as a means money is despicable as an end. 'Tis the meanest of all ills. For, as one of old hath asked, What pleasure is there in loving that which cannot love us back again? If we love men, they have hearts as well as we. But money, that is heartless.

The New York Tribune says: "A measure is pending at Albany which might properly be characterized as an act to punish the farmers of New York for voting the Republican ticket. That really is the long and short of it. It provides that the system of personal registration which is now confined to the cities shall be extended to the rural districts. Such a proposition could have had its origin simply in the rankest, the most unscrupulous partisanship. It is a cowardly attempt to cut down the Republican vote in the interior by rendering the exercise of the right of suffrage as much of a hardship as possible to the farmers." This talk sounds funny enough here in Michigan. This State has had a registration law for years that applies to all the rural precincts and the intelligent yeomanry of Michigan, Republican and Democrat alike, consider it a good law.

President Harrison has it in his power to pay his successor a very high compliment by failing to fill the vacancy in the U. S. Supreme Court left by the death of Justice Lamar. It would be an unprecedented courtesy from a retiring to an incoming President; but it would not be politics, and therein lies the weakness of the proposition. A seat upon the bench of the Supreme Court is justly regarded as the highest honor that can be paid to an American lawyer, and next to the honor of receiving it is that of bestowing it. It is extremely doubtful whether human nature, which is as strong in Presidents as in other people, would permit any President to retire leaving such a vacancy, even if his successor had been elected by his own party, to say nothing of leaving it to the man who has defeated him.

If any lingering doubt existed about the complexion of the next Senate, says the Detroit Free Press, that doubt was removed yesterday by the election of John Martin, Democrat from Kansas. Judge Martin owes his election to the Senate to Populist votes, but he is a straight Democrat. The Populist friendship for him is occasioned by his attitude in favor of Democratic support of the Populist electoral and state tickets last fall, which resulted in a Populist victory in the state. There is no question whatever that Judge Martin will act in the Democratic caucus and with the Democrats throughout. The election of Murphy in New York, of White in California, of Martin in Kansas and the certainty that a Democrat will come from Wisconsin increases the known Democratic vote in the next Senate to forty-three. There is no doubt that Senator Kyle, Independent of South Dakota, will act with the Democrats and even if he should not there are still Montana, Wyoming and Nebraska to hear from.

BISHOP BROOKS.

The death of Bishop Phillips Brooks takes from American Christainity one of its noblest and most inspiring figures.

It was as a preacher that he made his fame, and it will be as a preacher and not as a bishop, that he will be remembered. There is, indeed, an element of tragedy in his death so soon after his elevation to the Episcopate, and before he had time to justify the wisdom of his choice in the face of the bitter opposition roused against him by certain High Churchmen. But while we believe his election as Bishop of Massachusetts was wise, because it vindicated the comprehensiveness of the Episcopal Church as to questions that ought to remain open in that Church, it is at least doubtful if Dr. Brooks would have become as great a bishop as he was a preacher. He had already, it is true, given evidence that his administration of the diocese would be generally acceptable, and that he would bring to the government that largeness of vision and catholic toleration which so distinguished him. But the petty routine of diocesan duties, calling for so much purely mechanical labor, could never in itself be congenial to a man of his temperament. He was essentially a seer, a preacher of righteousness, whose brilliant genius glowed at its brightest when he stood before his fellow-men as the bearer of God's message to them; and therefore, in the opinion of many, he had reached the limit of his greatness and power when he resigned the rectorship of Trinity Church, Boston.

Philips Brooks, the preacher, will be remembered when Bishop Brooks, the Church dignitary, will be forgotten. Nevertheless, it is not easy to analyze his power as a preacher, for, like a mighty river that sweeps in grandeur to the sea, it was fed by innumerable rills of character, temperament, aspiration and inspiration. He was, perhaps, most of all notable for the wealth of his intellectual development, the brilliancy of his imagination and his singular aptness, lucidity of expression and magnetic power over an audience. There are many men who are stirred by noble ideals, and completely possessed by great thoughts, but who are, nevertheless, unable to grasp firmly these ideals and thoughts themselves, still less to state them clearly to others. Philips Brooks was not thus handicapped. The dark problems of life and destiny, so inscrutable to most men, never seemed dark or insoluble to him. They were illumined by divine Wisdom and Love; and even though they still remained unsolved, the voice of the prophet within him discerned a solution that squared with the facts of life, and satisfied the hungry soul. Many of his noblest sermons, indeed, are essentially the joyous song of the poet; for the message of the seer and of the poet are often indentical. But for that very reason they touched the common heart of humanity as no mathematical proofs of religion ever could.—N. Y. Tribune.

A CHANGE IMPERATIVE.

The election of Hon. John Martin as United States Senator from Kansas is no doubt the most satisfactory solution of the disagreement in that State. Personally he is a man of exemplary record and he will serve the State acceptably.

After this is said it is the imperative duty of every newspaper that has at heart the welfare of the country to pass judgment on the methods of his election; and we are bound to say that these methods were highly undemocratic. No Republican may have a right to challenge them after the revolutionary and fraudulent precedents of his own party, but every Democrat must look with distrust and apprehension on the disregard of the safeguards of democratic government and popular liberties. We cannot go on much longer, making the control of the Senate and of the country depend on such methods as are now common in the choice of Senators, for if we do go on without a change for the better we will soon come to blows and violent revolution.

No one believes the election of Senators by direct vote will be a cure-all, but clearly it will be a relief from the imminent dangers of the present system. A popular election can be controlled by fraud or by conspiracy of favored classes but it is not as easy to so control a half million people as it is two hundred.

Another advantage of the choice by the people will be the quickness with which a settlement will ordinarially be reached, for in nearly every case the announcement of the vote will be at once accepted as conclusive, as is now the rule in the election of Governors and other State officers.

If there were no prospect of relief by such a change nothing would remain but to give up the attempt at honest self-government, leaving government to the people with the most money or the least conscience.

With a change that will allow the Senators to be selected at the general election we will avoid the worst dangers of such conspiracies as have been formed since last November to change the result of the election as it affected the Senate; and at the same time we will avoid the temptation to meet wrong with wrong and to increase evil by adopting its own methods in opposing it.

GREAT OAKS

From little acorns grow, so also do fatal diseases spring from small beginnings. Never neglect symptoms of Kidner Troubles; if allowed to develop they cause much suffering and sorrow. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm is a certain cure for any disease or weakness of the Kidneys. A trial will convince you of its great potency.

The "Machine" and Mr. Cleveland.

The difficulty is that no matter if Mr. Cleveland were more inclined for peace than we believe him to be, he cannot make concessions to a machine that is hostile to him and flouts his principles. He and the "bosses" are going in opposite directions. So far as political principles go, he and they have nothing in common. They do not know the value of principals. They are in politics for spoils. So far, also, as party management goes, he and they have nothing in common. Mr. Cleveland believes in the rule of the people, in the supremacy of the voters; while the bosses believe in their own irresponsible oligarchy. Everything that he does by way of recognizing the machine must increase its oligarchical power. The refusal to recognize it, to accept its advice, to act upon its recommendations, will help to free the Democratic party of the State from a control that makes its defeat in the immediate future inevitable.—Harper's Weely.

A Pinch of Salt.

Is very valuable when you want it and can't get it, and you then realize fully what the irrepressible small boy meant when he said. Salt is the thing that makes things taste bad when you don't put any on. There are lots of curious things about salt, more than anyone not interested in looking it up would imagine; and you may learn many facts about it that you never knew before, by reading the charmingly written and beautifully illustrated article, From the Depths of a Crystallized Sea, published in Demorest's Family Magazine for February. Another paper, The Ice World, also very fully illustrated, tells all about glaciers, and how icebergs are formed. Celestial Gypsies is especially apropos at this time, and is illustrated with pictures of noted comets; Harnessing the Breeze gives the boys some novel points about kites and how to use them; and from China Marks you can learn how to distinguish fine china. The paper contains illustrations of over forty distinctive marks.

How often we hear middle-aged people say regarding that reliable old cough remedy, N. H. Downs' Elixir: "Why, my mother gave it to me when I was a child, and I use it in my family; it always cures." It is always guaranteed to cure or money refunded.

Every mother should have Arnica & Oil Liniment always in the house in case of accident from burns, scalds or bruises.

Costiveness can be permanently cured by the use of Baxter's Mandrake Bitters.

SURPRISE TO ALL.

After using "Mother's Friend" two months I was so speedily and easily relieved that it was a surprise to those attending me. "Mother's Friend" undoubtedly lessens the pains, shortens the time and restores the mother speedily to health. Will recommend it to all expectant mothers and advise them to ... Mrs. J. A. You can never tell what a slight cold may lead to; it is best, therefore, to give yourself the benefit of the doubt, and cure it as soon as possible with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A day's delay, sometimes an hour's delay, may result in serious consequences.

Has tastes medicinally, in keeping with other luxuries. A remedy must be pleasantly acceptable in form, purely wholesome in composition, truly beneficial in effect and entirely free from every objectionable quality. Maria: Look a-here, Amos, just the same old story. Woman don't git their rights nowhere. Amos: What is it Maria? Maria: Why, here, in this here railroad wreck I see there wasn't nothin saved but the mail car.

DEPOSED THE QUEEN.

HAWAII'S GOVERNMENT IS OVERTHROWN.

Foreigners Are In Control—Commission to Request Annexation to the United States—Uncle Sam's Tars Landed—Liliuokalani Tries a Coup.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Mr. Mott Smith, the Hawaiian Minister, has received an official dispatch to the effect that the Hawaiian government has been overthrown and that commissioners from the new government are on their way to Washington from San Francisco to ask that Hawaii be annexed to the United States.

Mr. Smith is now at the State Department waiting to advise the Secretary of State of the matter.

The State and navy departments have been officially informed of the revolution.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—The Hawaiian steamer Claudine arrived at this port at 2 o'clock this morning with the news of a revolution at Honolulu. The revolutionists have succeeded in overthrowing the Government of Hawaii and the United States troops have been landed. A provisional government has been established, and a commission, headed by Mr. Thurston, came in on the Claudine, en route to Washington with a petition to the American Government to annex the Hawaiian islands to the United States.

About 5 o'clock p. m. the United States steamship Boston landed 300 men, fully armed. They marched to the office of the Consul General of the United States. The marines were sent to the American elegation, while the sailors marched out along Merchant Street with two Gatling guns and camped for a time rn private grounds. They staid there all night.

All day on Tuesday, the 18th, the community was in a state of expectancy, looking to the committee of public safety to do something to end the tension. The committee in the meantime was not idle, being incessantly occupied completing its organization and making the final arrangements necessary to the proclamaiion of the provisional government and its protection by an armed force. About 2:30 o'clock an attempt was made by three native policemen to arrest the progress of a wagon which was driven up North street by Mr. Brenner and Mr. Good. Those in charge of the wagon resisted the attempt of the officers to arrest its course. One of the officers making a notion to draw a revolver, Mr. Gould drew his own and fired, but did not inflict a dangerous wound.

PLAY A MEAN TRICK.

Missouri Legislators Attempt to Avoid Paying Respect to Blaine's Memory.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 30.—The House of Representatives held a session to-day despite the action taken yesterday in respect to the memory of Secretary Blaine. When the announcement of the death of Mr. Blaine was received in the house a resolution was adopted by a large majority that when the House adjourned it would be until Monday. Nearly one-half the members left for home on the early afternoon trains. The House remained in session until late in the afternoon, and at the close a motion to take a recess adjournment until to-day was adopted. The motion was contested, but Speaker Mabrey ruled that a recess could be taken from one calendar day to another. This morning it required the services of the Sergeant-at-Arms to secure a quorum. Representative Moore of Laclede County, raised the point that any business transacted would be irregular and illegal. The objection was overruled and an appeal taken amid considerable confusion. The Speaker was sustained. Moore characterized the "recess" trick as a contemptible scheme to evade paying respect to "distinguished dead." The whole performance of the House and Speaker Mabrey's ruling are roundly denounced.

WHOLESALE LARCENY.

Railroad Employes Unite in a Gigantic System of Robbery.

RATON, N. M., Jan. 30.—A wholesale system of robbery which has been carried on on the New Mexico division of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad for the past six months has been brought to light, and the implicated employes are being arrested. Engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen, and even agents, are being placed under arrest as fast as they can be found. For many months the company has been missing large quantities of silks, velvets, cigars, tobacco, clothing, underwear, and almost every class of the valuable merchandise, and the secret service department has been quietly at work accumulating evidence since the beginning, and has succeeded in securing evidence that will convict at least twenty-five or thirty employes in all branches of the train service. One engineer had his house carpeted with elegant velvet carpet and was living in style befitting a millionaire.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The House has adopted a resolution for the investigation of the whisky trust by the Judiciary Committee.

THE PANAMA SCANDAL.

French Senate Makes a Stern Order of Search.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—At a meeting of Senators belonging to the Democratic section of the left it was resolved to request M. Bourgeois, minister of justice, to cause a search to be made of the residences of M. Andrieux and M. Delahaye, with the view of finding the lists of persons compromised by the Panama scandal, concerning which M. Delahaye and M. Andrieux have spoken on several occasions but which they have failed to produce.

In his celebrated speech which started the Panama investigation by the Chamber of Deputies M. Delahaye said that no less than 3,000,000 francs were distributed among 150 members of Parliament, only a few of whom were Senators. Here deafening shouts of "The names!" were raised on all sides. The excitement and tumult were intense but M. Delahaye contented himself with declaring that the inquiry he demanded would divulge them.

When, after long waiting, M. Delahaye was able again to make his voice heard he said that this first distribution of money only increased the appetites of those who shared in it. The administrators of the Panama Canal Company were assailed by a veritable pack of political hounds and they had, so to say, no choice between pillaging the Company's title and succumbing. [Prolonged uproar and renewed shouts of "Names!"] A hundred thousand francs was required for one journal, 100,000 francs for another and 100,000 francs for election expenditures. That 300,000 francs was handed over by the Canal Company but he would not say who received it.

M. Delahaye repeated that he could not say to whom the 300,000 francs was given but he could say that sum was given by the Panama Canal Company. A minister who was now dead had received a check for 400,000 francs from the company. A journal not worth 20 francs was bought for 200,000 francs. On account of the influence attached to it a political personage thought it wise to bribe a great foreign journal with 500,000 francs and the money was paid by the canal company. Continued shouts for "names" only made M. Delahaye repeat that the inquiry he demanded would divulge them, but he could tell the house that the great foreign journal in question was prudent enough not to sign its name at the back of the check. It was one of that journal's messengers who signed the check but he (M. Delahaye) knew the name both of the journal and its messenger.

The Committee of the Chamber charged to report on the bill for the lottery loan was composed of five members in favor of the measure and five against it; the eleventh member had no opinion, but he went to the Panama Company and offered to vote in favor of the bill for the consideration of 500,000 francs. The company at first refused, but at the last moment paid the money. After the refusal that he first met with this venal deputy formed a syndicate for a fall in Panama shares because he intended to procure the rejection of the measure, and when he received the money and changed his tactics, by which the bill was adopted, he forgot to inform his associate in the syndicate for the fall. That gentleman was completely ruined by the sudden rise which took place in the Panama shares.

In spite of repeated demands by the chamber M. Delahaye refused to give names. He persisted in the same attitude before the commission of inquiry, and it is now proposed to obtain by search of his residence if possible, any list that he may have.

Chicago Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—The wheat market was badly demoralized this morning. The crowd caught the selling spirit, and from the opening at 77¾c, 1¾c under last night, it was a nervous sale all the way down to 76½c—a break of 2c from the close yesterday. After 11 o'clock the May price eased to 77½c, but again rallied to 77¾c, holding about 1c under last night. Outside influences were little heeded. Late in the session the advance in wheat and flour at Paris amounting to 1 to 5c received some attention. Half an hour before the close May wheat got up to 78c; the best figure of the day. Before the close there was an effort on the part of the holders to unload and the price broke to 77¼c at the close or 1¾c under last night. July closed with May at 77¼c.

May pork touched $20 before 1 o'clock to-day. Pork sold $19.75, off to $19.40 early, with only a moderate rally to $19 55 before midday. May lard sold at $11.60 and off to $11.47½. May ribs $10.32½, off to $10.17½. About an hour before the close, the screws were put on again. The shorts were quickly forced to cover. Those who knew most about the hog crop and packing operations were the most confident buyers. May pork advanced straight to $20, lard to $11 65 and ribs to $10 35. Closing quotations were:

A GOLDEN WEDDING.

Another venerable couple, who have long been residents here in Tecumseh, have celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. Hon. and Mrs. Gideon D. Perry, at their pleasant home in this village, on Thursday last, received a limited number of their relatives and friends to commemorate that auspicious event. Only members of the family and a few very intimate friends were invited and about forty guests responded by their presence. All the children were there to greet their parents, except Mrs. Chas. G. Norris of Boston. Four children and nine grandchildren helped to make up the merry company and the following guests from abroad honored the occasion by their presence: Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Dickey and three children of Marshall; Mr. and Mrs Thos. O. Perry, Mrs. F. D. Baldwin and Miss Juanita Baldwin, of Chicago. Two guests were there who might be called guests of honor—Mrs. Edwin Cook of Franklin and Hannibal Osborne of this village were witnesses of the marriage in 1843 and were also present at the anniversary reunion last week. The festivities lasted from 12 o'clock m. until four o'clock p. m. The guests were summoned at noon. A sumptuous dinner was served shortly after their arrival and the remainder of the afternoon was passed in social converse, recounting the events of "ye olden time," and recalling family reminiscences. A brief historical sketch was read by Dr. Perry himself, followed by a few remarks and prayer by Rev. J. P. Varner. Before their departure a flash light photograph was taken of the company, which will make a beautiful souvenir of the occasion.

The couple who have thus happily passed the half-century milestone of married life were married in Ovid, Seneca county, N. Y., Jan. 26, 1843, by Rev. Elijah Hibbard, of Geneva. They came to Franklin in October of the same year, purchased a farm and began the work of making a home. By industry and economy they accumulated a good property and reared a family of children to whom they gave the advantages of a thorough education. In November, 1880, they sold the old homestead farm and moved to this village, which has since been their home. During his early manhood Dr. Perry was a prominent citizen of this County. He served in the lower House in the sessions of 1857-58 and was a member of the State Senate in 1859. Mrs. Perry, whose maiden name was Margaret Osborne, is a sister of William H. Osborne, of this village. Their domestic life has been a very happy one during the fifty years now gone, and all their friends sincerely pray that they may live to see many more returns of their wedding day before Providence shall summon them to their final home.

GLEANINGS AND GOSSIP.

Culled, Clipped and Condensed from our County Contemporaries.

The Blissfield steam mill will be repaired and a new boiler put in.

The Clinton woolen mills have purchased a new set of cards and set them up.

The Adrian street cars are not run on Sunday and the people are growling about it.

The primary department of the Adrian schools has been closed on account of the measles.

Twenty-five new locomotives will be built for the Lake Shore road, twenty for freight service and five for passenger.

The report of the secretary of the Patrons of Industry shows that there are 50 county lodges, 500 subordinate lodges and 10,000 members in the State.

There will be no insurance paid on the mill that was blown up at Blissfield; so it was decided by the adjusters yesterday. The firm hardly expected it and are not disappointed by the decision.

Last week Elmer Ellis delivered his crop of wheat at the elevator at Rea. He drew eleven loads which contained 1290 bushels—an average of nearly 120 bushels to the load.—Dundee Reporter.

Adrian now has a person so much opposed to the closing of the world's fair on Sunday that he gives, and uses his entire time in handing out tracts and arguing for the big show to be open seven days in the week.

The Cumberland River at Nashville, Tenn., is frozen over and people cross on the ice. This has not occurred before in twenty years and only happened twice in forty years. The weather reached ten degrees below zero at one time there in the present month.

It's lively around Devil's Lake now. Toledo and Cincinnati parties are after the crystal ice, the citizens of the locality are catching lots of fish, farmers are rushing in saw-logs, and Hope Welch is making ready to turn over the post office to some staunch Democrat.

One of our merchants, who in a few years past has done a volume of business amounting to $100,000, says that during that time he has lost because of bad accounts a little less than half of one per cent. Which speaks well for his customers—or his ability to collect. —Morenci Observer.

Geo. W. Ayers is in receipt of a cluster of peach blossoms from Theo. Faxon, who is spending the winter at Silver Springs Park, Fla. A letter accompanying them says the weather is so mild that he finds it very agreeable to do his reading sitting on the porch.—Evening Telegram.

The Adrian Times has a grievance that is a grievance. Right over the editorial sanctum a dancing school is located, and across the hall an amateur minstrel troupe is practicing. Editor Larwill says he wants "to get a boiler shop located in the building just to jolly things along."

Contracts already made, or under way, for 1893, call for not less than 1,000 miles of Page fence, and with the usual increase over estimated needs would give 1,500 miles to provide for in seven States. This leaves some of the best territory to be worked direct from the factory, as well as that large part of the Union in which only a small beginning has been made.

Justice Westerman's court room was filled with residents from Riga, this morning to see the prisoners who are charged with going through their hen coops. Levi Manly and Earl Mallett, of Toledo, are the victims captured and when arraigned they waived examination and were bound over to the February term of court for trial. It is estimated that over $2,000 worth of poultry has been stolen from the farmers of Riga and Blissfield during the past four years, and that these prisoners are only a small portion of the gang that has grown fat off stolen fowls gathered in that neighborhood.—Evening Telegram.

The heavy judgment against the Lake Shore was not the only thing Art Retan got from his suit. He received an offer of marriage from a maiden at Zanesville, Ohio, but being a benedict already he could not very well accept the offer, without imparting a deep blot to the family escutcheon. So he wrote to the young lady stating the situation candidly, and recommending as a substitute the young dentist, Dr. J. Q. Welch, and enclosing a picture of Mike Moriarty as a likeness of the doctor. This in brief explains how the modest and retiring dent holds a friendly communication from a fair Zanesville maiden in which she frankly expresses her willingness to unite her destiny with Joe's in a life-long alliance. She ventures the opinion that his business is a paying one, although rather trying on the nerves. With pride she refers to her skill in domestic duties, but adds that she never worked in anyone's kitchen. She writes a description of herself and circumstances, giving as a reason for failing to send her picture that she is out of work and cannot stand the expense. Joe has not answered yet, feeling that the matrimonially inclined young lady could at least have scraped up a picture that would represent her as accurately as Mike Moriarty's phiz did him.

To Sheep Raisers.

The following Circular from Stacy, Bement, Donaldson & Sedgwick, of East Buffalo, N. Y., will be of interest to many sheep raisers in this vicinity and we give it entire for their benefit.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

We, the undersigned, who are large purchasers of Canada and Western Lambs, would respectfully submit the following suggestions, which adhered to, will be of mutual benefit to all concerned. The parties to whom we sell dressed lambs have gradually become averse to buck lambs, and now take a decided stand against them, and want all ewes and wethers. They will not handle buck lambs, unless we make a concession in the price of two cents per pound, dressed weight. This difficulty can be overcome if all persons raising lambs for market will castrate their buck lambs. We would suggest that all farmers castrate their buck lambs next year, and hereby give notice that we shall make a difference of from seventy-five cents to one dollar per head in price between buck lambs, and ewe and wether lambs, same age and quality, as buck lambs have to be sold in our market for two cents per pound, dressed weight, lower than ewe and wether lambs, same quality. Mr. E. D. Walker who was for two years superintendent of schools in Dexter and who will complete his University course next June, has been offered and has accepted the position of instructor in Civics and Political Economy in the Decatur, Ill., high school. Mr. Walker must leave shortly for his new position but will take his degree with his class just the same.—Ann Arbor Register.

The physicians report more serious illness in the community than has been experienced for many months. The warm, damp weather with its lack of ozone which we have enjoyed along back is undoubtedly the cause.

Mrs. N. M. Sutton has returned from Mt. Clemens, where she has been for some time attending her daughter, Mrs. Wilson, while the latter was receiving treatment there for rheumatism. Mrs. Wilson is reported much improved.

The thief entered the window in front and went through the entire outfit, but only secured some blank tickets which will be of no use, and the poor fellow will still have to walk the ties. Lewis K. Davis, of Clinton, was the first treasurer to settle with Treasurer Wiggins. He has made a clean sweep, collecting every cent of the tax of that township. Mr. Davis states that he has collected every cent of the Farmer's Mutual Fire Insurance assessments. This is something unheard of in this county.

Last Friday morning about 3 o'clock, the Lake Shore depot was discovered to be in flames. As it was impossible to check the fire, and no danger was likely to result to other buildings, little fighting was done and the building was soon burned completely down. Ticket agent Satterthwaite is comfortably fixed in the company's freight office until a new structure shall be erected. The old depot was a land mark in that locality, and though of somewhat antiquated architecture, had well served its purpose to the public for nearly forty years. The fire undoubtedly started from the stove or connections in the pipes.

T. F. N. Bowen lost a four years old colt last Friday in a very singular manner. It attempted to leap the barn yard fence and alighted on top of a post which punctured a hole in its stomach causing almost instant death.

Wait for the opening. Fine goods will be a specialty with this new concern.

Kent & Forrester's Standard Dramatic Co., gave a three nights engagement at the opera house this week. The company presented Enoch Arden, May Blossom and Lynwood with much skill and pleasing effects in song, dance, etc. However, the troupe were obliged to play to many of those emotionless, stoic old chairs, whom no occasion has been known to move save the antics of the dancers at May and Yule tide. The troupe deserved better houses.

The called meeting of Macon Grange for Saturday the 28th, was well attended and officers for the year installed. There will be another called meeting, on Saturday, Feb. 4th, at 7 o'clock p. m. the object being for practice in ritualistic work. There will also be an exemplification of the secret or unwritten work of the Order, given by our delegate to the State Grange. Programme will be given next week.

One of the new industries which promises to revolutionize a considerable portion of the American continent is the making of beet-root sugar. Few persons have any conception of what is meant by this class of beet cultivation. In the Cosmopolitan for February beet sugar is for the first time in magazine literature thoroughly illustrated. Every step in its cultivation, the seed, the plant, the planting, the cultivation, the harvesting and the machinery for manufacture are given direct from instantaneous photographs. It ought to be widely read by those interested in agriculture in every part of the country.

The serious illness of Mrs. P. S. McKinnon terminated fatally on Sunday last. All that medical aid and loving hands and hearts could do to avert the inevitable was done. It was a very sad death and the afflicted husband has the sympathy of all in this, the greatest bereavement of his life. The funeral services were held at the family residence yesterday afternoon, and notwithstanding the fearful snow storm that was raging at the time a large gathering of friends assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed. Beautiful flowers covered the casket, the choir sang two selections and Rev. W. H. Babbitt spoke comforting words to the mourners. The remains were then conveyed to the cemetery and consigned to the tomb.

Mr. Leland T. Powers talked to a fine audience last Saturday evening and he deserved the generous attention and applause which he received. Verily he is a whole show himself. When he came to town, the heavy tragedian, the leading lady and all the high and low comedians had also arrived. A grand array of characters is in the short slight gentleman with dark hair and white hands. He comes and goes upon the stage like a magician, now vanished and now here. He does not have to fret over advance agents nor is he troubled by professional jealousies in his company. Truly, Mr. Powers is a remarkable and unique example of the absorptive powers of one man in histrionics. He is a wonder and surprise. Yes! Mr. Powers is a real, genuine artist—the originator of a type of entertainment all his own, and he can give David Garrick so well that to see an ordinary theatre company attempt the same is to be present at a slaughter of a happy memory.

Fred Shepherd started Monday for Schoolcraft. It is supposed by his friends that he will come back some time a wiser and a better man; in short, a Benedict.

Prof. Sam'l Dickey, Chairman of the National Prohibition Committee, will lecture at Sutton's opera house Friday evening, Feb. 17th. A free lecture Come and hear him.

A New State Bank.

The project of a State Bank at Tecumseh, which has been in the air for some time, has materialized and the result will be the best banking institution Tecumseh has ever had. Learning that Mr. Lucius Lilley had a finger in the pie we took occasion to interview him on the subject and learned these facts, which can be relied upon as correct. Since Mr. Bidwell's death Mr. Lilley has had the subject under advisement and finally concluded to reorganize the bank under our State statutes. It will thus become a corporation and the death of a member will not necessitate a settlement of its affairs and a change in the business, as a private partnership would. Mr. Lilley has been an officer of the old firm and occupied the same room in Union Block 38 years. Though regarded by his neighbors as a young man, yet he begins to feel that age is creeping upon him, and he has a laudable ambition that the bank, with which he has so long been identified, shall be placed on a permanent basis. The present members of Lilley, Bidwell & Co. all retain their holdings and Albert L. Brewer takes a large slice of stock in the new enterprise. Additional members and more capital can be taken in at any future time, if desired. The name of the new bank will be "The Lilley State Bank." Lucius Lilley will be President, A. L. Brewer, Vice President, and L. P. Tribou, Cashier. The acquisition of Mr. Brewer, with his business experience and ample capital, is an excellent move and we look forward to see this reorganized institution continue its career as one of the strongest and safest financial houses in Southern Michigan. The new bank will begin business in the near future, as soon as the necessary books and office stationery can be prepared. Here's wishing the new enterprise abundant success.

Blaine's House at Washington.

The old Seward Mansion at Washington Blaine's Home.

The convention came together on Wednesday, June 14, 1876. On the second day the platform was adopted and the nominating speeches made. Col. Robert G. Ingersoll presented the name of Mr. Blaine and gave to him the title of Plumed Knight, which clung to him thereafter. Col. Ingersoll said: "Like an armed warrior, like a plumed knight, James G. Blaine marched down the halls of the American Congress and threw his shining lances full and fair against the brazen forehead of every defamer of his country and maligner of its honor."

When Gov. Hayes was nominated on the seventh ballot the friends and supporters of Mr. Blaine accepted their defeat with good grace.

Mr. Blaine entered the next convention, held at Chicago, June 2, 1880, with almost exactly the same number of supporters that had striven for him in the preceding contest. The fact is remarkable, and most remarkable to those who are best acquainted with the actual working of politics in this country. Four years had been offered his opponents to make combinations against him, four years had been allowed his friends to forget him.

Mr. Blaine was solicited at the gathering of each convention to lend his powers the strength of his presence. It is a move in which other candidates have found no impropriety, and would in Mr. Blaine's case, would have had no personal influence. But he steadily refused, and in the three contests in which his name was used, aloof from the strife he bore himself with singular modesty, calmness and dignity.

On June 3d the convention reassembled, George F. Hoar, of Massachusetts, being chosen chairman. Gen. Garfield, as every one remembers, received the appointment to the chairmanship on Rules, and on the following day reported the code which guided the convention. Little business of interest was transacted on Friday and Saturday. At the night session, Saturday, the nominations were made. When Maine was called James P. Jay, chairman of the Michigan delegation, responded, making a speech for Mr. Blaine.

The wearisome balloting that followed is familiar to every reader, and it will be recalled that Mr. Blaine's friends stood steadfastly by their leader until the 35th ballot was reached, when they went over to Gen. Garfield, effecting his nomination on the 36th ballot.

Those who were engaged in the effort to nominate General Grant were scarcely more faithful. On the first ballot it will be remembered that Mr. Blaine was the choice of the 284 delegates and from this his support did not appreciably fall until the 19th ballot, when the number was 279. His vote fell only once as low as 270; until the last two ballots, with this exception, it was not less than 275.

The dogged perseverance which characterized the third term men and forbade them to assist in the nomination of another candidate, however hopeless the fortunes of their own, was not emulated by those who through 34 ballots cast their votes steadily for Mr. Blaine. When it became evident that the man of their choice could not become the nominee of the convention a spirit of moderation prevailed, and the vote of the Blaine delegation was cast almost entire for General Garfield. But for this act Garfield could not have been nominated. If it was a surrender, it was the kind of surrender, which carries with it something of the lustre of victory.

His Nomination and Defeat in 1884.

The story of the convention of 1884, which nominated Mr. Blaine on the first ballot is fresh in all minds. The nominating speech of Judge West of Ohio was one of the most forceful ever delivered in presenting the name of any man to a convention.

Mr. Blaine arrived in Augusta from Washington on Tuesday of the week of the nomination, and spent the stormy days of the convention quietly in his library, at work upon the second volume of "Twenty Years in Congress." His bearing during this time was not less modest and uneager than on the occasion of the two former conventions.

As the bulletins were handed him he sat upon his lawn in the midst of his family and read them in the methodical manner usual with him. When the news of the nomination was received he maintained the same composure.

In speaking of the result, he said that he felt all the more gratified, because it was an honor that had come to him unsolicited.

SECRETARY OF STATE.

Mr. Blaine's Short Season of Service in the Cabinet of President Garfield.

General Garfield's selection of Mr. Blaine for the first position in his Cabinet was not the outcome of his efforts in his cause during the campaign. It was made in recognition of his fitness for the post, and as a compliment to a trusted friend.

Mr. Blaine's season of service in his new office began with the inauguration of the President, March 5, 1881, and was completed when on December 19th of the same year he resigned the portfolio of state. In this time it was impossible to accomplish anything of importance, but the chief of his large-minded plans was near fruition when he relinquished his place in the Cabinet. Scarcely four months passed before the President was shot down. During the three months that followed Mr. Blaine was in constant attendance upon his bedside, and when he died the short time during which he continued in office was of little value in carrying out his designs—the friendly aid and countenance of him under whom they had been conceived being lacking.

When Congress met after President Garfield's death it rose about for a fit man to deliver a eulogy of Gen. Garfield, and its choice naturally fell to Mr. Blaine. It has been called one of the noblest performances of his life, and certainly he never spoke to so lofty and inspiring a theme.

"TWENTY YEARS IN CONGRESS."

A Volume on Which Mr. Blaine Spent Considerable Time.

When Mr. Blaine laid down the portfolio of Secretary of State, some curiosity was felt as to what he would do. For over twenty-three years he had been in public life, and it was thought for a time at least vacancy and idleness must overtake him. But Mr. Blaine welcomed this period of leisure as an opportunity for carrying out a plan long cherished in a mild way. Continuing to live in Washington, he began at once the composition of a work which he has called "Twenty Years in Congress." He devoted himself assiduously to writing, and was able after little more than two years' labor, to present to the public a thick volume as an earnest of his intention.

HIS TOUR ABROAD

And His Return to Enter the Cabinet of President Harrison.

From 1884 to '88, during the time of President Cleveland's administration, Mr. Blaine devoted himself entirely to his family. He spent a year in an extended tour abroad, not returning to America until after the nomination of Mr. Harrison.

When Mr. Blaine returned to Washington in the fall of 1888, buoyant in mind after declining the use of his name as the candidate for President and ready to assume the premiership of the Cabinet of President Harrison, he had a happy family about him. The shadow upon his domestic felicity was the domestic trouble of his youngest son, who, since the days he wore knickerbockers and kilts was a source of much care and anxiety. Mr. Blaine took up the work of the State Department where he had laid it down in answer to the bullet of Guiteau, and mapped out a policy that was intended to make the Administration a conspicuous success. His achievements in that direction need no mention here, being too fresh in the minds of all.

A Chain of Sorrows.

In the brief period of less than four years that he was President Harrison's Secretary of State troubles came to him and whitened his head and enfeebled his frame. In that brief interval his eldest son, the pride of his heart, and his eldest daughter had died; his youngest son, whom he had perhaps spoiled by overindulgence, had dragged his name through the divorce court and public prints. Then, more crushing than all, the sudden death of his second son, the one of whom the father was very proud. In the opinion of Mr. Blaine's physicians no man, even with the frame of a giant and the will of a Napoleon, could resist disease while living in the shadow of such a chain of sorrows as this, and the efforts of the men of science were constantly handicapped by the hand of Providence.

HIS HABITS.

A High Pressure Worker and an Irregular Eater.

A gentleman who was intimately acquainted with Mr. Blaine said that in his opinion Mr. Blaine broke himself down by intemperate work and irregular habits of eating. Mr. Blaine was a high pressure worker. Whenever he became deeply interested in a subject Mr. Blaine's ardent nature led him to work beyond his strength. He would shut himself up in his room, would not allow himself to be disturbed and would not eat, sleep or rest until he had finished his task. He seemed to have adopted the motto which the great electrician Edison, who works in much the same way, gave to a youth, "Don't look at the clock."

Mr. Blaine was not ordinarily a large eater, but he was very irregular in his eating. Apparently he had no marked fondness for any kind of food. He did not care for fancy dishes and when traveling seldom consulted the menu but told the waiter to bring him a good meal. He liked plain old-fashioned cooking. Whenever he did taste anything which greatly pleased him it was hard to get him to quit, and he would continue to eat despite his watchful wife's admonitions. In former years he was fond of horse back-riding and took considerable exercise, but of late he showed much disinclination to bodily exertion.

During the winter before his illness he gave many small dinners and was a frequent diner-out.

During the summer he lived on his porch at Bar Harbor a great deal of the time and seemed to enjoy immensely having his grandchildren about him to talk with.

Mr. Blaine was very fond of Bar Harbor and occasionally when in a reminiscent mood would tell his visitor of the time when he might have bought the whole island for $500.

HIS WEALTH.

Valuable Real Estate, Coal Lands and Other Paying Enterprises.

Mr. Blaine died a rich man, even as wealth is reckoned in these days. He was worth close on to a million of dollars, if not more than that amount. It is probable that if some of his speculative investments could be sold out under advantageous circumstances that his wealth would include him in any list of millionaires. His holdings of coal lands are large and with the development of the country must greatly increase in value if kept intact for several years.

Mr. Blaine by reason of his wide popularity was associated with a number of men of wealth in various enterprises and his sagacity and business foresight kept him from wasting much money on brilliant but illusionary speculative projects. He was interested with Secretary Elkins years ago in a silver mine, out of which he made considerable money.

At the time of his death he owned real estate in the City of Washington which would probably sell under the hammer for more than a quarter of a million of dollars.

Mr. Blaine brought his Dupont Circle property, now almost in the heart of the fashionable Northwest when Stewart Castle, which is across the way, was thought to be out in the suburbs. The grounds and the house cost him approximated $85,000. Two or three years ago he sold a number of the lots in the rear of his house for $75,000. The house and the remaing ground is valued at $150,000. The house on Lafayette Square he at first rented for three years with an option of purchasing for $65,000. He took advantage of the option and bought the property after six months' residence. He also owned some valuable ground on P street, and a considerable area of ground of a less well-established but increasing value on what is known as Meridian Hill. This property is just beyond the old city limits and overlooks the town.

His holdings of West Virginia and

MRS. JAMES G. BLAINE, JR.
(Marie Nevins)

Pennsylvania coal lands are considerable.

Mr. Blaine was one of the directors in the West Virginia Central Railroad Company, in which ex-Senator Davis, Secretary Elkins, ex-Secretary Bayard and others are interested. This road owns coal and timber lands which Mr. Blaine bought years ago very cheaply and which have become valuable through the railroad connections. His wealth includes bank stocks, but the approximate value cannot be stated.

JAMES GILLESPIE BLAINE

SKETCH OF HIS INTERESTING CAREER.

A Great Life Ended.

His Birth, Education, Editorial Work and Political Course. His Houses, Wealth and Personal Traits.

James Gillespie Blaine was born January 31, 1830, at the village of West Brownsville, Pennsylvania. He was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Lyons Blaine.

His ancestors had dwelt for years in the fertile region where he was born; they were among the hardy band of pioneers who settled the rich valley of the Cumberland, and their name and history are part of the local tradition of Western Pennsylvania. The family has honorable memories of the Revolution, for Colonel Ephraim Blaine, the grandfather of the subject of this sketch, was one of its heroes. He was an officer of the Pennsylvania line, and during the last four years of the war was Commissary-General of the Northern Department.

JAMES G. BLAINE

Ephraim Blaine, the father of James G. Blaine came into Pennsylvania about 1818, having the largest landed possessions of any man of his age in Western Pennsylvania, owning an estate which, had it been properly preserved, would have amounted to-day to many millions.

His Birthplace.

James G. Blaine was born in a plain but ample dwelling, on the single street of West Brownsville, not far from the scene of the campaign which ended in Braddock's defeat by the Indians. In Brownsville proper the visitor is still shown the residence of his grandfather, Colonel Blaine, a wooden building to which a brick addition has been made in later years. The mother of General Sherman's wife happens to have been born at a little distance from Colonel Blaine's home. On the hills above West Brownsville the curious inquirer may also see the house in which Ephraim Blaine and Miss Gillespie were married, and, finally, the half-dozen houses which quarrel for precedence as the birthplace of this sketch's subject. Mr. Blaine has himself disposed of this interesting contest by fixing upon a certain dwelling among these as the scene of his earliest recollections. The building is of wood, two stories in height, and removed, in accordance with the inscrutable Pennsylvania custom, as little as possible from the road.

Ephraim Blaine was careful to give all his children an excellent education, and when James had completed at home his early studies in the elementary principles, he was sent to the home of a relative at Lancaster, Ohio. This relative was Thomas Ewing, then Secretary of the Treasury. James Blaine was eleven when he went to Lancaster, and he began at once to prepare himself for college, studying with his cousin, Thomas Ewing, junior, now General Thomas Ewing, and once a member of Congress. The boys studied under especially advantageous conditions, for their tutor was William Lyons, brother of Lord Lyons, and uncle of the then British Minister at Washington. He seems to have been an early type of the visiting Englishman, and a highly fortunate type for these young students, for after two years of instruction from him, James Blaine, at the early age of thirteen, entered Washington College.

His Marriage.

A few months after graduation in October," says Mr. Blaine, in a letter already presented to the reader, "I went to Kentucky." That is a simple record, and conveys no intimation of the causes which impelled the step; and it does not become his biographer to be more wise. He sought his fortune in what was then known as the West; and the journey, though a briefer one in miles than that to the region now known under that name, may very well have occupied as much time, for he went by boat. His fortune was not found at the Western Military Institute, a school for boys established at Blue Lick Springs, Kentucky. But as a professor he won the general liking which had fallen naturally to him as a student, and was rather uncommonly successful, it would seem, in a calling which could not have been congenial.

It was at Blue Lick Springs that he met the admirable woman who became his wife. Miss Harriet Stanwood, a native of Maine, had been sent to be educated at a seminary for young ladies at

MRS. J. G. BLAINE.

Millersburg, Kentucky. This school was presided over by the wife of the principal of the Western Military Institute, and was twenty miles from Blue Lick Springs. No account remains of the wooing, but in little more than a year after his arrival in Kentucky he married Miss Stanwood, and soon afterward returned with her to Pennsylvania, where he for a time studied law. Though prepared, he did not present himself for admission to the bar, but the grounding in legal principles then gained was of essential service in all his later work. He was perhaps in need of some more immediately remunerative occupation than the study of the law, for in 1854, being then the father of a boy of two, he answered the advertisement of Mr. William Chapin, Principal of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, for a teacher. This excellent home and school for the blind still stands at the corner of Twentieth and Race streets in Philadelphia, and Mr. Chapin is still its admirable principal.

He Becomes an Editor.

He left this institution in 1854 to take editorial charge of a newspaper in Maine.

In his work here it is evident that Mr. Blaine was successful, but his wife was anxious that their home should be made in her native State, and, guided perhaps by his own ambition for a larger field as well as by a spirit of complaisance to his wife's wishes, he resigned his position in the school and removed to Augusta, where his home has since been. He found himself, perhaps, without certain of the theories of life and affairs which prevail in Maine, but he either readily assimilated them or found that his own sound and honest theories sufficed; for, from the editorial chair of the Kennebec Journal, purchased with Joseph Baker, a prominent lawyer of that place, he presently exercised an important influence in his adopted State. The Journal was a weekly and an organ of the Whig party, and under Mr. Blaine's management did vigorous service for that expiring cause. In 1857, just after the first convention of the Republican party, he disposed of his interest in the Journal and assumed editorial charge of Portland, (Me.) Advertiser.

Almost from the day of his assuming editorial charge of the Kennebec Journal, at the early age of twenty-three, Mr. Blaine sprang into a position of great influence in the politics and policy of Maine. At twenty-five he was a leading power in the councils of the Republican party, so recognized by Fessenden, Hamlin and the two Morrills, and others then and still prominent in the State. Before he was twenty-nine he was chosen chairman of the Executive Committee of the Republican organization in Maine — a position he has held ever since, and from which he has practically shaped and directed every political campaign in the State, always leading his party to brilliant victory."

In 1860 he was elected to Congress.

An attempt to pursue his course step by step during the long term of his service in Congress would be wearisome. He spoke upon every important measure, and briefly discussed many petty laws about which none but sedulous readers of the Congressional Record will ever be perfectly informed.

Mr. Blaine had served six years in Congress, and was still a young man, having only reached the age of thirty-nine, when he was chosen Speaker of the House by a highly complimentary vote, the ballot standing 57 for Mr. Michael C. Kerr, of Indiana, and 135 for Mr. Blaine.

Nothing that could be said of his public career would meet with readier assent from both his enemies and his friends than the statement that he was one of the best equipped men for the position who have occupied the Speaker's chair. This, in the long space during which he presided over the deliberations of the House, was not denied on any hand, and even his Democratic opponents yielded their admiration to his discharge of the difficult duties of presiding officer. His least reasonable detractors have always admitted his eminent fitness for the post, and a writer in a newspaper, professedly opposed to Mr. Blaine, speaking after the nomination, says of his bearing as Speaker: "His quickness, his thorough knowledge of parliamentary law and of the rules, his firmness, clear voice, and impressive manner, his ready comprehension of subjects and situations, and his dash and brilliancy have been widely recognized, and really made him a great presiding officer."

Lot M. Morrill, for many years Senator from Maine, resigned in June, 1876, to accept the portfolio of the Treasury, and the Governor of Maine immediately appointed Mr. Blaine to fill the unexpired term.

HIS PERSONAL TRAITS.

Imbued With Sympathetic Intuition and Personal Magnetism.

Few public men have ever occupied the place that James G. Blaine has for many years filled in the hearts of the American people. Henry Clay is most often compared to him and there are many strong points of resemblance. Clay and Blaine both possessed in a marked degree those qualities of attraction, of sympathetic intuition which are now fittingly described as personal magnetism. It is said that Mr. Blaine rarely forgot a face, or the name that belonged to it. He had the faculty of making those with whom he came in contact believe that he took the strongest and most direct personal interest in them. It was said of him that he could decline a request for a favor in such a way as to make a friend by an act which would have made an enemy for most men. His conversational powers were necessarily, from what has been said, of a high order. His fund of information, while not as thorough or as accurate as he no doubt would have liked, owing to his lack of early advantages, was most extensive and there were few subjects on which he could not converse entertainingly. As a man of business, he was remarkably successful and his judgment respecting investments was almost infallible. This capacity in this direction gave great weight to many of his ideas and suggestions respecting the commercial policy of the country.

Mr. Blaine's position was unique. By his friends and admirers he was esteemed a man of stern integrity, a statesman of far-seeing, prophetic vision, an orator of matchless eloquence, a leader without fear and without reproach. His enemies, and he had many, both political and personal, called him crafty, unscrupulous and corrupt in money matters, a scheming politician with no elements of greatness, an orator who dealt in words and phrases only, a leader who was for himself first and always. It is probable that he was by no means without faults and certain that he had many qualities of greatness; in other words that the truth lies somewhere between the lavish encomiums of his friends and the bitter characterization of his enemies. One who knew him well said in 1884:

"Mr. Blaine with those who know him is the most popular of men. The charm of his manner is beyond expression, and nobody comes within the circle of his presence who is not overcome with his fascinations. With his great brilliancy he has that exquisite show of deference to his companions, a sort of appeal to them to verify or deny his words, that is very taking. He is also a very good listener, and he has an agreeable way of speaking one's name and placing his hand on one's knee that is an agreeable salve to one's vanity. There is no acting in the heartiness of his manner. He is an impulsive man, with a very warm heart, kindly instincts, and a generous nature."

MRS. WALTER DAMROSCH.
(Margaret Blaine)

BEFORE THE CONVENTIONS.

How His Friends Clung to Him With Characteristic Tenacity.

The sturdy friends who three times urged Mr. Blaine's nomination were among the most zealous and persistent that sustained any public man in the history of American politics; twice repulsed, they clung to their candidate with remarkable tenacity.

On June 12, 1876, just before the meeting of the first convention at which his name was proposed, Mr. Blaine experienced a sunstroke in Washington which caused alarm at Cincinnati, and, indeed, for a time seemed a serious matter.

At Cincinnati the reports of his condition were greatly exaggerated. It was telegraphed that he had been stricken with apoplexy, and the statement stirred such of the delegates in his interest as had arrived in the city with many fears. The PHYSICIANS PUZZLED.

Many persons are unable to sleep on their left side. The cause has long been a puzzle to physicians. He has examined and kept on record thousands of cases. His New Heart Cure, a wonderful remedy, sold at Baker & Hall's. Thousands testify to its value as a cure for Heart Diseases. Mrs. Chas. Benoy, Loveland, Colo., says its effects on her were marvelous. Elegant Book on heart disease free.

The Dread Disease, Small-Pox, has Made Its Appearance in the State and May Become Epidemic.—F. & A. M. Grand Lodge Convocation.

Grand Lodge F. & A. M.

The 49th annual convocation of the Grand lodge of Michigan, F. & A. M., was held in Saginaw with over 600 delegates present. Grand Master W. P. Innis, of Grand Rapids, presided. The address of the grand master shows that during the year dispensations were granted to five new lodges, and the charter of one lodge was revoked. Twelve new Masonic halls were dedicated and the corner stones of seven new public buildings laid. The Masonic Home at Grand Rapids was warmly commended and the Grand Lodge advised to take some action for its support. The grand secretary's report shows the total membership is 34,241, with three lodges to hear from, the gain during the year being 1,143. There are 367 chartered lodges in the state with seven working under dispensations.

The following officers of the Grand Masonic lodge were elected for the ensuing year: Grand master, George E. Dowling, Montague; deputy grand master, William H. Phillips, Menominee; grand senior warden, Edward L. Bowring, Grand Rapids; junior grand warden, John J. Carton, Flint; treasurer, H. Shaw Noble, Monroe; secretary, J. S. Conover, Coldwater; grand lecturer, Arthur M. Clark, Lexington; grand chaplain, Rev. George J. McCandless, Mt. Pleasant; grand senior deacon, L. G. Winsor, Reed City; grand junior deacon, James Bradley, Port Huron; grand marshal, J. H. Chase, Lansing; grand tyler, Alex. McGregor, Detroit.

Small-Pox in Michigan.

Michigan and several other states may suffer a small-pox epidemic because of the lax regulations of the New York quarantine. Secretary Baker, of the state board of health has been notified of seven cases and one death from the dread disease in Washtenaw county, near Ann Arbor. The victims are all in the family of Henry Schneider. They contracted the disease from immigrants by the name of Jacer, who arrived in New York Nov. 23 on the infected steamer Saale. They had certificates from the New York officials, which were presented at Ann Arbor about three days later. Several members of the Jacer family have since broken out with varioloid, and from them the Schneiders contracted what is known as confluent small-pox. Two more of the cases in that family may prove fatal.

It has been learned that the New York authorities paid no attention to any passengers except those who were actually sick, and, as a result, contagion has been spread far and wide. In ... have just been reported which can be attributed to the same source.

Conely, of Detroit, constituting the last state military board, met at the capitol at Lansing and turned the business over to their successors, Inspector-General Haynes, of Port Huron, and Colonels W. S. Green, of Detroit, and Fred S. Norcross, of Menominee. The new board organized by electing Col. Green, president and Col. Norcross, treasurer. Inspector-General Haynes is secretary ex-officio. The new board transacted a large amount of routine business before adjourning.

Diphtheria's Awful Ravages.

A sad case of diphtheria's ravages came to light at Saginaw when Officer Halsey called at a house which had been placarded on account of the illness of a little girl with the disease. He found that the husband and father, Robert Armstrong, had been suddenly taken down with the disease and died, the girl was no better and the mother was just about to be taken down with the disease. The dead man was at once removed to an undertaker's rooms and the mother and child taken to a hospital.

Tried to Blow up the Bank.

L. C. Hoagland, cashier of the new Exchange bank at Britton, found a dangerous bomb at the front door of the building. It consisted of a piece of gas pipe about six inches long, with the ends filled with wax. Upon examination the contents proved to be nitroglycerine. The fuse and cap were arranged and had been lighted, but went out. No reason can be assigned for the attempted destruction of the bank.

UNCLES SAM'S MONEY.

Statement of the Estimated Receipts and Expenditures for the Next Two Years.

Chairman Springer, of the ways and means committee, has received from Secretary Foster, of the treasury department, a statement showing the condition of the treasury and the estimated condition at the end of the present and at the end of the next fiscal year. The statement shows that during the first six months of the present fiscal year the receipts from all sources were $231,419,215, and the expenditures $230,570,006, leaving an excess of revenues over ordinary expenditures of $3,848,209. The cash in the treasury, including gold reserve, July 1, 1892, was $132,143,426, and on Dec. 31, 1892, $129,092,588. The total estimated revenues for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, are $466,671,350, and the total estimated expenditures $434,671,350, leaving an estimated surplus of receipts over expenditures for the current fiscal year of exactly $32,000,000. The estimated cash balance available June 30, 1893, is placed at $120,992,377, which includes $100,000,000 for the gold reserve fund.

For the next fiscal year ending June 30, 1984, the secretary estimates that the revenues from all sources will amount to $490,121,365, and the estimated expenditures at $457,261,335, or an estimated surplus of $32,860,030. To this the secretary adds the $20,992,377 cash balance above the gold reserve estimated to be available June 30, 1893, making an estimated available balance on June 30, 1894, of $53,852,407, from which must be deducted $5,000,000 for redemption of past due bonds, fractional currency and national bank notes, and $1,000,000 for probable payments on mail subsidy contracts, leaving the balance $48,872,407.

A Royal German Wedding.

The marriage of Princess Margaret, of Prussia, youngest sister of Emperor William, and Prince Frederick, of Hesse, was consummated, at Berlin. All the royal families related to the contracting couple were represented and the affair was as magnificent as anything that has lately been seen in the gorgeous court circles of the younger and later Europe.

The bride wore a gown of white silk and crepe du chene, ornamented with sprays of white daisies and caught at the waist with a gold girdle. Her only jewelry was a diamond necklace. Empress Augusta Victoria wore drap d' argent embroidered with gold. The Empress Frederick's gown was of gray damask with a velvet train.

Court Chaplain Dryander awaited the bridal party at the alter in a bower of palms and chrysanthemums. As the couple exchanged rings the artillery in the Lust Garten fired 36 salvos. The ceremony was followed by the wedding banquet, after which came the fackeltanz.

Grossman took the sentence coolly never moving a muscle of his face. The case will be appealed at the April term of the supreme court.

The remainder of the cases will come up in the February term at Alpena.

DEPOSED THE QUEEN.

HAWAII'S GOVERNMENT OVERTHROWN WITHOUT FORCE.

The Dissatisfied People want to be Taken in by Uncle Sam—A Provisional Government Now in Control of the Islands—Four War Ships off for Honolulu.

The steamer Claudine from the Sandwich Islands brought news of a complete overthrown of the Hawaiian government. The story of the trouble is as follow:

On January 15 Queen Lilluokalani attempted to place in force a new constitution depriving foreigners the right of franchise and dismissing the house of nobles for the purpose of appointing a new house. The foreign element resisted this action by hastily forming a committee of public safety and condemning the action of the queen. This committee of safety consisting of 13 prominent citizens immediately issued a proclamation setting forth that the queen had defeated the popular opinion by antagonizing the cabinet which had been approved by a large majority of the legislature; that she had appointed a cabinet subservient to her own will; that her recent action has shown a determination to abridge popular rights and extend the royal prerogatives; that the dissatisfied people had formed at least five conspiracies for uprisings against the unjust ruler within five years; that the credit of the government had been impaired and that final ruin was sure to follow the increasing overstrained condition of things; that the action of the committee was with the firm belief that it was for the best personal, political and property interests of the citizens.

The committee then issued a manifesto abrogating the Hawaiian monarchial system of government and declaring a "provisional government for the control and management of public affairs and the protection of public peace is hereby established, to exist until terms of union with the United States of America have been negotiated and agreed upon."

The provisional government was fully organized as soon as possible and the queen, seeing her troops and followers rapidly joining the volunteers called for by the new government, decided to abdicate and then retired to her private home, leaving the provisional government in full control.

The representatives of the foreign powers were notified of the change in affairs and all recognized the new regime with the exception of Great Britain. Martial law was declared.

The commissioners who were sent to arrange a treaty with the United States claim that there is nothing to prevent the annexation of the islands by the United States, but this is a matter for serious discussion as it is doubtful if England would agree to such action. Nevertheless preparations were at once made by the navy department for gathering of a fleet in Hawaiian waters. Dispatches from San Francisco say that the U. S. flagship Mohican was at once ordered from the Mare island navy yards and cleared for Honolulu. The Ranger and the Adams also followed and the new coast defense vessel Monterey is being hastily put in complete order for a trip to the same place. The Boston is already at Honolulu.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.—Thirtieth day—The anti-option bill was again discussed and laid over. The credentials of Senators Cockrell, of Missouri, and Davis, of Minnesota, re-elected, were received and filed. Executive session. Adjourned. HOUSE.—There was a very pretty tangle over the national quarantine bill. After being considered in committee of the whole a substitute was reported for the original Senate bill and was passed. This necessitates the measure being again considered in the upper house. The sundry civil appropriation bill was discussed in committee of the whole but not disposed of.

SENATE.—Thirty-first day—Only routine business and the acceptance of credentials from several re-elected members. A communication was received from Chief Justice Fuller, of the supreme court announcing the death of Associate-Justice Lamar and the Senate adjourned as a mark of respect. HOUSE.—No business. Adjourned as an evidence of respect to the memory of Justice Lamar.

SENATE.—Thirty-second day—Routine matters occupied the larger portion of the day. A bill, for the admission of Utah as a state, was presented. An amendment to the naval appropriation bill was presented and referred. It authorizes the construction of one battleship, two armored coast defense vessels, ten gunboats and eight first-class torpedo boats at a total cost of $4,200,000. Executive session. Adjourned. HOUSE.—Filibustering against the bankruptcy bill wasted the entire day's session.

SENATE.—Thirty-third day—A day of hot talk and sarcasm. Senators Mills and Hiscock riddled the anti-option bill and Senator Vest vented his spleen upon "pseudo philanthropists" who petitioned Congress to establish a commission upon the alcoholic liquor traffic, which Mr. Vest termed "crank legislation." Two joint resolutions were agreed to—the first to authorize the secretary of war to loan ensigns, flags, etc. (except battle flags) for decorating the World's Fair buildings—the second appointing a committee on arrangements for the inauguration of the President-elect March 4. The bill for the establishment and enforcement of rules and regulations for the navigation of canals was passed. HOUSE.—The sundry civils bill was considered and fair progress made. The Dockery resolution was reported from the committee on rules and referred to the committee on appropriations to be incorporated in one of the appropriation bills. The resolution provides for a commission of three Senators and five Representatives of the 53d Congress to inqure to the status of laws establishing executive departments and bureaus in Washington. The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was reported and placed on the calendar. Adjourned.

SENATE.—Thirty-fourth day—The death of Hon. James G. Blaine was announced by Senator Hale, who paid a glowing tribune to him, and the Senate immediately adjourned out of respect to his memory. HOUSE.—The chaplain in his opening prayer spoke with great feeling of the death of Mr. Blaine. Mr. Milliken, of Maine, and Mr. Holman, of Indiana, paid tribute to the great man who had passed away and the House is a mark of respect adjourned.

An Entire Family Frozen to Death.

The bodies of John Michaels, wife and three children were discovered frozen to death in a hovel in Putnam county, W. Va. A fourth child, an infant, was heavily wrapped and was found to be alive. The family has a queer history. Michaels and his wife, who are said to be simple minded, have led a sort of gypsy life for years, wandering about through West Virginia in the summer seasons and going south in advance of the snows in winter. It is supposed that they failed to get away in time this year, and the severe cold, so prolonged, caught them without preparations to withstand it.

OBITUARY.

Sarah Ann Hoagland was born in Ovid, Seneca county, N. Y., July 2, 1832, and was translated to the land of the glorified Friday, Feb. 3, 1893, about 5 o'clock.

In 1834 she came with her parents, two brothers and two sisters to Michigan, where she has since lived. October 21st, 1863, she was united in marriage to Lester Osgood, who still lives to feel the loss of a devoted companion and helpmeet. To them were born two daughters, Mary and Jennie, who are spared to help and comfort their father. They have lost a companion and counsellor. She showed great wisdom in her advice and counsel, for she depended not on her own wisdom but upon Him who hath said, "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him," and with faith in God and his promises she drew upon God for wisdom to aid her in the training of her family and the direction of her home life.

Sister Osgood was converted when only about seven years of age and was received into the M. E. Church on probation, but on the day she was to have been received into full membership, owing to the example of those who were older than herself, she failed to join, and thus for years she went without uniting with the church. On attending a camp-meeting held at Belleville, with Bro. Anderson, she was reclaimed and united with the church. Since then she has been a consistent Christian.

About one year ago she was led to see that a higher Christian experience was for her to enjoy, and thus she set about seeking the blessing of entire sanctification, into which experience she entered some time last July, and which she fully enjoyed up to the time of her death. During all her long and severe sufferings she bore all with a sweet Christian resignation and never murmured, but waited until her Master saw fit to call her into her reward, where the sick are free from suffering and the weary are at rest. In all her suffering she was sustained by the promise, "My grace is sufficient for thee," and thus she passed out of this life leaning upon the arm of her beloved Lord, proving the word of the psalmist true, that even in the valley of the shadow of death He would not leave her. So another life has gone, but she has left behind the sweet influence of a devoted companion, a kind and loving mother, and a true Christian, and such an influence can never die.

Is she dead? Oh, no!
The Saint can never die.
She passed beyond the portals of the tomb
To reign with God on high.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank the friends who were so kind to us during the long sickness we have had in our home, for the love and sympathy shown us in our affliction, in the loss of our loved companion and mother.

The severe and lingering illness of Mrs. Sarah Ann Hoagland Osgood, wife of Lester Osgood, terminated fatally at 5:50 p. m. Friday, Feb. 3rd. Her age was 60 years, 7 months and 1 day. The funeral services were held in the M. E. Church at Ridgeway Monday at 11 a. m. A continuous rain did not prevent a large concourse of people from attending, to show their esteem for the dead and their sympathy for the bereaved family. Rev. Yager assisted by Rev. Gulick and the Ridgeway choir, rendered consoling service, and the remains were entombed in Ridgeway cemetery.

The "Grab-bag" social, that was to be has been nipped in the bud by the pastor taking exceptions to it in a public lecture at the close of Sunday service, bitterly denouncing it as a lottery, and that those having it in charge are liable under the law. The great wonder is that somebody had not discovered it before—grab-bag socials are as old as the hills—or that he did not mention it a week sooner, when it was first published. The editor of the HERALD, by hitching last week's announcement onto Lake Ridge Laconics, not only "put his foot in it" but necessitated this article. Altogether it has created as much of a breeze as the Ridgeway ditch tax—or Britton bank explosion.

MACON MUSIC.

Mrs. Kriedler, of Clinton, was a guest at Rebecca Thomas' Saturday.

Ed McKinney and wife, of Tecumseh, visited at Wm. Pratt's Sunday.

Geo. Snyder was called to Leslie by telegram last week, the illness of his niece, Mrs. Pickett, being the cause.

This winter is conceded by all to be a model one for this locality, but the weather, it would seem, has occasioned much fatal sickness.

The social under contemplation at Macon Grange hall last Friday evening, for the benefit of the Reformed Church of South Macon, has been indefinitely deferred.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our most sincere thanks to those who so kindly assisted us in our latest and very sad bereavement in the loss of our dear father, and also to the choir for their beautiful selections.

MRS. EUGENE BURDETTE,
DAISY E. BURGESS.

One by one earth's ties are broken,
As we see our love decay;
And the hopes so fondly cherished
Brighten but to pass away.

One by one our hopes grow brighter
As we near the shining shore;
For we know, across the river,
Wait the loved ones gone before.

Another surprise party at Mr. Allshouse's last Wednesday night. With music and dancing and games the large company spent the time merrily and enjoyed to the full the excellent sleighing and pleasant moonlight evening.

While looking over some old papers recently, a resident of this place came upon a relic of war times, in the shape of a package of U. S. Internal Revenue stamps of the first issue. Having, as the executor of an estate, to sell a lot of property at public sale, these stamps were provided to place upon the notes taken at the sale, as the laws at that time required.

One of last year's students, Dana G. Chandler, of Ottawa Lake, accompanied by his wife, spent Friday night as the guest of Supt. and Mrs. Hill.

Owing to quarterly meeting at Raisin Center Feb. 4th, school adjourned last week on Friday. The meeting was attended by quite a large number from the Seminary, including Supt. Hill, the entire faculty and a large number of students.

The extraordinary size of the class in orthœpy necessitated a division and two classes, both larger than the classes in astronomy and physical geography which they replace, now occupy Prof. White's attention the second and third afternoon hours.

A large proportion of the students last week took advantage of the opportunity offered and attended the revival meetings conducted at the Friends' Church by Revs. Stratton and Mott. It has been decided to continue the meetings another week.

HOLLOWAY HASH.

L. B. Spencer, of Grand Rapids, was in town the first of the week.

Will Binns is the father of a bright little boy now. Will is so large now that it is almost impossible to reach around him.

Will Begel and Guernsey Kelley took a trip last week to Butler, in quest of a job on the railroad. When their finances were exhausted they returned.

Alvah Parker has made his fortune (?) in Holloway and retired from business. Maurice Nay and W. E. Parkhurst will open the store, formerly occupied by Parker, as a jewelry shop, news room and restaurant.

A large movement in Holloway during the past week, just to make a change in business all around: Will Wilson has vacated the Green farm and gone to Morenci; Mrs. Nay has left the rooms over the store and rented the Green farm for a year. J. M. Green has gone out on the road for a creamery firm in Wisconsin. He has sold the store property to a man in Adrian and we understand that last Saturday he was negotiating with parties to sell his gravel bed on the Ridge.

The ladies of Holloway, anticipating a movement to organize an L. O. T. M. in this town, got up a very neat entertainment which was presented last Thursday night and repeated to a full house Saturday evening. They talk of presenting it in the surrounding towns, assisted by the "White Caps." Beware, if they come your way, and attend, for if you don't you will miss the half of your life, for these White Caps are dangerous when you get them roiled!

BRITTON BUDGET.

HAIGHT & CALKINS.

The Y. P. S. C. E. will give a Valentine social Tuesday evening, Feb. 14th, at the home of Geo. Smith. They promise a treat which will be fully enjoyed by those who attend. The proceeds will be expended toward the purchase of an organ for the society. Single tickets 15c. or 25c. per couple.

The following are the names of the pupils in Dist. No. 6, who have not been absent or tardy during the month beginning Jan. 9, and ending Feb. 3, 1893: Clarence and Leon Boyd, Willie, Vernie and Shirley Pilbeam, Elliot and Earl Williams. Those who have not been absent during the month are: Nellie and Willie Pocklington, Claude Kniffen and Jennie Roberts. Delia S. Wood, teacher.

Owing to the fearful storm that prevailed last Friday evening the attendance to greet Jedediah was rather slim. A good audience, however, was present on Saturday evening and they were finely entertained. A better play has never been put on the boards in Britton. It will be repeated next Saturday night to give all a chance to hear it, and we hope our citizens will give the boys a rousing house and thus enable them to make something out of the entertainment.

A short time ago John Britton invited the members of Adrian Commandery to pay him a social visit. They gladly accepted the offer and last Monday eve. was the time fixed upon to partake of his hospitality. About forty members went out on the Wabash road at early evening and several members from Tecumseh went. The crowd was invited to G. A. R. hall, where two or three hours were passed in social enjoyment, after which refreshments were served at Mr. Britton's residence, to which all did ample justice. Early in the evening a beautiful leather covered armchair was presented to the host in behalf of the Commandery. W. F. King made the presentation in a few happy remarks. Mr. Britton found himself in a pretty tight place, for it was wholly a surprise to him, but he responded in a few feeling words and acquitted himself bravely. It was an evening long to be remembered by those lucky ones who participated.

TECUMSEH, MICH., FEB. 9, 1893.

The Democratic State Convention has been called to meet in Detroit on Tuesday, Feb. 28th.

Editor Dana of the New York Sun favors the closing of the World's Fair on Sunday. Well, what next?

The bill for the election of U. S. Senators by popular vote has passed the House and now goes to the Senate for action. Whether it will pass that body is very doubtful.

The legislature has repealed the Miner electoral law, and Gov. Rich has signed the bill. The Democrats could not ask a better issue for the next campaign.

Julia Ward Howe's daughter is lecturing upon astronomy. She goes farther afield for a theme than the average woman, whose range of ideas is bounded by a cookery book and a fashion magazine.

Georgia and other Southern States, according to the Atlanta Constitution, are troubled with roads which are "a disgrace to civilization." O, yes, the new South and the old North have a good deal in common.

If both House and Senate do not get a rush on, it will be almost impossible to prevent an extra session, by reason of the failure of Appropriation bills. Only two of these bills have passed [illegible] and Senate, and but two weeks of the session remains.

Party lines were wiped out in the vote on the anti-option bill in the Senate. The 43 votes in favor of the bill were cast by 2 Populists, 11 Democrats and 1 of 30 Republicans; while the opposition, which mustered 29 votes, was made up of 9 Republicans and 20 Democrats.

John G. Carlisle is no longer a Senator, having resigned his seat last Saturday. A great career is opening before him as Cleveland's financial secretary, and if his health be spared for four years he will make a great name for himself before the close of Glover's second term.

The Brooklyn Eagle says: "President Harrison has made an admirable appointment to the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Lamar. In ability and character Judge Howell E. Jackson measures up fully to the high standard consistently maintained in judicial appointments under the present administration.

The Arena for February comes in filled to the brim with good reading matter. It is the one monthly magazine in this country that has the courage to stand up against the rule of plutocracy and give the people the logical facts concerning the other side of the question. Every reformer ought to read the Arena.

Uncle Sam to Miss Canada and Miss Hawaii: "Please be patient, ladies: I think I have room to accommodate you both. But, really, I shall have to take a little time to make proper arrangements for your reception. This annexation business is getting slightly embarrassing, but I'll bring it through all right if you don't hurry me too fast."—Battle Creek Journal.

Senators Stockbridge and McMillan called on President Harrison last week and presented the name of Hon. Thomas J. O'Brien, of Grand Rapids, for circuit judge to succeed Hon. Howell E. Jackson, named as successor of the late L. Q. C. Lamar, as justice of the supreme court. Mr. O'Brien's candidacy is supported by the Republican members of the Michigan delegation.

Mr. Swineford, of Marquette, who was Governor of Alaska under the last Democratic National Administration, is to be recommended for reappointment. His support comes from business men and other prominent people in Alaska. Mr. Swineford was long the editor and publisher of an annual report on the output of the mines of Northern Michigan, and is a man of much energy.

Photographer: Now, madam, a pleasant expression, please. Son-in-law (in the background): Whew! I must not miss that.

The St. Paul Globe says: "There are no flies on the saloon-keepers of Chicago. They are falling into line with the pious cranks in the effort to have the Columbian Exposition kept closed Sundays. A thousand or two of them have signed petitions to the President and Congress asking that it be kept closed on the Lord's Day. What a bonanza Sundays would be for the saloon-keepers with the great show closed.

A last attempt is being made to get the Democrats in Congress to support the bill for the repeal of the Sherman silver law, which is to come up in the House Thursday and Friday of this week. Friends of Mr. Cleveland say that he has made up his mind to call an immediate extra session of Congress if this bill is not passed by this Congress, and that to make sure of the extra session passing it he will make no appointments to office until it does. There is now a possibility that the bill may get through the House, but there it will have to stop.

Should a Senator vote according to his own belief in what is right and proper, or according to instructions of the legislature of his State? When the final vote on the anti-option bill was taken in the Senate a number of Senators voted contrary to resolutions which had been adopted by their State legislatures. Some made explanations, among them Vest, of Missouri, who said that notwithstanding such instruction to vote for the bill he took pleasure in voting against it, even if his constituents regarded such action as sufficient reason for retiring him to private life.

President Harrison is deserving of unqualified praise in the appointment of Judge Howell E. Jackson to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Bench occasioned by the death of Justice Lamar. Judge Jackson is a Southern Democrat, but he is eminently qualified for the place, and his selection is an act of justice to the South and of non-partisanship, that reflects the highest credit upon President Harrison. In fact the President has always shown a fair disposition and excellent judgment in his judicial appointments. With a single exception, the men whom he has elevated to the Federal Bench have adorned the stations they were called upon to fill. And Judge Jackson's appointment is one of the best he has made.

We invite attention to an article in [illegible] N. Y. Sun [illegible] which is a very significant statement, coming from such a source. The Sun [illegible] favors a high tariff, protection [illegible] and although it does not relinquish its personal views on that question it maintains that the Democracy is pledged to a free trade tariff, that is a tariff for revenue only, and this pledge to the people should be faithfully carried out. In this emergency party courage is party expediency. There should be no faltering, no apologizing, no milk-and-water, soothing-syrup policy. The McKinley law should be wiped out at the earliest opportunity and a tariff enacted in its stead, framed for revenue purposes only, with every vestige of protection eliminated. Honesty and good politics both demand this course.

President-elect Cleveland is an annexationist. He not only favors the annexation of Hawaii, the commissioners of which are now in Washington asking that their country be taken under the protection of the United States, but he also favors the annexation of Canada, and from what Hon. Don M. Dickinson, who is in his confidence, said to members of Congress last week, he expects to see Canada annexed during his administration. Mr. Dickinson intimated that he had positive and authoritative information which led him to expect that in the near future Canada would take similar steps to those now being taken by Hawaii. It is known here that the present administration has quietly encouraged the annexation sentiment in Canada whenever it has had an opportunity to do so, and that many prominent Canadians who have been here at different times have taken away unofficial assurance that whenever Canada applied for admission her application would be favorably received.

The Grand Rapids Herald thus speaks its mind: "In the grand distribution of federal plunder Mr. Cleveland and his distributing committee will be wise to remember that the Hon. Allen B. Morse led a forlorn hope in this State to certain defeat, to give strength and character to the Democrat electoral ticket. He was honored in the democrat convention at Chicago as worthy to make the national race with Grover himself. He is the most trusted and best beloved Democrat jurist and stateman in the party of Michigan. To fail to recognize his sterling democracy in the noon tide of Democrat glory is to purposely obscure one of the most conscientious and popular Democrats in this State. Judge Morse has all the qualifications necessary for any position in the Cleveland administration. If Michigan is to be favored by the bestowal of official plums the first man to be considered is the one-armed and single-minded democrat who set at naught his high judicial office to obey the call of his party to lead in a hopeless cause. For commissioner of pensions, Mr. President, Allen B. Morse is the man.

No Evasion! No False Pretences!

We notice in various quarters the indications, more or less distinct, of a disposition among certain schools of Democrats to emasculate and nullify the Chicago platform of 1892 respecting the tariff.

That platform is a model of clear, decided, unequivocal statement. It expresses most plainly and forcibly the intellectual ground on which the advocates of the free trade doctrine must rest their case. "We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party," says the platform, "that the Federal Government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties, except for the purpose of revenue only." This is the doctrine proclaimed by the party and established by the voting of November, when Mr. Cleveland and the new Democratic Congress were elected by large and unexpected majorities; and it is a doctrine from which there should now be no retreat and no variation.

Yet in some spheres of political activity, high and low, we see the signs of a purpose to vary and depart from this advanced doctrine; and we make haste to say that any such course on the part of the Democratic party, or of its chosen representatives, will not only be unworthy of them and insulting to the people who have given them these great majorities, but will certainly be productive of political disaster, if not of party overthow. We say this all the more earnestly because the doctrine in question is not ours, and has never been the doctrine of those Democratic statesmen, such as Andrew Jackson, Thomas Jefferson, and Samuel J. Randall, to whom we have been accustomed to look for instruction in regard to the principles of public policy. In the recent election all our appeals for support to the Democratic cause grew out of considerations having no relation to the tariff; but when the people in a national election approve a party platform by such vast majorities, we are bound to maintain that they mean the whole of it and not any specific section only. It is true, the subject which seemed of the vital moment, the controversy respecting the Force bill, was then disposed of forever; but we maintain also that the question of the tariff, second in importance only to the Force bill, was also voted upon with equal intelligence and with a purpose no less determined.

There must, then, be no evasion and no false pretences respecting the tariff on the part of those who are charged with the duty of carring out the wishes of the Democracy, and realizing the measures on which the people have pronounced. That duty is to remove from the statute book and from the administration of the Government every measure, every trace, every root and fibre of the protectionist policy. It must be dealt with just as any old thing should be dealt with, which the people have condemned as contrary to the Constitution. It must be extirpated. It must be made a matter of history only. The protectionist system must be extinguished, and the free trade system must be established in its place.—N. Y. Sun.

Mr. Blaine's Personal "Magnetism."

"That Mr. Blaine, in spite of his shortcomings, attracted the attention and [illegible] in so remarkable a degree was in greatest part owing to his extraordinary power of personal fascination. No public man in the United States, to-day, united in himself so many of those elements of popularity which will not only 'make friends' among the politicians and charm the multitude, but also win the good-will, and occasionally mitigate, if not disarm, the criticism of men of thought and principle. A naturally vivacious and versatile mind, well stored with that kind of information which makes conversation interesting and attractive; a ready, brilliant wit, and the capacity of enjoying the wit of others; a manner of cheery, jovial, apparently confidential good-fellowship, making every one coming in contact with him feel himself the object of special interest; genuine, sympathetic good-nature, rather inclined gratefully to remember a friendly act than to resent and punish an unfriendly one; an uncommonly retentive memory for names and faces; a quick perception of the movements of popular opinion, and a ready inclination to yield to them; an eloquence neither remarkably argumentative nor elevated, but endowed with a peculiar dash, giving the impression of courageous frankness—all these qualities contributed to that 'magnetism' with which Mr. Blaine attracted and held a large following of personal admirers by no means confined to his own political party. It may be said that if he was not in the true sense a leader on the field of opinion, he was a leader on the field of sentiment. His followers and friends sincerely believed that if he were put in the proper place of power he would certainly do something brilliant that would redound greatly to the advantage of the people and to the glory of the American name, although nobody seemed to have a definite and clear conception of what that brilliant achievement would be. No doubt he was himself inspired by the ambition of making this republic the ruling power on the whole American continent and one of the most influential powers in the world, no matter what might become of our safe and time-honored traditions of foreign policy.—Harper's Weekly.

Phillips Brooks and the Modern Pulpit.

The life of Phillips Brooks proves that if the pulpit has declined, the trouble is with the pulpit and not with the times. It is a great mistake to suppose that the opportunity of the preacher has passed or is rapidly passing. What is passed is the notion that a sermon, as such, is a channel of grace, that an illogical harangue is not an illogical harangue when delivered from the pulpit, that a man whom his college-mates know to be of no more than average ability becomes suddenly endowed with supernatural wisdom and authority upon entering the ministry. All that is dead and gone. But what has not gone, what will never go as long as human nature remains what it is, is the willingness of men to hear gladly the preacher who can put an ideal interpretation upon their lives and quicken all their nobler aspirations and strengthen them in all their worthier resolves. For such a preacher the time is always ripe, and for lack of him too many churches are in the condition of the one where Carlyle went to hear Sterling preach,—where, he said, it would be possible to let off a musket in any direction without hurting an auditor. Phillips Brooks has no better lesson to teach the ministry of to-day—and he was emphatically a preacher's preacher—than the lesson that the surest way to re-establish the pulpit is to make it tolerant, unaffected, progressive, and, above all, transparently honest.—New York Evening Post.

Moreton Farm.

Moreton farm consists of 250 acres of fine land in Monroe county, N. Y., a few miles from Rochester.

The late Mr. Joseph Harris commenced to raise seeds and thoroughbred stock on this farm more than 30 years ago. The seed business has greatly increased; so much so that a postoffice is now located on the farm.

The Joseph Harris Company not only raise choice strains of garden and field seeds, but they have one of the finest flocks of Cotswold sheep in the country. They also have a herd of fine Essex pigs, and have latterly raised large numbers of Pekin ducks. We are just in receipt of Harris' Rural Annual for 1893. Besides a catalogue of seeds, plants, fertilizers, etc. it contains much information in regard to farming and gardening, which would be of value to many of our readers.

If you will drop a postal card to Joseph Harris Co., Moreton Farm, Monroe Co., N. Y., and mention the HERALD, they will be glad to send you a copy of the Annual.

No flowery rhetoric can tell the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla as well as the cures accomplished by this excellent medicine.

The Parvenu: Are you fond of belles-letters? The Chump: Belle Letters? Don't know. Never met her.

The Plain Truth

Is good enough for Hood's Sarsaparilla, there is no need of embellishment or sensationalism. Simply what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit. If you have never realized its benefits a bottle will convince you it is a good medicine.

The highest praise has been won by Hood's Pills for their easy, yet efficient action. Sold by all druggists. Price 25 cents.

Very Much Surprised.

With pure, vigorous blood coursing through the veins and animating every fibre of the body, cold weather is not only endurable but pleasant and agreeable. No other blood medicine is so certain in its results as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. What it does for others it will do for you.

Few people realize that the nervous system has more to do with health of the body than has stomach, liver and all the organs of the body which are so much doctored. They forget that the nerves reach and control all parts of the body. Hence many cases are misunderstood and wrongly treated. Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer is a nerve remedy of recent discovery by an eminent specialist, which acts directly and correctly on the nervous system to cure any nerve disorder. Is backed with an offer of $500 for an incurable case. $1.00 bottles or trial samples free at Jno Orr's.

Deaf for a Year

Caused by

Catarrh in the Head

Catarrh is a CONSTITUTIONAL disease, and requires a CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY like Hood's Sarsaparilla to cure it. Read:

"Three years ago, as a result of catarrh, I entirely lost my hearing and was deaf for more than a year. I tried various things to cure it, and had several physicians attempt it, but no improvement was apparent. I could distinguish no sound. I was intending putting myself under the care of a specialist when some one suggested that possibly Hood's Sarsaparilla would do me some good. I began taking it without the expectation of any lasting help. To my surprise and great joy I found when I had taken three bottles that my hearing was returning. I kept on till I had taken three more. It is now over a year and I can hear perfectly well. I am troubled but very little with the catarrh. I consider this a remarkable case, and cordially recommend

SINGLE TAX DEPARTMENT

An Outright Single Tax Town.

Hyattsville, Md., claims the honor of being the first place in the United States to adopt the single tax as far as respects local taxation. It has no license tax, last January it abolished the personal property tax, and on Thursday last the town board of commissioners passed a resolution exempting improvements from taxation and laying the sole burden of taxation on the value of land.

Hyattsville is a pretty little town of a thousand inhabitants just outside the boundary line of the District of Columbia. It is practically a suburb of Washington, many of its inhabitants daily doing their business in the capitol, and is on what is known as the "Metropolitan Branch" of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. It has neither the very rich nor the very poor among its inhabitants, the great part being in moderate circumstances, and three in five of its families owning the homes they occupy.

Jackson H. Ralston, whose name has appeared many times in The Standard, and who is a prominent member of the Washington bar, has long been a resident at Hyattsville; and has also for a number of years been a thorough single taxer, and his great object has been to make Hyattsville the first municipality in the United States to adopt the single tax. It often happens that there is more politics in a small town than in a considerable city, and this was the case with Hyattsville. At the outset Mr. Ralston found himself not only alone in his idea respecting the question of taxation, but regarded with suspicion whenever he ventured to raise the subject. But he nevertheless persisted, seizing every favorable opportunity to point a moral. He made no effort to get into a place of political prominence, however, but put forward others through whom he could work, and whenever he found it necessary to enter public discussion he always assumed the most careful and conservative of aspects. To those who knew, his hand might be seen in the local election, in the work of the local assessors, in the growth of the sentiment against a tax on personality, culminating in the repeal of that law, and finally in the passage through the legislature of an act empowering the town commissioners "with a political view for the goverment and benefit of the community to exempt improvements from taxation."

Having reached this point, Mr. Ralston concluded to go into open politics, and he stood for election as one of the five town commissioners, quietly making sure that at least two others should be nominated who shared his ideas on the taxation question. These two were George S. Britt and Charles H. Long. The ot. two candidates were Thos. H. Latimer and J. Andrew Aman. By this time Mr. Ralston had won for himself a reputation for marked ability and careful and conservative ways, and he and the other four nominees were elected without opposition.

At its first meeting the board of commissioners chose a president, and that official was Jackson Ralston. Soon afterward the inevitable taxation question came up and Ralston got a committee of two appointed to inquire and report, and on that committee had Mr. Britt and himself appointed. While this committee was at work by a truly remarkable coincidence the town treasurer. Wm. H. Richardson, who is chief of the board of assessors, began to talk pretty emphatically about the outrage of taxing improvements, the fruits of industry, and, placing only a light tax on land values, accruing from the growth of the community. By a similarly strange coincidence, first, Hon. Tom L. Johnston, member of congress, from Ohio, and afterward, Hon. John Dewitt Warner, member of congress, from New York, visited Mr. Ralston at Hyattsville, and met a number of the most important people of the town, and made addresses and answered questions on the taxation question. And a third strange coincidence occurred when Mr. Ralston sent through the mails a copy of the report of the Johnson District of Columbia tax assessment investigating committee to every voter in the town.

At length came the final act of the drama. Mr. Ralston wrote the report of the inquiring committee, he and Mr. Britt signed it, and on Thursday evening last, at the regular meeting of the board of commissioners, Mr. Britt presented it. The report is too long to give here in full, but some extracts will show its character. After a few lines to the effect that the inquiry had been made at the suggestion of many citizens of the town and with the view of possible action of the board, the report briefly reviews the progress of the town in matters of taxation.

When, in the 1886, we were granted a charter, by its terms our annual levy of not to exceed fifteen cents on the hundred dollars was required to be placed upon the personal property, land and improvements in the town as shown by the existing assessment roll for state and county purposes. Under this charter we levied taxes upon (in round numbers) $8,400 in personal property, $105,000 in land values, $101,000 in improvements. The inequality and injustice of this state and county assessment were so manifest that in 1890 the then board of commissioners secured the passage of an act by the legislature authorizing the town to make an annual assessment on the same subjects by three assessors, and to levy a similar tax upon the property remaining included therein after revision by the board. The first board elected after the passage of this act unanimously resolved to levy no taxes upon personal property, and this subject of levy, then estimated by the county at about $15,000 in value, was dropped. The following board (1891) passed a similar resolution by a like vote.

In January, 1892, the thon board prepared and submitted to the legislature (which enacted it) a bill dropping personal property from the list of the subjects of taxation, and providing that "the board of commissioners are hereby constituted a final board of appeal, equalization and control of said assessment, be empowered with a political view for the government and benefit of the community to such deductions or exceptions from and additions to, the assessment made by the assessors as they may deem just."

The report then continues:

The first question, therefore, is whether the board of commissioners has power to exempt improvements from taxation. This is answered by the language of the act giving them power to make "deduction or exceptions," "with a political view, for the government and benefit of the community."

Such language has repeatedly been construed by the court of appeals of Maryland as giving authority to the legislature "to make such discrimination and to exempt any species of property from taxation according to its views of public policy." Thus the legislature conferred on the common council of Baltimore to exempt manufacturers' plant from taxation, a power liberally and beneficially exercised by that body.

Our power in the matter being clear it becomes important to consider whether the exercise of the power would be beneficial to the town, and if exercised what the effect would be on the town revenues.

* * * * * * *

But our present system is grossly unjust in that levy taxation upon houses and spend the money so raised in keeping up and increasing land value. We take from those whose property is mostly in houses to spend for the benefit of those who are by contrast land-owners. Every cent we raise we spend in lighting, grading, graveling and otherwise improving streets, in preserving order, and in doing other things which benefit the land values of our town by adding to the town's attractiveness, whereas the only way a house can be rendered worth more than its cost of construction, is by some improvement made to the house itself. We are, under our present system, inflicting a moral wrong none the less serious by not being generally recognized.

Laying aside the question whether wrongdoing can ever bring about adequate compensatory advantages, let us consider the argument referred to.

From our local tax of fifteen cents on the hundred dollars there was payable last year to the town on a valuation for land and houses of $469,024, the sum of $903.58. This year the assessed value of land (exclusive of improvements) is fixed at $369,708. Levying upon this at the increased rate now allowed us of twenty-five cents per hundred dollars, our receipts would be $924.27. The treasurer informs us that our road tax rebate to be received from the county for the coming year will equal $325. The result of all this will be that after exemption of all improvements from taxation our receipts for the year will nevertheless exceed those of last year by $243. * * * Within a limited period the land values of Hyattsville have increased after paying all taxes levied upon them more than a quarter of a million. The increase was brought about by the growth of the community as a whole, and is a result of its collective industry. During the same period every house—the result of individual industry—has steadily deteriorated in value. Shall we levy taxation upon the thing of individual creation, which diminishes constantly in valuation, instead of taxing exclusively that which we have created as a community, and which now inures to the benefit of a few?

"Your committee seek no reputation as prophets, nor do they hazard any when they say that should Hyattsville be the first town in the union to abolish taxation on houses, as it was the first to abolish personal taxes, the result, from every material point of view, will as a matter of course be of the greatest possible advantage to it. We will also reap the reward of those who see a great truth and have the courage to follow it.

"We honestly recommend that the board deduct and except from taxation all the improvements embraced in the report of the assessors."

Considerable discussion followed the reading of the report, Mr. Latimer deprecating the ground taken by it. At length Mr. Long, the third "sound" commissioner, offered a resolution that the board "deduct and except" from the report of the assessors all assessments upon improvements, and levy a tax of 25 cents per $100 upon the remaining land values. On this Messrs. Ralston, Britt and Long voted in the affirmative, and Messrs. Latimer and Aman voted in the negative.

In this way, after four years' untiring work, Jackson Ralston accomplished his object of making his town of Hyattsville the first single tax municipality in the United States. In a little chat with him as to the results of the single tax, Mr. Ralston said to the writer:

"The removal of taxation from improvements in Hyattsville will probably bring about such an increased demand for land to build houses upon as will offset any tendency toward depreciation arising from the increased tax on land values. I, therefore, do not anticipate any special reduction in the price of land at the present time, as would probably be the case if the application of the single tax were general. The special advantage I look for is the impetus that will be given to building as the result of the obstacle to that industry."
—Henry George, Jr., in Standard.

Alien Land Ownership.

A great many newspapers are howling about alien land ownership. This is no greater a damage to the people than the ownership of large bodies of land by Americans. It makes no difference whether monopolizers of land are of home or foreign birth, the result is just the same; the producing people have to share the fruits of their toil with them without receiving anything of value in exchange. There is a great deal of buncombe in the cry against land ownership. It is the cry mostly of demagogues, who imagine a thing done by a foreigner is a great wrong, while the same thing performed by an American is a virtue.—Portland (Ore.) East Oregonian.

"If the grangers labored naturally, they would have discovered that the simplest way of doing a thing is the most fair and equal way, and they would have resolved that a single tax on land values, irrespective of improvements, was the very thing they were in search of and greatly in need of."—Portland Oregonian.

We would tax the land according to its value—that is, we would tax vacant land fully as much as the improved land adjacent, exempting all improvements (the products of labor) from taxation.—Chicago Free Trader.

Dr. Ellingwood, of the North Congregational church, meeting Mr. Anthony C. Raymond, a devoted Universalist, asked: "Mr. Raymond, did you ever see an angel with high-heeled shoes on his feet?" "Well, no," rejoined Mr. R., "I can't say that I ever did; but did you ever see one without them?"—Lewiston Journal.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin, and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years.

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should be perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

THE BIG WINDY CITY.

A Budget of News and Personal Gossip—Progress of the Exposition Buildings.

St. John's Place, Chicago, Ill.
February 4th, 1893.

DEAR SIR:—At present Chicago can be called the ice bound city, for everything out of doors is covered with ice. The side walks are almost limitless skating parks for the young people. Door steps are terraces of ice that compell many a haughty one to humble himself and crawl upstairs into his house on his hands and knees. The middle of the street is the only safe place to walk, and 'you are not safe there, for while you are mincing along gingerly to avoid falling some reckless driver is sure to run you down. Chicago drivers have a great disregard for the safety of pedestrians and care as little about running over them as they do about driving through a swarm of flies. This icy condition has lasted several days now and all kinds of business suffers thereby. The stores are not so filled with shoppers and the theatres are feeling the effect in smaller audiences than usual. But how the small boy does enjoy this season of frigidity. When you hear one person refering to another as having his skates on it is not necessary for you to infer that he has been fooling with a "jag." The lakes in all of the parks present animated scenes from early in the morning until 10 p. m., at which time all are driven off the ice by the park policemen.

In view of the coming Spring election politics begin to boom with the old time boominess. In a large number of bonnets the mayoralty bee is buzzing with great ferocity. Carter Harrison is working like a Trojan to get the nomination, while Washy Hessing, the friend of gambling, hopes to be able to carry all before him by his promises that gambling and kindred vices shall run with open doors during the next two years. That means that when your country cousins arrive in Chicago to visit the Fair you will be subjected to all of the wiles of the sharper and his associates, fleeced by the gamblers if you don't watch out, and, by the consent of Mayor Hessing, if he should be elected, which may God forbid.

This same Washington Hessing is a member of that class of citizens who, while claiming the rights and privileges of native born citizens, try to destroy our institutions. The German Lutherans have, in conjunction with the Roman Catholics, succeeded in destroying the compulsory school laws of Illinois, thereby having set back the march of progress incalculably. And Washington Hessing is one of the hardest workers in the attack on our school systems. There are a number of other moral possibilities, and it is to be hoped that the man will be elected to the office who will work for the interests of the city and his countrymen, instead of aiding foreign aggressors in their attempts to subvert our institutions.

There is no doubt that the city of Chicago is at present governed by as corrupt a body of men as ever ruled so important a municipality. The list of aldermen of this city contains more foreign than American names, and the O'Briens, and Gahans, and McSomethings are a shame to our civilization. Saloon keepers and dive proprietors have chairs in the city council chamber. The police force is ruled by these same infamous aldermen. Think of a city "father" holding a squad of police at bay while a tool of his pounds and kicks a drunken man into insensibility and out of all semblance of humanity, by the use of his authority as a city councilman. Such is alderman "Billy" O'Brien, a ruler of the city. Of course with such men at the head of affairs you cannot expect their tools to be of superior mould, and the police force of Chicago is built on the same lines, and morally rotten. A low down bogtrotter from foreign soil comes to the city in short order, having some prominent alderman for a friend, he is invested with a star and a club, and forthwith proceeds to show what he does not know of decency. If he clubs some unoffending citizen's face to jelly, or happens to kill him, he has the force in evading the law and securing the means to fight his just punishment. The police courts are presided over in a majority of cases by the most corrupt of the foreign element, and Justice is as far from being herself as you can imagine. The News has been running a series of cartoons on Chicago "justice shops" that hit the matter off in the most trenchant manner. It is about time that Americans protected themselves from the interference of foreign churches and rascals in our governmental affairs.

As the time draws near for the great show to open, our out of town friends begin to feel the need of some friend in the city who will make it easier for them to see the affair of a life time. It is wonderful how many friends we have that we knew nothing of before the present winter. If every one living in Chicago at present, who came from some country place, has had the same experience that I have, he will know what a satisfaction it is to feel that such a number of old acquaintances feel such an absorbing interest in his welfare. If I could accomodate all who have written me to let me know how they love me, I should be happy. But, to do so I would have to rent a building nearly as large as the Palmer house, and keep a large retinue of servants. Some come out frankly and tell me that they want to stay with me from two or three weeks to a month, while others hint at the pleasure they would certainly bring us for some indefinite period. To be sure I have the income of an Astor, but I am thinking of investing some of my surplus wealth in several more railroads, and also taking a large slice of stock in the new bank at Tecumseh, so will feel a little embarrassed during the first of the Fair. And then my little boy tells me that he will have to have a new pair of shoes before Spring, and I find that my panties begin to look shiney on the bottom of the chair. So I will not rent a hotel before August.

Now Scove, you know that we folks of small means, (dont try to remember the story above:) are compelled by stern necessity to occupy small quarters. It is sometimes amusing to think of the things we have to resort to in order to take care of an unexpected influx of visitors. In a flat of five or six rooms there is usually two bed-rooms, a small box 9x9, that is by courtesy called "parlor," another a little larger that has to be dining-room, nursery, living-room, library, work-shop and general catchall. Last and least in size is the kitchen. I wish some of the good housewives of old Tecumseh and the surrounding country could see a Chicago kitchen in a small flat, of the average size. I do'nt know as I can say that I wish such thing either, as it would certainly cause them to have chills, and possibly fever.

Well, suppose that in one of the bedrooms there are two beds, with just space enough between them to turn around. In the other bed-room there is one small, single bed, with another space between the bed and adjacent walls for two people to squeeze past each other. And, suppose that a family of six persons drop in suddenly, unannounced in order to "surprise" you, and you are jocularly informed that they have come to stay a week and have just the loveliest time with you. Oh how happy you are! The fun in anticipation of sleeping and eating the crowd, is just too hilarious for any good use. You almost wish that you could eat them.

The partner of your joys and sorrows calls you aside and whispers "what in the world are we going to do with them?" "By gosh, I don't know;" you answer. Then you skirmish around, consult the mother-in-law and all the neighbors, and come to the conclusion that it will not do send them away, for they would go back home and tell all the nighbors how stuck up you are, and stingy as the old Harry. Now, Scove, you and your wife come to the conclusion that the best way to do is to figure it out. You give up your bed to the elders of the visitors with their younger children; you put one of the others into the bed with grandma who has to sleep on the outside rail, and hold the child in bed; you chuck two more in the other small bed in your bed-room and then look out for the wife of your buzzum and the child of your heart. A dilapidated lounge that fills up all the spare space in the library-dining room catches mamma and the boy, but where are you? While mamma is trying to overcome two unruly springs that persist in trying to perforate her back, you run out of doors and wrench two or three boards from the side of the wood shed, bring them in the kitchen, nail some cross-pieces on in order to make a thing that looks like a raft. This you spread across the kitchen stove, hunt all the spare bedding and in a short time you have a bed that a tramp would not shy at. In another short time you are having a troubled dream about purgatory, or some other tropical country. You wake up to find that the fire that the mother-in-law said had gone out has done nothing of the sort, and your bed is beginning to have symptoms of spontaneous combustion. Of course you jump down, and in doing so run your pet corns into a pail that had been set to catch the drip from decrepit waterpipe. Then you wish that some other company would come so that you could give up your new bed. It's fun all around.

All joking aside, the visitor problem is one that is troubling a good many of our people. A number of my friends have told me that they wanted to give up housekeeping and go to boarding until after the Fair is over, on account of this question. To be sure we are not able to do all that we would like for our many friends, but I am willing and anxious to do all in my power to aid all who want me to do so, in securing good boarding and lodging places where they can have some of the comforts without being actually robbed by the proprietors of the houses.

I am pretty familiar with all parts of the city, and have kept well up on the progress of the construction at Jackson Park, so that I am able to give directions to those who are not acquainted with the situation. I shall post myself thoroughly on all that appertains to the World's Fair and be ready to aid those requiring it. Of course my time is my stock in trade, and I shall have to ask a consideration. But for the same I shall be able to help the visitor save time and money. Any one addressing me with stamp will receive information. It is astonishing to think of the vast number of devices that are to be brought to bear on the visitors to the World's Fair to get their supply of cash. And the coming election of city officers will determine whether gamblers are to have unchecked license in robbing those who escape the other sharps.

While in the rooms of the Chicago Society of Artists lately, I saw the name of our friend Frank B. Swick on a list of proposed members. I am glad to be able to say that Frank is rising among the artists, and is able to make a good showing of his work. He has also been riding the lodge goat in the order of Knights of Phythias. One more ride will make him a full fledged knight.

Frank Brown has entirely recovered his health and is again engaged at his business.

It is very seldom now that I see any of the Tecumseh contingent in this city so I know but little of what is going on among them.

I see by the dramatic papers that Alba Haywood is making the success that he hoped for in his last venture. He is playing "Edgewood Folks" through the Western circuit, and making money. At present Alba is playing through California, and the critics give him unstinted praise. Your Aged Friend.

The Madison Square Theatre Co, are pleasing large audiences at Sutton's opera house this week. The company are above the average, and are presenting popular plays at popular prices. Saturday night "Peck's Bad Boy" as the play and a handsome Silver Tea Set as an extra attraction, will no doubt place standing room at a premium.

We are indebted to the S. Brainard Son's Co. for some new pieces of sheet music which ought to become favorites for parlor use. The two instrumental pieces entitled, Columbia Mazurka, and World's Exposition March are lively airs. The vocal solo and chorus, Once a Friend a Friend Forever, is a beautiful thing, both in sentiment and melody.

H. C. Hathaway, a person of strong Democratic proclivities, living at Blissfield, will attend the inauguration of President Cleveland at Washington, and take in the sights of the town regardless of expense. C. B. Phillips, Jr., who has a leaning to Republicanism, and is an enterprising young hardware merchant of the same town, will pay Mr. Hathaway's expenses. This is one of the results of betting on election.—Adrian Times.

The Post Master was presented Monday evening at Sutton's opera house to the largest house of the season, by W. A. Robinson's excellent company. The play is a melodrama, with many strong situations, and is calculated to please the average theatre goer. The comedy element is very prominent, and in the hands of Miss Jennie Barrymore and Mr. Keifer came for a large share of applause. On the whole it is a very satisfactory entertainment.

Capt. King is at Lenawee Junction to-day looking up material for the manufacture of his camp stool. He is getting ready to begin manufacturing at an early date, with a force of seven hands, and hopes to have 40,000 of the stools made up by May 1st. It is expected that seven persons can turn out 5,000 per week, and figuring that one stool can be sold in every 500 attendants at the world's fair, it is estimated that it will require 200,000 to supply the demand. An examination through the patent office shows that no such device has ever been put in there before.—Adrian Telegram.

A Needed Reform.

EDITOR HERALD—Permit me, through the columns of your excellent paper, to enter a protest against a crying nuisance which has become a stench in the nostrils of every law-abiding citizen of Tecumseh. I speak of that class of persons who so far ignore the laws of decency and self-respect as to make it a business to visit churches, the opera house, and other places of public entertainment, with the express purpose of creating a disturbance. Such action should be and is condemned by all good citizens and the ringleaders of such lawless mobs should be treated to a dose of jail a few times, which would effectually squelch all such disgraceful performances in the future. One evening last week, during the presentation of "Enoch Arden" at Sutton's Opera House the rowdy element was out en masse and those who took any interest in the play were prevented from hearing and enjoying what they paid their money to see and hear. Let the people rise up as one person and crush this Hydra-headed monster out of existence. Then, and not till then, will order be preserved at public entertainments, better attendance secured, and the long-looked-for and much-needed reform be firmly established in our beautiful village.

A Despoiler of Young Girls.

For some time past the officers of Jackson have been searching for an unknown man who has devoted his attention to ruining innocent young girls. They were recently given a new clue from a girl under 12 years of age who confessed that a man had induced her to go with him and that he had taken improper liberties with her. He was finally located in the person of Frank Birch, a man 46 years of age. He was arrested and confessed the affair. He gives the names of six young girls, ranging from 11 to 15 years of age. He admitted that he accomplished the ruin of the oldest one over a year and a half ago and that by bribing her he induced her to get other girls for his purpose. They would meet him just after dark and accompany him to an unoccupied hall. He will plead guilty to the charge and will be given a severe sentence. The feeling here is very strong against him.

SAGINAW SENSATION.

"Little Jake" Seligman, Millionaire Banker, Arrested on a Serious Charge.

A sensation was caused at Saginaw by the arrest of Jacob Seligman, the millionaire banker, better known as "Little Jake," on the charge of illegitimate parentage preferred by Mary Trombly, 16 years old, daughter of Maxim A. Trombly. A child was born in August last and is a bright and healthy boy. The young mother is a comely little lass and has the sympathy of the community in her trouble. When the warrant was served Little Jake was in the bank. He was taken before Judge Stempell and after consulting his lawyers waived examination and was bound over to court in $500. While in court the little banker raved furiously, declaring that he had settled the case a dozen times. Whether Jake was so wrathy because the arrest might have some influence in the divorce suit he has brought against his wife could not be ascertained.

The State Reform School.

Supt. Ward, of the state reform school, reports that 271 boys were received by that institution last year. At the close of the year there were 413 boys at the school while 263 were out on parole. Last summer Supt. Wood made special effort to find homes for the homeless boys and about 115 were placed upon farms, or at such work as the institution had fitted them for. The terms of about 80 of this number would have expired in 1892, according to the age limit, and the remainder were released on good behavior, and in a great majority of cases they have proven worthy of the confidence reposed in them. An appropriation of $112,000 is asked for to cover the expenses of 1893 and 1894.

Poor Men's Rich Find.

Six miles from Iron Mountain, on the banks of Popple river, a small logging stream emptying into the Menominee, Messrs. Russell and Peterson have uncovered a large deposit of blue iron ore, assaying over 60 per cent and low in phosphorous. Russell and Peterson had been exploring in that neighborhood for months with such poor luck that they had fully resolved to abandon the working when the ore was uncovered. Both are poor men, comparatively, and had invested every dollar in the enterprise. The discovery will lead to further explorations in that vicinity and other equally as valuable finds are expected.

Died of Hydrophobia.

Herman Lang, a young farmer living close to Leavenworth, Ks., died from hydrophobia, after suffering intense agony for 24 hours. He was bitten by a rabid dog last August and had a madstone applied, which adhered several times and a physician pronounced the poison eradicated from his system. On attempting to drink water recently he was thrown into convulsions, which occurred in rapid succession until his death. Before dying Lang showed the worst form of rabies and had to be restrained from biting everyone near him.

TO ABOLISH CONSULAR SEALS.

President Harrison Sends a Message to the House on the Subject.

President Harrison has sent to the House his message dealing with the subject of the importation of foreign goods in the United States across to Canadian border under consular seal. The President discusses at length the treaty obligations which effect the subject growing out of the provisions of article 29 on the treaty of Washington and arrives at several conclusions;

That article 29 of the Washington treaty has been abrogated; that there is no law to execute it if it were in force; that the treaty imposed no obligation upon the United States to use the concession as to transit made by Canada and no limitation upon the powers of the United States in dealing with merchandise imported for the use of our citizens through Canadian ports, or passing from one place in the United States to another through Canada; that the question of sealing cars containing such merchandise and the treatment of such sealed cars when they cross our border is and always has been one to be settled by our laws according to our convenience and our interests as we may see them; that the law authorizing the sealing of cars in Canada containing foreign merchandise imported from a contiguous country does not apply to merchandise imported by our own people from countries not contiguous and carried through Canada for delivery to such owners; that the law did not contemplate the passing of sealed cars to any place not a "port" nor the delivery of such cars to the owner or consignee to be opened by him without the supervision of a revenue officer; that such a practice is inconsistent with the safety of the revenue.

The statutes relating to the transportation of merchandise between the United States and the British possessions should be the subject of revision. The treasury regulations have given to these laws a construction and a scope that I do not think was contemplated by Congress. A policy adapted to the new conditions growing in part out of the construction of the Canadian Pacific railraad should be declared and the business placed upon a basis more just to our people and to our transportation companies. If we continue the policy of supervising rates and requiring that they shall be equal and reasonable upon the railroads of the United States, we cannot in fairness at the same time give these unusual facilities for competition to Canadian roads that are free to pursue the practices as to cut rates and favored rates, that we condemn and punish if practiced by our own railroads.

LAMAR'S SUCCESSOR.

Judge Howell E. Jackson Placed on the U. S. Supreme Bench.

Howell Edmunds Jackson, of Tennessee, has been nominated by the President to be associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, vice L. Q. C. Lamar, deceased. Mr. Jackson is a Democrat ex-senator and at present judge of the United States court for the circuit embracing Tennessee. Inquiry about the capitol shows that the appointment is considered, from the judicial and not a political view, as a splendid one. About the supreme court it is said that President Harrison has shown once more a great deal of judgement in the selection of a man for a place on the bench of the highest tribunal in the land. With the exception of a few who think the President should have appointed a Republican the nomination was well received by the Senators. There will, it is said, be little if any opposition to his confirmation.

The appointment was a great surprise to the Tennessee delegation in the House. The two Republican members felt sore over the selection of a Democrat and a states rights man, but when asked as to Mr. Jackson's personal fitness conceded that his character and abilities were all that could be desired.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—R. G. Dun & Co's weekly review of trade says: Actual business is surprisingly large for the season and yet fears about the future are also large. There are many uncertainties and fears, but the prosperity and the needs of the people make business what it is, and never before has the distribution of products to consumers been larger than it has been thus far this year. Yet it is properly safe to say that rarely, if ever, except in a time of panic, has business been more cautiously and conservatively regulated. Monetary uncertainties are excused by the continued outgo of gold. The uncertainty about the monetary future retards business engagements, but in other respects trade is most satisfactory and perhaps all the more safe and healthy for the feeling of caution that prevails. The business failures occurring throughout the country during the past seven days number 331. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 207.

Attorney-General Ellis says that the Richardson railroad act of 1891 is fatally defective and that the state would be obliged to accept the Michigan Central's tender of $134,083.20, the amount of its tax for 1892, under the road's special charter.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.—Thirty-fifth day.—Mr. Chandler stepped to the front as an avowed Hawaiian annexationist; and if he had had his way the President would have been instructed by both Houses to enter into negotiations with the representatives of the provisional government of the late Kingdom of Hawaii and to submit the convention to Congress for ratification by legislation. But his way was blocked by Mr. White, of Louisiana, who objected to immediate action and Mr. Chandler's resolution was laid over. Mr. White also made an attack upon the anti-options bill and delivered a clever address which occupied almost three hours. Adjourned. HOUSE.—The sundry civil appropriation bill was further considered but not disposed of. A request for the passage of a bill appropriating $20,000 for buoys on the lake front of Chicago was objected to and laid over. A bill to punish crimes in the Yellowstone park was placed on the calendar. Messrs. Fellows, Geary, Patterson Powers and Storer were appointed a committee to investigate the rumored influence of the Panama canal scandal in this country. Adjourned.

SENATE.—Thirty-sixth day.—The anti-option bill came up for final action and after lengthy discussion voting was commenced. Six substitutes and amendments were offered and all rejected before the final vote was taken on the bill, which passed—yeas, 40; nays, 29. The bill is the one passed by the House June 9, 1892, with various Senate amendments thereto. The first section defines the word "options" to mean a contract or agreement for the right or privilege to deliver at a future time, or within a designated period, any of the articles mentioned in section 3. The second section defines "futures" to mean a contract or agreement to sell and deliver at a future time, or within a designated period, any of such articles when the party so contracting was not the owner of such articles or had not agreed for a right to their future possession. The act, however, is not to apply on any contract to supply national, state or municipal governments with any of such articles, nor contracts by farmers or planters for future delivery, nor to agreements to pay or deliver a part of the product of the land in compensation for its use or as compensating for work or labor done or to be done, nor to agreements with farmers or planters to furnish such articles for use or consumption, provided that such contracts or agreements shall not be made or settled for on any board of trade or exchange. The section specifies the articles to which the bill is to apply as cotton (raw or unmanufactured), hops, wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, pork, lard and bacon. The fourth section imposes special taxes, as follows: Dealers in "options" or "futures" at $1,000 a year license fee, and five cents a pound on cotton, hops, pork, lard or bacon, and at 20 cents a bushel on grain. Sections 5 to 14, relative to the details for enforcing the tax, and section 15 provides that the act shall take effect on the first of July, 1893. The Chandler resolution requesting the President to enter into negotiations with the commissioners from the provisional government of Hawaii for annexation of the islands was taken up and after a brief discussion was laid aside without action. A substitute for the national quarantine bill was presented laid over. Mr. Dolph made a speech on the Hawaiian question. The Fortification bill was discussed. Adjourned. HOUSE.—In committee of the whole considerable spirited discussion was held on the sundry civil appropriation. No other business of general importance was transacted.

SENATE.—Thirty-seventh day.—The committee on appropriations occupied the day during the entire session. The fortification and army appropriation bills were passed with little discussion. The district of Columbia bill was presented but went over without action. Executive session. Adjourned. HOUSE.—Messrs. Chipman, of Michigan, and Lodge, of Massachusetts, were appointed tellers for the House to canvass the electoral vote for president. The sundry civil appropriation bill occupied the day.

SENATE.—Thirty-eighth day.—The Chandler Hawaii resolution was referred to the committee on foreign affairs. Messrs. Hale and Blackburn were appointed tellers to assist in counting the presidential votes. Mr. Carlisle's resignation as senator was received. The district of Columbia appropriation bill was taken up and passed. A resolution was received from the legislature of Oregon requesting the Senators to use all honorable means to secure the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands; referred. Three hours were then spent in executive session on the French and Swedish extradition treaties and the Hawaiian annexation question. HOUSE.—The anti-option bill came in for its first round of trouble and the slight discussion it received was enough to show that its course through the House will be a rough one. In committee of the whole the federal election laws were brought to the fore by an amendment to the sundry civil bill providing that hereafter no part of any money appropriated to pay any fees to the United States commissioners, marshal or clerks, shall be used for any warrant issued or arrest made under the laws relating to the election of members of Congress, unless the prosecution has been commenced upon a sworn complaint setting forth the facts constituting the offense and alleging them to be within the personal knowledge of the affiant. The Republicans expressed the opinion that this was the entering wedge of a repeal of all laws relative to federal supervisors. Mr. Fitch replied that the Democratic party made no secret of its purpose to repeal the federal election laws. The amendment was agreed to, the committee arose and the sundry civil bill passed. Adjourned.

SENATE.—Thirty-ninth day.—The bill to repeal the Sherman silver bill was a subject of considerable discussion which resulted in Senator Hill, of New York, giving notice that he would call up the bill for action. A few minor matters were attended to and then business was suspended that fitting tribute might be paid to the memory of the late Senator Barbour, of Virginia. Eulogies were pronounced by several senators and as a further mark of respect the Senate adjourned. HOUSE.—The anti-option members gained a victory over the opponents of the bill by having the measure referred to the committee on agriculture, which favors the bill, instead of the ways and means committee which is opposed to the bill. The President's message on Canadian railroads was presented to the House and referred. The deficiency appropriation bill was passed and the Indian appropriation bill reported. The House then paid tribute to the memory of the late Representative Craig, of Pennsylvania, and adjourned.

SENATE.—Fortieth day.—Eighteen House bills were passed and a substitute agreed to for the House bill to ratify the agreement with the Cherokees for the cession of their interest in the Cherokee outlet lands. The House quarantine bill was taken up, but went over. A resolution was adopted to, requesting the President to send to the Senate the draft of the annexation treaty negotiated in 1844 but not completed between the plenipotentiaries of the United States and Kingdom of Hawaii, with the correspondence between the governments relating to the negotiations. Memorial proceedings were held in memory of Mr. Gamble, of South Dakota, Mr. Ford, of Michigan, and Mr. Stackhouse, of South Carolina, late members of the House of Representatives. HOUSE.—The diplomatic and the military academy appropriation bills were passed. The anti-option bill was reported back by the committee on agriculture, with Senate amendments and was then referred to committee of the whole. Considerable regret was expressed by members of the House at the action of Mr. Blount, of Georgia, in voluntarily vacating his seat in the House which he has occupied for over 20 years. Tribute was paid to the memory of the late J. W. Kendall, of Kentucky.

SPEAK FOR HAWAII.

ANNEXATION COMMISSIONERS INTERVIEW FOSTER.

They Express Themselves as Well Pleased with the Reception Accorded to Them—Danger That the Question May Become a Partisan Issue.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The first interview between Secretary Foster and the Hawaiian annexation commissioners was held in the diplomatic parlor of the State department this morning between 10 and 11, and lasted half an hour. There were present Secretary Foster and Solicitor Patridge, representing the United States, and Messrs. Thurston, Wilder, Castle, Marsden and Carter, the Hawaiian commissioners; Mr. Kinney, of Salt Lake City, who is present with them as unofficial adviser, and Dr. Mott Smith, the Hawaiian minister, the last-named making the introductions.

Mr. Thurston, on behalf of his associates, presented their credentials from President Dole, of the provisional government, and supplemented them with a brief statement of the events on the islands which were the cause of their visit.

Secretary Foster responded in a few words of welcome, stating that the reason for the errand was well known to the people of the United States. After the exchange of social greetings, in the course of which the Secretary expressed his regret that he was unable to receive them at his own house, which had been closed in expectation of his departure for Europe next week, the interview closed with an engagement to meet again at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the same place.

The Hawaiian commissioners returned at once to their hotel, where they discussed the question of making a statement to the people of the United States upon the subject of their mission to this country.

Mr. Thurston was asked whether the reception by Secretary Foster had been satisfactory, and he replied that it had been quite so. Of the details, however, he could not speak, as he had been requested by Secretary Foster, pending negotiations, to make no statements regarding the progress thereof.

Other members of the commission united with Mr. Thurston in expressing much satisfaction over the manner of their reception. Mr. Castle said he had found Secretary Foster to be an exceedingly affable gentleman, and he anticipated very pleasant relations between him and the commissioners during their stay. They have been cordially received by the representative of the United States government, he said, and this beginning he believed augured a satisfactory completion of their mission. At their interview this afternoon it is expected that an hour will be fixed for the presentation of the commissioners to President Harrison.

After the interview Secretary Foster said he had nothing new to communicate and owing to the press of other business he was unable to see newspaper men.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

Action as to Hawaii Might Be Modeled on Our Samoan Policy.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Feb. 6.—Hon. Henry C. Ide of this city, late United States Commissioner to Samoa, thinks that the policy of this government with the Samoans in 1874 may now apply to Hawaii. "The application for annexation by the Samoans," says Mr. Ide, "was voluntary and sincere. The application on the part of the Hawaiians does not seem to have come in any sense from the native people, but only from a portion of the foreigners, who represent, numerically, probably not more than one-sixth of the whole population. It would seem probable that the same considerations which controlled our government in 1874 might control it in 1893, but it would also seem that a helping hand and moral influence in favor of the indepence of the Hawaiian Islands, and some other than a monarchical government there, and of the most complete protection of the vast American interests now existing in those islands, would be given by our government.

ANNEXATION OR NOTHING

Attitude of the Commissioners May Tend to Complicate the Matter.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The announcement by the Hawaiian Commissioners that they must have annexation or nothing and that they will not be satisfied with a mere protectorate causes something of a complication in the plans of the administration and may have an important bearing on the whole question.

Those Democrats who are anxious to see Cleveland's administration get credit for the annexation of Hawaii intimate that the annexation will occupy so much time that it would not be practicable during the month before the end of Harrison's term. It is just possible the matter may drift into a partisan question through this situation and cause serious delay, and possibly defeat the entire proposition.

Alaska Wants Home Rule.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 6.—Late advices from Alaska are to the effect that the citizens of that Territory are earnestly working for Home Rule. A convention will meet in Juean this month to elect delegates, who will carry to Washington city a petition, asking the following legislation. A delegate in Congress, home rule, modification of present prohibitory liquor law and a law by which public lands may be taken up by actual settlers.

What Good Roads Would Mean.

They would practically shorten the distance to the local market.

They would spare the farmer many vexations and nervous strains.

They would increase the demand for country and surburban property.

They would bring every farming community into closer social relation.

They would reduce to a minimum the wear and tear on wagons and carriages.

They would make an evening drive a pleasure instead of a vexation as it is now.

They would require loss expense to keep them in repair than do the dirt roads.

They would be free from dirt in summer and mud and ruts in fall, winter and spring.

They would afford ready communication with the outside world at all seasons of the year.

They would do away with the absurd poll tax and supervisor system in places where it is still in use.

All these they would do unless experience goes for naught.—Rural World.

The Cow Didn't Do It.

For over twenty years the origin of the Chicago Fire remained in doubt. Many theories were advanced, but the one most generally accepted is that Mrs. O'Leary (now famous) went out after dark one night to milk and that her cow kicked over a kerosene lamp setting fire to the stable. This story is now completely upset by Mr. Howard H. Gross, President of the great Cyclorama of the Chicago Fire, who made a very exhaustive study of the whole subject, while gathering the data and planning the reproduction upon canvas of this awful disaster, he came upon considerable new matter the most interesting of which is the discovery of the origin of the fire. In giving to the world the following account of the beginning of the great fire, Mr. Gross refers to Dr. Wickersham, former health officer of Chicago and for twenty years the family physician of Mrs. O. Leary, who will vouch for the story. Mrs. O'Leary was an industrious hard working woman who kept a few cows and sold milk to her neighbors. She owned two cottages at 148 DeKoven St., one being in the rear of the other. Mrs. O'Leary lived in the first one and rented the other. Upon the back of the lot were the cow stables. The day before the great fire the family living in Mrs. O'Leary's cottage had a young lady friend arrive from the old country, and the Sunday evening the fire started. A number of the family friends had gathered in the cottage to welcome the new arrival. During the evening it was suggested that the company have some oysters. The proposal met with favor and a suitable quantity was quickly secured from a grocery near by, when the fact dawned upon the good woman of the house that she had no milk with which to serve them. Immediately a raid was planned upon Mrs. O'Leary's stables to secure from the cows the needful article. One of the party volunteered to do the milking if some one would go along and hold a lamp for him. This duty was assigned to a popular but nervous young lady of the company who reluctantly consented to go.

The lamp was turned low, an entry to the stables was made unobserved; whereupon the young lady turned up the light, and no sooner was this done than a mouse scampering out of the straw near the young lady, so startled her that she dropped the lamp amid the imflamable material, at her feet. An explosion followed, and in a moment the whole stable was in a blaze. Thus started the great Chicago fire which is so eloquently and truthfully portrayed on 20,000 square feet of canvas in the well known Cyclorama building on Michigan Avenue. It is the work of 20 eminent artists, and that their work has been done well is demonstrated by the great patronage it has been receiving, and the many words of praise from press and public. The story is so vividly told in this painting, that the visitors are almost led to believe that they are standing on the roof of a building watching, the actual burning of Chicago. It is probably the most valuable panorama ever painted, costing nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

IN THE PORTRAIT GALLERY.

Grandfather looks from the paneled wall
At grandmother hanging across the hall,
In the ripened glow of her stately grace;
And a frown comes over his shadowed face
As he says: "The world has grown askew,
My dear, since we were young—we two.

"Nothing that was is the same to-day;
Old-time fancies are cast away;
All our scruples are laughed to scorn;
All our customs are quite out-worn;
Each is seeking for something new—
We were content with the old—we two."

Into the shade of the grim old room,
Steal two forms through the twilight's gloom.
Grandfather's eyes are sharp to see,
And a deep voice utters tenderly:
"For aye will I love, and love but you,
And we'll follow love to the end—we two."

Grandfather's face has lost its frown,
And his eyes grown softer gaze gently down
On the pair who naught of his watching know,
And grandmother smiles and whispers low:
"One thing goes on as it used to do
In the days when we were young—we two."

RIDING A BUFFALO.

A Traveler Escapes One Danger by Getting Into Another.

Twenty-five years ago, in the fall of 1867, I was traveling on horseback over the plains, my objective point being a small mining camp near where the city of Deadwood now stands. I had been on a prospecting tour two hundred miles to the northwest, and was yet about one hundred miles from my destination, when the adventure I am about to relate occurred. It was a dreary November afternoon, and the clouds threatened a heavy fall of snow. It was about two o'clock, and I was making for an uninhabited hut fifteen miles away, where I knew I could find shelter for myself and horse for the night.

I was riding along feeling perfectly safe in that wilderness when a strange sound broke upon my ears. I was not long in doubt, however, for on glancing back along the road I beheld about a mile away something fast approaching that looked like a black cloud moving rapidly along close to the ground. From what I had heard I knew at once that I was being pursued by a half-famished pack of black wolves, and that if I could not reach the cabin myself and horse would be torn to pieces by the ravenous creatures. I lost no time in putting spurs to my horse for a race to the death. The animal caught the alarm and needed no urging to make him do his best. For a few miles the brave horse did noble work and the merciless pursuers failed to gain upon us, but it soon became evident that the horse could not keep up the gait and that the wolves were sure to overtake us before we could arrive within five miles of the log hut.

On we went, but soon the speed of my horse began to slacken, and the wolves were slowly closing the gap. My mind was intensely busy with the problem of what was best to be done. It occurred to me that my only chance was to abandon the faithful animal and rush ahead on foot while the wolves were devouring his carcass. It was a forlorn hope, but there was no other chance of escape, and, like the drowning man, I caught at the only straw held out to me.

My horse sank down on the roadside as soon as I ceased to spur him forward, and I dashed along on foot, seeing that my two pistols were ready for use. When the wolves reached my horse they pounced upon him, as I had anticipated, and snapped and snarled and fought like demons over the choicest portions of their feast. While they were thus engaged I gained fully a mile upon them. But I knew they would quickly be upon my trail again. Soon I heard the ominous sound that had first fixed my attention, and gazing back over the level plain I saw the pack in full pursuit. Knowing that I could not keep them from overtaking me, I slackened my pace and gathered strength for the life-and-death contest that was inevitable. My idea was to fire and kill two or three wolves at a time and then rush forward as far as possible while they were consuming the bodies of the dead animals. I fired rapidly at the foremost, and was lucky enough to kill four in as many shots. Then I rushed forward, and gained some distance before they devoured the dead, and again started in pursuit. Again I fired, and killed three or four, and again ran for dear life. It was still fully four miles to the longed-for hut, and I began to feel that the contest was too unequal, and that I might as well give up the struggle first as last.

The running fight was kept up for a mile or two more, when I was suddenly relieved from all danger from the wolves, but threatened by another fully as horrible. I had halted and turned for the purpose of firing another fusillade at my relentless enemies, when the whole pack suddenly stopped and stood for fully a minute in a listening attitude. From the west came a sound resembling distant thunder, and great clouds of dust were rising not far away, obscuring the western view. The wolves appeared to thoroughly understand what caused the ominous sounds and clouds of dust, for they gave one frantic howl over being deprived of their expected prey, and then darted madly away to the northward. At first I felt as if I had been delivered by the hands of a special providence, but was not long in discovering that I was still in the greatest of peril, and had not one chance in a thousand of escaping a terrible death. That which caused the seeming distant thunder and clouds of dust was what was known in the parlance of the plains as "a buffalo stampede." No one has ever explained whatever caused a herd now and then to become suddenly frightened and in almost one solid mass rush madly away, never stopping until they were completely worn out. In those stampedes the maddened animals would keep up a snorting and bellowing, creating a scene that could be compared to nothing but pandemonium. No living thing ever escaped being trampled into a shapeless mass that happened to be in front of them. Even the wolves that followed me with such dogged purpose understood the danger perfectly well.

I had given myself up for lost, for I was near the center line of the approaching herd, and it would have been folly for me to have run forward or backward with the hope of getting out of their way. On they came, like the huge waves of an angry sea, and, although I fully appreciated the great peril I was in, the scene fascinated me, and I awaited the end with calm resignation. In the foremost ranks was a huge bull with shaggy mane and long hair extending far back over his neck and shoulders. The front rank was within a hundred yards of me when I was seized with an inspiration. I suddenly saw one single chance for escape and resolved upon making the attempt, although the odds were against me a thousand to one. Not far away there was a little mound some three or four feet high, and to this I ran and stood on top of it. The desire to live nerved me to almost superhuman effort, and as the fleeing animals rushed upon me I riveted my eyes upon the shaggy shoulders of the monster bull and made the leap for life.

I landed square upon the spot I had selected on the animal's back, but would have fallen beneath his feet and been at once trampled to death, had I not seized hold of the long hair of his shoulders and steadied myself until I could straddle his back. I held on to his mane for dear life, and no doubt I am the only man that ever rode or will ever ride such a race.

On, on we dashed with the speed of the wind, and many miles were covered before the animals were exhausted. My unwilling steed attempted to shake me off, but I had no idea of being thrown after I had been so lucky in mounting him. They came to a halt about sundown on the verge of a forest, and the animal I was riding stopped under a tree the limbs of which I could reach from my position upon his back. I climbed into the tree and there I spent the night. The next morning there were no buffaloes or wolves in sight and I started toward my destination on foot. During the day I met some prospectors who were going in the same direction as myself, and the next day I reached the camp safe and well. It was Thanksgiving day, and my friends in camp had killed several wild turkeys and were having a dinner, such as they were accustomed to back in the states. I can truly say that no one ever felt more thankful than I did that I was there to enjoy a feast instead of having been torn to pieces by the wolves or trampled to death beneath the feet of five thousand panic-stricken buffaloes.—Globe Democrat.

SLEEP—AN ETCHING.

To-Morrow Came to Every One in the Hotel Except the Baby.

The great hotel is falling into silence. The last of the dancers came up nearly an hour ago. The loud-voiced man crossed the hall, intermitted his talk for a time and then left off altogether; the click of the billiard cues stopped a few moments since; only an occasional voice or step is heard in the corridors; the little dying baby in the next room has ceased to moan and sleeps for a space, I hope.

The two who have come at last through weary ways of doubt and uncertainty to so full and sweet an understanding have separated with many whispered farewells and kisses in which the long-repressed yearning of each heart met with an answering love. Their sweet remembrances melt softly into the margin of sleep and shine back again from its misty depths, a tender, etherealized reflection.

The foolish boy who lost his all at the gaming table no longer gudgels his weary brain for some possible plan to recoup himself and escape disgrace. His years are but a child's years, the tired young body and brain rebelled and claimed their need of rest. He sleeps with the grieved look about his mouth that used to tell of some baby sorrow and the little drops beading his forehead where the pretty young mother used to lift away the soft hair to kiss.

The woman whom folly and vanity counseled to listen to words she dare not remember afterward, bending over her little sleepers, has cooled her burning cheeks; thrust back the fear, regret and remorse that crowd upon her, and crept tremblingly beneath the blessed curtain of oblivion.

The morrow will awaken them all. The mirth pauses, the scourge is withheld, the menace stayed for a moment. Joy rests her fluttering wings. Pain's sting is withdrawn and sorrow knows a brief surcease.

The door next time opens silently; I hear the mother sobbing as the nurse's footfalls die away down the corridor. So it was to-night for the baby, instead of to-morrow. And for the others, not to-morrow, but next year or another they shall fall upon that sleep which has no dreams.—Alice MacGowan, in Short Stories.

Playing with Miss Dooley.

The talent which small children have for picking up the most characteristic phrases of uncultured chance companions is well known to patents. The other day at dinner the ethereal little Marjorie, aged four, astonished her parents by exclaiming, apropos of the pudding:

"Holy smoke! ain't that good!"

Her father and mother looked at her in astonishment.

"My child, where did you get that expression?" asked the mother.

"I'm after playing with Bridgie Dooley," answered Marjorie, complacently.—Boston Transcript.

She Had Her Revenge.

"Angelina," said Edwin, "there is a little question that I have long been wishing to ask you."

"Yes?" she said, opening her eyes very wide and pretending complete ignorance, although confident that she was fully aware of its purport.

"I wanted to ask you whether I ought to let my mustache grow or not?"

Gulping down her disappointment, she said: "I would let it grow, if it will grow, but I'm afraid it is like you—undecided what to do."—N. Y. Press.

ALBERT D. LAWRENCE, P. M.

because the alleged steel wheels put out by inexperienced manufacturers have gone down in ordinary winds, a fact known to every one that the Steel Wheel is unsafe. Accident only by the Aermotor.

In this year's blizzards and cyclones the Aermotor lost in proportionately much less than any wooden wheel, while the loss of the imitative steel ones has frequently been total.

45 sold in '88
2,288 sold in '89
6,268 sold in '90
20,049 sold in '91
60,000 will be sold in '92

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes. These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermotor. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country." Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 8 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 4th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How we came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and many other more abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower—or if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one ($100), write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work, to the AERMOTOR CO., 12th and Rockwell Sts., Chicago, or 27-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

The Man in the Moon

Is supposed to have a special influence on the affairs of lovers, but comparatively few realize how very old the superstition is. This same man in the moon has for ages been the god of love of the Chinese, and, it is believed, slides down to earth on a moonbeam, ties the end of the lover's queue to the top of the fair maiden's nose by a magical knot, after which nothing can prevent the union. The marriage ceremonies of this ancient nation are very curious and are described in a very interesting article in Demorest's Magazine for March. A superbly illustrated paper entitled "In Mulberry Bend and Beyond," gives a very clear idea of the slums of New York. If you are interested in knowing about a fashionable theater party, a Lenten luncheon, ladies' literary clubs, a grand musicale, and other Lenten entertainments, you should read about a debutante's winter in New York. Then there are charming stories, good poems, descriptions of the latest society fads, and all the departments are full of good things. Published for 20 cents a copy, or $2 a year, by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 E. 14th St., New York.

Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

The purchasing agents of the United States Government ordered nearly one hundred thousand pounds of Dr. Price's Baking Powder in the first five months of 1892.

The government exercises great care in selecting its supplies of all kinds, rejecting everything that is not of the best, and the very fact that it has adopted Dr. Price's Baking Powder is proof that it has found it the best of all the baking powders. Dr. Price's is peculiarly adapted for export, as neither long sea voyages nor climate changes affect it, this brand keeping fresh and sweet for years while other baking powders deteriorate rapidly.

It is guaranteed to the government to be a pure cream of tartar powder free from ammonia, alum, or other harmful substances, and it is also the only baking powder prepared by a physician of high standing.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Something New.

"Flowers are words which even a baby may undestand."—Bishop Coxe.

We have heard of all sorts of catalogues, but a Poetical catalogue is something entirely new. In reading Vick's Floral Guide for 1893, on every page one comes across happy and appropriate quotations from prominent authors. Whether it takes the mind off from the work of making out a list of Flowers and Vegetables, or makes the Guide more fascinating, will have to be decided after a trial, by the publishers, James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y. Another novel feature is the family of Pansy Sailors who appear on the cover and through the book. It contains five colored plates, hundreds of illustrations and lists, with descriptions of everything required in the garden. This work is really given away free, as the 10 cents asked for it may be deducted from the first order sent the house.

A FARMERS' EXCHANGE.

Many farmers have some article of farm produce or stock to sell and many wish to buy something of the kind. How can these two classes be brought together? By a very simple and easy process. Let them join the HERALD'S Farmers' Exchange. During the month of March we will run such an exchange column. The notices, to contain twenty-five words or less, will be run for twenty-five cents each week, or one dollar for the four weeks in March. Anything whatever, either to sell or exchange, can be advertised in this manner and the notice is almost sure to bring a customer. Here are a few sample notices, which will serve as a guide to advertisers:

FOR SALE.—Ten bushels of prime Clover Seed. JOHN DOE, Britton.

WANTED.—A good lumber wagon, in exchange for some fine wool ewes. RICHARD ROE, Ridgeway.

TO EXCHANGE.—Good family horse, eight years old, perfectly gentle, for two or three Jersey heifers. JOHN SMITH, Macon.

FOR SALE.—First-class farm team, well matched, ten years old. Will sell cheap for cash or trade for clover seed, corn and oats. JACK ROBINSON, Tipton.

WANTED.—Five hundred bushels of corn in the ear. Will pay cash or give good sheep in exchange. JOHN JONES, Pentecost.

TO EXCHANGE.—A good double surrey carriage, almost new, for a couple of new milch cows. PETER PARLEY, Clinton.

These notices must be handed in before the first day of March next to insure their insertion in the first issue in that month. We respectfully commend this scheme to our farmer friends and should like to have them try the experiment for one month. We believe it will repay the necessary expenditure ten-fold.

THE FARMERS' UNION.

A very successful meeting of the Union was held at M. Smeltzer's on Friday evening. To fill vacancy on the program Miss Maggie Linton recited Sheridan's Ride in a very pleasing manner. The question, How can we best make our Farmers' Union a means of education, brought out a varied and lively discussion. The Union then adjourned to meet at B. F. DePuy's, Friday evening, Feb. 24th, with the following program:

Singing by the Union.
Dec.—Jared VanVleet.
Paper—Jennie Nyland.
Charade—Mrs. Chas. Blood.
Reading—Mrs. Sidney Cadmus.
Dialogue—Bertha Smeltzer, John Cadmus and others.
Rec.—Mary Eaton.
Song—Mary McIntyre.

Dangers of the Season.

The sudden changes in weather in the latter part of the winter and early spring are a source of colds and coughs. This season is a particularly dangerous one for persons with weak lungs or of delicate constitution. A slight cold is likely to become a serious one, and the cough that follows is the one great cause of the many deaths from consumption in the early spring. Never neglect a cold or cough. Keep a reliable remedy on hand and check the first cough, that may lead to consumption. As such a remedy Kemp's Balsam is strongly recommended. For every form of throat and lung disorder, including the la grippe cough, croup and consumption in its first stages, it probably has no equal anywhere. Get a bottle to-day.

"I have used your Salvation Oil and can say, it is the finest thing I ever saw for all kinds of pains or sprains and can recommend it to any one. N. L. Adams, 231 10th St., Cairo, Ill."

THE MOST PLEASANT WAY Of preventing the grippe, colds, headaches and fevers is to use the liquid laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, whenever the system needs a gentle, yet effective cleansing. To be benefitted one must get the true remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only. For sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles.

Does Ex-Senator Ingalls regard Judge Martin, the new Democratic Senator from Kansas, as an actual fact or as an iridescent dream?

The appointment of Judge Gresham to a place in the new Cabinet will please every one except a few Bourbon politicians in both parties.

Speaking of missing word contests, we wonder if Judge Gresham can supply the missing word in this sentence: The place of Secretary of State in President Cleveland's Cabinet is to be filled by ——

There seems to be no longer any doubt that Judge Gresham has accepted the tender of the State portfolio in Cleveland's Cabinet. It will prove to be a very strong appointment in Indiana and Illinois.

The new Senator from Nebraska is for low tariff, free coinage and manhood rights against corporation priviligos. Evidently he has the making of a good Democrat in him, if he is not one already.

Judge Gresham is so much better than the Republican party that he is to all intents a Democrat—and a long ways better Democrat than some of those who pass for Democrats in New England and New York.

The new U. S. Senator from Nebraska is a Populist, but on the tariff question he will act with the Democrats. In fact all the Populist Senators from the West are stronger free traders than many of the Eastern Democrats.

The Boston Transcript thus pokes fun at a Lenawee County crop: "Ice is quoted at six cents a ton at Devils Lake. The Devils Lake refered to, it should be observed, is in Michigan and not elsewhere. At the lake in the place unmentionable the price of ice, no doubt, is much higher.

Which party represents free trade, and which protection? The question seems to be pertinent when all of the republican members of the House Committee on Ways and Means vote in favor of a bill to put all works of art on the free list, and with two exceptions all the democratic members against it.

With the firing of big guns and to the music of silver and gold trumpets the silver and anti-silver army marched up the hill, and then marched down again. Congress has this week been in one respect like the smoke traveling show—it failed to keep the glittering advance promises it had made on the bill-boards and in spite of the liberal use of threats, promises and persuasion nothing was done and the silver law still occupies its place on the statute books.

The New York Times, which enjoys the distinction of being called Mr. Cleveland's personal organ, publishes the following names of Cabinet officers already selected by the President-elect:

Secretary of State—Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana.
Secretary of Treasury—John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky.
Secretary of War—Daniel S. Lamont, of New York.
Postmaster-General—Wilson S. Bissel of New York.

Representative Bryan, of Nebraska, says of Mr. W. V. Allen, the new elected populist Senator from that state: "He is now upon the bench, having been elected a district judge by the populists. He is regarded as a safe and able man. He was formerly a republican, but as the Democrats in the legislature joined with the Populists in electing him, I take it for granted that he will act with the Democrats in the organization of the Senate and upon the tariff."

It is quite amusing to see the Old Whig organ that has for years resisted and ridiculed the demand of the people and the attempt of the Democratic party to reform the tariff by reducing it, now crying out that Democrats must at once put the tariff upon a strictly free-trade or revenue basis. All in good time. The more the people observe and experience the operations of freer trade and lighter taxes the more they will be apt to like it. But a system which has been thirty years building up cannot wisely or justly be torn down in a hurry. The progress of reform will, however, be quite rapid enough to satisfy the monopolists and their defenders.—N. Y. World.

The appointment of Judge Gresham as Secretary of State in the new Cabinet, is one of Cleveland's bold and original strokes of policy, which has always characterized his public acts. It is an admirable selection considered in the light of personal fitness and is a suitable recognition of the large independent element which contributed so much to the political landslide in the Northwestern states. Judge Gresham is just such a man politically as Judge Cooley, of Ann Arbor. Though nominally a Republican, yet upon the great issues now dividing political parties he is essentially a Democrat. Whatever the politicians may say, the people will heartily sanction Cleveland's action in thus recognizing one of the ablest men in the West, although a new recruit.

Col. Ingersoll delivered a lecture on Sunday last Feb. 12th, at New York City on Abraham Lincoln. His opening sentences were these: "Eighty-four years ago to-day two babes were born—one in the woods of Kentucky amid the hardships and poverty of pioneers, one in England surrounded by wealth and culture. One was educated in the university of Nature; the other at Oxford.

One associated his name with the enfranchisment of labor, with the emancipation of millions, with the salvation of the republic. He is known to us as Abraham Lincoln. The other broke the chains of superstition and filled the world with intellectual light and he is known as Charles Darwin. Because of these two men the nineteenth century is illustrious.

The Free Press is indebted to Mr. Henry H. Smith, Assistant Register of the Treasury, for a copy of his report, which has just been made to the Secretary of the Treasury, on the old State banks. It is a singularly interesting document. The resolution of the Senate, in response to which it has been made, was adopted in July last and called for certain detailed statistics of banking institutions, savings banks and national banks from the periods of 1850 and 1863 respectively. The resolution was referred to Mr. Smith and in carrying out his instructions he has collected a large mass of interesting information concerning the financial institutions which were practically wiped out of existence by the early tax legislation of the war period. By no means the least attractive portions of the report are those devoted to historical reminiscences of the early banking days. Among these a prominent place is given to a paper read by ex-Gov. Felch, of this state, before the Michigan Pioneer Society in 1877 on Early Banks and Banking in Michigan.

The old and trite saying that the tariff is a tax, is worn somewhat threadbear that is true, but illustrations of its truthfulness are cropping out continually. In the telegraphic news of Monday on the annexation of Hawaii is a statement that the project is strongly opposed by the beet sugar men and for these reasons: "Hawaiian Islands can and have produced as much sugar as the United States, and this industry has been fostered for the past fifteen years by the United States, anyway. By treaties with Hawaii, all sugars were admitted duty free, and as there was an average duty of over two cents per pound on sugar from all other sugar producing countries, the Hawaiians have been selling their sugars at the same price as others, and never had to pay the two cent duty levied on Cuban sugar. In this manner they really obtained a bounty of two cents per pound on every pound of sugar sent to the United States. This two cents per pound did not go into the United States as did the two cents on all sugar imported by the United States, but went directly to the pockets of these very Hawaiian planters who are to-day asking the United States to annex the Sandwich Islands.

They even go so far as to say that Judge Gresham is not a Democrat. And that raises the question: What really is a Democrat in these mixed and bewildering times? That is, what test is there of genuine Democracy except that a man voted for Mr. Cleveland in the late election? The platform adopted at Chicago is certainly no test. The vote on the preliminary questions relating to the repeal of the Silver Purchase act shows that the promise of the platform on that subject meant nothing. A man may be on either side of that question without having his orthodoxy as a Democrat disputed. Indeed, a majority of the representatives of the party in both branches of Congress, with the promise of speedy repeal staring them in the face from Chicago, calmly and deliberately voted against the first step in that direction. On the tariff question, which the National Convention made the leading issue of the campaign, there is notoriously such wide divergence of views that a man may be for absolute Free Trade, or for the species of Protection denounced in the platform as robbery and fraud, without losing his standing as a Democrat. So on the question of Civil Service, a man may be a Mugwump extremist or a Bourbon spoilsman without affecting his Democracy. The truth is, there is no real test of Democracy except the vote for or against Cleveland. Gresham voted for Cleveland, and by that test is as good a Democrat as Roger Q. Mills.—N. Y. Tribune.,

Courage and Fidelity.

Senator Mills of Texas deserves equal praise with Senator Vest of Missouri for voting against the Anti-Option bill in obedience to his own convictions of duty, although the Legislature of his State had instructed him to vote for it. So strong was Texas sentiment in favor of the bill that a resolution of instructions passed the lower branch of the Legislature by a vote of 83 to 29, and yet Mr. Mills not only voted against the measure, but made a most cogent argument against it, full of ridicule of its manifold absurdities. When the news reached Austin, where the Legislature is now in session, a resolution was introduced reciting the resolution of instructions, and declaring that Senator Mills has proved recreant to the trust reposed in him," and that "we deprecate and condemn his action." A substitute was promptly offered, declaring that the members of the House, reposing full confidence in the Hon. R. Q. Mills in all things, commend him for his moral and political courage in the stand taken by that gentleman in the United States Senate," and after being amended so as to commend the Senator also for his tariff record, it was adopted by the overwhelming vote of 94 to 22. Courage and independence really seem to be proving popular.

Gresham and the Cabinet.

It was the unexpected that happened when the rumors about Judge Gresham entering the new Cabinet assumed the shape of apparent fact; but there should be little surprise and certainly no complaint from the President's Democratic friends, if the prominent Republican candidate for President in 1888 shall become the Democratic Premier in 1893. Frank Blair, the Republican warrior, orator and vindictive partisan of 1864, was the Democratic candidate for Vice President in 1868, deliberately chosen by the Democratic Convention because it was deemed good politics, to nominate him.

Aside from Judge Gresham's pre-eminent fitness for the first position in the Cabinet, there would be a vast amount of good politics in calling him to it. He is conspicuously able, ripe in experience, spotless in reputation, and is better qualified for the responsible duties of the office than any of the other prominent men discussed for it; and his politics cannot be regarded as doubtful in any sense. He is quite as much a Democrat in faith to-day as either Cleveland or Stevenson, and he has a large following, especially in the West, that accepted his judgment in the late contest, as is shown by the large Democratic majorities in Indiana and Illinois.

Judge Gresham has been long on the bench and exhibited the good taste to avoid partisan utterances and actions; but his faith to-day, and ever since the McKinley tariff and the force bill recast the convictions of scores of thousands of intelligent citizens, is in entire accord with the aims and efforts of the Democratic party. If called to the Cabinet, it will not be because he is a doubtful Democrat, but because he is entirely sound on every vital feature of present Democratic faith, and his appointment should not be regarded as intended to qualify the attitude of the new administration.

It is an open secret that Whitney, Bayard, Phelps or Dickinson might have had the Premiership had either desired it, and it is known that Gresham gave a positive refusal when Cabinet honors were first suggested to him. The selection of Gresham is, therefore, no intended departure from a positive Democratic policy; and if he shall enter the new administration it will be none the less Democratic than if Bayard, a Bourbon of Democrats, had returned to the office he so ably and creditably filled during Cleveland's former rule. Gresham will be heartily in accord with the new administration whether in or out of office, and his admitted character and attainments must disarm criticism if he shall be called to the head of the new Cabinet.—Philadelphia Times.

Mr. Cleveland and the Millionaires.

One of the most significant features of politics since November has been the attempt of the millionaires to capture Mr. Cleveland. They have encompassed him about on every side, and latterly they have grown so bold that one of the most notorious of them has had the hardihood to give it out in Washington that he had come there as Mr. Cleveland's personal representative in a very grave matter of finance.

After Mr. Cleveland's inauguration, it will not take him long to show these people where he stands. It is true that some of his closest associates in New York seem to be used in the expectation of controlling him, but he is not so immature in politics as to be unable to understand what is going on.

The election last year was a protest against the influence of money in politics. It was many things besides this, but it was this more than anything else. Mr. Cleveland knows this very well. In his retiring message in December, 1888, he himself gave the impetus to the movement for the restoration of manhood rights which had been so impaired by money privilege. It is true that in that message Mr. Cleveland's text was the "commune of capital," interested in the protective tariff, but he could not have failed to be aware that the principles there enunciated must be applied against Plutocrats of all kinds. It is not expected that he will surrender to the wealthy people who are now scheming to control him. He knows as well as anyone that an alliance with such speculators as Henry Villard would destroy the confidence of the people in his administration and result in a humiliating close to his term of office and to his public career.

Those who are beginning to fear that Mr. Cleveland's surroundings will prove too much for his loyalty to Democracy and to the people are rushing to rash conclusions. There has been a great deal of recent falsifying about Mr. Cleveland and his intentions. It is only a short time now until he will be in a position to speak for himself, and when he does he will put to confusion a number of those who have been presuming to speak in his name.

The people of this country have elected Mr. Cleveland because they wanted a complete change of policy—not because they wished to put one set of millionaires out of power in order to install another set.

They selected Mr. Cleveland because they believed him incorruptible and fearless. Their disappointment would be bitter indeed if, at the outset of his second term, he would show himself more the representative of a few millionaires who have attempted to attach themselves to him than of the people who elected him solely because they hoped to be able to put a check on Plutocracy before its ever-increasing influence forced violent revolution.

Knowing how deeply the people feel on this subject and realizing the expectations they have of relief through him, Mr. Cleveland will not suffer his administration to be controlled by any other will than the will of the people who elected him. His inaugural will show that the Plutocrats have not captured him.—St. Louis Republic.

A Most Beautiful Calendar,

The Columbia cycling calendar for '93 is the most exquisite and truly artistic of practical calendars for the year. It begins with February, '93, and ends with February, '94. It consists of a circular piece of cardboard, 47 inches in circumference, the calendar picture being framed with a reproduction of the pneumatic rubber tire. The picture is in fifteen water colors, and represents a country scene with a bicycling couple in the foreground, resting in a posey nook, after a delightful ride. The original picture is by a celebrated American artist, and the reproduction is so close to the painting that one hardly realizes that the delightful shades are not the true brush marks. This calendar, issued by the Pope Mfg. Co., of Boston, is adapted for the library, dining-room, parlor, or business office.

CIGAR SMOKERS TAKE NOTICE.

The Two Dollars Per Pound Tax on Wrapping Tobacco Has Deteriorated Your Cigars—It Has Also Reduced the Wages of Cigarmakers and Driven Small Manufacturers Out of Business—It Does Not Help Tobacco Growers and Benefits Only Monopolists.

There are many outrageous clauses in the McKinley bill—made by and for those whom it would protect—but none perhaps more demagogic and absurd than the clause which raised the duty on Sumatra leaf tobacco from 35 and 50 cents to $2 per pound. This was done ostensibly to protect the growers of tobacco to be used as wrappers for cigars.

Before mentioning the effects upon growers, cigarmakers and consumers of this tax it will be worth while to no- tice the effect of the use of Sumatra wrappers upon the cigar industry. It is the importation and general use of Sumatra leaf as wrappers that has, during the past ten years, built up the cigar industry in America, made a mar- ket for native tobaccos, given steady employment at good wages to thou- sands of cigar-workers, and satisfied the æsthetic taste of millions of smokers.

No tobacco in the world is grown more cheaply than Sumatra. The growers get but 8 or 10 cents per pound for it. It is carried on the backs of mules to the coast, where it is bought mostly by Amsterdam merchants. The cost at Amsterdam does not usually ex- ceed 50 cents, but now it is controlled by a syndicate, which holds it at 80 cents or more per pound. It is this tobacco that used to cost our cigar manufacturers about $1.50 before the market began to feel the effects of the McKinley bill early in 1890—when the price climbed to $1.80, to $2, on up to $3 and above—so high that a quantity of '89 Sumatra leaf recently sold for $4 per pound. The supply here of Sumatra and leaf tobacco is largely held by speculators who get artificial prices— the duty, as usual, fostering combines. The United States Tobacco Journal of September 15 announces the completion of a leaf tobacco trust in Cincinnati, which will be incorporated in New Jersey, and the same journal of Septem- ber 17 reprints from the New York Tribune a list of fifty-six millionaires who have made their fortunes in the tobacco industry—many by speculating in Sumatra.

Not only did the use of Sumatra wrappers build up the industry here, but, when the duty was light, it en- couraged small manufacturers who could always be certain of obtaining a supply of good wrapping tobacco at a fair price. Before the introduction of Sumatra the larger manufacturers would buy up the best domestic wrap- ping tobacco early in the season and the small manufacturer with but little capital had to do business at a great disadvantage. With a high duty the tendency is to again put the manufact- ure of cigars into the hands of large manufacturers and monopolists. Thus in 1890, when the McKinley bill took effect, nearly all the large manufactur- ers had an eighteen months' or two years' supply of Sumatra on hand, while the small manufacturers had only a few months' supply and soon had to use wrappers at $2.50 or $2.75 and compete with wrappers that cost $1 less per pound. This duty at once increased the wholesale prices of cigars from $3 to $5 per thousand on 5 cent goods—perhaps seven-eighths of all. Then the trade became demoralized and manufacturers were compelled to use cheaper "fillers," to make smaller cigars and in other ways to deteriorate their goods. Often they squared accounts by reducing wages. The effect upon the ten or twelve million consumers has been ex- asperating. That they still demand Sumatra wrapped cigars is seen from the fact that there has been no great diminution in the imports of Sumatra tobacco. The effect then has been bad upon the millions of cigar smokers; up- on the tens of thousands of cigar work- ers, and upon thousands of small manu- facturers. It is a doubtful boon to hun- dreds of large manufacturers. The only real benefits expected from this duty were to be conferred upon the comparatively few growers of "wrap- per" tobacco. Not that McKinley, who increased the duty at the instigation of Congressman LaFollette, of Wisconsin, who came from a tobacco-growing dis- trict, wished to aid the tobacco grow- ers at the expense of the general pub- lic, but that he wished to make repub- lican votes in farming districts.

Now it so happens that Connecticut tobbaco growers have been prosperous since 1890 and have been getting good prices for their tobacco. The New York Tribune and other republican papers have been accrediting this prosperity to McKinley so vigorously that it has even made some of the democrats in Connecticut believe its nonsense. The United States Tobacco Journal of Sep- tember 10, in a two-column editorial, shows that, by the Tribune's own admis- sions, Connecticut tobacco has been so improved by the use of new fertilizers that it is "in appearance as good as Sumatra and better in quality." Of course this is not true or cigar manu- facturers would not pay $3 for Sumatra when they could get better for from 25 to 50 cents; but it is true that the bet- ter grade of tobacco grown in Connecti- cut is responsible for the increased prices and prosperity there. The fol- lowing from this same journal forever disposes of the Tribune's absurdities:

"What benefit can the domestic pro- ducer derive from the fact that we are importing nearly as great a quantity of Sumatra under the $2 tariff rate as we did under the 35 cent rate? That the Connecticut producer received a few cents more for his crop last year? That does not prove that the domestic pro- ducers as a class received more. Con- necticut produces the smallest quantity of cigar leaf. By far the largest quan- tity of our useful cigar leaf is produced in Pennsylvania, New York, Wisconsin and Ohio. The domestic producer in Pennsylvania, who raised a crop of 80,- 000 cases, against the entire New En- gland's 32,000 cases, received less for his last year's crop than he probably ever did. So did the Wisconsin pro- ducer for his 70,000 cases. And the New York producer got much less for his last year's, than for his '89, crop, when over 97 per cent. of the Sumatra was admitted at the 35 cent rate of duty. The 'more' the Connecticut farmer got last year was therefore not due to McKinleyism, but to the poor results of the cigar leaf growing states; he simply got the 'more' at the ex- pense of his brother producers in the other states, and not at the expense of the Sumatra or the Sumatra importer."

The United States Tobacco Journal then shows that the increased duty did not catch the cigar leaf growers' vote: "Congressman LaFollette, of Wisconsin, the responsible author of the $2 outrage contained in the tobacco sched- ule of the McKinley bill, was ignomin- iously defeated in his district, which is almost an exclusively tobacco grow- ing district, and a democrat was elected in his place. Hon. W. E. Simonds, the representative of the First congres- sional district of Connecticut, the prin- cipal cigar leaf growing district of New England, was likewise defeated. So was the representative of the Big Flats of this state."

THE TARIFF ON GOAT HAIR.

A Protectionist Paper Exposes the Injus- tice and Absurdity of It.

Judge Gray, of the United States su- preme court, has just sustained the action of Collector Beard, of Boston, in classifying common goat hair with second class wool and making it duti- able therefore at 12 cents per pound.

In commenting on this decision the American Wool and Cotton reporter (edited by a moderate protectionist) says in its issue of September 22:

"Of course the court did not consider whether this duty of 500 to 800 per cent. upon the pauper goat hair of Bombay or Russia is absurd or the reverse. The court simply decided that under the phraseology of the McKinley bill, all goat hair comes within the provisions of class 2 of the wool schedule and is therefore dutiable at 12 cents per pound. Under the tariff law which was in force previous to the passage of the Mc- Kinley act, this goat hair was free of duty.

"As the law now reads, the hair of a primitive Russian or Bombay goat, worth 2 cents per pound, is dutiable at 12 cents per pound, while the wool of a primitive sheep at 32 per cent. ad va- lorem might get in at 3 cents per pound or less.

"The supreme court has decided upon the exact reading of the law, and it has reached a decision that must be con- ceded as correct by every person who interprets the law as it stands, and not as it should be from a commercial or economical standpoint.

"The fact that the law imposes a duty of 12 cents per pound upon an article, the commercial value of which is from 2 to 3 cents per pound, and which has heretofore come in free of duty, has no bearing upon the question. The McKinley schedule is replete with these inconsistencies, and a close study of the measure and the methods em- ployed in constructing it will show that these seeming absurdities and ridiculous features did not get in by chance, but were cleverly devised schemes of men who knew what they wanted, and were not scrupulous in reaching for it. And it is this feature of the McKinley bill that has cast odium upon it, and has cost the repub- lican party a large number of voters.

"It seems absurd to talk about 12 cents per pound duty on common goat hair, and yet this is the law and there is no escape from it.

"The Ohio wool growers have gained their point, but we fail to see where it can benefit them in the slightest. It is hardly probable that they contemplate establishing a common goat industry; nor is it at all probable that the exclu- sion of foreign goat hair will appreci- ably increase the demand for wool, cer- tainly not domestic wool. It is a hard- ship which falls heavily upon carpet manufacturers and also upon consum- ers of low grade carpetings, and is of no material benefit to any one. A duty of 12 cents per pound on goat hair is nonsensical; it means absolute prohibi- tion, and that is what the framers of that portion of the tariff aimed."

It is not surprising that, understand- ing as it does how the wool schedule was concocted, the American Wool and Cotton Reporter, protectionist though it is, has come out in favor of free wool and dares to say that the McKinley bill is not perfect.

Adjusting Ourselves to Protection.

The New York Tribune of September 22 says: "Protection has been our pol- icy for thirty years. All the interests of the country are adjusted to it."

There seems to be a slight error in this statement. The interests are ad- justing themselves to it, but the pro- cess is not completed. The census shows that the farms of the west and south are not yet all mortgaged and there are a considerable number of farms in New England and the east around our "pro- tected home markets" not yet aban- doned. The adjusting in this line could be continued two or three more decades before all farmers would be tenants of our millionaire land holders. Neither is the adjustment perfected in manu- facturing interests. It is true that in most cases manufacturers have formed trusts to prevent competition and en- able them to reap the benefits of high duties; but in a few cases manufactur- ers have been slow to grasp the situa- tion and take advantage of the duty vouchsafed to them. In such cases they actually continue to compete with each other and the consumer sometimes gets goods at the "cheap" and "nasty" prices prevailing in Europe. The McKinley bill is doing its work better and faster than the old semi-protective measures and if left alone might complete the ad- justment by the end of this century.

—Nearly a year ago New South Wales, which had been a free-trade colony, im- posed an ad valorem duty of from 10 per cent. to 15 per cent.; this has proved very unpopular, and a great many think that the government which came in on this policy will be supplanted by the free trade party at the next election. But history shows that where a protect- ive tariff has been entered into by any nation, it is very hard to give it up.—Iron Age.

ROAD-MAKING.

Paper Read at Macon Prohibition Club Meeting, Jan. 25th, 1893, by Alex. Easlick.

MR. PRESIDENT:—The question of uniform and permanent highways is beginning to exercise the minds and attention of more people throughout the country than ever before. Even legislators, Governors and Congressmen are becoming interested. The messages of the retiring and incoming Governors of this State both recommend legislation on public road-making. There is a bill now before Congress for placing the supervision of road-making with the bureau of agriculture. In these days of mechanical, scientific and electrical discoveries it behooves the farmers to wake up to the necessity of easy and rapid transit at all seasons of the year from their homes to leading market, social and business centers.

The time is not far distant when electric highway cars will be an indispensable luxury and even business necessity. Who would think of hitching horses to a rig twenty years hence and wallow through mud and storm for business or pleasure. Still there is no permanent plan or manner of constructing highways very extensively discussed, that will apply to all conditions of soil, climate and other natural conditions, that the people would be likely to favor with the necessary appropiation to insure a uniformly permanent highway at all seasons of the year.

All admit that our present system—or lack of system—is a great waste of time and labor with but little remunerative results. It is as impossible to make a good road of good corn land as it is to make a good wall of a sponge. The most that can be done under our present system, except in certain localities, is to prepare a road bed with proper drainage for an impervious covering. But it is labor wasted to do this every year. When once done, the covering should be applied. There has been enough labor and time wasted on the highways of this township durihg the past twenty years to have put on the hard finish under a proper system, besides the waste of time, wear and tear of teams, wagons, buggies and harness, delays in business, soiling of clothes and vexations in carrying on our varied industries. Nothing adds more to the comfort and value of a home than a good road leading to social and business centers.

But I fear there will be no great advance or radical change made in road-making until there is a change in public taxation. People are complaining of hard times and will be slow in voting any additional taxation, even for their own special benefit. When we see old farmers, who laid by the ax and saw years ago, with the intention of keeping their timber lands for future home consumption, again drawing wood to market for money to pay taxes, it is a sure sign that our expense bill is too high. The contending views of leading politicians of apparently equal brains and manhood has a tendency to lead the people away from real facts—that a large portion of the public expense, or tax bill, is royalty. A great part of official salaries, over and above ordinary business incomes, is royalty; besides, there is a great surfeit of officers. Nearly all manufactories are receiving royalty from the people. The banking system of this country and the speculators realize about two billion dollars annual royalty in interest and premiums for manipulating money matters. The drink bill is another billion, besides additional court and incidental expenses therefrom. Then there are the oil and coal combines, with options and railroads; so that under present conditions it is difficult to formulate a plan for road-making with any hope of its being adopted. The most that can be recommended is a change from the present labor system to a tax system of about one mill on the dollar, the same to be applied by a competent commissioner or engineer. Beginning with main traveled roads, by grading road bed with proper drainage, where the same is not in proper condition, then applying gravel, where the same is available, to the depth of about one foot, and eight or ten feet wide. Where gravel is not available and stone is, to use crushed stone. Where neither stone nor gravel is available, on muck and clay soils, to use burned clay. We have learned by experience that culled brick or tile placed in a mud hole on the highway makes a permanent fixture. The present condition of most roads admonishes us that we have followed the old system too long, and in order to successfully compete with other industries it is absolutely necessary that we change to a better system. When on our way to Washington last fall, riding through the mountains along the Pennsylvania Railroad, which are from 100 to 1,000 feet high—that is, the mountains—and over one hundred miles long, of solid rock, it occurred to me that if the government owned the railroad and would put in a lot of stone crushers, then employ the idle laborers to crush the stone and ship it to different localities. There is stone enough in those mountains to macadamize all the main roads in this country, and the interest bill of the nation, if it accrued to the people, instead of to the banks and speculators, would foot the bill, besides paying government expenses.

But this was a wild fancy of my own, with several ifs in the way. Still there are many others who are formulating plans for good roads. We have passed the point of proving the necessity—it is admitted by people in all pursuits. No one other improvement would so universally benefit every man, woman and child in the United States.

The great question to be solved is how to recompense the labor and material necessary to do the work. All great writers and speakers on the subject admit that it cannot be done without the aid of the general government, where the only power to originate money exists, and public road-making is a public or national question.

Hon. Roy Stone, in his address before the Good Roads Convention at Chicago, October 20th, said: "The financial question is a deep one, with little light from experience. But some things are plain: It is impossible to raise the amount of money by taxation; it is unjust to raise it on short loans, compelling one generation to bear the burdens of a work done for all time; and it is folly to use the lowest form of credit, by paying a high rate of interest, when the highest form and lowest rate is available," and concludes by favoring the issue of government bonds at 2% per cent to supply the money to States, counties and townships.

A farmer in Indiana, commenting on the above, has this to say: "Why issue bonds bearing interest at all? Why should we pay interest to ourselves? Who is the government but the people? Who wants the bonds but the whole people? Who has the power to issue money as affirmed by the Supreme Court? Who did issue $400,000,000 legal tender money during the Rebellion to save the nation? The nation preserved needs improvement for the good of the whole people. Why not use the same power from the fountain head?" and concludes by favoring the issue of full legal tender paper money to the States in five equal yearly installments, and to be paid back in forty years, in forty equal payments, without interest.

Now, to carry this thought still further, why pay the money back at all? After it has been equitably distributed among the States and paid out for labor and material to make roads for the whole people, why tax the people to pay it back to the people? It is estimated that there will be about 1,000,000 miles of road to make, which, under the most approved system, will cost about $4,000 per mile, amounting in all to $4,000,000,000, about $50 per capita, which, added to the amount now in circulation, would not exceed the amount at the close of the war, when there was $72 per capita. But suppose we divide this into six equal annual installments of $10 per capita each—which would be about the amount that could be applied each year—it would not increase the circulating medium beyond business requirements and would create such a business boom as this country never saw before.

Of course the present money power would denounce all this as a wild scheme of inflation, but if covered by interest bearing government bonds they would favor it. Just as though issuing bonds added to the power of making and issuing money. Who ever heard of a people having too much good money, or too little of government bonds? A full legal tender paper money is the best money ever known to man and we need twice as much as any other nation. The gold standard has been shrinking values for years and has become so inflated itself that the people cannot make any improvement or get out of debt. The idea of a few million dollars in gold representing all values in a great commercial nation like this.

The whole gold backing bond system is nothing but a shrewd business deal between leading politicians, bankers and capitalists on the one side, and the people on the other. How long will the people continue to beat themselves by gambling with their votes in trying to make the most counts? This inflated gold dollar has ever been a fraud on the industrial millions and a coward in time of war or panic.

Now, in conclusion, which course had we better adopt—continue in the old way of plowing and scraping the sods and refuse from the sides of the road into the center for a compost heap, with here and there a few loads of gravel, or change to a tax system and make haste slowly in establishing tolerably good roads; or make a radical change and put down the political war by taking the money out of the hands of the money kings and distributing it among the masses for business purposes, and proceed to establish permanent good roads? There is plenty of material and machinery, and laborers who are suffering for the want of better employment, to rush the work. All that is lacking is a cheap medium of exchange. Which is the better way to cut grain—with the old hand sickle, the cradle, or the self binder?

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

The wedding notice below is clipped from the Schoolcraft Express. The contracting parties are both well known here. The groom is now bookkeeper in the office of H. Brewer & Co. The bride has resided for several years in Raisin and Tecumseh. Their many friends here will extend their warmest congratulations, and will be glad to know that their future home will be in Tecumseh.

Wednesday evening, Feb. 1, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Wilson, in this village, occured the marriage of their sister, Mrs. Dora Cairns, one of Schoolcraft's most popular young ladies, to Fred A. Shepard of Tecumseh. As the guests arrived they were received by the bride and groom, assisted by the bride's sister, Miss Nora Cairns. The hour of eight o'clock having arrived and the guests had all assembled, the contracting parties took their places in the parlor and Rev. W. S. Buck, pastor of the Presbyterian church, spoke the word that made them man and wife. Shortly after the ceremony, tables were spread, and the guests numbering about sixty, sat down to an elegant wedding feast. After the sumptuous repast, an hour or two was spent in a very pleasing social manner, the occasion being enlivened by instrumental music furnished by Messrs. Chas. Allen and Maynard Stuart.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd were the recipients of many fine wedding presents, among them being a silver tea set, the gift of the young associates of the bride. The following guests from out of town were present: E. W. Cairns and Miss Agnes Stevens, Tecumseh; Alber Shepard, Hudson; Eugene Shepard, Hillsdale; Miss Gertrude Bonebright, Constantine; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Seekell and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Weston Seekel, Three Rivers; Mr. and Mrs. Folwell, Flowerfield; Chas. Campbell, Kalamazoo, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Miller of Albion.

The future home of Mr. and Mrs. Shepard will be in Tecumseh, and a large circle of friends extend congratulations and best wishes. They left Thursday morning for their home.

Still Bright and Booming.

Many bright and useful publications come round to us annually and the sight of them is as refreshing, and welcome as the faces of friends on New Year's Day. Friend's faces are kept in remembrance; good books for reference, inasmuch as they lead and teach us what is to be done in many painful straits. One such publication, always foremost, is before us, brimful of sound advice and the raciest bits of fun, original copyrighted, from the pens of such noted humorists as Bill Nye, Opie P. Read, Danbury-News-Man and others. It is a free gift of the season at the Druggists' counter, and will be sought for as the highly popular St. Jacobs Oil Family Almanac and Book of Health and Humor, 1893. The work differs somewhat from its former editions, but is none the less attractive and in many of its features is the superior of former numbers. One special feature is the "Offer of One Hundred Dollars," open to all contestants, the details of which a perusal of the book will more fully give. The almanac is sent forth by the Chas. A. Vogeler Co. Baltimore, Md., proprietors of some of the best known and most reliable medicinal preparations. A copy will be mailed to any address on receipt of a 2-cent stamp by the above firm.

Death of Dr. Henry F. Aten.

The followirg obituary notice taken from a late Brooklyn paper will be of interest to many of our older residents.

The death of Dr. Henry F. Aten at his residenc, 34 Hanson place, removes one of the best known men in Brooklyn. A physican from choice, Dr. Aten was wedded to his vocation. He was never known to refuse a call and on many occasions gave up a night's pleasure to visit the sick. This was the secret of his success and made him the popular man he was. His pleasures were confined to the home circle and an occasional hunting trip to the preserves of the Brooklyn Gun club at Smithtown, L. I., of which organization he was president. But Dr. Aten's special delight was the study of birds and he had gathered together a large number of specimens of wild fowl.

His was considered one of the, if not the, finest private collections in the country. Homing pigeons were also great favorites of Dr. Aten. His setter dog, Glen, was known throughout the island and won many prizes, chief of which was the $100 trophy at Robins' island. Last summer a stroke of lighting killed eighteen valuable dogs owed by members of the Brooklyn gun club. Two dachshunds owned by Dr. Aten escaped, while his setter dog was luckily at his city home at the time. Dr. Aten was not of a social turn of mind although a good conversationalist and a pleasant companion. He counted among his friends such men as the Rev. Dr. Gregg of the Lafayette avenue Presbyterian church, of which he and his family were members: Judge Calvin E. Pratt, General George W. Wingate, John M. Hill and W. Ryerson Kissam. He was charitable in an unostentatious way, his field of operation being among the sick poor. He was at one time physician in chief at the Brooklyn Nursery and Infant hospital of which Mrs. Aten is first director.

Dr. Aten was born in Groveland, Livingston county, N. Y., in 1829. When 3 years old his parents moved to Tecumseh, Mich., his childhood being spent on a farm. At 17 he concluded to be a physician rather than a farmer. After teaching school in the backwoods he became a student in the University of Michigan and graduated at Cleveland, Ohio. In 1854 he married his first wife, Miss Helen Frances Morgan, daughter of Chas. Morgan of Biddeford, Me., and began to practice medicine in Dedham, Mass. Here his wife died and in 1864 he married Miss Elizabeth Wheeler Mills, daughter of Lewis Mills, a well known Boston merchant. The next year he came to Brooklyn taking up his residence at 34 Hanson place, where he resided for the past twenty seven years. A year ago he became ill with Bright's disease of the kidneys, and his entire outside practice devolved on his nephew Dr. Wm. H. Aten. Beside his widow, three grown up children survive him, Mrs. Wm. H. Cook of Montclair, N. J., Marion B. and Arthur Mills Aten. The funeral services will be held Thursday evening at the Hanson place residence. Rev. Drs. Cuyler and Greggs will officiate. The interment will be made in the cemetery at Sutton, Mass.

The quartettes and trio were especially well rendered, and the soloists were nearly all obliged to respond to encores. MICHIGAN MATTERS.

PEOPLE'S PARTY STATE CONVENTION AT IONIA.

Edward S. Grece, of Detroit, for Supreme Justice, Byron S. Ashley, of Jackson, and M. O. Graves, of Petoskey, for Regents.—Other Michigan News.

The Populists.

The state convention of the People's party to nominate candidates for supreme justice and regents of the University was called to order in the opera house at Ionia by Dr. A. W. Nichols, of Greenville, chairman of the state central committee. Mr. Nichols in a short speech congratulated the party on the splendid showing made, and thought that a half a dozen northwestern states would never again be carried by either of the old parties and that it was the destiny of the People's party to break the solid south. He concluded by introducing Honorable J. W. Ewing, the standard bearer in the recent campaign, as temporary chairman of the convention. Henry I. Allen was made temporary chairman. Mrs. Emery, of Lansing, spoke on female suffrage. Committees reported and the organization was made permanent.

The Omaha and Jackson platform were reaffirmed by the resolution committee report. Prohibition was not in favor, the repeal of the Miner law was condemned, the state legislature is commended for passing the joint resolution favoring the election of U. S. Senators by direct vote of the people.

Under nominations for supreme justice Edward S. Grece, of Detroit; Frank F. Kutz, of Kent, and Judge Newton, fusionist, were named. The first ballot resulted: Grece, 297; Kutz, 51; Newton, 38. Grece was declared the unanimous choice. For regents of the state university, Byron S. Ashley, of Jackson, and Prof. M. O. Graves, of Petoskey, were named by acclamation.

Spring Election Ballots.

In response to numerous inquiries Attorney-General Ellis has announced that, for the spring election, tickets bearing the names of the candidates for the supreme justice, regents of the university, circuit judge and county commissioners of schools, must be printed under the supervision of the county election commissioners, while separate tickets, on which shall appear the names of candidates for city, village or township officers, must be printed under the direction of the city, village or township commissioners, provided for under the statute. Separate ballot boxes for the two classes of tickets must be provided.

Democratic State Convention.

The next Democrat state convention will meet in Detroit, Tuesday, February 28 at 12 o'clock noon, in the Auditorium building to nominate a candidate for associate justice of the supreme court and two candidates for regents of the state university. Each county in the state will be entitled to one delegate for each 500 votes cast for governor at the last election and one additional delegate for a fraction of not less than 250 votes, but no county is to have less than two delegates in the convention. This will increase the total number of delegates from 810 to 945.

Rear-End Collision.

A collision occurred on the Grand Trunk at Richmond between a freight train and passenger train. The morning passenger train from Port Huron had just pulled into the station yards and was waiting for the arrival of the Michigan Central and Air Line trains when an engine drawing a heavy freight crashed into the rear car. The engineer of the freight was unable to see the express owing to a dense fog. The coach and engine which collided were quite badly damaged, and one lady received several cuts about the head.

Michigan Crop Report.

The monthly crop report issued from the office of the secretary of state is as follows: The wheat fields in Michigan have been well covered with snow since the 1st of January. The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers in January was 1,245,129. The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed in the six months, August-January, is 9,356,744, which is 493,951 bushels less than reported marketed in the same months last year.

Grip Causes a Young Man to Suicide.

Milo Boyer, a young man 27 years of age, committed suicide by shooting himself at the home of his uncle, Marion Ashton at Cassopolis. The ball entered just below the chin and lodged in the base of the brain, causing instant death. No cause is assigned for the act. He was just recovering from an attack of the grip.

Another Child Cremated.

The residence of Earnest Bockus, at Lincoln, caught fire, Bockus being away. Two sons were at home. The oldest boy barely escaped with his life. He had dragged his brother almost to the door, but was overpowered by the smoke and compelled to leave him. The little fellow was entirely consumed. He was 10 years old.

Perished in a Blizzard at His Own Door.

While searching in a blizzard for his missing daughter, Henry Graham, of Harrisville, perished almost within reach of his own door. His little 12 year old girl left the house just before dusk. Failing to return the father went in search of her. An hour later he was found frozen stiff on his own doorstep.

Frozen to Death in His Bed.

A. H. Barnhart, a bachelor of temperate, industrious habits, living four miles north of Watervliet was found dead in his bed, frozen stiff, and half his face eaten off by his pet cat. Doubtless he had been dead for a week, as one of his horses and all his poultry had starved to death.

Mrs. Charles Haywood, residing five miles southeat of Wayland was burned to death. The house caught fire and while the woman was trying to save some furniture she was struck by falling walls and was burned. Her husband narrowly escaped a similar fate. She leaves seven children.

Republican State Convention Call.

The Republican electors of the state of Michigan, are requested to send delegates to the state convention of said party, to be held at Harmonie Hall, Detroit, on Wednesday, Feb. 22, 1893, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for justice of the supreme court and two regents of the university. Every county will be entitled to one delegate for each 500 total vote cast for governor at the last state election and one additional delegate for every fraction amounting to 300, but each organized county will be entitled to at least two delegates.

To the Efficacy of the World-Renowned Swift's Specific.

The old-time simple remedy from the Georgia swamps and fields has gone forth to the antipodes, astonishing the skeptical and confounding the theories of those who depend solely on the physician's skill. There is no blood taint which it does not immediately eradicate. Poisons outwardly absorbed or the result of vile diseases from within all yield to its potent but simple remedy. It is an unequaled tonic, builds up the old and feeble, cures all diseases arising from impure blood or weakened vitals. Send for a treatise. Examine the proof.

SWEPT INTO THE SEA.

STEAMSHIP POMERANIAN DISABLED BY A STORM.

Twelve Lives Are Sacrificed—Five Passengers and Six of the Crew Carried Overboard and Drowned and the Captain Fatally Injured.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The Allan line steamer Pomeranian, from Glasgow Jan. 27 via Moville for New York, has returned to Greenock after losing a number of her crew and passengers in a heavy storm.

The Pomeranian was about 1,150 miles westward from Glasgow when she encountered weather of unusual severity. The gales had increased with great suddenness, until a heavy sea unexpectedly swept over the deck, carrying everything before it like an avalanche.

The deck saloon, the chart-house, the bridge and the boats were smashed and swept away by the tremendous force of the waves, and when the sea had passed over, the decks were a scene of ruin and the shrieks of the perishing sailors and passengers could be heard in the waves that surged about the dismantled steamer.

Capt. Dalziel had been on the bridge when the avalanche struck the vessel. He was swept from his post and dashed against the bulwarks, where he lay stunned and helpless. The mates, John Cook and John Hamilton, who were on the bridge with the Captain, were swept out to sea and drowned. Besides the first and second officers named two quartermasters, two stewards, four first-class passengers and one second-cabin passengers perished by drowning.

James and Lillian Gibson of Dalkeith, Jane Caffery of Londonderry and John Stuart of Glasgow were the first-cabin passengers lost. They were in the deck saloon at the time of the disaster and were hurled overboard with the ruins of the saloon. They were never seen again, but survivors say a despairing cry pierced the air, even amid the thunderous roar of the waters.

DEFENDS HER HUSBAND.

Mme. de Lesseps Adheres to the Belief of Ferdinand's Innocence.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—The Figaro publishes an interview with Mme. Ferdinand de Lesseps, had since the conviction and sentence of her husband. Mme. de Lesseps was found courageous and resolute as ever and as earnest as ever in her belief in her husband's innocence.

Mme. de Lesseps said that her husband was in a very weak condition. A week ago he had been seized with a delirium that lasted for a day. Then he had a relapse and had since remained in a state of coma. Alluding to the severity of the sentences passed upon her husband and his son Mme. de Lesseps said:

"I prefer this result. It is a fitting climax that both father and son should be condemned. The very enormity of the sentences will better protect our honor than the less thorough-going injustice would have done. I do not need consolation, for I have reached the end of my Calvary. Nevertheless, there is one thing above all I cannot forgive, and that is that before striking at such a man they waited until physical infirmity had rendered it impossible for him to defend himself. It is better, perhaps, that Ferdinand de Lesseps should be unable to know the frightful character of the blow. When I think of the possibility of Ferdinand de Lesseps being put in prison I ask myself whether I am dreaming."

HAS PLENTY OF GOLD.

SECRETARY FOSTER SAYS THERE IS NO SHORTAGE.

Can Get All the Gold He Needs From the New York Banks—Theories as to the Cause of the Movement of the Yellow Metal Toward Europe.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—"There will be no serious drain upon our gold reserve, and it will be impossible to cause the Treasury Department any embarrassment unless there continues to be needless apprehension and constant agitation of the subject by the newspapers," said Secretary Foster when asked whether it was true that he intended to issue a series of bonds to be exchanged for gold."

The Secretary then went on to say that the bankers of New York had voluntarily offered to exchange at least $50,000,000 of gold coin for a like sum of treasury notes if necessary to satisfy the demands for export. He did not think that more than half that amount would be necessary to turn the balance of the gold flow to the credit of the department or to tide over the run on our available gold to a period when, by the laws of trade, the balance must of necessity be in favor of the Government.

Secretary Foster declares that there is not the least danger that gold will go to a premium or that there will be an embarrassing closeness in the money market.

Respecting the position of President Harrison upon the question of an issue of bonds to meet the much-discussed "gold panic," it can be stated upon authority that he has been from the day he entered the White House, and is now, opposed to any increase of the bond issue. He would prefer an issue of bonds to a financial disaster, but he has no fears of such a contingency.

THIRTY-FOUR DEAD BODIES.

Remains of the Victims of the Dover Asylum Fire—Cause of the Disaster.

DOVER, N. H., Feb. 13.—In the chapel of the County Farm building on the streets, which have heretofore held devout worshipers, lie what can be found of thirty-four fearfully burned and charred bodies. The others who were known to have perished in the flames of the insane asylum fire last night have not yet been found, for the cellar is full of water and the debris has not yet been removed.

A possible clew to the origin of the fire may be found in the fact that some of the insane paupers were habitual users of tobacco and were allowed three friction matches each to take to their cells with which to light their pipes. This system, it is said, was brought to the notice of the county delegation a few days since upon its visit to the county farm, and the advice of one of the members was that it should be stopped, but whether the advice was acted upon is not known.

Keeper Driscoll is of the opinion that the fire caught from a defective chimney, the sides of the latter being of the thickness of one brick.

LARKIN WILL CASE.

Judge Bailey at Rockford Decides to Allow a Copy to Be Probated.

The original will was lost or stolen. The other heirs in Chicago, Canada and Nebraska contested the copy of the will and fought bitterly against having it probated. They will now get nothing.

PERU, Ind., Feb. 13.—The jury in the case of Fred Snyder, the brutal wife-beater of this city, sentenced him to seven years' hard labor in the penitentiary yesterday. Snyder is noted for his atrocious acts, but had heretofore been released on the plea of his sickly wife that he would do better. Snyder is the same person who, a few weeks ago, threw his 2-month-old baby across the room at the mother, breaking the child's shoulder. The sentence is the most severe known in Indiana.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 13.—Sir Henry Thomas Coghlan, baronet, of England, has died, leaving a fortune of $3,000,000 to be divided among his heirs, chief of whom is Mrs. Michael Hanley of this city. Mrs. Hanley's father and Sir Henry's mother were brother and sister. Sir Henry dying childless Mrs. Hanley is next of kin, and as the baronet left no will the estate will go to her.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE—Forty-second day.—The Senate refused to take up the New Jersey and New York bridge bill and after a few other matters had been disposed of a very warm general discussion was had upon the bill to promote the safety of employes and travelers on railroads by compelling common carriers engaged in interstate commerce to equip their cars with automatic couplers and continuous brakes, and their locomotives with driving wheel brakes. Mr. Cullom had the bill in hand and, in response to questions from various members, stated that a number of railroads were equipping their cars; that he had never heard of any road deferring a dividend in order to equip their cars; that the freight employes had rather have the link and pin coupling in preference to so many varieties of automatic couplings, but if one style was universal (as the Interstate Commerce commission proposed) that would be preferable. As all the opposition to the bill came from Democratic Senators Senator Chandler took occassion to twit them upon their falling away from the platform adopted by the Democratic national convention. He said that platform contained strong provisions for the repeal of the Sherman silver act and for the protection of life and limb of railroad employes, yet only 11 Democratic votes could be mustered against the Sherman act and now they are opposing their platform by opposing the automatic coupling bill—a humanitarian measure. The Senate adjourned without acting upon the bill. HOUSE.—The Senate amendments to the Harter bill of lading were concurred in. The legislative appropriations bill was taken up in committee of the whole. Messrs. Hingley and Dockery had a discussion on expenditures, appropriations and deficiencies., Mr. Wheeler, of Alabama, offered an amendment to reduce the compensation of members of Congress to $4,000. Mr. Miller, of Wisconsin, offered an amendment to reduce the President's salary to $25,000. Mr. De Armond, of Missouri, offered an amendment providing that until the places in the classified service shall be distributed among the adherents of the several political parties, in proportion to their respective numbers, as shown by the vote cast at the last presidential election, no applicant, unless he is an adherent of a political party which has not had its fair proportion of employes in such, shall be eligible to examination or appointment under the civil service law. All the amendments were rejected; the committee arose and the House adjourned.

SENATE.—Forty-third day.—A number of bills were passed among them a bill to exempt veterans from competitive examinations in the classified service of the United States; a bill authorizing the President to place upon the retired list of the army, Sergeants Long and Cornell, late of the signal corps, United States army, survivors of the Lady Franklin Bay expedition; a bill appropriating $50,000 for an equestrian statue to Maj.-Gen. John Stark, in the City of Manchester, N. H. The members of the Senate then proceeded to the House of Representatives and counted the electoral vote for President and Vice-President of the United States. The result was announced upon their return—Cleveland and Stevenson, 277; Harrison and Reid, 145; Weaver and Field, 22. The automatic coupler bill was taken up and another vigorous discussion indulged in. This time between Messrs. Gorman and Cullom. The bill went over again. Senator Morgan introduced a bill to provide for the provisional government of foreign countries and places acquired by treaty and otherwise. It was read in full and referred to the committee on foreign relations. The bill was introduced to cover the possible annexation of Hawaii. Executive session. Adjourned. HOUSE.—The counting of the electoral vote was the principal feature of the day's session.

SENATE.—Forty-fourth day.—The automatic car coupler bill occupied the attention of the Senators. Several amendments were agreed to, but the bill went over without action. HOUSE.—The silver men won a victory and defeated all chances of passing the repeal of the Sherman silver act. The vote was on the demand for the previous question and resulted, yeas, 152; nays, 143—a majority of nine for the silver men. The resolution to repeal was then recommitted to the committee on rules. In committee of the whole on the legislative appropriation bill amendments were adopted approving that hereafter no public building shall be draped in mourning; that the executive departments shall not be closed out of respect to deceased officials, and prohibiting the use of public funds for funeral expenses of government officials or employes. The committee arose, the bill was passed and the House adjourned.

SENATE.—Forty-fifth day.—The car coupler bill was again a subject of discussion and went over without action. A memorial was received from the Chicago Chamber of Commerce favoring the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands. The House bill which provides for sundry light houses and other aids to navigation, and which was passed by the Senate, was reconsidered. The Senate amendments rejected and the bill passed just as it came from the House. A bill was passed to prohibit the transportation of merchandise from one American port to another American port through a foreign port. Executive session. Adjourned. HOUSE.—The day was occupied by a very listless discussion in committee of the whole, on the pension appropriation bill—which carries an appropriation of $165,000,000—the theme being the need of retrenchment. The evening session was taken up by the consideration of private pension bills.

SENATE.—Forty-sixth day.—The bill to promote the safety of employes and travelers upon railroads by compelling railway companies to equip their cars with automatic couplers and continuous brakes and their locomotives with driving wheel brakes, was disposed of. The substitute for the House bill of last session was agreed to and the bill passed, yeas 39, nays 10. The bill goes back to the House. The conference report on the fortifications bill was agreed to. HOUSE.—The general debate on the pension appropriation bill was continued. No other business.

TWELVE WERE DROWNED.

An Atlantic Steamer Meets an Awful Disaster in Mid-Ocean.

London cable: The Allen Line steamship Pomeranian, from Glasgow, via Moville for New York, has returned to Greenock, in distress, after having met with one of the most fatal accidents that has occurred to a trans-Atlantic steamer for many years. The accident resulted in the loss of twelve lives. The disaster occurred when the steamer was about 1,150 miles out in the midst of a heavy storm. Every precaution had been taken by the officers and crew.

Suddenly a tremendous sea reared its crest a short distance ahead of the steamer as she plunged down a wave. Before she could rise the sea came over the starboard bow and tons of green water rushed aft. Almost at the same time a falling wave astern pooped the steamer and the deck saloon, the chart house, the bridge and the boats were smashed to pieces and partly washed overboard. At first the full extent of the disaster was not known. The steamer began to pay off before the wind and sea and it was at once seen that the quartermasters had been carried away. Two sailors sprang to the wheel and soon put the steamer on her course. Then it was found that Captain Dalziel, the master of the steamer, was missing. The second officer, John Cook, who had the watch, and John Hamilton, the fourth officer were on the bridge, and both were carried overboard. The others lost were in the saloon deck house at the time.

A punt containing three persons was capsized and sunk at Minden, Ont. Mrs. Norman Fetterly and her brother Joseph Mitchell, were drowned.

GLEANINGS AND GOSSIP.

Culled, Clipped and Condensed from our County Contemporaries.

The measles have closed the Addison schools.

The whooping cough is epidemic at Geneva.

Petersburg is waking up. That town is to have another saloon.

Most people obey the populist injunction now. They "keep in the middle of the road."

Devil's Lake ice is being shipped to Toledo and Cincinnati in large cakes over the C. J. & M.

The Lake Shore company has shipped 689 cars from Bawbeese lake, each containing an average of 33,500 pounds of ice.

In view of the fact that Judge Lane is in the field for renomination, Grant Fellows, Esq., of Hudson, will not be a candidate.

Now the people at Rea and Dundee are becoming interested in the C. T. telegraph line and enquiring what it will cost to get on.

The old Canada Southern track, running between Deerfield and Grosvenor, and owned by the Lake Shore company, was torn up Sunday.

Representative Raymond has introduced a bill in the Michigan legislature to incorporate the village of Addison and to make Hudson a city.

Myra M. Turner, a Clinton school teacher has brought suit in the Circuit Court for $3,000 for alleged damages sustained on a Ridgeway bridge.

Geo. B. Horton, of Fruit Ridge, last week shipped 1,300 boxes of cheese. At present prices, the net results should put a fair per cent to the credit of dairy farming.

Will Chaffee, the Morenci carpenter who has been for two years yearning to flirt with the clouds as a baloonist, will try his hand at the business again as soon as spring opens.

The calender of the next term of court will be light in all its parts, there being but 24 issues of fact to be tried by jury, 21 issues of fact to be tried by the court, 21 chancery cases, and not to exceed 5 criminal cases.

The brick school house in district No. 1, Palmyra, was burned to the ground Saturday night. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin, the school house having once before been mysteriously burned.

The dudes are not in it in Alabama, the legislature of that state having passed a bill prohibiting the sale of cigarettes, or cigarette tobacco and paper. The bill also prohibits the smoking of cigarettes in any public place.

"Why are you so late?" The little girl hung her head and replied: "We have got a little baby at our house." "Don't let it occur again," said the teacher fiercely. And the little girl said she would not and took her seat.—Jackson Patriot.

Now it turns out that the bomb found on the Britton bank steps by Cashier Hoagland was only a piece of gas pipe filled with sawdust and placed there by a fellow who wanted to see the officials frightened. The officers do not take to the affair kindly.

Several candidates for the Hudson postoffice have retired in favor of James Schermerhorn, editor of the Hudson Gazette. In the language of the lamented Peter Lawless, of the First ward, we say, "Democrats of Hudson, ye have done yourselves great honor.—Adrian Times.

Sheriff Wilson has appointed Wm. Burmeister as his turnkey. The new incumbent of this responsible office is a young German resident of the Second ward, and has all the steadfast qualities necessary to an efficient fulfillment of the duties of the position.—Adrian Times.

The Petroleum Light and Heat company has been advised to day of the allowance of its British patent. This covers England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, and the Isle of Man. The company is already protected in Canada, and proceedings are pending in several of the South American countries, as well as Mexico.—Adrian Times.

Cambridge ladies are desirous of having a branch temperance union and a temporary organization was lately effected with Mrs. A. F. Dewey, as president, Helen Queal, secretary, and Anna Dewey treasurer. They have evidence that there is a good field for labor in their vicinity, and certainly the character of the ladies thus chosen, is evidence that they will be untiring in their efforts to meet with success.

Joseph S. Rynd, accompanied by his wife, has returned from Harper hospital, Detroit, where Mr. Rynd has been recovering from a surgical operation performed by Dr. McLean two weeks ago. The operation, which was a severe and delicate one, resulted happily. Dr. McLean gave his personal attention to the case throughout, and exerted every effort to the comfort of his patient. Both the eminent surgeon and Mr. Rynd are to be congratulated on the successful outcome. —Adrian Times.

The fact that March 4th is now less than a month away, may be an apology for our postal force not handling the matter trusted to its care as it should. It is getting so that a letter mailed here cannot be carried from the post office to its destination in another part of the city in less than 45 hours. Another very noticable thing which has come to our observation is the carefulness the Adrian office does not have in it. A communication addressed to the publication of Our Church was delivered to Mr. O. H. Church a few days ago, and other blunders of a similiar nature are heard of most every day.—Adrian Telegram.

The measles are still "gathering them in" at Adrian.

The Lansing correspondent of the Detroit Tribune says: "It is said that Capt. B. F. Graves, of Adrian, is likely to be appointed commandant of the soldiers' home. It is also said that Capt. Bishop, of Grand Rapids, will be appointed a trustee to succeed Geo. P. Sanford, and that Capt. Crozier, of Menominee, will be reappointed to succeed himself." We congratulate our townsman on the flattering prospect of his preferment to so important and responsible a position. And may truthfully add, that there are few men in the state better qualified by temperament and training to discharge its duties.—Adrian Times.

Caldwell's County Atlas.

Geo. B. Caldwell, of Adrian, notifies subscribers here that his new Atlas of Lenawee County will be ready for delivery on or about Feb. 15. From our personal knowledge of what has been done in the preparation of this Atlas—the thorough county survey made, the careful examination of records, etc.—we feel justified in saying that Mr. Caldwell has spared neither time nor expense to make it as perfect a publication of its kind as is possible; in fact, the workmanship in every direction has been expensive. Mr. Caldwell has endeavored to make his Atlas superior to others, because of his natural county pride and home associations and in the full belief that the intelligence of Lenawee county would appreciate this special endeavor. The press work is from one of the largest and oldest firms in that line in the country, while the coloring, binding and incidental work has all been done by specialists in those lines. His aim has been throughout to have quality rather than price. The paper is of good firm texture, the binding strong and superb—hence the volume will be ornamental as well as useful. The price of the work has been uniformly $12.00 through the entire canvass, and no discounts have been or will be made under any circumstances. Works of less magnitude, and certainly of less painstaking, are sold for $25.00, more than double the subscription price of the Lenawee County Atlas. The edition is limited to subscribers only, and no additional volumes will be printed. The stones and metals which have been used were only leased for special work and immediately after delivery, will be "wiped" out to make room for other classes of work. Thus the Atlas of Lenawee County will be, and should be, especially valuable to each purchaser.

Could you give me something to eat, ma'am? humbly asked the tramp in the suburbs of Boston of the stern-visaged woman, at the kitchen door. Yes, said she, as she energetically closed the door in his face and locked it with a jerk. I could.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Prof. W. H. Stump and Don H. C. Bowen, of Deleware, Ohio, are in town this week making arrangements for the establishment of a Business College in Tecumseh. The plan seems to be feasable as a sufficient number of students have subscribed to warrant a beginning. We predict success for the new scheme as we are confident this section would furnish ample support to such an institution.

Yesterday's Adrian Telegram contains this item:

The Broad street club was entertained last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Al. Wesley in a most novel manner. Mr. Wesley is in Tecumseh for a few weeks on business, and inviting the club to accept the hospitality Tecumseh so ably affords, they took the trip by cars and were entertained at the home of Mr. Harry Lee (old Patterson House) as Mr. and Mrs. Wesley's guests. Cards, refreshments and an "early" return by freight this morning were among the adventures which kept the party merry. It was a jolly night for all.

School Sketches.

Twenty-seven pupils are studying botany in two sections.

Preparations are being made to observe Washington's birthday.

The arithmetic classes began with thirty pupils and are now studying fractions.

Earnest Updyke, of the Clinton high school, visited the Tecumseh schools last week.

The geometry class are now working hard on the miscellaneous exercises at the close of plane geometry.

A class in the civil government of Michigan recites after school twice a week—no time in school for it.

The Philosophy class are studying batteries. They are fixing up a number of pieces of new apparatus.

Mrs. S. W. Anderson, a member of the visiting committee, visited the Eighth Grade Wednesday afternoon.

Progress of the World's Fair.

The Buildings of the Exposition are being rapidly completed as the opening of the Exposition draws near.

In the February issue of the "Worlds Columbian Exposition Illustrated" now the Authentic Organ of the Exposition (after the Fair it will be known as Campbell's Columbian Journal), contians many full page illustrations of the buildings as they appear when finished. There are many elegant Photographs of the Statuary that is to adorn the buildings, beside several views of the grounds as they appear in midwinter. An interior view of the treasurer's office, showing the distribution of the souvenir coins, forms an interesting feature. A full account of Utah with cuts of the officials and building, occupies several pages. Among the most important articles is a full account of Transportation for the Fair, Agricultural Exhibit, College Boys at the Exposition, Catholic Congresses at the Fair, Relics of Columbus, etc.

This February issue is the Second Anniversary of this publication. Its object is to make a complete Authentic Historical Record of the Exposition, to be handed down for ages to come. The first two Bound Volumes are now ready. As the Exposition draws near it increases in interest and value. It contains rich illustrations of the buildings and exhibits. By reading it you can visit the Exposition at home, and a person can become familiar with the Fair before going to Chicago.

One issue alone is worth a years 'subscription. Good Agents are wanted in each town. Single copies 35 cents.

A Steel Windmill and Steel Tower every 3 minutes. These figures tell the story of the ever-growing, ever-going, everlasting Steel Aermotor. Where one goes others follow, and we "Take the Country."

Though sold, we were unable to make all of the 20,049 Aermotors in '91. Orders often waited 6 weeks to be filled, but now we have vastly increased our plant and are prepared promptly to plant our increase in every habitable portion of the globe.

Are you curious to know how the Aermotor Co. in the 4th year of its existence, came to make many times as many windmills as all other makers combined? How we came to originate the Steel Wheel, the Steel Fixed Tower, the Steel Tilting Tower?

1st. We commenced in a field in which there had been no improvement for 25 years, and in which there seemed no talent or ambition, and none has yet been shown except in feeble imitation of our inventions.

2d. Before commencing the manufacture, exhaustive scientific investigation and experiments were made by a skilled mechanical engineer, in which over 5,000 dynamometric tests were made on 61 different forms of wheels, propelled by artificial and therefore uniform wind, which settled definitely many questions relating to the proper speed of wheel, the best form, angle, curvature and amount of sail surface, the resistance of air to rotation, obstructions in the wheel, such as heavy wooden arms, obstructions before the wheel, as in the vaneless mill, and many other more abstruse, though not less important questions. These investigations proved that the power of the best wind wheels could be doubled, and the AERMOTOR daily demonstrates it has been done.

3d. To the liberal policy of the Aermotor Co., that guarantees its goods satisfactory or pays freight both ways, and to the enormous output of its factory which enables it to furnish the best article at less than the poorest is sold for. For '92 we furnish the most perfect bearings ever put in a windmill, and have made an exhaustive revision of the Aermotor and Towers.

If you want a strong, stiff, Steel Fixed Tower—or if you want the tower you don't have to climb (the Steel Tilting Tower) and the Wheel that runs when all others stand still, that costs you less than wood and lasts ten times as long (The Steel Aermotor) or if you want a Geared Aermotor to churn, grind, cut feed, pump water, turn grindstone and saw wood, that does the work of 4 horses at the cost of one ($100), write for copiously illustrated printed matter, showing every conceivable phase of windmill construction and work, to the AERMOTOR CO., 12th and Rockwell Sts., Chicago, or 27-29 Beale St., San Francisco.

GALVANIZED. If it is not enough to make portions of wheel, tower and pump rod galvanized after being completed, thus absolutely protected from rust and decay.

The Aermotor Pneumatic Water Supply System enables you to supply every part of your house with water without an Elevated Tank.

Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

The purchasing agents of the United States Government ordered nearly one hundred thousand pounds of Dr. Price's Baking Powder in the first five months of 1892.

The government exercises great care in selecting its supplies of all kinds, rejecting everything that is not of the best, and the very fact that it has adopted Dr. Price's Baking Powder is proof that it has found it the best of all the baking powders. Dr. Price's is peculiarly adapted for export, as neither long sea voyages nor climate changes affect it, this brand keeping fresh and sweet for years while other baking powders deteriorate rapidly.

It is guaranteed to the government to be a pure cream of tartar powder free from ammonia, alum, or other harmful substances, and it is also the only baking powder prepared by a physician of high standing.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Good Looks.

If the Liver be inactive you have a Bilious look, if your stomach be disordered you have a Dyspeptic look, and if your Kidneys be affected you have a Pinched look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alterative and tonic which acts directly on these vital organs. Cures Pimples, Blotches, Boils and gives a good complexion. Sold at J. J. Orr's drug store, 50c. per bottle.

There is no claim made for Ayer's Sarsaparilla which cannot be endorsed by scores of testimonials. This fact plainly proves that the blood is the source of most disorders and that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best of blood-purifiers. Try it this month.

Something New.

"Flowers are words which even a baby may undestand."—Bishop Coxe.

We have heard of all sorts of catalogues, but a Poetical catalogue is something entirely new. In reading Vick's Floral Guide for 1893, on every page one comes across happy and appropriate quotations from prominent authors. Whether it takes the mind off from the work of making out a list of Flowers and Vegetables, or makes the Guide more fascinating, will have to be decided after a trial, by the publishers, James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y. Another novel feature is the family of Pansy Sailors who appear on the cover and through the book. It contains five colored plates, hundreds of illustrations and lists, with descriptions of everything required in the garden. This work is really given away free, as the 10 cents asked for it may be deducted from the first order sent the house.

Quite a business is done here shipping in corn for the use of those farmers who are feeding sheep and lambs for mutton. The corn sells at about 50 cents per bushel.

A pretty, and at the same time a pitiful sight, was a flock of quails in the midst of the storm Sunday. They came hungrily picking about the door-yard and finally took refuge among the barns on the premises of a resident of this place.

While several persons were discussing the merits of wood, coal and gasoline for cooking purposes recently, a lady present quietly remarked, "we cook by steam." Her husband gave her a startled look, as if doubting her sanity, but she went on serenely, "we put in a stove-full of green oak wood and pour on plenty of kerosene oil, and keep poking it, and it just steams, you know." It is safe to say that lady will get seasoned fuel to cook with next winter.

A FARMERS' EXCHANGE.

Many farmers have some article of farm produce or stock to sell and many wish to buy something of the kind. How can these two classes be brought together? By a very simple and easy process. Let them join the HERALD'S Farmers' Exchange. During the month of March we will run such an exchange column. The notices, to contain twenty-five words or less, will be run for twenty-five cents each week, or one dollar for the four weeks in March. Anything whatever, either to sell or exchange, can be advertised in this manner and the notice is almost sure to bring a customer. Here are a few sample notices, which will serve as a guide to advertisers:

FOR SALE.—Ten bushels of prime Clover Seed. JOHN DOE, Britton.

WANTED.—A good lumber wagon, in exchange for some fine wool ewes. RICHARD ROE, Ridgeway.

TO EXCHANGE.—Good family horse, eight years old, perfectly gentle, for two or three Jersey heifers. JOHN SMITH, Macon.

FOR SALE.—First-class farm team, well matched, ten years old. Will sell cheap for cash or trade for clover seed, corn and oats. JACK ROBINSON, Tipton.

WANTED.—Five hundred bushels of corn in the ear. Will pay cash or give good sheep in exchange. JOHN JONES, Pentecost.

TO EXCHANGE.—A good double surrey carriage, almost new, for a couple of new milch cows. PETER PARLEY, Clinton.

These notices must be handed in before the first day of March next to insure their insertion in the first issue in that month. We respectfully commend this scheme to our farmer friends and should like to have them try the experiment for one month. We believe it will repay the necessary expenditure ten-fold.

Progress of the World's Fair.

The Buildings of the Exposition are being rapidly completed as the opening of the Exposition draws near.

In the February issue of the "Worlds Columbian Exposition Illustrated" now the Authentic Organ of the Exposition (after the Fair it will be known as Campbell's Columbian Journal), contians many full page illustrations of the buildings as they appear when finished. There are many elegant Photographs of the Statuary that is to adorn the buildings, beside several views of the grounds as they appear in midwinter. An interior view of the treasurer's office, showing the distribution of the souvenir coins, forms an interesting feature. A full account of Utah with cuts of the officials and building, occupies several pages. Among the most important articles is a full account of Transportation for the Fair, Agricultural Exhibit, College Boys at the Exposition, Catholic Congresses at the Fair, Relics of Columbus, etc.

This February issue is the Second Anniversary of this publication. Its object is to make a complete Authentic Historical Record of the Exposition, to be handed down for ages to come. The first two Bound Volumes are now ready. As the Exposition draws near it increases in interest and value. It contains rich illustrations of the buildings and exhibits. By reading it you can visit the Exposition at home, and a person can become familiar with the Fair before going to Chicago.

One issue alone is worth a years subscription. Good Agents are wanted in each town. Single copies 35 cents.

An exchange suggests that if crinoline must come into fashion again, then Col. Elliott F. Shepard's hoop-skirt ought to be made of barbed wire.

Preparations are making for a grand civic and military parade at Cleveland's second inauguration. Washington will entertain an enormous crowd on that day.

J. Sterling Morton as Secretary of Agriculture is a splendid appointment. It is a suitable recognition of the far west and will give unbounded satisfaction in all the Missouri Valley states.

This is the way the Louisville Courier Journal looks at the annexation question: "If Hawaii will annex Kansas, no questions asked, we will "throw in" Two Strikes and Col. Elliott F. Shepard."

The nomination of Judge Howell E. Jackson as Justice of the United States Supreme Court was confirmed last Saturday by the Senate. Not a single vote by either Republican or Democrat was recorded against it.

Gladstone's Home Rule Bill has at last been introduced in the House of Commons. There is no doubt of its passing that body and the indications are favorable that it will also pass the House of Lords.

Wyoming will soon come to the front with a Democratic Senator. The legislature adjourned last week without an election and Gov. Osborne, who is a Democrat, will appoint a man of that stripe to fill the vacancy.

If Judge Gresham is in favor of free coinage, as it is said he is, it is very likely that some of the Democrats who are now objecting to him as a Republican may be calling him the best Democrat in the Cabinet before the year is out.

The appointment of Hoke Smith of Georgia as the new Secretary of the Interior was a surprise. He is the leading lawyer in that State and occupies a position very similar to that of Don M. Dickinson in this State before he entered Cleveland's first Cabinet. It is a recognition of the younger element of the Southern Democracy and will prove to be a wise appointment.

He is a wise politician who does not occasionally ask himself "where am I at?" these days. With President-elect Cleveland selecting a Republican Populist for his Secretary of State, and the President nominating Democrats to high offices, it would seem that the party fences are in a dilapidated condition. Mr. Cleveland was in many respects rather independent of his party when he was President before, and present indications are that he is mapping out a still more independent course for his second term.

Mrs. Cleveland, according to "The Cincinnati Enquirer's" Washington dispatches, will have a private secretary when she goes to the White House. This assistant, who was recommended by Mrs. Whitney, is a Mrs. Tuomey, of Washington, a widow, who has traveled a great deal, and who is the mistress of several languages besides English. It is said that she has arranged with Mr. Cleveland to attend to the voluminous correspondence of the social side of the White House for the sum of $2,000 per year. She is engaged between the hours of 9 and 2 each day.

The St. Louis Republic says: "The next administration is going to be a notable one in many respects. Already has the President elect given notice to the country at large that he is liable at any moment to cause the unexpected to happen. Those associated with him will necessarily be of the same way of thinking. It is going to be an administration without any frills, but is going to be an administration that will be revolutionary when the existing traditions and customs are taken into consideration. It is going to be a business administration from the word go. It is going to do many things which will at first seem strange, but the country will soon get used to them, for they will all have a solid basis of common sense. And it is going to be a mighty interesting four years in the history of the United States of America.

The New York Tribune says: "Having strengthened the incoming Administration with the numerous Smith family, cannot Mr. Cleveland appoint somebody by the name of Jones to a Cabinet position? With those two powerful clans behind him the Democratic heathen might rage and imagine any number of vain things."

Rarely, if ever, has there been a more impressive meeting in New York than that held in honor of Phillips Brooks. Carnegie Music Hall was crowded with a serious and thoughtful audience which listened with undivided attention to the noble addresses and tender music provided. Especially significant was it that a Jewish rabbi and a Catholic priest joined with clergymen of several Protestant denominations in earnest, affectionate and thrilling tributes to the great preacher. The speakers were Dr. Geer, Rabbi Gotthell, Mr. Joseph H. Choate, Dr. Storrs, Dr. J. R. Day, Father Ducey and Lyman Abbott. New York has paid its meed of honor to Phillips Brooks in the most catholic spirit.—N. Y. Tribune.

The President of the United States is the only officer of the government who receives neither a commission nor an official notification of his election. The result of the election of last November was officially declared in joint session at Washington a week ago yesterday, but there is no legal provision for informing Mr. Cleveland of the result. Nor is there any provision by which the Chief Justice is informed that the man who the will swear into the Presidency is the rightful incumbe co. Suppose somebody s e Chief Justice on the 4t how he knows that Grover Cleveland is the person to whom the oath should be administered, what would he say? He would have to reply that he read about it in the newspapers.

The annexation of Hawaii may now be considered an accomplished fact, the President having sent to the Senate a message, and a treaty providing therefor, and a large majority of the Senate being known to favor its ratification. The treaty is very short and very simple, merely providing for anexation, leaving the details to be completed after the treaty is ratified by both governments. This shuts the House out, as no Congressional legislation will be required until the treaty has been ratified by the provincial government of Hawaii, which is allowed two months after the receipt of the treaty to do it. Some members of the House are disposed to resent this disposition of the matter, but if the Senate ratifies the treaty, and it will, their resentment will not count now, although it may when the legislation made necessary by the treaty comes up in the next Congress.

The selection of the Hon. Hoke Smith as a member of President Cleveland's Cabinet is an admirable one. He will be the youngest of those called to the aid and counsel of Mr. Cleveland in his official family, but will measure fully up to the demands of his important position and sustain himself with credit among the distinguished men with whom he will be associated. Mr. Sm h has had a career of remarkable success, and owes it all to his own exertion and persistency of purpose. He is a man of marked ability, fine attainments and an almost unlimited capacity for work. He enjoys the largest law practice in his state, conducts a newspaper, and has amassed a quarter of a million through his own unaided efforts. He is a Democrat in the highest and best sense of the term and his campaign work did much to stem the formidable third party movement in the south.—Detroit Free Press.

"Mr. Hoke Smith, the coming Secretary of the Interior, is neither a dude nor a hayseed," said an admirer of that gentleman to the New York Times. He does not wear his trousers thrust into his bootlegs, nor does he smoke cigarettes and wear long hair plastered closely to the sides of his forehead. It may be, and then again it may not be, unfortunate for him that his name is not Reginald or Charles Augustus, and that he cannot part his name in the middle, yet he has an unsullied reputation, pays his debts and is welcomed in the best society of the south.

William B. Phillips, editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal, has known Mr. Smith intimately for thirty years. "We were boys together," said Mr. Phillps, went to the same school, played together. Mr. Smith is a man of great intellectual force, high personal and professional standing, and is a man of indomitable perseverance. A better appointment than his could not be made. I can testify also as to his physical prowess, for at an early age he could whip any two of us at school, and it was only by forming a 'combine' against him that we occasionally wiped the earth with him, and Mr. Phillips laughed heartily as he recalled schoolday conflicts.

ASTHMA CURED.

Dr. Taft, proprietor of Taft's Asthmalene, Rochester N. Y., will send to any of our subscribers suffering with asthma, a trial bottle of Asthmalene Free, who will send him their post-office address. The Doctor is known to be reliable and his remedy a most valuable one; it is endorsed by many medical publications and used in all parts of the U. S., Europe and Australia.

An Impressive Spectacle.

Rarely in the history of legislative bodies has there been a more impressive spectacle than that which was seen in the House of Commons on Monday afternoon, when Mr. Gladstone rose to introduce the Home Rule Bill. From his residence in Downing Street to Westminster Palace the Premier had been greeted by one long-continued tumultuous cheer. When he entered the House, at half-past three, a storm of applause broke round him, repeated when he rose ten minutes later, and becoming a demonstration so long-continued that it seemed as if he could never get his audience. After seven years of struggle the great leader had at last the opportunity, in a friendly Parliament and with the majority of the English people behind him, to present a measure removing the ancient causes of strife between two peoples, and uniting their destinies by a new bond of justice and generosity. Of the speech itself as an oratorical effort there seems to have been but one opinion. At times the voice showed indications of weakness, but its resonance returned, and the speech closed with a peroration so eloquent, so lofty, and so full of feeling as to call forth the unmeasured admiration of all who heard it, without regard to party lines. Delivered at the great age of eighty-three, the speech was perhaps unparalelled in the history of oratory, and is one of those achievements in which the whole race rejoices. Mr. Gladstone spoke, indeed, to the entire civilized world, and no greater tribute could have been paid to his stainless integrity and his splendid intellectual qualities than the intentness with which this utterance of the foremost public man of his time among English-speaking races has been waited for.—The Christian Union.

The Secretary of Agriculture.

The announcement made last night that President-elect Cleveland had appointed J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska City Secretary of Agriculture was received with the greatest of satisfaction by people of all parties in Omaha and the entire State of Nebraska. All are delighted because Nebraska has been honored by the selection of her most distinguished son for this high position. Every one recognizes Mr. Morton's great ability, and over 500 congratulatory telegrams were sent to him today from Omaha alone. In the Nebraska Legislature to-day Church Howe, the Republican leader of the House, introduced a resolution reciting the great qualities of Mr. Morton and tendering the thanks of the House to Mr. Cleveland for the honor conferred upon the State of Nebraska. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

J. Sterling Morton was born in Adams, Jefferson County, Ky., April 22, 1832. He removed, at an early age, to Michigan. He graduated at Ann Arbor College, Michigan, and at the Union College of Law, New York, in 1854. That fall he married and came directly west to Bellevue, Neb., near Omaha, and later removed to Nebraska City, where he started a newspaper. In the following year he was elected a member of the Territorial Legislature and was defeated the next year, 1856, because of his opposition to wildcat banks, he thus early exhibiting sound financial views.

In 1858 he became Secretary of the Territory, and within a few months became Acting Governor by the resignation of Governor Richardson. In 1860 he was nominated for Congress and elected, but his election was contested, and the contest was successful on technical grounds. In 1866 he was the Democratic candidate for the first State Governorship. It is claimed that he was elected but by fraud his opponent was seated. Then by request of his wife he retired from politics for nearly 15 years until her death.

He was nominated for Governor in 1880, 1884 and 1892, and made magnificent canvasses each year, but owing to Nebraska's hopeless condition he was defeated. He was a candidate for Congress in 1888 and in a Republican district came very near election. During most of his life he has practiced law and attained great eminence in his profession, acquiring a fortune. He has owned and operated a great farm on the outskirts of Nebraska City, and has a fine home called "Arbor Lodge." He is the father of the Arbor Day festival and has been a member and president of the Nebraska Agricultural Society for many years.

He represented Nebraska at the Centennial Exposition and at the Paris Exposition. He is a free trader and is said to be a member of the Cobden Club. As an orator and a man of scholarship and learning it is generally conceded that he has not an equal in this State. He has been associated with all the material growth of Nebraska during the past 40 years, and it is very comforting to the Democrats of the West as well as all Nebraska citizens to see him recognized after so many years of unselfish and laborious service for his State and his party.—St. Louis Republic.

The Age of Preachers.

The recent death of Phillips Brooks, who held a foremost place among the world's preachers, has raised the question as to whether ours is an age of great preachers. The quid nunes of newspaperdom have discussed it pro and con. A plain recital of facts will give the best answer. At one time or another during the career of Phillips Brooks the following extraordinary pulpiteers were actively at work, viz.: Among the Roman Catholics, Lacordaire, in Notre Dame, in Paris (the equal of Bossuet), and Cardinals Newman and Manning in England. Among the Protestants, that tongue of fire, Dr. Chalmers, who revolutionized Glasgow; the picturesque Guthrie, Frederick W. Robertson of Brighton (who died at 36), a perennial homiletic inspiration; Spurgeon, and Henry Ward Beecher.

This is the most surprising list of preachers in the history of the world. No similar galaxy can anywhere be grouped; or at any time. 'Tis not difficult to find single luminaries of the first magnitude, like Chrysostom, among the church fathers, or Luther, in the Sixteenth Century, or Massilon, (1663-1742), or John Knox of Scotland. But in the Nineteenth Century, which is sometimes called the age of materialism, we find the greatest array of preachers on record—as though God would antidote our materialism by such lavish spirituality. Obviously, the pulpit is not yet a back number.—Exchange.

People troubled with sick and nervous headaches will find a most efficacious remedy in Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They strengthen the stomach, stimulate the liver, restore healthy action to the digestive organs, and thus afford speedy and permanent relief.

Mr. J. Sterling Morton, the new Secretary of Agriculture, is not only a trained agriculturist and publicist, but is also a trained newspaper man. For many years, while never leaving his farm for the purpose, he was one of the regular editorial writers of the Chicago Times when it was under the control of the late Wilbur F. Storey. The great mass of the work he did for that paper was on financial questions, not only as they affected the whole country, but also as they related to the farmer. At one time perhaps that paper had a greater influence in the agricultural States west of Illinois than any other single force in that section. It is not generally known that this position was due largely to the intelligent and positive work that Mr. Morton did for it. Mr. Morton lives in a fine country home adjoining the thriving town of Nebraska City, on the Missouri River, on land originally settled by himself. His house is known as Arbor Lodge, in recognition of the fact that he is the author and promoter of the idea known as Arbor day. He is an enthusiastic advocate of forestry cultivation. He has also given careful attention to all the other questions that he will now have to deal with as a Cabinet officer. He will not have to begin at the bottom and learn everything anew for himself. He has nothing to master except the details, and can therefore go on and do his work with much more effectiveness than would perhaps have been possible with any other man that might have been chosen.

Hood's Cures

Even When Called Incurable

Terrible Seige—Sciatic Rheumatism

Mr. Arthur Simon
Of Galatea, Ohio.

"They said I was incurable, the doctors did, but the result has proven that Hood's Sarsaparilla was able to cure. I had Sciatic Rheumatism and was confined to my bed six months. Three physicians did not help me and

I Was Given Up to Die

When I was in this terrible condition, unable to move hand or foot, I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The first bottle had a little effect, and while taking the second, I gained so rapidly that I could sit up in my chair. My system had been so run down by other medicine, that it took me quite a while to recuperate. By the time I had taken four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, I could walk around, and now, as I have taken six bottles, I am cured and can do a good day's work. I do not feel I can praise enough." ARTHUR SIMON, Galatea, Ohio.

FELL DEAD.

These words are very familiar to our readers, as not a day passes without the report of the sudden death of some prominent citizen. The explanation is "Heart Disease." Therefore beware if you have any of the following symptoms: short breath, pain in side, smothering Spells, swollen ankles, asthmatic breathing, weak and hungry spells, tenderness in shoulder or arm, fluttering of heart or irregular pulse. These symptoms mean heart disease. The most reliable remedy is Dr. Miles' New Heart cure, which has saved thousands of lives. Book of testimonials free at Baker and Halls, who sells the New Heart Cure.

How often we hear middle-aged people say regarding that reliable old cough remedy, N. H. Downs' Elixir: "Why, my mother gave it to me when I was a child, and I use it in my family; it always cures." It is always guaranteed to cure or money refunded.

Every mother should have Arnica & Oil Liniment always in the house in case of accident from burns, scalds or bruises.

Costiveness can be permanently cured by the use of Baxter's Mandrake Bitters.

What could you have been thinking of, to engage yourself to three men? Well, mother told me my finance must be rich, intelligent, handsome and of the best moral character; and as I couldn't hope for all that in one man, I had to take three.

SURPRISE TO ALL.

After using "Mother's Friend" two months I was so speedily and easily relieved that it was a surprise to those attending me. "Mother's Friend" undoubtedly lessens the pains, shortens the time and restores the mother speedily to health. Will recommend it to all expectant mothers and advise them to use it.—Mrs. J. A.
